ABSTRACT

The Esalen Institute is located on a scenic portion of the California Coast, about 40 miles south of the Monterey Peninsula. The location contains natural cliffside hot springs from which mineral water flows into the sea. The springs were used in early times by the now extinct Esselen Indian tribe (from which Esalen derives its name) and this usage has continued to this day. Esalen Institute was founded in the early 1960's by Michael Murphy (whose family owns the land on which it stands) and Richard Price. Its purpose from the beginning has been to provide a forum, far from the distractions of urban life (e.g. no radio, television, newspapers, etc.), where the various exponents of the human potential movement could present their ideas in weekend-long and week-long seminars and workshops. Esalen espouses no particular ideology of its own, but rather provides an eclectic forum for all schools of thought that identify with the phrase "Human Potential." In its own words, Esalen is a "center for experimental education," designed "to explore work in the humanities and sciences that promotes human values and potentials. Its activities consist of public seminars, residential work-study programs, invitational conferences, research, and semi-autonomous projects." Early major figures at Esalen were the psychologist Abraham Maslow and the Gestalt therapist Fritz Perls, but many other famous individuals have taught there. "The Esalen Catalog" describes the workshops and other kinds of sessions in which Esalen attendees may participate. It has been issued since 1962. Because Esalen has been the bellwether and longest running organization of its type, "The Esalen Catalog" in its entirety may be regarded as a running historical record covering 30 years of the major concerns and directions of the human potential movement. This document consists of a compilation of all extant editions (some 102 issues) of "The Esalen Catalog", 1962-1992. Examples of some of the specialties cited in this catalog provide a brief indication of Esalen's typical offerings: Acupressure/Acupuncture, Aikido, Alexander Technique, Arica, Biofeedback, Bodywork, Channeling, Cortical Reeducation, Encounter, Est, Feldenkrais, Gestalt Therapy, Holistic Health, Humanistic Psychology, Hypnotism, Integrative Body Psychotherapy, Leonard Energy Training, Life Energy Process, Lomi School of Bodywork, Massage, Meditation, Movement Therapy, Polarity, Psychodrama, Psychosynthesis, Radix, Reichian Bodywork, Ridhwan, Rolfing, Rubenfeld Synergy Method, Sensory Awareness, Tai Chi, T-Groups, Vipassana Meditation, Yoga, Zen Buddhism, and Zero Balancing. III. The Esalen Catalog (102 Issues, Arranged Chronologically)

I. Introduction

The Esalen Catalog lists the seminars, workshops, and other sessions that are held at the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California. It is arranged in the form of a catalog from which prospective participants can select (from the current catalog) the group most appropriate for their needs. Each session usually has a paragraph description, written by the group leader, that describes its content and aims. At the back of the catalog, biographic information about each group leader is provided, further helping to define session content and approach.

Early catalogs were brief, but later catalogs have included a wide variety of articles on major figures and schools of thought. Given the rich content of the catalogs (course descriptions, group leader vitae, and substantive articles) and given Esalen's on-going central position in the "Human Potential Movement," it is not hard to see that The Esalen Catalog is, in effect, a kind of moving edge history of the major human potential concerns during the last thirty years. It was, of course, never designed to perform such a function, but via the "incremental" approach and the passage of time it now amounts to an unexpected treasure trove of historical source material.

The idea of compiling all past issues of The Esalen Catalog came to me in 1990 shortly after attending an annual "Friends of Esalen" meeting and pondering over how I might relate my background (information systems) to the agenda of the Friends. The idea turned out to be timely in that no complete set of the catalog existed and Esalen's thirtieth anniversary loomed in 1992.

Deborah Miller of the Friends development program liked the idea and agreed to help gather the scattered issues from the attics and basements of Esalen staff and aficionados where they were gathering dust. This turned out to be no simple task. In fact, it has taken two years to assemble a complete set of The Esalen Catalog and for certain issues we were able to unearth only a single copy. The general feeling was that if we had waited another five to ten years to attempt this, it might not have been completely successful. Certainly it would have been much more difficult. Esalen "lives in the now," as the saying goes, and the preservation of old issues of The Esalen Catalog was never high on anybody's list of priorities. Be that as it may, we have finally managed to compile all 102 issues of The Esalen Catalog published from its inception in the Fall of 1962 through Volume 31, Number 3, covering September 1992—February 1993.

The catalog started as a simple leaflet, graduated to a booklet in Summer—Fall 1964 (initially right-reading, but occasionally landscape format), ventured briefly into newspaper format in 1972, and finally settled down to the present 8½" x 11" size in 1973. The name "Esalen" did not appear on the Catalog until May 1964. In the Fall of 1967, the catalog began listing programs for both the Big Sur site and the San Francisco site. The listing of San Francisco programs ceased in 1977. The first explicit volume/issue numbering began appearing on the catalog with Volume 9 in 1970, though clearly someone had been keeping track of what the numbering should be. In 1972, when the newspaper format began, the catalog inadvertently repeated the volume 10 designation used in 1971, thus creating two consecutive "volume 10"s. The January—June 1978 catalog inadvertently carried the incorrect year date "1977". In 1980, when the next volume number should have been 18, the catalog inadvertently skipped Volume 18 and moved ahead to Volume 19, though one single issue bore the designation "Volume 18, Number 4" and the next issue (January—June 1980) carried no numbering whatsoever. The January—June 1981 issue, which contained several items pertaining to Gregory Bateson, can be found both in regular catalog form and also without its catalog cover and front matter so that a photograph of Bateson (with birth and death dates) becomes, in effect, the cover; the slightly altered item apparently served as a memorial [illegible] for Bateson. Since 1981, the catalog has exhibited no anomalies of size, orientation, or numbering.

The archival job has been done. For those of us whose lives have been touched by Esalen, it was a labor of love. We want "what works" about Esalen to keep on working. Preserving The Esalen Catalog is symbolic of this desire. At any rate here it is. We leave to others its practical use, the "mining" of its contents, its possible contributions to the history of a cultural groundswell.

Microfilming Note

Most issues have been filmed exactly as originally issued. This was not possible with the four newspaper size issues (1972) and with one issue (Fall 1971) that was printed as one page across the entire opened surface of the booklet. In order to film these oversize layouts, it was necessary to cut up a Xerox of the original and to restructure the text into filmable segments. In this process, care was taken not to lose any text.

A new conception of human nature is emerging in the field of psychology, a conception that is gradually superseding the views of classical psychoanalysis and strict behaviourism, a conception oriented toward health, growth and the exploration of our psychic potentialities. Creativity research, work with the "mind-opening" drugs and the discoveries of parapsychology (psychical research) complement this development, pointing as they do toward a profounder human possibility.

Some scientists and philosophers believe that this quiet reformulation of psychological thought will bring the greatest change in the vision of western man since Copernicus and the Renaissance. It will certainly affect our most basic attitudes toward human possibility and human destiny.

Each seminar will explore a different aspect of this development. The panel discussion on December 1 will summarize the previous three seminars and relate the topics they will have covered. It is hoped that some of the participants will attend more than one session, thus lending a continuity to the entire discussion.

The charge for each seminar: $16.00 per person per day for a single occupancy, $13.00 for a double (two persons in a room), $12.00 for a triple. This charge covers room, all meals, use of the mineral baths and the seminar itself. Each seminar will begin on Saturday morning at 9:00 A.M. and conclude Sunday afternoon. Participants are advised to spend Friday night at the Hot Springs so that they will be able to attend the first session on Saturday morning. For reservations write or phone Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California; the phone number is Big Sur 2634.

Big Sur Hot Springs is located on State Highway One (the Cabrillo Highway), fifteen miles south of Pfeiffer State Park, eleven miles south of Nepenthe, or if you are coming from the south, ten miles north of Lucia and fifty miles north of San Simeon.

THE EXPANDING VISION

Led by Willis W. Harman, Professor, School of Engineering, Stanford University.
(Professor Harman conducts a special graduate seminar dealing with human potentialities).
and James Fadiman, graduate student in the Department of Psychology, Stanford University; research assistant, Institute for the Study of Human Problems, Stanford University.

A review of the current conceptual revolution in psychology. The discoveries of parapsychology. An examination of the resistance to these developments on the part of scientists and academicians. The resistance within ourselves. The implications for our personal beliefs and values.

INDIVIDUAL AND CULTURAL DEFINITIONS OF RATIONALITY.

Led by Joe Adams, Psychologist, Palo Alto, Calif., and Gregory Bateson, Ethnologist, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Palo Alto, Calif.

In every society the individual is taught to perceive the world (including himself) in ways which are asserted to be objectively correct. Individuals who indicate that they do not perceive the world in these ways are likely to be labeled "irrational." Western civilization is now in a process of rapid change in which different ways of perceiving the world are in strong competition, with great dangers to individual freedoms. A somewhat comparable period in history is the period 1200-1700. The field of mental health is one of the important arenas in which ideological conflict occurs.

Concentration and Relaxation Exercises, led by Del Carlson, will be offered to those interested.

DRUG-INDUCED MYSTICISM

Led by Paul S. Kurtz, Psychologist, Los Altos, Calif. and Myron J. Stolaroff, President, International Foundation for Advanced Study (a nonprofit corporation devoted to the study and development of the "psychedelic" agents).

There seems to be no question in anyone's mind who has experienced it, that the so-called "psychedelic" drugs, such as LSD and mescalin, produce a kind of mystical experience. The question that worries many people is, "Is drug-induced mysticism religious?" It is altogether possible that drug-induced mystical experiences will force us to study and revise all of our previous definitions of religion. Those who are interested in expanding the boundaries of their own religious faith should be interested in a discussion of these questions.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Led by Joe Adams, Willis W. Harmon, Paul S. Kurtz and Myron J. Stolaroff.

The discussion will be open to all those attending. The material covered during the previous seminars will be reviewed and an attempt will be made to relate some of the topics that will have been discussed.

ART AND RELIGION. Charge for the lecture: $3.00. Introducing his talk, Mr. Heard writes: "10,000 years ago when man was still a co-conscious being his art was also his religion, his RELIGIO—the force that bound him to nature and to his fellow beings and kept him whole. As man has developed into a total individual his art and his religion have separated into a pursuit of composure through composition and the pursuit of safety through salvation. Today this gap can and must again be bridged."

LEADERSHIP TRAINING IN GROUP DYNAMICS

LEADER:
Paul S. Kurtz, Psychologist, Los Altos, California.

The importance of the face to face group approach to self discovery is becoming widely recognized. This seminar is intended primarily for those interested in leading such groups. It will offer an opportunity for sharing experience and gaining workshop practice in group dynamics.

Sessions begin Saturday at 9:00 A.M., end Sunday at noon.

February 22-24

SEMINAR TWO:

THE VISION OF SRI AUROBINDO

LEADERS:
Dr. Haridas Chaudhuri, Philosopher, Author, Aurobindo scholar.
Dr. Richard Marsh, San Francisco State College.
Jim Fadiman, Psychology Department, Stanford University.

A consideration of the philosophy of modern India's great philosopher and mystic, with special attention given to these problems: the nature and status of the self; drug-induced mysticism and the doctrine of grace. Lectures and question periods Friday at 3:00 P.M., Saturday at 10:00 A.M.; discussion periods Friday at 9:00 P.M., Saturday at 2:00 P.M., Sunday at 10:00 A.M.

March 1-2-3

SEMINAR THREE:

A WEEK-END RETREAT

LEADERS:
Margaret Ellis
Del Carlson

A week-end retreat for prayer and meditation, limited to sixteen participants.

Recommended reading: Magee, John. Reality and Prayer, Harper, 1957.
Underhill, Evelyn. Practical Mysticism, Dutton Everyman PB.

Beginning Friday night at 9:00, ending Sunday afternoon. Participants should bring slacks and sweaters for relaxation exercises.

March 9-10

SEMINAR FOUR:

RELIGION AND DRUG-INDUCED MYSTICISM

LEADERS:
Francis Geddes, Fellowship Church, San Francisco.
Paul Kurtz, Psychologist, Los Altos, California.
John Levy, Chairman Peace Committee, American Friends Service Committee, San Francisco.

This seminar will deal with the following questions: What is the difference, if any, between religious experience and the experience that obtains from the use of psychedelic drugs? What is the appropriate relationship between these drugs and one's self-understanding as a religious being? Are these drugs a help or a hindrance in the process of religious maturation: what are the religious benefits and/or the religious hazards in using these drugs?

Sessions begin at 9:00 A.M. on Saturday, end Sunday at noon.

March 16-17

SEMINAR FIVE:

THE EXPANSION OF CONSCIOUSNESS THROUGH ART

LEADERS:
Pierre Delattre, Playwright and Director of the Actor's Repertory Theatre.
George Elliott, Author.
Herbert Gold, Novelist and Essayist.
Leo Litvak, Author and Assistant Professor, English Department, San Francisco State College.
Neill Smith, Architect, San Francisco.

Most of us cannot grow—or even maintain our health—without periods of catharsis and inspiration. Do modern art and literature give us these? What directions must art take to encourage the further development of man: what kind of theatre, novels, paintings and buildings would there be in a society increasingly concerned with the growth of awareness.

Sessions begin Saturday at 9:00 A.M., end Sunday at noon.

March 23-24

SEMINAR SIX:

A PSYCHOLOGY OF ULTIMATES

LEADERS:
Willis W. Harman, Professor, School of Engineering, Stanford University.
Wilson Van Dusen, Chief Clinical Psychologist, Mendocino State Hospital.

One may unite the understanding of religious enlightenment with everyman's ordinary situation to produce what is both theology and psychology at the same time. In this theological psychology one can profitably search out the use of psychopathology or commonplace trouble and difficulty and begin to read the intention of inner and outer events, just as one can read one's own dreams. In such a view circumstances carry an ultimate concern. To be illustrated with clinical examples.

Sessions begin Saturday at 9:00 A.M., end Sunday at noon.

March 28-31

SEMINAR SEVEN:

THE EVOLUTION OF HUMAN EXPERIENCE

LEADERS:
Kenneth Rexroth, Poet and Critic.
Dr. Richard Marsh, Associate Professor of Radio-Television, San Francisco State College.

A discussion of the stages in man's growth since pre scientific times and an examination of the possibilities for future development. The emphasis will be on ways of reconciling the need for self-assertion with the need for self-transcendence.

Sessions begin Thursday afternoon at 3:00 P.M., end Sunday at noon.

April 12-13-14

SEMINAR EIGHT:

TRAINING FOR A LIFE OF GROWTH

LEADER:
Gerald Heard, Author and Philosopher.

The capacity of making sense of our situation is "religio", the gift and the process of embracing all experience in a comprehensive meaning. Men have been able to hold together only when there has been a training in comprehensive understanding and a training in living in accord with such an understanding. In this seminar Mr. Heard will consider: (A) What could be the theory (the view of the 'nature of things') which a contemporary 'religio' would hold,—and why? (B) What would be the Ethic, the Morals, the conduct deducible from such a cosmology? (C) What would the practices and mental training be to actualize such an essential role of conduct in our individual and social behavior?

This will be a series of lectures followed by question periods. First session: Friday night at 8:30 P.M.; continuing Saturday at 11:00 A.M. and 8:30 P.M., Sunday at 11:00 A.M.

April 19-20-21

SEMINAR NINE:

THE MAKING OF POETRY

LEADERS:
Eric Barker, Poet.
Melissa Levitsky, Poet.
Lyon Phelps, Playwright and Poet.
The James Chamber Players.
Kaffe Fassett, Painter.
Alba Heywood, Painter.
Dryden Phelps, Chinese Scholar and Poet.

Big Sur poets, painters and musicians in a weekend series of readings, improvisations and round-table discussions to demonstrate dramatically a synthesis of the three arts.

Beginning Friday night at 8:30 P.M., ending Sunday afternoon.

April 27-28

SEMINAR TEN:

THE PSYCHEDELICS: THEIR ETHICAL AND RELIGIOUS IMPLICATIONS

LEADERS:
George Brunn, Secretary of the Religious Research Foundation, San Francisco.
Jeffery Smith, Professor of Philosophy and Humanities, Stanford University.

An exploration of the ethical and religious implications of research with the consciousness-expanding drugs. How do we prepare for the psychedelic experience: what attitudes and settings facilitate it best? Can we, and if we can, how do we build this experience into our everyday life?

Sessions begin Saturday at 9:00 A.M., end Sunday at noon.

May 3-4-5

SEMINAR ELEVEN:

EXERCISES FOR GROWTH

LEADER:
Kay Ortmans, Composer and Teacher.

A weekend experience of new ways toward release and integration. Will include Relax and Rebound movement, deep relaxation, and exercises involving sculpture, painting, writing and music with movement.
Joe Adams, Psychologist, will share his ideas and lead a discussion.

Beginning Friday at 8:30 P.M., ending Sunday at noon. Come prepared with slacks, playclothes and soft shoes. Limited to 12 people.

May 17-18-19

SEMINAR TWELVE:

PHYSICAL MOVEMENT AS A REVELATION OF THE SELF

LEADER:
Mary Whitehouse, Movement Therapist and Teacher of Dance.

This weekend offers an experience of physical awareness, spontaneous expression and non-verbal communication through body movement. There will be an introductory lecture-demonstration Friday night at 8:30 P.M., followed by workshop sessions for individuals and groups on Saturday and Sunday.

Bring slacks and soft shoes.

Limited to thirty.

May 24-25-26

SEMINAR THIRTEEN:

IDEOLOGICAL CONTROL OF THE INDIVIDUAL

LEADER:
Joe Adams, Psychologist, Palo Alto.

A series of lectures on the means whereby individuals and populations have been brought under control by ideologies in the past, with parallels in the cultural revolution now under way. Recent attacks on the mental health movement, on psychiatrists, on psychological testing, etc., will be discussed. Each lecture will be followed by a question and discussion period.

Reading: Szasz, T.S. The Myth of Mental Illness, Harper-Hoeber, 1961.

Sessions begin Friday at 8:30 P.M., continue on Saturday at 11:00 A.M. and 8:30 P.M., on Sunday at 10:00 A.M.

Where the seminar is not specifically designated as a series of lectures or as a workshop there will be an open discussion, with the leaders presenting questions to the group. The aim of this procedure is not to seek group agreement but to encourage individual insight and understanding.

COSTS:

Payment of a basic room and board charge plus registration fee is required for each seminar. The room and board charge covers lodging Friday and Saturday nights, six meals and use of the mineral baths. For every seminar except number seven the room and board charge is $28.00 per person for a single occupancy, $22.00 for a double, and $20.00 for a triple. The charge for seminar seven, which covers three nights lodgings and nine meals, is $42.00 per person for a single occupancy, $33.00 for a double, $30.00 for a triple.

The Registration fees are as follows:

THE EYE OF EDWARD WESTON—a weekend seminar.

Leaders: Ansel Adams
Imogen Cunningham
Brett Weston
Jack Welpott

Since his death, the stature of Edward Weston has continued to increase. His particular vision has influenced art and artists outside America and outside the realm of photography. But as his reputation grows, his photographs become harder to see in the simplicity and clarity with which he made them. In this seminar his old friends, who are themselves artists of stature, will recall the man and the original impact of his photographs and will explore the nature of his influence.

A movie about Edward Weston, entitled "The Photographer," will be shown Friday night. The seminar will begin Saturday morning at 9:00 and will end Sunday at noon. Registration fee: $5.00. See below for basic room and board charge.

SEPTEMBER 27-29

THE CRISIS IN PSYCHOLOGY

LEADERS: JOE K. ADAMS, Psychologist, Palo Alto

ANTHONY J. SUTICH, Psychotherapist, Palo Alto; Editor, JOURNAL OF HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY.

A review of current trends in the field of psychology, with special attention given to the growing conflict between concepts which standardize and limit human possibilities (most behaviorism and psychoanalysis) and concepts which offer promise of freedom and growth (Horney, Fromm, Rogers, Maslow, Allport, existential and phenomenological analysis, Gestalt psychology). The history of the field will be reviewed in the light of this growing conflict.

Registration fee: $6.00

OCTOBER 4-6

INTRODUCTION TO NON-VERBAL EXPERIENCE

LED BY: CHARLOTTE SELVER, Teacher of Awareness

Overemphasis on verbal activity, including speech and thought, conceals the rich and unfamiliar world of non-verbal experience. This seminar will explore non-verbal experience through the cultivation of inner quiet and the unforced use of inner and outer senses.

THE THEORIES OF ABRAHAM MASLOW

LED BY: PAUL KURTZ, Psychologist, Palo Alto

Abraham Maslow has studied healthy people in an attempt to find norms for psychological growth. These creative or "self-actualizing" people have given him insights into the possibility of fuller growth for all people. This seminar will discuss his descriptions of self-actualizing people, his theory of motivation and the dynamics of growth, and his attempt to create a "Being-psychology" concerned with peak experiences, ends and values. The seminar will continue through Monday, Veterans Day, for those interested.

Registration fee: $6.00

THREE SEMINARS LED BY GERALD HEARD

NOVEMBER 15-17

THE NEW CONCEPT OF EVOLUTION

MR. HEARD describes his subject as follows:

There have been three ideas about Evolution: the first one was that the Life process has been literally an unfolding, unpacking of a minute model until it was expanded to full size.

The second view was that Life was a kind of invisible, flowing plastic which oozed along, twisting, stubbing, congealing itself into all its many forms.

The third and new concept is that (a) some kind of play goes on between this stream and its source and bed; (b) that new kinds of energies and so new forms appear and (c) that, as ineffective forms are always being swept away, the new upper, more effective, more advanced forms that emerge are always more generalized, more lively, more questing, until with man we arrive at the most unfinished form, the creature that itself can plan its future and fulfill its evolutionary promise.

NOVEMBER 22-24

THE PROBLEM OF PSYCHICAL RESEARCH

The psyche is that aspect of the psycho-physique which makes man to be man, and that in man which evolves. As we now know, man is a creature without instincts. In place of his instincts he has developed a social heredity, a two-fold, two-sided current of ideas. One side deals with the outer world and how to get along with it—physics, economics, politics. The other side deals with the inner world and how to get along with our deep selves, our values, our psyche. These two sides must be kept in balance.

However, because in dealing with the outer world we have thought that it was the only world, we have upset the balance between inner and outer, and our sense of values, our sense of the worth of life is deranged. Hence we suffer uprushes from the psychic depths which we try to explain away.

We can be sane and progress only if we right this balance. And we can right this balance only if we (a) make a frame of reference in which our two-fold growth can be understood and (b) if we find a way of living in which we use the disturbing data of psychical research to help us live the new evolving, fulfilling life which we now see we were intended to live.

NOVEMBER 29-DECEMBER 1

WAYS OF GROWTH IN OUR AGE

Since we must fulfill our evolution, and since that evolution must be through the psyche, if we are to grow we must do two things: first, we must understand (a) in what direction the psyche wishes us to grow and (b) how the psyche, through its psycho-somatic functioning, intends us to grow. Second, we must undertake the kind of mind-body training whereby our potential self may develop and fulfill itself. This means living a life which, at the right time, with the right study together with the right company, makes the four stages of intentional life (childhood, adolescence, first maturity and second maturity) a sustained development.

Registration fees: $12.00 per seminar. Mr Heard will be in residence from November 15 to December 1. He will conduct an open discussion of the issues raised during his weekend seminars every afternoon during the week. There will be a $2.00 fee for each of these afternoon discussions.

DECEMBER 6-8

A WEEKEND OF POETRY AND MUSIC

LEADERS: LYON PHELPS, poet, with PETER MELCHIOR, drums, plus other Big Sur poets and music makers

Poetry and music in various combinations plus ad lib discussions with the audience. A fuller description will be sent to those who are interested.

A CREATIVE APPROACH TO PSYCHOTHERAPY

A lecture-demonstration of an integrated approach to psychotherapy.

LEADERS: PAUL BAUM, Clinical Psychologist
NAN JOHNSON, Psychiatric Social Worker
GENE SAGAN, Clinical Psychologist

This approach combines within the framework of individual and group psychotherapy features of Gestalt Therapy, Movement Therapy, Psychodrama, and Art Therapy. It is an attempt to work within a framework that utilizes the similarity between the creative process and the process of individual growth.

Registration fee: $6.00

DECEMBER 16-23 and
DECEMBER 28 — JANUARY 4

THE VARIETIES OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE

LEADERS: MICHAEL MURPHY, Big Sur Hot Springs
WILLIAM D. QUINN, Big Sur Hot Springs

A comparative study of some of the mystical traditions within the great world religions, combining discussion with practice of meditation exercises derived from these traditions. The seminar will explore the possibility of applying these ancient ideas and exercises to our present religious life, in ways appropriate to our individual temperaments, capacities and circumstances. Special attention will be given to the Upanishads, the Tantra, the Christian contemplative life as exemplified by Ruysbroeck and St. John of the Cross, Hasidism, and the lives and teachings of Ramana Maharishi and Sri Aurobindo.

The seminar will be divided into two sections, the first running from Monday, December 16 until Monday, December 23, the second from Saturday, December 28 until Saturday, January 4.

A fuller description of the seminar program will be available later for interested persons.

Registration fee: $6.00 for both sections inclusive

POETRY EVENINGS at 8:30 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month (October 2, November 6, December 4, January 8)—readings by poets in Big Sur and invited guests from elsewhere, with readings of favorite poems by members of the audience. Information upon request.

JANUARY 17 - 19

TIME AND ANXIETY led by ALAN WATTS

The running out, the getting later and later of time is the measure of Western man's anxiety—giving all life a quantitative value ("time is money") which impoverishes the whole of our experience. Overcoming this requires the conversion of time into rhythm, and acquiring the sense that the timing of events is dancing rather than clock-watching. Charlotte Selver will assist at this seminar. The group will meet informally Friday evening; formal meetings begin Saturday morning.

BEING ALL THERE: a practice-study group led by CHARLOTTE SELVER, Instructor in Sensory Awareness, New School for Social Research, N. Y., assisted by CHARLES VAN WYCK BROOKS.

We often discover that we are not fully open for experiencing or relating because, while acting in the present, we are still in the past or already in the future. The process of becoming more attuned for and in our action, which this practical workshop will explore, gathers and focuses our energies. Sensitive awareness and a balancing of mental and physical powers lead to more contact with oneself and one's environment, and give immediacy and depth to experiencing the here and now.

There will be daily morning and afternoon sessions and two informal evening discussions with slides.

IDEAS FOR A UNIVERSAL UNIVERSITY

LED BY: MARK GOLDES, founder of Emerson College; teacher, Pasternak College, the Free University.

A shrinking earth forces us to consider, as practical and necessary, certain possibilities that have always in the past been thought Utopian. Included are an end to war, worldwide material abundance and the creative use of leisure. Such matters are no longer academic, therefore a non-academic university has been proposed to encourage the rapid changes that have become imperative. We will be concerned with concrete and practical proposals designed to bring such a world university and its many local colleges into existence.

EXISTENTIALISM AND MYSTICISM

LED BY: JAMES FADIMAN and ALLAN SIDLE, Psychology Department, Stanford University.

SIDNEY WOHL, Clinical Psychologist, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Palo Alto.

Mysticism affirms the individual self's capacity for joining the ground of Being in an experience of profound union. Some forms of existentialism also affirm the possibility of a transcendence of the enculturated self—but in the context of human encounter, as a person to person, I-Thou relationship. This seminar will discuss the relationship between these two approaches to human fulfillment.

INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY

LED BY: FREDERICK S. PERLS, Psychiatrist, Los Angeles.

To expand the scope of awareness, to bring greater contact with the environment and to end the subject-object split are the goals of Gestalt Therapy. Concentrating on what is rather than why it is, in the present rather than in the past, this approach has received considerable attention as a new method of psychotherapy. Dr. Perls, its originator, will discuss his theories as well as show the relationship of Gestalt Therapy to existentialism and Zen. He will also demonstrate the practical application of his approach through workshop experiments.

THE INTEGRAL YOGA OF SRI AUROBINDO

LED BY: HARIDAS CHAUDHURI, Philosopher and Author.

Sri Aurobindo, modern Indian philosopher and mystic, incorporated the traditional yogas of India into a purna or integral yoga. This yoga adapts discipline to the individual's unique psychic and physical makeup, and stresses the need to evoke and follow the deep—but usually suppressed—leadings of the organism. The seminar will discuss this yoga and the possibilities of incorporating its principles into a life of growth in American culture.

THE ECONOMY'S MISSING LOGIC
LED BY: LOUIS O. KELSO, Attorney, Author and Economist, San Francisco.
MARK GOLDES, Teacher, Pasternak College, Carmel.

In The Capitalist Manifesto, Louis O. Kelso and Mortimer J. Adler analyze the possible economic structures of a modern industrial society, concluding that a private property, free market economy based upon the theory of capitalism is the most just and potentially the most productive organization of an industrial economy, as well as the truest economic counterpart of a democracy. They criticize the concentration of capital ownership in the present American economy and the resulting necessity for governmental redistribution of purchasing power, and propose specific and practical measures for rapidly increasing the number and proportion of capital-dependent households. In The New Capitalists they outline a plan for creating new capital-owning households through financing techniques based on future savings rather than upon past savings, a plan which, they argue, could create something heretofore non-existent, namely, a true Capitalist economy.

THE CONCEPT OF THE SUBTLE BODY

Leaders: FREDERIC SPIEGELBERG, author, lecturer, formerly professor of Asiatic-Slavic Studies, Stanford University.
JAMES FADIMAN, Psychology Department, Stanford University.

An examination of the Indian concept of "sukshma sharira-sthula sharira," often translated from the Sanskrit as "inner and outer" or "subtle and gross bodies," and of how this concept relates to modes of perception and feeling, to experience of the body and the body image, to yogic and psychedelic experience, and to Indian art, surrealism, abstract expressionism and the later work of Picasso. The possible distortion of this idea by modern crank philosophies will be considered as well as its possible application to emerging concepts and studies in psychology and psychosomatic medicine.

SELF-AWARENESS SEMINAR

Led by: PAUL S. KURTZ, Psychologist and Director of the Human Growth Institute, Palo Alto.

It is the purpose of this seminar to demonstrate that we, as individuals, are the perceivers of life. As our perceptive faculties become gradually dimmed or distorted, life itself seems to be less satisfying. Various means of restoring perceptive functions will be practiced.

Through the use of certain psychological tests, group discussion, personal experiments in awareness, bodily exercise and the natural surroundings, each participant will find growth through intensification and clarification of perception.

The seminar begins with dinner Sunday evening and ends Friday noon.

$100 per person, double $120 single

JUNE 28-JULY 3

A PROGRAM OF BASIC ENCOUNTER AND MOVEMENT

Leaders: GILBERT DAVID, Consulting Industrial Psychologist, Faculty Member of the New School for Social Research, and Director of Leadership Development, Inc., New York.
GENE SAGAN, Clinical Psychologist, Berkeley.
CONSUELO SANDOVAL, Instructor of Dance, Dancers Workshop of San Francisco.
JOSEPH SCHLICHTER, Teacher of Dance, San Francisco.

Basic encounter groups, led by Gene Sagan and Gilbert David, will be combined with explorations in the personality aspects of movement. Movement classes will be held at least once each day; these will be coordinated with the experience of the encounter groups.

Our gestures and posture, the way we sit and stand and move in relation to others, the way we walk — all of these are fundamental to our relationships with self and other people. This program will explore such connections between our physical and psychological being.

The seminar begins with dinner Sunday evening and ends Friday noon. For further information, write Big Sur Hot Springs.

JULY 5-10

EXPLORATIONS IN PERSONAL AUTHENTICITY

Leaders: J. F. T. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., Partner, Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles.
JAMES V. CLARK, D.B.A., Associate Professor of Business Administration and Associate Research Behavioral Scientist, Institute of Industrial Relations, UCLA.
BERNARD GUNTHER, Instructor of Body Awareness, Big Sur Hot Springs.

The basic process of being is awareness. Through awarenesses we discover ourselves, each other and the world. Yet anxiety, our culture and superstition cause us to reduce the scope and richness of our awareness. Reduced awareness inevitably means reduced living, reduced realization of our human potential.

This program will be exploratory. Participants will be invited to join in a common seeking for greater awareness. To this purpose the staff will bring insights from existential psychology and psychotherapy, from group dynamics and sensitivity training, and from sensory awareness training.

The program will begin with dinner on Sunday and end Friday noon. For further information, write Big Sur Hot Springs.

$150 per person, double $170 single

FRITZ FAISS, painter and sculptor, will be in residence JULY 13-AUGUST 9. During this time he will give individual and group instruction in drawing, painting and sculpture. Working at times with Dr. Frederick Perls during Dr. Perls' weekend seminars (see below), and with him more informally during the week, Mr. Faiss will explore some of the relationships between artistic expression, psychological growth, and methods of meditation.

Mr. Faiss studied at the Bauhaus under Klee and Kandinsky and with Rudolph Steiner; he was also active for many years at the Evangelische Akadamie in Germany. He is presently teaching at San Fernando State College. His works are owned by private collectors and museums throughout Europe and America.

FEE for group instruction: $2 per hour. For individual instruction: $10 per hour. Class hours will be arranged at the Hot Springs in July, according to the needs of the participants. Participants must provide their own equipment.

Room and Board — $13 a day per person, double $17 single (a slight reduction for those staying a week or longer)

JULY 10-12 • JULY 17-19 • JULY 24-26

Three weekend Seminars:

INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY

Led by: DR. FREDERICK PERLS, Psychiatrist and author of Gestalt Therapy.

Dr. Perls will explain the concepts underlying Gestalt Therapy, and will demonstrate some of the methods he has developed for extending awareness and healing destructive divisions of the self. These methods include the use of dialogue (between therapist and patient and between aspects of the self), and non-interpretive work with dreams. At times Dr. Perls will relate the techniques and philosophy of Gestalt Therapy to ways of artistic expression, working with Fritz Faiss, painter and sculptor, who will be in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs (see above).

There will be three weekend programs: attendance at each will be limited to fifty with first choice given to those who sign up for more than one weekend.

FEE (per weekend) $46 per person, double $54 single

JULY 31 - AUGUST 2

THE BASES OF CREATIVITY led by FRANK BARRON, Research Psychologist, Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley.

Dr. Barron will discuss the origins and conditions of personal vitality, creativity and freedom. This discussion will be based upon his extensive research into the nature of creativity and health at the Institute for Personality Assessment and Research and at various other research centers. Some of the factors of creative personality which will be considered are: the ability to allow disorganization in the interests of richer integration, the combination of impulsivity and critical sense, and the capacity to use alterations of consciousness constructively.

Seminar with ALAN WATTS

AN EXPLORATION OF THE SELF

Reflections at the end of a 2-year fellowship at Harvard University on the problem of man's sensation of his own identity. How is the sensation of being alive influenced by language, myth and theology? How is it that we have a feeling of the self, or ego, in such a marked contrast to the scientific description of the individual (e.g., in biology) and to the mystical intuition of the individual self as an aspect of the universal Self?

The group will meet informally Friday evening. Sessions: Saturday and Sunday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

$56 per person, double $64 single

SEPTEMBER 8-16

A TRIP WITH KEN KESEY

Someone in the group begins telling a story, others join him in the telling, and then the entire group begins to travel together — along the first line of the story then suddenly into new regions of experience. Ken Kesey has been making such journeys with his friends during the past few years, and will share his experience now with a small group of newcomers. During the eight days he will try to lead the way into ever richer regions of experience, maybe into places where no one else has been before.

Ken Kesey is author of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and Sometimes a Great Notion.

CENTERING

A Seminar and Workshop led by PAUL REPS.

Paul Reps compiled the classic Zen Flesh, Zen Bones and authored Zen Telegrams, Goldfish Signatures, Big Bath and Picture-Poem Primer, four books of his original philosophy. Another book is on its way, entitled The Big Waking. He writes, "I have no home outside this world where I am traveling, three times in the Himalayas, eleven over Japan, believing that whatever we see or hear poems us." In the Himalayas he unearthed the ancient centering exercises which are presented in Zen Flesh, Zen Bones. These exercises, much praised by Aldous Huxley, utilize our ordinary activities to induce heightened awareness. During the ten days at Hot Springs he will work with these exercises and others he has discovered during his travels, encouraging the participants "to stop running away from the motion pictures you yourself are making as you move." "There will be," he says, "music, sleep, moon, play, work and games."

The daily schedule will be formed as the program goes along. To get an idea of what these centering exercises are like see the section in Zen Flesh, Zen Bones entitled Centering. (Zen Flesh, Zen Bones. Reps. Tuttle & Co. 1957. Or, Doubleday paperback.)

OCTOBER 3-16

IMPROVISATION THROUGH THEATRE GAMES

Seminars and Workshops with VIOLA SPOLIN.

Viola Spolin is one of the guiding spirits of Chicago's famed improvisational theatre, Second City. She also founded and directed the Young Actors Company of Hollywood. Through her experience as a drama coach and her attempt to solve the problem of attaining natural and spontaneous stage behavior she invented Theatre Games. These games are a simple, uncomplicated way of freeing an individual for personal experience and self-discovery through play. She has explained them in Improvisation for the Theatre (Northwestern University Press. 1963).

These games are being used by many neighborhood and community theatres. They are also being used as activity therapy in mental health programs, and for the training of teachers and group leaders in various community agencies.

During the two weekend seminars Miss Spolin will introduce newcomers to her ideas and to the games themselves. The ensuing workshops will constitute an intensive course with full participation by the workshop members. For further information write Big Sur Hot Springs.

Seminar and Workshops with IRA PROGOFF, Psychologist and Author, New York.

THE FUNDAMENTALS OF DEPTH PSYCHOLOGY AND ITS PROCEDURES FOR PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

The weekend seminar will be devoted to describing the basic concepts of Holistic Depth Psychology and to demonstrating their use in enlarging the capacities of modern personality. The guiding conception is that psychotherapy can fulfill its medical task of healing only when it provides a way for individual experiences of spiritual realization. This means that modern man requires disciplines for self-development, and these disciplines must meet the tough-minded criteria of an age of science.

In the seminar the framework of these concepts will be described, together with the evidence for them, and the applications in which they validate themselves.

The midweek workshops will carry these explorations further in advance study groups and personal consultations to clarify specific points of individual interest and concern. Emphasis will be placed on providing opportunities for active involvement in the processes and rhythms of the psyche through demonstration sessions of imaging procedures, ways of working with dreams and extending them, the uses of psychological workbooks, the conduct of group workshops, and techniques of depth dialogue as described in Dr. Progoff's book, The Symbolic and the Real.

Texts for the seminar and workshops (authored by Ira Progoff):

1) The Death and Rebirth of Psychology, 1956, deals with the historical background, development and emergence of Holistic Depth Psychology.

2) Depth Psychology and Modern Man, 1959, presents the conceptual substructure for the dynamic techniques of personality growth.

3) The Symbolic and the Real, 1963, presents an enlarged philosophical perspective with a detailed program of techniques for "evoking" the potentials of the deep psyche.

OCTOBER 16-18: weekend seminar. $56 per person, double $64 single

OCTOBER 18-22: Workshop I. Sunday dinner through Thursday lunch (first session Monday morning). $92 per person, double $108 single

NOVEMBER 6-13

A Seminar and Workshop with Charlotte Selver.

SENSORY REAWAKENING

These programs will explore the capacity of our senses for perceiving both the environment and our inner functioning and being. Through the rediscovery and reawakening of the sensory potential with which all of us were born, but which has generally become unbalanced and diminished through our upbringing, we can experience a full contact with ourselves and with the world we live in. Such exploration can lead to a renewing of the way we look at things, the way we approach people and tasks, and the way we receive impressions and express ourselves.

Charlotte Selver studied intensively with Elsa Gindler in Germany, taught at the University of Leipzig and was connected with the Bauhaus and the Leipzig Music Conservatory and Art School. Since 1951 she has given regular courses at the New School for Social Research in New York. In 1957 she was invited by Erich Fromm to give a paper at the Seminar on Psychoanalysis and Zen Buddhism conducted by D. T. Suzuki and Erich Fromm in Cuernavaca, Mexico. She has taught General Semantics seminars and presented a paper on Body Image at the International Conference on General Semantics at the University of Hawaii, Honolulu. For several years Miss Selver has conducted joint seminars with Alan Watts in New York and San Francisco, and since 1961 has given seminars on her own on the West Coast.

SEMINARS AT BIG SUR HOT SPRINGS

THREE SEMINARS ON THE AUTOMATED SOCIETY

A Rand Corporation scientist predicts that within ten to twenty-five years two percent of our population will produce all the goods and services they and the other ninety-eight percent can possibly consume. What are the prospects for history's first mass leisure class? What are the alternatives to "the job" as a source of income, status, motivation, and accomplishment? How will the machine-produced wealth be distributed? What is the future of labor unions? Most important, do the changes born of technology make philosophical and human sense?

LOUIS O. KELSO, lawyer, economist and author, has been pondering these questions for thirty years. He has outlined his thought in two books, The Capitalist Manifesto and The New Capitalists (Random House, 1958 and 1961), co-authored with philosopher Mortimer Adler. He demonstrates the feasibility of his theories, too, by applying them in his day-to-day law practice as senior managing partner of a large financial and corporate law firm and as founder of Pacific Basic Development Corporation, a unique company for industrializing the underdeveloped nations quickly and in private property patterns.

Interest in Mr. Kelso's economic thought is on the rise. A Greek edition of The Capitalist Manifesto recently joined the French, Spanish and Japanese editions, and a new book which blueprints the financial techniques for turning employees into company stockholders is nearing completion.

OCTOBER 23-25 THE SMOKING HABIT

BETTY BERZON, Research Associate, Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla
LAURA HUXLEY, Psychotherapist, Los Angeles
GENE SAGAN, Clinical Psychologist, Berkeley.

The three leaders will each introduce a somewhat different approach toward understanding and overcoming the smoking habit. Laura Huxley has worked on the problem in group workshops and in her practice of psychotherapy; she believes we have a deep need for regenerating experience and that the wish to stop smoking is another expression of this need. Overcoming the habit is achieved by redirecting the energy which powers the drive into more creative channels. Betty Berzon has designed a research program to test the intensive small group experience as a context within which the smoking habit can be modified. Dr. Sagan has explored the experience of smoking in his practice of psychotherapy, believing that fuller contact with the self determines in the most healthful way whether a person should give up smoking or not; he feels that a direct contact with any habitual activity may lead toward unanticipated healthful growth. Everyone attending is asked to give up smoking for the duration of the program. This will be a weekend primarily for those who are trying to give up the habit.

$46 per person, double $54 single

DECEMBER 18-23 THE FORMATION OF OUR BELIEFS

G. RAY JORDAN, Director, Happy Valley School, Ojai, California.

What role do beliefs or concepts play in science, in religion, in philosophy or in any other basic area of human thought? How are concepts actually established? Various answers to these questions will be summarized at the beginning of the seminar to serve as springboards for discussion. Most of the time and effort of approximately four of the days, however, will be spent in exploring with rigorous intellectual honesty how the basic beliefs of the participants have been formed. We will send a reading list to those who wish to prepare intensively for the workshop.

$90 per person, double $110 single

DECEMBER 18-23 FIGURE AND LANDSCAPE

JACK W. WELPOTT, Asst. Prof. of Art
San Francisco State College

A photography workshop dealing with the human figure in the landscape. Participants will be encouraged, through camera work, to explore attitudes about nature and how the natural scene relates to figurative concepts in art.

Lecture and informal discussion will augment camera work. Those attending are encouraged to bring cameras. A limited number of Polaroid cameras will be available.

NEW YEAR'S EVE CELEBRATION: CHIEF CELEBRANT: ALAN WATTS
For reservations, write Big Sur Hot Springs.

JANUARY 1-3 THUS-NESS

ALAN WATTS, Philosopher and Author.

This odd word, translating the Sanskrit Tathata, is used in Mahayana Buddhism to suggest how things look to a Buddha, to one who has experienced enlightenment or liberation, and is therefore called a Tathagata—one who comes (or goes) thus. Just like that! The sense of this non-sense in Buddhist philosophy, and its practical demonstration in Zen.

First session begins Friday afternoon at 3:00; sessions Saturday and Sunday mornings and afternoons.

$56 per person, double $64 single

JANUARY 15-17 THE CREATIVE AUDIENCE

GENE SAGAN, Clinical Psychologist, Berkeley, and members of the VERSE-MUSIC QUARTET, LYON PHELPS, PETER IND, PETER MELCHIOR and OWEN JAMES.

Dr. Sagan believes that participation in an audience may be a creative act. In this workshop he will suggest a wide range of techniques which enable participants to experience themselves as artists-in-the-audience. The Verse-Music Quartet will perform twice during the weekend; during their concerts workshop participants can integrate their audience-artist roles with utter abandon.

JANUARY 15-17 A WEEKEND WITH IRA PROGOFF

Dr. Progoff will describe the basic concepts of Holistic Depth Psychology and demonstrate their use in enlarging the capacities of modern personality. His guiding conception is that psychotherapy can fulfill its medical task of healing only when it provides a way for individual experiences of spiritual realization. This means that modern man requires disciplines for self-development and these disciplines must meet the tough-minded criteria of an age of science.
Among other well-known books, Dr. Progoff has written:
The Death and Rebirth of Psychology (1956) and The Symbolic and the Real (1963).

FEBRUARY 26-28 A WEEKEND WITH PAUL TILLICH

The seminar will consist of two sections, each introduced by a lecture followed by extensive discussion: 1) Self-Actualization and Self-Transcendence. This section will deal with problems of authenticity and search for identity, with the conflicts between the essential and the existential self, with the significance of self-transcendence for self-actualization in the West and East, especially in secularized and mechanized cultures. 2) Symbols of Eternal Life in the East and West. This section will deal with points of identity and points of difference in the concept of eternal life, particularly with the contrast between the symbols of the Kingdom of God and Nirvana. There will also be a discussion of the different forms in which the symbol of reincarnation has appeared in the East and West, and the possibility of a creative dialogue about these symbols in a secular world.

APRIL 30-MAY 2 PSYCHOSYNTHESIS—TECHNIQUES FURTHERING PSYCHOLOGICAL GROWTH AND WHOLENESS

ROBERT GERARD, Clinical Psychologist, Los Angeles.

The goal of psychosynthesis is the harmonious integration, unification and balanced expression of the totality of our human nature—physical, emotional, mental and spiritual—for the fulfillment of our potentialities. This seminar will present a series of techniques furthering the process of synthesis, including techniques for the creative use of imagination, the development of concentration, the evocation of intuition, the understanding of dreams, and the expansion of awareness to peak experiences and contact with the deeper self. Actual transcripts from therapy sessions will be used as illustrations, and the participants will have the opportunity to experiment with the techniques.

Big Sur Hot Springs

ON BECOMING HUMAN

REV. WM. McNAMARA, O.C.D., Holy Cross Chapel, Sedona, Arizona.

We are born with the stuff it takes to become human. But to become, in fact, existentially human is a rare and distinguished achievement of man. The psychological and theological aspects of this humanizing process are explored in this seminar. Father McNamara is a Carmelite Monk and Priest, Administrator of Holy Cross Chapel and Director of the Spiritual Life Institute of America. He is the author of Manual for Retreat Masters and The Art of Being Human.

BEING ALL THERE

CHARLOTTE SELVER, Teacher of Sensory Awareness.

We often discover that we are not fully open for experiencing or relating because we are still in the past or already in the future while acting in the present. Clinging to the past or being ahead of oneself do not permit the full play of the organism's potentials. A state of balance from which more contact is possible with oneself and with the immediate environment can be reached. Then one can function with greater freedom and integrity, being neither held back nor drawn ahead.

1965 SUMMER SEMINARS

at BIG SUR hot springs

sponsored by ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those converging trends in psychology, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. The Big Sur Hot Springs grounds include redwood canyon trails, beaches and cliffside hot mineral springs. To balance the intellectual perspectives offered by the seminars there are scheduled morning periods of Tai Chi (meditation-in-action) and an afternoon Sensory Awakening class. The cost of these sessions and the baths is included in the seminar fees.

SEMINARS WITH DR. FREDERICK S. PERLS

Dr. Perls will be in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs and will conduct seminars every weekend. Each seminar will be limited to fifteen people, with preference given to those who sign up for two or more seminars. He will also conduct five-day workshops once a month; the first ones will be April 25-30 and May 23-28.

Dr. Perls is author of Gestalt Therapy (Julian, 1951). He will emphasize the creative encounter and the non-analytic, integrative and holistic approach he has developed.

Weekends: $54 per person, double $62 single
Five-day workshops:
$125 per person, double $145 single

MAY 7-9 WAYS OF GROWTH

JOHN LEVY, San Francisco Venture, and Members of the Big Sur Hot Springs Staff.

Aldous Huxley named the great neglected area of modern education the "non-verbal humanities." These, he said, included all those disciplines which explored and fostered the sensory, emotional and spiritual dimensions of human existence, all those areas of life neglected by a society obscessed with the development of concepts and the control of physical nature. A primary purpose of the Esalen Institute is to help develop such researches and disciplines.

This seminar is the first of several in which the staff at Big Sur Hot Springs will explore with others various ways of growth in sensing, feeling and relating. There will be an introductory survey of what is being done to foster these neglected areas of human development, then the seminar participants will explore ways in which they might incorporate such disciplines as presently exist into their daily lives. Discussion and practice will be combined throughout the seminar.

$35 per person, double $43 single

MAY 14-16 THE MEANING OF SPORTS

ARNOLD BEISSER, M.D., Psychiatrist and author of a forthcoming book on the psychology of sports;

PAYTON JORDAN, Director of Track, Stanford University, and Coach of the 1964 United States Olympic Track Team.

The seminar will consider the psychological and sociological meanings of sports to the athlete, to the fan and to our society. What lies behind the intense national interest in sports? What do they do for the athlete and for our society? What motivates a great athlete and a great team? What defeats others who show great promise? These questions and others will be considered.

$49 per person, double $57 single

MAY 17-21 VIRGINIA SATIR INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

Virginia Satir will lead a short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic, discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover the concepts of family therapy along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools that have been developed in family diagnosis and treatment.

Participants in these sessions must have had some experience in family therapy. For further information, write Virginia Satir, 777 Bryant St., Palo Alto, California.

The Institute begins with lunch on Monday, May 17, and ends with lunch on Friday, May 21.

$154 per person, double $170 single

MAY 21-25 THE ART OF INTIMACY — A Seminar and Workshop

GEORGE BACH, Psychologist and Director, Institute of Group Psychotherapy, Beverly Hills.

MAY 21-23 SEMINAR:

A participative seminar for couples, whether married, friends, or co-workers — any two who care to improve their relationship through achieving deeper levels of intimacy. Dr. Bach writes in his book Intimate Enemies (Doubleday, 1965—in preparation), co-authored by Life columnist Shana Alexander, "The essence of intimacy is the practice of truthfulness about where one stands with the other. The achievement of such intimate leveling is difficult in a marketing society which rewards skill in image making and role playing and which regards 'unconditional positive regard' or 'selfless devotion' as unrealistic." Seminar participants will explore the paradoxical fighting behavior of intimates, the conflict between independence and involvement, and the intimate versus the autonomous orientation. The seminar ends with lunch Sunday, and is followed by:

MAY 23-25 WORKSHOP:

Beginning Sunday afternoon eight couples will hold a marathon group therapy retreat, finishing with lunch on Tuesday, May 25. This group will practice intimate communications, including constructive fighting, on an around-the-clock day and night schedule in complete seclusion.
No single persons will be accepted for either the seminar or workshop. Every participant must have a partner. Workshop participants must have attended the seminar; seminar participants need not attend the workshop.

Seminar only: $59 per person, double $67 single Seminar and Workshop: $137 per person, double $153 single

MAY 28-30 TRANSACTIONAL ANALYSIS AND CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

ROBERT GOULDING, M.D., Psychiatrist, Carmel; and VIRGINIA SATIR, Director of Training, Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto.

A comparison of Transactional Analysis with Conjoint Family Therapy, with a study of their similarities and differences, and a discussion of how they might be used jointly.

$49 per person, double $57 single

JUNE 11-13 THE TAOISM OF LAO-TZU AND CHUANG-TZU

ALAN WATTS, Author and Philosopher.

An introduction to early Taoist philosophy as found in the Lao-Tzu and Chuang-Tzu books: the Course of nature, the yang-yin polarity, the power of non-doing, the idea of organism, and Chuang-Tzu's doctrine of relativity as the source of his humor.

$59 per person, double $67 single

JUNE 18-20 SEARCH AND RESEARCH WITH LSD

ROBERT E. MOGAR, Psychologist, San Francisco State College and the International Foundation for Advanced Study, Menlo Park;

JOHN J. HUNTER, Psychologist, San Francisco State College.

Doctors Mogar and Hunter will describe their own research with LSD and critically review previous studies of the psychological effects of psychedelic drugs. Group discussion will focus on the current fascination with altered states of consciousness in the context of psycho-social trends in American culture.

$39 per person, double $47 single

JUNE 20-25 SELF-AWARENESS SEMINAR

PAUL S. KURTZ, Psychologist and Director of the Human Growth Institute, Palo Alto.

It is the purpose of this seminar to demonstrate that we, as individuals, are the perceivers of life. As our perceptive faculties become gradually dimmed or distorted, life itself seems to be less satisfying. Various means of restoring perceptive functions will be practiced.

Through the use of certain psychological tests, group discussion, personal experiments in awareness, bodily exercise and the natural surroundings, each participant will find growth through intensification and clarification of perception. The seminar begins with dinner Sunday evening and ends Friday noon.

$100 per person, double $120 single

JUNE 20-25 THE CREATIVE ENCOUNTER

GENE SAGAN, Clinical Psychologist, Berkeley;
JUANITA BRADSHAW, Teacher of Creative Behavior, Berkeley;
CONSUELO SANDOVAL, Teacher, Dancers' Workshop, San Francisco;
A. A. LEATH, Dancers' Workshop Company, San Francisco;
JOHN GRAHAM, Dancers' Workshop Company and Instructor in Dance, San Francisco State College.

Basic encounter groups, led by Dr. Sagan, will be combined with explorations in the personality aspects of the artistic experience. Movement classes will be held at least once each day; these will be coordinated with the experience of the encounter groups.

Limited to twelve participants.

$150 per person, double $170 single

JUNE 25-27 HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY

ANTHONY SUTICH, Psychologist, Palo Alto, Editor Journal of Humanistic Psychology;
MILES VICH, Associate Editor, Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

A review of the history and current situation within "Third Force" or Humanistic Psychology. Mr. Sutich and Mr. Vich will discuss these from their vantage points as Editor and Associate Editor of the Journal. They will give their impressions of work being done in the United States and abroad to further the understanding of creativity, love, growth and individual fulfillment in general. They will discuss the conceptual basis of their orientation and the research, literature and institutions associated with this rapidly growing trend in the feld of psychology. This will be a working seminar; full participation is invited.

$39 per person, double $47 single

JUNE 25-JULY 2 THEATRE GAMES — A Seminar and Workshop

Led by their inventor, VIOLA SPOLIN, author of Improvisation for the Theatre, founder of the Young Actors' Company of Hollywood, and one of the guiding spirits of Chicago's famed improvisational Theatre, Second City.

These games are described by Miss Spolin as follows: " . . . when played successfully they excite a climate which helps the players transcend their rigid and limited frames of reference. This happens whether the players are professional actors or not." Theatre Games are being used by many neighborhood and community theatres. They are also being used as activity therapy in mental health programs, and for the training of teachers and group leaders in various community agencies.

The Seminar begins with dinner on Friday and ends with lunch on Sunday. During that time Miss Spolin will introduce newcomers to her ideas and to the games themselves.

From Sunday evening, June 27, through Friday lunch, July 2, there will be an intensive Workshop with full participation by workshop members.

Seminar only: $49 per person, double $57 single Workshop only: $120 per person, double $140 single

JULY 30-AUGUST 1 THE SELF-DIRECTED THERAPEUTIC GROUP

BETTY BERZON, Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla; LAWRENCE SOLOMON, Ph.D., Research Associate, Western Behavioral Sciences Institute.

Western Behavioral Sciences Institute has been conducting research for the past four years into the functioning of self-directed therapeutic groups. Betty Berzon, director of the project, will present films, tapes and research findings. During the weekend self-directed small groups will meet and use some of the experimental procedures developed in this project for structuring such groups.

AUGUST 8-28 WORKSHOPS IN GESTALT THERAPY

For professional psychotherapists.

Led by: FREDERICK S. PERLS, Psychiatrist, Los Angeles and Big Sur; and JAMES S. SIMKIN, Psychologist, Los Angeles.

AUGUST 9-SEPTEMBER 3 WORKSHOPS WITH FRITZ FAISS

Fritz Faiss, painter and sculptor, will be in residence from August 9 through September 3. During this time he will give individual and group instruction in drawing, painting, and sculpture. Mr. Faiss will explore some of the relationships between artistic expression, methods of meditation and psychological growth. Mr. Faiss studied at the Bauhaus under Klee and Kandinski and with Rudolph Steiner; he was also active for many years at the Evangelische Akadamie in Germany. He is presently teaching at San Fernando State College. His works are owned by private collectors and museums throughout Europe and America.

Fees: Group instruction, $2 per hour. Individual instruction, $10 per hour. Class hours will be arranged at the Hot Springs according to the needs of the participants. Participants must provide their own equipment.

Room and Board: $14 per day per person, double $18 single frontiers of human development

Dark and cold we may be, but this is no winter now. The frozen misery of centuries breaks, cracks, begins to move, the thunder is the thunder of the floes,
the thaw, the flood, the upstart spring.
Thank God our time is now when wrong comes up to face us everywhere, never to leave us till we take the longest stride of soul men ever took.
Affairs are now soul size.
The enterprise is exploration into God where no nation's foot has ever trodden yet.

FALL 1965 SEMINARS at Big Sur Hot Springs

sponsored by Esalen Institute

Within a single lifetime, our physical environment has been changed almost beyond recognition. But there has been little corresponding change in how we, as individuals, relate to the world and experience reality. Such a change is inevitable, however — indeed, it is imminent. New tools and techniques of the human potentiality — generally unknown to the public and to much of the intellectual community — are already at hand; many more are presently under development. We stand on an exhilarating and dangerous frontier,— and must answer anew the old questions: "What are the limits of human ability, the boundaries of the human experience? What does it mean to be a human being?"

This fall, the Esalen Institute presents a series of seminars led by some of the pioneers along the frontiers of human development. These men represent widely varying approaches — from the scientific shaping of human behavior to the temporal uses of religion and mysticism, from innovation in education to the exploration of extrasensory perception. All of them share a common concern with human change and mankind's ultimate destination.

August 27-29 A SEMINAR WITH ROLLO MAY

ROLLO MAY, psychoanalyst, New York City, is probably more responsible than any other one person for bringing existential thought to American psychology and psychiatry. He is the author of The Meaning of Anxiety, Man's Search for Himself, and is an editor of Existence. Through his writings he continues to inform psychological thought and practice with larger philosophical perspectives.

Frontier problems in psychotherapy and human development, such as: the function of will and intentionality in human growth, the meaning of choice and freedom, the exploration of creativity in relation to the unconscious, and the dynamics of relationship in encounter, transference and empathy. The seminar will explore the philosophical bases and perspectives of psychotherapy, with particular regard to the existential contribution to these frontier issues.

September 4 · 5 TWO CONCERTS WITH USTAD ALI AKBAR KAHN

Ali Akbar Kahn is regarded by many as India's greatest musician. His instrument is the sarode. He comes to the United States under the auspices of The American Society for Eastern Arts to teach in its first summer school.

Saturday evening, September 4, at 8:30.
Sunday afternoon, September 5, at 2:00.

September 10-12 CHRISTIANITY IN REVOLUTION —— JAMES A. PIKE and ALAN WATTS

BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE, of the Episcopal Diocese of California, has been a leading advocate of reform in many areas of Christian practice. He has encouraged new liturgical forms, courageous social action, and a creative rethinking of Christian theology. His writings include A Time for Christian Candor and many other books.

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; The Wisdom of Insecurity; Psychotherapy East and West; The Joyous Cosmology and many other writings, has been — along with D. T. Suzuki — the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern world view.

A discussion of the up-dating and renovation which are necessary to make the Christian tradition relevant to the intellectual, moral, psychological and social problems of today.

September 11 JOEL ANDREWS, Harpist, in Concert—
Saturday Evening, September 11, at 9:00.

September 17-19 A SEMINAR WITH GARDNER MURPHY

GARDNER MURPHY, Director of Research, Menninger Foundation, Topeka, Kansas, is a past president of the American Psychological Association. He is the author of Personality, Challenge of Psychical Research, and Human Potentialities. In his writings he has combined a knowledge of biology, experimental psychology, child development, psychoanalysis and other fields to open fresh perspectives on some of man's most basic concerns. For many years he has courageously advocated a wider and more daring scope for psychology, a scope which would include the neglected area of parapsychology and the further development of human potentialities.

An attempt will be made to show the implications of evolution on the one hand, and industrialism on the other hand, for man's new discovery of his identity as a social and culture-creating species. A broad historical perspective will show the countless occasions on which man has outgrown his image of himself long before he has been able to find a new image.

We have not yet assimilated Nineteenth Century discoveries; and the anthropology, psychoanalysis, psychology (including research into creativity and extended states of awareness) and parapsychology of the Twentieth Century have hardly affected our basic conception of ourselves. Experimental, clinical and anthropological findings will be combined in an attempt to show human nature in terms both biological and social which are wholly modern.

September 24-26 A WEEK END OF INDIAN DANCE

SHRIMATI T. BALASARASWATI, descended from a long line of temple dancers and foremost in the performance of India's classical dance form Bharata Natyam, will conduct a series of lecture-demonstrations and also appear in concert with full ensemble. Bala and her musicians were brought to this country by the American Society for Eastern Arts of Berkeley to head the teaching staff of the first ASEA Summer School. Following the close of school and their appearance here, the troupe goes on tour of selected institutions throughout the United States.

Bala and her musicians open the weekend Friday evening with a lecture-demonstration. She will give another lecture-demonstration Saturday morning. A similar afternoon program will feature the music of South India, and Saturday night Bala and the troupe will appear in full concert. The entire ensemble will present a Sunday morning lecture-demonstration, and the musicians will again demonstrate South Indian music during the final Sunday afternoon program.

October 1-6 A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP:

THE FACILITATION OF INDIVIDUAL DEVELOPMENT IN INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP SETTINGS

CARL ROGERS, presently a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute at La Jolla, has been president of the American Psychological Association. He is most famous as the principal founder of Client-Centered Therapy which is, perhaps, the most important American contribution to psychotherapy. Dr. Rogers' insistence on the primacy of human values and human understanding in psychotherapy, education, and all phases of life has had a wide influence on his colleagues and upon countless others. His interests now have turned primarily to the study of basic encounter groups and the philosophy of science. His most recent book is On Becoming a Person.

RICHARD E. FARSON is Director and a principal founder of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in La Jolla. This Institute is one of the most creative pioneering organizations in the behavioral sciences, perhaps because it is free of other institutional ties. It has incorporated into its structure the best insights of psychology and organization research. Its chief activities include the study of basic encounter groups (including self-directed groups), the development of Inter-Nation Simulation games for the understanding of international tensions, and studies in the philosophy of science. Dr. Farson is deeply interested in the problem of mental health in the community at large. He recently conducted a series of television shows featuring a self-directed group which served as the model for encounter groups running concurrently in the San Diego area. The study of leaderless groups is another approach to community health which he has encouraged.

October 1-3 A Seminar led by Carl Rogers
October 3-6 Workshop led by Richard E. Farson

What can we learn from individual psychotherapy, from experience in basic encounter groups, and from pioneering work being done in education which might facilitate our potential for fuller living? These questions will be opened up for thoughtful seminar consideration through discussions with Dr. Rogers, through various presentations and through new films of psychotherapy.

Self-directed encounter groups will be organized by Dr. Farson, beginning on the final day of Dr. Rogers' seminar. Such leaderless groups, which are presently being studied at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, have enormous potential for extending the process of basic encounter to the community at large. Kinescopes of a TV program showing the actual development of a therapeutic group will be presented and discussed by Dr. Farson to enrich the group experience. The use of television and self-directed groups will be explored along with other current efforts to solve the fundamental community mental health problems of loneliness, alienation and superficiality, and to find ways of helping people discover and enjoy their humanness.

The workshop will begin with encounter groups Sunday afternoon and will end with lunch Wednesday, October 6. The seminar and workshop will be integrated to form one total experience. However, it will be possible to attend either one separately.

October 8-10 A SEMINAR WITH B. F. SKINNER AND JEROME I. BERLIN

B. F. SKINNER, Professor of Psychology at Harvard University, is world famous for his development of operant conditioning and the various learning machines which he has invented. He has also become widely known—and notorious in some circles—for his advocacy of a radical application of scientific control to human behavior. He has not been insensitive to his critics, replying to them in many brilliant, highly literate writings. His books include The Behavior of Organisms, Science and Human Behavior, and Walden Two, a program for Utopia in novel form.

JEROME I. BERLIN is Director and co-founder of the Human Development Institute, Atlanta, Georgia. He is a psychotherapist, and, with Dr. L. Benjamin Wyckoff, the inventor and developer of a method for programmed learning of better interpersonal relationships. In the Relationship Improvement Programs they are developing, Drs. Berlin and Wyckoff have combined the humanistic values of client-centered therapy with Skinnerian operationism. This combination, largely because it is so highly portable, may prove to be a major breakthrough in the facilitation of human growth. Dr. Berlin, a traveling man, has introduced his innovative ideas about psychotherapy, organizational structure and community mental health to various groups in many parts of the United States.

Professor Skinner will discuss changes in traditional conceptions of man which seem to be demanded by a rapidly expanding analysis of human behavior. He will consider criticisms of a scientific approach to problems involving freedom and dignity, particularly those criticisms coming from the humanities. The possibility of deriving values from a scientific account of human behavior will be discussed.

Dr. Berlin will then present methods he and Dr. L. Benjamin Wyckoff have developed for facilitating personal growth. These methods combine behavioristic approaches with the humanistic values of Self-Actualization and Client-Centered Therapy.

October 10-15 WORKSHOP with JEROME I. BERLIN

Dr. Berlin will present theory and methodology concerning the construction of programs dealing with personality change. During the workshop, participants will be helped to construct and test some of their own sample programs. Special emphasis will be placed on the use of this method in school, church and industrial settings.

The workshop will begin with dinner on Sunday, October 10, and end with lunch on Friday, October 15.

October 15-17 LSD and HUMAN POTENTIAL led by SIDNEY COHEN

SIDNEY COHEN, MD., Chief of the Psychiatry Service, Wadsworth Veterans' Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, has written an authoritative survey of LSD research, The Beyond Within. He is himself one of the leading researchers with hallucinogenic drugs, having investigated their effects in a variety of experimental settings. Dr. Cohen is actively interested as well in parapsychology, unusual states of awareness and creativity.

The chemicals called psychedelic or hallucinogenic have given many people glimpses of great perceptual potential, capacity for personality integration and ultimate states of awareness. The significance of the LSD state and its relevance to creativity, religious experience and other psychic states will be examined. Dr. Cohen will report on his own researches with LSD.

October 22-24 CONTEMPORARY IMAGES OF MAN led by MAURICE FRIEDMAN

MAURICE FRIEDMAN is the principal interpreter of Martin Buber in the United States. For many years, he has encouraged a dialogue between existentialism and psychotherapy. He has contributed to this dialogue through his writings, Problematic Rebel: An Image of Modern Man, The Worlds of Existentialism: A Critical Reader and Contemporary Images of Man, and his position on the Council of the Association of Existential Psychology and Psychiatry.

We need an image of man to aid us in finding a meaningful way of life, in choosing between conflicting sets of values, in realizing our own unique potentialities. Self-realization only becomes meaningful if we find a direction of authentic existence, a way which is ours because it is true for us and because we have committed ourselves to it. Rich as our age is in everything else, it is remarkably poor in providing sources for discovering personal direction and authentic human existence.

Beginning with the problem of the image of man and its absence in the contemporary world, this seminar will focus on a number of types of contemporary images of man that are significant as "live options": the Modern Socialist, the Modern Vitalist, the Modern Mystic, the Modern Saint, the Modern Gnostic, Psychological Man, the Modern Pragmatist, the Existentialist, and the Absurd Man. A number of particular thinkers and books will be used as illustrations of these types: Malraux, Silone, Bergson, Kazantzakis, T. S. Eliot, Aldous Huxley, Jung, Herman Hesse, Freud, Fromm, Sartre, Tillich, Buber, Samuel Beckett and Camus.

October 29-31 THE PSYCHOLOGY OF CREATIVITY led by FRANK BARRON

FRANK BARRON is Research Psychologist, Institute of Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley. He has been one of the principals in the landmark investigations of creativity conducted at the Institute. He has developed various instruments, such as the Barron-Welsh Art Scale, for the improved measurement of creativity. In the tradition of William James, his interests range widely across the phenomena of human consciousness. He has conducted or been involved in research on psychotherapy, on extrasensory perception, on the effects of hallucinogenic drugs, on the relationship of heredity to creativity, and in several other areas. During the past two years, he has worked with Dr. George I. Brown at the University of California at Santa Barbara to encourage and develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. Dr. Barron has become increasingly interested in education for creativity and for fuller human awareness. He is author of Creativity and Psychological Health and "The Psychology of Creativity" in New Directions in Psychology II.

A discussion of the results of systematic psychological research into creativity: 1) Historical antecedents in Galton, Freud, Piaget, James, Terman; 2) Personality and factor-analytic studies since 1950; 3) Recent cross-cultural studies; 4) Heredity and environmental influences on creativity; 5) New ways in education as a result of recent research.

October 31-November 5 CREATIVITY TRAINING WORKSHOP led by GEORGE I. BROWN

GEORGE I. BROWN is Associate Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. During the past two years he has conducted a pioneering project to develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students. This program is presently being expanded to include other districts in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. He has invented a new method for teaching creativity, involving the development of a "creative sub-self"; this method is currently being used in his project with school teachers and is described in a forthcoming book, Ways of Growth (edited by Michael Murphy and Herbert A. Otto).

A workshop focusing primarily on techniques for developing creativity. Emotional and philosophical dimensions of creativity will be discussed. Then, approaches such as "the creative sub-self" will be introduced and practiced; these techniques have been designed to stimulate divergent thinking and more open behavioral systems in both individuals and groups. Throughout the workshop, all participants will be encouraged to develop their own new strategies for the enhancement of creativity.

The workshop begins with dinner on Sunday, October 31st, and ends with lunch on Friday, November 5th.

November 5-7 THE FAMILY led by DONALD D. JACKSON and VIRGINIA SATIR

DONALD D. JACKSON, M.D., Director, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto, California, is editor of Etiology of Schizophrenia and the author of many articles dealing primarily with family dynamics and schizophrenia. His Mental Research Institute has done some of the most important research to date on the family system and its relation to health and sickness. The Institute is also a highly innovative training center for conjoint family therapy.

VIRGINIA SATIR is Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. She has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in Europe, Egypt and Israel. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities.

This seminar will discuss: 1) Concepts of the family system, and 2) the relationship of the family system to behavior, with its relevance to health and dysfunction.

November 7-12 INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY led by VIRGINIA SATIR

A short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment. Participants in these sessions must have had some experience in family therapy. For further information, write Virginia Satir, 777 Bryant Street, Palo Alto, California.

The Institute begins with dinner on Sunday, November 7, and ends with lunch on Friday, November 12.

November 12-17 A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP A PSYCHOLOGY OF INTIMACY — SELF-DISCLOSURE AND THE SECRET

SIDNEY JOURARD, Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, is well known for his extensive research on self-disclosure. He has been concerned with the depersonalizing effect of psychological research upon its subjects. With this concern and his interest in human spirit and growth, he has encouraged the development of a more humanistic psychology in the United States. He was one of the founders and a president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. He is author of Personal Adjustment and The Transparent Self.

GERALD GOODMAN is Director of the Interpersonal Relations Project, University of California, Berkeley. Dr. Goodman has done original research on self-disclosure. His Interpersonal Relations Project is exploring new ways of assessing college students' potentialities as therapists. He is interested in the "grass roots" small group movement, in the possibility of developing children as therapists, and in other such adventurous enterprises.

November 12-14 Seminar led by SIDNEY JOURARD and GERALD GOODMAN

November 14-17 Workshop led by GERALD GOODMAN

Self-disclosure is the effort to open oneself for contact with others. It is a risk-taking activity in a time when alienation and estrangement are norms. Alienated man, being concealed with the use of mask-like roles, ultimately finds his life meaningless and he sickens. The search for contact through the practice of openess is a promise against the isolation and fragmentation that dispirit people.

The seminar leaders will discuss theory and research on self-disclosure and related concepts. Some experimental group procedures will be demonstrated.

During the following workshop more experimental group work, based on the concepts developed during the seminar, will be introduced. The seminar and workshop, however, may be attended separately. The workshop begins with dinner on Sunday, November 14, and ends with lunch on Wednesday, November 17.

November 19-21 PARAPSYCHOLOGY AND THE NATURE OF MAN led by J. B. RHINE

J. B. RHINE is Executive Director of the newly formed Foundation for Research on the Nature of Man, located at Durham, North Carolina. Dr. Rhine is the man most responsible for the statistical measurement of clairvoyance, precognition and related psychic phenomena, and has done more than anyone living to establish parapsychology as a branch of science. The methods and terminology developed at his world famous Parapsychology Laboratory at Duke University have been adopted by researchers in this field all over the world. In his new position, Dr. Rhine will supervise such researches being conducted abroad. His books include The Reach of the Mind, Extrasensory Perception, and New World of the Mind.

An appraisal of the status of parapsychology as a branch of science. Its difficulties, external and internal, will be discussed, along with the prospects of its further advancement. The program of the new Institute for Parapsychology will be presented. This program includes the coordination and supervision of research in several countries other than the United States, so seminar participants will learn of new work being done abroad.

November 26-28 HUMANISTIC VALUES IN EDUCATION led by CLARK MOUSTAKAS and HOBART THOMAS

CLARK MOUSTAKAS has put the principles he has eloquently preached into actual practice at Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit, where he trains teachers and graduate students in creative, person-centered approaches to education. He is the author of Loneliness, editor of The Self and one of the sponsors of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

HOBART THOMAS is Professor of Psychology at Sonoma State College. The workshops he organized at Sonoma during the summers of 1962, 1963 and 1964 were seminal events in the recent surge of activity in humanistic psychology. He is currently planning a graduate program in psychology for Sonoma State College which would incorporate many of the proposals made by Maslow, Rogers and others for a more dynamic, humanly centered education.

What is education for? Must academic goals violate creativity and unique experience? Must scientific values destroy human values? These and related questions are being asked by many thoughtful educators who believe that blindness and deception too often exist in schools where sophistication has become a substitute for honesty, simplicity and sincerity, where intellectual values are being pursued without reference to moral implications, where the dead facts from dead books have become more important than personal experiences, beliefs and interests, and where the system dictates curriculum, policy and reward or punishment without reference to individual learners and human experiences.

A discussion of these questions will be led by Drs. Thomas and Moustakas. Seminar participants will then be encouraged to explore their own school situations in order to become more aware of the conditions in them which enable or inhibit the emergence and growth of humanistic values and the evolution of freedom, choice, responsibility, and a wide range of human experience.

December 3-5 A DISCUSSION OF PRIMITIVE ART led by S. I. HAYAKAWA

S. I. HAYAKAWA, Professor of English at San Francisco State College and Editor of ETC., is known primarily for his elucidations of General Semantics. But he is also a Professor-Of-Things-In-General. Almost any of his articles or books reveal his urbane, widely informed outlook. He is author of Language in Thought and Action; Symbol, Status and Personality, and many articles and reviews.

There will be a display of Dr. Hayakawa's own collection of African art at Big Sur Hot Springs during the seminar. The discussions will focus largely on the art objects being displayed.

December 10-12 PSYCHOSYNTHESIS — IMAGINATION and MEDITATION AS INTEGRATIVE PROCESSES led by ROBERT GERARD

ROBERT GERARD, Clinical Psychologist, was formerly in charge of the Psychophysiological Research Laboratory at the Veterans' Administration Neuropsychiatric Hospital in Los Angeles. He is a life member of the New York Academy of Sciences. Dr. Gerard is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles, and is founder and president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis. He is especially interested in the development of new therapeutic techniques and the integration of Eastern and Western approaches to psychological growth. Dr. Gerard combines in his work a wide knowledge of Eastern philosophy with modern scientific psychology. Through the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis he hopes to encourage such an integration of various psychological techniques.

The goal of psychosynthesis is the integration of the totality of our human nature—physical, emotional, mental and spiritual. This seminar will present a series of imagery and visualization techniques furthering psychological growth and wholeness. Dr. Gerard will also describe various ways of meditation. Participants will experiment with the techniques presented. Transcripts from therapy sessions will be used as illustrations.

December 10-12 THE FURTHER DEVELOPMENT OF MAN led by J. F. T. BUGENTAL

J. F. T. BUGENTAL, a Partner of Psychological Services Associates, Los Angeles, was one of the organizers and the president pro tem of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. For many years he has worked to combine existential approaches with psychoanalytic thought and practice. With his associates at PSA and members of the faculty of UCLA's Graduate School of Business Administration he has organized workshops to encourage personality growth (these have sometimes been called advanced sensitivity training). From such exploratory work he has developed a concept of the "ontogogic" phase of psychotherapy, or the phase which develops from symptom-oriented therapy into a fuller exploration of being and growth. He is now especially interested in the outcomes such a growth or being orientation will have for individuals and social institutions. He is author of The Search for Authenticity.

The final seminar of the series will look in broad perspective at the human condition, speculating on the main lines of development which are now evident and on some of the areas which are largely dormant but in which revolutionary potentials reside. Participants will be encouraged to open their own awareness to such potentialities of the human experience and will be helped to become conscious of their blocks to such free conceptualization.

Esalen Institute

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of week-end seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. Plans are now being developed for an experimental college at Big Sur Hot Springs. This college would encourage an intensive study of those means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awareness and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education. A research program will be run concurrently to study the effectiveness of such programs for human development.

Die and become—
Until thou hast learnt this,
Thou art but a dull guest
On this dark planet.
—Goethe

FREDERICK S. PERLS, the founder of Gestalt Therapy, is now in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. He will conduct weekend and mid-week workshops throughout the winter and spring, and will give an intensive four-week workshop, July 3-31, for both professional and non-professional participants. For information on all workshops, write or phone Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California.

January 14-16 THE THERAPIST AND THE STRANGER led by THOMAS C. GREENING and GERARD V. HAIGH

THOMAS C. GREENING is a partner of Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles. His practice includes clinical and industrial psychology; he is associated with the UCLA School of Business Administration, the UCLA Peace Corps Training Program and UCLA Extension. He has published in the fields of clinical psychology, literary criticism and human relations training.

GERARD V. HAIGH is also a partner of Psychological Service Associates. He is an innovator with small group methods, a sometime short story writer and a knowledgeable student of various techniques for personal growth.

The fascination these days with being "in" reflects an increasing fear of being an "outsider." But being an outsider, a stranger, has its own bittersweet appeal. Colin Wilson and Albert Camus are among modern authors depicting characters who draw us to them even as they announce their separateness from us. This seminar will use lectures, discussion and experimental exercises to focus on the experience of the "outsider" and his impact on the "insiders." Participants will contribute some of their own experiences of apart-ness and discuss benefits and hazards encountered. The leaders, both psychotherapists, will include thoughts and feelings about their own occupations and ways a therapist functions both as privileged insider and alienated outsider in our culture.

January 21-23 SOME FIRST STEPS TOWARD UTOPIA led by JACK DOWNING and GEORGE LEONARD

JACK DOWNING, social psychiatrist associated with the devlopment of community mental health concepts, has pioneered in the application of social psychological theory to public health administration in San Mateo County, California. Drawing on a background of psychotherapy and mental illness epidemiology, his current research integrates elements derived from human potentiality investigation, small group theory and the sociology of deviant groups. Among his publications on utopian groups, is "Zihuatanejo: A Transpersonative Society" in The Utopiates (edited by Richard Blum, Ph.D.).

GEORGE LEONARD is the west coast editor for Look magazine. Through long experience as a Look Senior Editor, he has acquired intimate knowledge of what is being done throughout the United States to develop the full range of human potentialities. He is incorporating this knowledge into a book entitled Education. Mr. Leonard has won more national awards for education reporting than any other writer in the history of magazine journalism, and was one of the originators of Look's Teacher of the Year Award. His vision, energy and understanding have stimulated and encouraged many programs for human betterment.

The aim of this seminar will be to create proposals which may actually be implemented. Dr. Downing will describe five small utopian communities which now exist, their aims, their members, the quality of their life. George Leonard will then discuss imaginative programs being undertaken within larger organizations such as the National Association of Manufacturers and the Office of Education. Seminar participants will then join in a working session to propose measures for the creation of utopian conditions in various phases of contemporary life. It is our hope that ways will be found to make some of these measures effective.

January 7-9 A WEEKEND WITH ABRAHAM MASLOW

ABRAHAM MASLOW is Professor of Psychology at Brandeis University. Educated in many fields of psychology, he has carried out notable animal research and studies of human motivation. Dr. Maslow is the author of Motivation and Personality; Toward a Psychology of Being; Religions, Values and Peak Experiences. His insights and theories have been among the most seminal for a study of further human development. He was one of the first psychologists to study health and personal growth in a sustained way. This pioneering work has encouraged the ever-increasing effort to develop human potentialities.

Discussions with Dr. Maslow of the major themes of his work, such as being vs. deficiency motivation, peak experience, self-actualization, eupsychia and a psychology of health and growth.

January 14-16 THE REALM OF THE UNSPOKEN – THE PHILOSOPHY OF MICHAEL POLANYI

led by RICHARD L. GELWICK

RICHARD L. GELWICK is Visiting Lecturer at the Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley, and managing editor of Humanity. A young theologian, he is a leading authority on the work of Michael Polanyi, having compiled The Collected Articles and Papers of Michael Polanyi and written the first major study of Polanyi's philosophy.

A discussion of the main themes in the philosophy of Michael Polanyi. According to Dr. Gelwick, Polanyi's work has made a whole new understanding out of the ancient insight into the integral relation of body, mind and world. The contribution of the personal, suppressed for centuries by critical philosophy and skepticism, is given new significance. The new directions in understanding human personality started by existentialism and phenomenology are given a comprehensive and practical application in Polanyi's work.

THE BODY

In recent years there has been increasing interest in the body's place in personal growth. In keeping with this interest, we will present a special series of seminars on the body. This series will offer the participants a chance to compare the various approaches of leading workers in this developing field. (See seminars below led by: Alexander Lowen, Mary Whitehouse, Payton Jordan, Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks, Bernard Gunther and Lorle Kranzler.)

January 21-23 THE ROLE OF THE BODY IN PERSONALITY led by ALEXANDER LOWEN

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of the books, Physical Dynamics of Character Structure and Love and Orgasm. Dr. Lowen personally studied with Wilhelm Reich, and for the past 15 years has been the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

The overemphasis on the mind and the ego has blinded people to the fact that personality is determined by unconscious bodily attitudes. This seminar will explore the reasons for the lack of awareness of the body and its tensions. It will examine the ways in which chronic muscle tensions inhibit respiration, restrict motility and structure the personality. It will explain the energy dynamics, origin and meaning of chronic muscular tension, and describe how such tension impedes orgastic potency. The seminar will include demonstrations of bio-energetic techniques used to resolve personality difficulties through the mobilization of body feeling.

An opportunity will be provided for seminar members to experience some of these techniques (participants should bring bathing trunks or leotards). The seminar will conclude with a discussion of the psychoanalytic principles underlying this physical approach to personality.

On Sunday afternoon Dr. Lowen will conduct a special workshop for professional psychotherapists.

The charge for this will be an extra $10.

January 28-30 RAMAKRISHNA, RAMANA, AND KRISHNAMURTI led by ALAN WATTS

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; The Wisdom of Insecurity; Psychotherapy East and West; The Joyous Cosmology and many other writings, has been—along with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern world view.

The astonishing unity-in-variety of Indian spirituality as illustrated in the lives and teachings of three of the greatest Indian sages of modern times. The opposing trends in their doctrines: world-denial vs. world-affirmation, discipline vs. naturalness, method vs. non-method. (No student discount.)

February 4-6 THE SELF AND PHYSICAL MOVEMENT led by MARY WHITEHOUSE

MARY WHITEHOUSE has been a teacher and performer in ballet and modern dance and has studied Analytical Psychology at the Jung Institute in Zurich, Switzerland. From her knowledge of dance and psychology she has developed an integral approach to personal growth. She continues to develop her methods in private practice in Los Angeles and in workshops throughout the United States.

Discovering the physical dynamics of personality structure; releasing the movement impulse and increasing the natural freedom and range of body functioning; movement as a non-verbal experience of feeling and a medium of communication between people; contact and response in a group.
Enrollment for this seminar is limited. No previous dance experience is necessary. Admission is by application to Mary Whitehouse, 921 16th Street, Santa Monica, California (CRestview 1-9790).

February 4-6 WORKSHOP WITH SELF-DIRECTED GROUPS led by BETTY BERZON and LAWRENCE N. SOLOMON

BETTY BERZON, Research Associate of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, is Project Director of the Institute's current study on Self-Directed Therapeutic Groups, under a grant from the U.S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. Miss Berzon's interest in basic encounter groups arose from her experience as a caseworker for the American Red Cross and later as a Probation Officer. For the past five years, she has been carrying out research at the Institute to compare self-directed with professionally-directed groups. The findings that self-directed groups provide rewarding opportunities for constructive change suggest that such groups may be one way of compensating for the increasing shortage of professionally-trained personnel.

Research over the past five years at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute (WBSI) into the functioning of self-directed therapeutic groups has led to the conclusion that the therapeutic experiences of such groups are indistinguishable, in most important ways, from experiences in professionally-directed groups. For the past year, Miss Berzon and Dr. Solomon have been researching the use of "programming" material for the self-directed group, designed to enhance the quality of the group's experiences through carefully planned and pre-tested inputs to the group's activities. Miss Berzon and Dr. Solomon will present films, recorded

LAWRENCE N. SOLOMON, a research psychologist, has recently returned to the staff of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute after a two-year leave of absence in Washington where he served as Executive Director of the American Psychological Association's Committee on Psychology in National and International Affairs. Dr. Solomon combines a background in clinical psychology with research interests ranging from the use of simulations in psychological research on conflict resolution and international tensions, to the feasibility and therapeutic effectiveness of small self-directed groups. Dr. Solomon has been associated with Miss Berzon in the Institute's research on basic encounter groups, and is Co-Director of the current three-year study on the use of self-directed therapeutic groups for the vocationally-handicapped.

INDIVIDUAL APPLICATION OF GESTALT THERAPY led by JAMES S. SIMKIN

JAMES S. SIMKIN is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Los Angeles. He is developing the methods of Gestalt Therapy and trains professional psychotherapists in the use of these methods.

This seminar will stress the individual application of Gestalt Therapy techniques. It will be limited to ten people, each of whom will have an opportunity to experience a 45-minute Gestalt Therapy individual session, with the other nine people as observers. A 15-minute discussion after each individual session will focus on the underlying principles of Gestalt Therapy. Five two-hour seminar meetings are planned beginning Friday evening at 8 p.m. and concluding Sunday at noon.

SOME NEW APPROACHES TO POSITIVE EXPERIENCE led by STEWART B. SHAPIRO

STEWART B. SHAPIRO is a Co-Director of Western Psychological Center, Encino, California. Author of many articles in the fields of psychotherapy and group processes, he is on the faculty of the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration, Behavioral Sciences Department. Among his many interests is the development of his own brand of contemporay eclecticism which synthesizes some of the work of Frederick Perls, Eric Berne, Abraham Maslow, Carl Rogers and others. Along with James V. Clark and others at UCLA, Dr. Shapiro has been conducting advanced sensitivity training for married couples and plans to expand to total family sensitivity training.

Dr. Shapiro will focus on three inter-related areas reflected in his writings: explorations in positive experience; patient wisdom (an anthology of creative insights in psychotherapy); and the development of ego-integration, with the help of a special role-playing technique called the inner dialogue (learning to talk to one's selves). Lecturettes, demonstrations and individual contact with Dr. Shapiro will be available, but secondary to the basic encounter group format.

BODILY RELEASE THROUGH SPORTS led by PAYTON JORDAN and THOMAS TUTKO

PAYTON JORDAN is Director of Track, Stanford University, and coach of the U.S. Olympic Track Team. His approach to coaching is one of the most sophisticated and effective in the world, incorporating an appreciation of each athlete's psychodynamics and physique. His theories and methods have resulted in many world records and outstanding performances.

THOMAS TUTKO is a psychologist at San Jose State College. He has worked with Payton Jordan with the Stanford Track Team during the past few years, using psychological testing, interviews and group encounters to deepen the athlete's understanding of himself.

Payton Jordan will describe his methods for educating the athlete to release his body's enormous potential. These methods include the cultivation of a highly positive and open philosophy of life, an increasing insight into one's own psychodynamics, and the development of sensitivity to one's own physical rhythms. Assisted by Dr. Tutko, Mr. Jordan will illustrate his techniques with descriptions of various athletes and specific sporting events. It is hoped that all participants will gain insights into their own functioning from these discussions.

A WEEKEND WITH IRA PROGOFF

IRA PROGOFF is a clinical psychologist in private practice in New York. He is the author of The Death and Rebirth of Psychology, Depth Psychology and Modern Man, The Symbolic and the Real. In his practice and writing he has developed several important themes, notably, the unique character of each person's development, the Jungian concept of synchronicity and the natural emergence of full awareness.

Dr. Progoff will describe the basic concepts of Holistic Depth Psychology and demonstrate their use in enlarging the capacities of modern personality. The guiding conception is that psychotherapy can fulfill its medical task of healing only when it provides a way for individual experiences of spiritual realization. This seminar-workshop will attempt just such an evocation of the participants' personal depths through various methods which Dr. Progoff has developed. In the course of these sessions, Dr. Progoff will present and expand the theme of his conference of The Dialectic of the Creative Psyche given at the Eranos Tagung in Ascona, Switzerland, this past summer.

SYNANON WAYS OF GROWTH led by CHARLES DEDERICH

CHARLES DEDERICH is the founder and president of Synanon Foundation, Inc., the highly effective organization devoted to the cure of drug addiction. Synanon is now giving ever-greater emphasis to the development of human potentialities in all sorts of persons, whether former drug addicts or "squares." They are building an entire community at Tomales Bay. The outcomes of their efforts should do much to illuminate the possibilities for more healthy and dynamic community living.

A workshop with methods for personal development derived from the Synanon program. These methods include the Synanon games, cerebrations and dissipations.

April 1-8 A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP: NON-VERBAL EXPERIENCE AND COMMUNICATION led by CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are on the staff of the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception & Relating. They also hold regular classes in New York, Northern and Southern California. The approach they use was originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany; this approach has been further developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration.

April 1-3 Weekend seminar
April 3-8 Five-day workshop

Most human activities are forms of non-verbal communication, from simple touch, motion and gesture, to complex relationships in work, artistic creation, friendship and love. The overemphasis on verbalization, both outward speech and inward thought, conceals the rich and unfamiliar world of non-verbal experience. Experiencing and relating are deepest when the organism can receive as well as give to its full capacity. This capacity can be encouraged to unfold through the practice of inner quiet, the unforced use of our inner and outer senses, and the awakening and freeing of all our tissues for sensitive and spontaneous movement—in a work somewhat resembling the Chinese Taoist attitude of intellectual silence, non-clinging, ever-renewed contact, and living more fully in the reality of the moment. The seminar and workshop will be integrated to form one total experience. However, it will be possible to attend either one separately. The workshop will begin with dinner on Sunday, April 3, and end with lunch on Friday, April 8.

April 3-5 CREATIVITY TRAINING WORKSHOP FOR TEACHERS led by GEORGE I. BROWN

GEORGE I. BROWN is Associate Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. During the past two years he has conducted a pioneering project to develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students. This program is presently being expanded to include other districts in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. He has invented a new method for teaching creativity, involving the development of a "creative sub-self;" this method is currently being used in his project with school teachers and is described in a forthcoming book, Ways of Growth (edited by Michael Murphy and Herbert A. Otto).

By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, a special course will be offered for credit, "Development of Creativity in Teaching and Thinking"—x313.52. This workshop will focus primarily on techniques for developing creativity. Emotional and philosophical dimensions of creativity will be discussed. Then, approaches such as "the creative sub-self" will be introduced and practiced; these techniques have been designed to stimulate divergent thinking and more open behavioral systems in both individuals and groups. Throughout the workshop, all participants will be encouraged to develop their own new strategies for the enhancement of creativity in the classroom.
One unit of professional credit will be offered.
Limited to an enrollment of 30.
The workshop begins with dinner on Sunday, April 3, and ends with lunch on Tuesday, April 5.

April 8-10 THE EMERGENT GROUP led by JACK and LORRAINE GIBB

JACK AND LORRAINE GIBB have developed their theory together – working as an emergent married group – and will soon publish the results of their research in a book tentatively entitled, The Emergent Group: A Study of Trust and Freedom. Jack Gibb is now a Resident Fellow and Lorraine Gibb a Research Associate at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California. They have pioneered in the development of leaderless groups and have worked in a wide variety of organizational settings, including the National Training Laboratories, the Office of Naval Research, the YMCA and various industrial corporations.

Dr. and Mrs. Gibb will present a theory of emergent group development that grew from ten years of research which they conducted in educational, industrial, government, and family groups and institutions. They will demonstrate some training methods that derive from this theory. There will be lectures and group experiences to suggest how the theory might be applied to the family and home, the business situation, the classroom, the organization. Emergent groups, as described by the Gibbs, are different in some ways from most "basic encounter" or "T" groups; these differences will be discussed during the seminar.

April 15-17 STATUS AS AN EVIL MOTIVE led by JOE K. ADAMS

JOE K. ADAMS was Chairman of the Department of Psychology at Bryn Mawr College, the author of a textbook on psychological statistics, and both a research and clinical psychologist. He now spends most of his time integrating his published and unpublished articles, some of which he refers to as "rock and roll psychology," into a book length manuscript. He believes that a "breakthrough" in growth and mental health could come through an educational program, carried out largely via the mass media.

For thousands of years desire for status has been a dominant motive in Western civilization, though it has often assumed disguised forms. A theory of status, supported by historical and contemporary data, will be advanced to show that this motive has done more harm than even money or power motives. Constructive steps to destroy status motivation will be suggested (a calypso dance will be performed by the leader).

April 17-22 INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY led by VIRGINIA SATIR

VIRGINIA SATIR is Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. She has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in Europe and Israel. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities. She will direct the Esalen Residential Program which begins in the fall of 1966.

A short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment. Participants in these sessions must have had some experience as family therapists. For further information, write Virginia Satir, 777 Bryant Street, Palo Alto, California. The Institute begins with dinner on Sunday, April 17, and ends with lunch on Friday, April 22.

$170 per person, double $190 single

April 22-24 AN ENCOUNTER GROUP FOR FAMILIES led by JAMES V. CLARK and VIRGINIA SATIR

JAMES V. CLARK, Professor at the Graduate School of Business Administration, UCLA, is a sensitivity trainer and an innovator with small group methods for personal growth. He has a special interest in the religious dimensions of the small group experience.

A basic encounter group for several families, including husband, wife and children, combining the perspectives of sensitivity training and conjoint family therapy. Special rates will be offered. Contact Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs.

May 6-8 THE POTENTIALITY FOR WHOLENESS led by WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is a leading group dynamics theorist, researcher and trainer, known for the theory described in his book, FIRO: A Three-Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior. He has introduced new T-group methods and has researched their effectiveness in various organizational settings. He is now exploring other dimensions of personal and group development, including inner imagery process and the physical dynamics of personality structure. He is a pioneer in the multi-dimensional and integral approach to personal becoming which, we at Esalen believe, will soon be fundamental to therapy and education.

An advanced experiential workshop combining T-group, inner imagery methods, and work with the body.

May 13-15 EXPLORATION INTO GOD led by BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE, San Francisco, and BISHOP JOHN ROBINSON, Woolwich, London

BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE, of the Episcopal Diocese of California, has been a leading advocate of reform in many areas of Christian practice. He has encouraged new liturgical forms, courageous social action, and a creative rethinking of Christian theology. His writings include A Time for Christian Candor and many other books.

BISHOP JOHN ROBINSON is the Suffragan Bishop of Woolwich. He became world-famous for his book, Honest to God, in which he vigorously questioned many of the basic assumptions of contemporary Christian faith.

An examination of the new theology which Bishops Pike and Robinson are helping to create. Through the winter and spring of 1965-66, they are working in England with other theologians to reexamine and renew the basic structure of Christian thought. This seminar will present some of the outcomes of their work together.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of weekend seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. Plans are now being developed for a Residential Program to begin in the fall of 1966 at Big Sur Hot Springs. This program will encourage an intensive study of those means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awareness and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education. A research program will be run concurrently to study the effectiveness of such programs for human development.

Summer 1966 — Big Sur Hot Springs

April 29-May 1 SIDNEY JOURARD IN RESIDENCE conducting informal classes and consultations

May 1-6 Weekend Seminar

May 6-June 15 Workshop

SIDNEY JOURARD, Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, is well known for his extensive research on self-disclosure. He has been concerned with the depersonalizing effect of psychological research upon its subjects. With this concern and his interest in human spirit and growth, he has encouraged the development of a more humanistic psychology in the United States. He is the author of Personal Adjustment and The Transparent Self.

The central themes of the seminar will be personal encounter and authentic dialogue, described by Dr. Jourard as "the original psychedelic experiences." The seminar will be devoted to discussions of dialogue, one's personal capacity for it, its conditions and consequences (which include self-transcendence and altered perception of the world).

$59 per person, double; $67 single

The workshop will offer the participants an opportunity for the experience of dialogue, the experience of a "third" or intruder, and the sharing in a group of the findings. People will pair off, to discover through living it what their personal limits are to unfolding dialogue, what in the other they can confirm, and what they can disclose to the other. $140 per person, double; $160 single

May 27-29 MAN IN CONFRONTATION WITH NATURE led by GERARD V. HAIGH and WILLIAM ZIELONKA

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practising psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and University of California, Los Angeles. He brings a life-long interest in nature to his work with basic encounter groups. This program's spark ignited while he was doing human relations training for the Peace Corps and for VISTA on Apache and Pima reservations in Arizona.

WILLIAM ZIELONKA is a psychotherapist interested in the emotional interchange between people. He is exploring this area in industry, the creative arts, with parents and their children. He is a psychoanalyst and has studied with Robert Lindner and Theodore Reik. He is a partner at Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles.

Our civilization interposes massive technology between the individual and the natural world. Our educational system reinforces this split by emphasizing conceptualization and verbal skill rather than the sensory and feeling aspects of personal functioning.

In this workshop we will attempt to penetrate our own layers of arrogance, indifference and insensitivity. In making contact with the soil, the sea, the forest and sky, we will try to regain contact with our own primitive reactions to these elements. Most of the program will be held out of doors among the redwoods and by the seashore. It will include an all-night vigil in the woods and various sensory experiments. The focus throughout will be on expanding awareness of self in relation to nature. (Participants should bring sleeping bags and flashlights.)

THE SELF AND PHYSICAL MOVEMENT led by MARY WHITEHOUSE

MARY WHITEHOUSE has been a teacher and performer in ballet and modern dance and has studied Analytical Psychology at the Jung Institute in Zurich, Switzerland. From her knowledge of dance and psychology she has developed an integral approach to personal growth. She continues to develop her methods in private practice in Los Angeles and in workshops throughout the United States.

Discovering the physical dynamics of personality structure; releasing the movement impulse and increasing the natural freedom and range of body functioning; movement as a non-verbal experience of feeling and a medium of communication between people; contact and response in a group.

Enrollment for this seminar is limited. No previous dance experience is necessary. All applicants will please include a statement describing their professional or personal interest in this area and any experience they have had with it.

BEING IN THE WAY led by ALAN WATTS

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; The Wisdom of Insecurity; Psychotherapy East and West; The Joyous Cosmology, and many other writings, has been—along with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern world view.

To be "in the way" means both to be an obstacle and to be in the flow of life, in the Tao or the Course of Nature. The transformation of the first into the second according to Zen and Taoist ways of "letting it happen" will be the theme of the seminar.

TRANSACTIONAL ANALYSIS led by ROBERT GOULDING

ROBERT GOULDING is a psychiatrist in private practice in Carmel and co-founder of the Carmel Transactional Analysis Institute. He is a long-time co-worker with Eric Berne, the founder of Transactional Analysis. He has taught the principles of this therapeutic approach at state and veterans administration hospitals, at welfare and correctional facilities in California and in various private seminars.

This workshop will combine didactic and experiential sessions. Special emphasis will be given to applying the principles of Transactional Analysis to educators and laymen. Much of the material covered by Eric Berne in Games People Play will be explored.

June 17-19 IS THE NEW THEOLOGY UNITARIAN? led by BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE and WALTER DONALD KRING

BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE, of the Episcopal Diocese of California, has been a leading advocate of reform in many areas of Christian practice. He has encouraged new liturgical forms, courageous social action and a creative rethinking of Christian theology. His writings include Beyond Anxiety, A Time for Christian Candor and What is This Treasure?

WALTER DONALD KRING is Minister of The Unitarian Church of All Souls in New York City. He is one of the best known articulators of Unitarian thought and author of Religion is the Search for Meaning and Across the Abyss to God. He is especially interested in psychology and psychiatry and is a Director of the William Alanson White Institute in New York City. He is also a prize-winning ceramist.

In this seminar Bishop Pike will continue his explorations into the new theology which he has been studying with Bishop John Robinson and others during the past year in Cambridge, England. He will join with Dr. Kring, a leading exponent of Unitarian thought, to explore the common ground between Unitarian views and the new theology.

June 17-19 A WEEKEND WITH ALBERT ELLIS

June 19-22 WORKSHOP led by ALBERT ELLIS

The seminar will consist of three sections, each introduced by a presentation by Dr. Ellis, followed by discussion: 1) Recent Developments in Rational-Emotive Psychotherapy; 2) A New Form of Psychotherapy, combining the advantages of individual and group therapy; 3) New Aspects of the American Sex Revolution. In addition to lectures by Dr. Ellis and discussion of the points to be presented, there will be opportunity for the participants to bring up personal viewpoints and problems.

$59 per person, double; $67 single

ALBERT ELLIS is the originator of rational-emotive psychotherapy and Executive Director of the Institute for Rational Living, a training and educational center. He is well known for his writings on sex, love and marriage relations and is a busy practitioner of individual and group psychotherapy and marriage and family counseling. He is the author of many articles and books, including A Guide to Rational Living, Reason and Emotion in Psychotherapy, The Art and Science of Love and Homosexuality: Its Causes and Cure.

The principles of this active-directive method of psychotherapy will be explained and opened up for critical discussion. The workshop will emphasize live material, including recordings of therapeutic sessions, demonstration interviews and live group therapy sessions. Participants will be offered a self-helping experience as well as an opportunity to learn the essentials of this therapeutic technique.

EDUCATION IN THE YEAR 2000 led by RICHARD E. FARSON, GEORGE B. LEONARD and J. RICHARD SUCHMAN

RICHARD E. FARSON is Director and a principal founder of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in La Jolla. This Institute is one of the most creative pioneering organizations in the behavioral sciences, perhaps because it is free of other institutional ties. It has incorporated into its structure the best insights of psychology and organization research. Its chief activities include the study of basic encounter groups (including self-directed groups), the development of Inter-Nation Simulation games for the understanding of international tensions and the use of these simulations as educational tools. Dr. Farson is deeply interested in the problem of mental health in the community at large and in the application of small-group methods to education. He is editor of the recently published book, Science and Human Affairs.

GEORGE B. LEONARD, west coast editor for Look magazine, has acquired intimate knowledge of what is being done throughout the nation to develop the full range of human potentialities. He is incorporating this knowledge in a book, Education. He has won more national awards for education reporting than any other writer, and was an originator of Look's Teacher of the Year Award. His vision, energy and understanding stimulate many programs for human betterment. This seminar's title is from his widely-quoted speech to planners and educators of Litchfield Park, Arizona, in which he made many proposals for the innovative educational system being developed there.

J. RICHARD SUCHMAN is Acting Director for the Divisions of Elementary-Secondary Research and Higher Education Research in the U. S. Office of Education. He is also Professor of Elementary Education, currently on leave from the University of Illinois. Dr. Suchman's major interest has been children's thinking, with a special emphasis on the process of inquiry. He is widely known for the methods he has developed for stimulating and training the inquiry process in children. He is the author of Observation and Analysis in Child Development.

Both dissatisfaction with and hope for education in the United States seem to be growing. This seminar will look at the shortcomings of American education and then explore measures which would help make it more vital and creative. These will include proposals both for the immediate and distant future. There will be sessions to demonstrate some innovative methods which are presently being developed. Dr. Farson will discuss and demonstrate the application of small group methods to education, Dr. Suchman will explain the Inquiry Training which he originated and George Leonard will introduce a wide range of new educational methods in which he has become interested.

A SELF-EXPLORATION GROUP led by GERALD GOODMAN

GERALD GOODMAN is Director of the Interpersonal Relations Project, University of California, Berkeley. Dr. Goodman has done original research on self-disclosure. His Interpersonal Relations Project is exploring new ways of assessing college students' potentialities as therapists. He is interested in the "grass roots" small group movement, in the possibility of developing children as therapists, and in other such adventurous enterprises.

The leader wishes to meet with people who are willing to experiment with group processes for personal or professional reasons. A small but balanced group of men and women in and out of the helping professions will be selected. The sessions will begin with a structured technique for facilitating rapid group acquaintance. Then the group will determine its own course, with a focus on brainstorming and experiencing the therapeutics of self-disclosure, secrets, risk-taking and intimacy. Explorations by workers in this new area will be reviewed. Some questions may be sharpened but few will be answered. Limit: 15 persons. Applicants should state their occupation.

AN INTRODUCTION TO INNOVATION IN EDUCATION led by DAVID W. ERSKINE

DAVID W. ERSKINE has been a teacher for nine years, an administrator for seven and is now principal of the Carmel River School which is currently moving into a nongraded, team-teaching pattern of organization.

What is innovation? What do we know about it? How does a teacher, principal or supervisor go about it? This workshop will explore these questions and the roles educators play as "change agents" and "targets" in our educational establishment. It is especially recommended for members of faculty teams. Enrollment is limited to fifteen. By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, this seminar will be offered for one unit of professional credit.

EXPLORING THE INNER WORLD — FROM ANALYSIS TO SYNTHESIS led by ROBERT GERARD

ROBERT GERARD, Clinical Psychologist, has been engaged in such diverse occupations as motion picture writer and producer in Europe and Hollywood and behavioral scientist in charge of the Psychophysiological Research Laboratory at the Veterans' Administration Neuropsychiatric Hospital in Los Angeles. Dr. Gerard is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles, and is the president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis. He is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth. Dr. Gerard combines in his work a wide knowledge of Eastern philosophy with modern scientific psychology. He is a life member of the New York Academy of Sciences and a pioneer in the development of new therapeutic techniques involving the use of inner imagery, symbolic visualization and creative meditation.

The goal of psychosynthesis is the integration, unification and balanced expression of the totality of our human nature—physical, emotional, mental and spiritual. In this experiential workshop, participants will combine analysis aimed at developing psychological insight with a series of techniques specifically furthering the process of synthesis. These include the creative use of imagination, meditation and intuition, leading to the evocation of the inner wisdom, purpose and direction of the deeper self. The primary emphasis will be on the participants' experience with these various techniques.

TOWARD A WIDER MEANING IN MARRIAGE led by GERALD and SALLY SMITH and BERNARD GUNTHER

GERALD SMITH is a marriage counselor and family therapist in Burlingame, California, and a consultant in Marriage Counseling and Family Life Education, San Mateo County Mental Health Services. He is also a member of the intensive training group in family therapy at the Mental Research Institute in Palo Alto.

SALLY SMITH is a mother, homemaker and graduate student in social welfare at the University of California, Berkeley.

BERNARD GUNTHER is a specialist in sensory awakening and is in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs.

One measure of a marriage relationship is the variety and intensity of feelings a couple can risk expressing to each other. This group will offer an opportunity to explore a greater variety and intensity of feelings within a relationship. The emphasis throughout will be on experience rather than talk about the relationship. Sensory awakening experiments, role playing and art expression will be used frequently. Limited to 12 couples.

WORKSHOP WITH SELF-DIRECTED GROUPS led by BETTY BERZON and LAWRENCE N. SOLOMON

BETTY BERZON, Research Associate of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, is Project Director of the Institute's current study on Self-Directed Therapeutic Groups. For the past five years, she has been carrying out research at the Institute to compare self-directed with professionally-directed groups. The findings that self-directed groups provide rewarding opportunities for constructive change suggest that such groups may be one way of compensating for the shortage of professionally-trained personnel.

LAWRENCE N. SOLOMON is a Research Associate of WBSI. He combines a background in clinical psychology with research interests ranging from the use of simulations in psychological research on conflict resolution and international tensions to the feasibility and therapeutic effectiveness of small self-directed groups. Dr. Solomon has been associated with Miss Berzon in the Institute's research on basic encounter groups.

Research over the past five years at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute (WBSI) into the functioning of self-directed therapeutic groups has led to the conclusion that the therapeutic experiences of such groups are indistinguishable, in important ways, from experiences in professionally-directed groups. For the past year, Miss Berzon and Dr. Solomon have been researching the use of "programming" material for the self-directed group, designed to enhance the quality of the group's experiences through carefully planned and pre-tested inputs to the group's activities. Miss Berzon and Dr. Solomon will present films, recorded excerpts of self-directed groups and research findings. In addition, participants will meet in self-directed small groups using a set of experimental group-structuring procedures developed at WBSI expressly for the Esalen Institute.

THE ADOLESCENT AND THE ADULT led by EUGENE SAGAN and JUANITA BRADSHAW

EUGENE SAGAN, psychotherapist, is experimenting widely with various innovative approaches to personal growth. In his work he combines a variety of methods derived from psychotherapy, educational practice and the arts. Together, he and Mrs. Bradshaw have founded the Institute for Creative and Artistic Development in Berkeley.

JUANITA BRADSHAW has taught in public schools. She is now in private practice as a teacher of creative behavior. At the Institute for Creative and Artistic Development, a marriage of the fields of education and psychotherapy has developed an integrated growth program stressing movement, art and theater experiences.

The adolescent tries to gain a sense of who he is and what the world is like. Often he does not succeed. The parent feels guilty and inadequate or blames his child. Recent work at the Institute for Creative and Artistic Development suggests that the isolated family is not an adequate social structure to provide the rich environment the adolescent and parent need to make this period a rewarding growth experience. Through the use of encounter and creative behavior groups the adolescent can learn to understand and communicate with adults and his parents, developing skills and awareness necessary for maturity. While this workshop is primarily designed to develop the potential of the adolescent-parent relationship, adolescents without adults will be admitted, and vice versa. Professional people who work with adolescents will also be admitted.

WOMAN OF THE DUNES, RASHOMON AND NOT TO HAVE LIVED: A WEEKEND SEMINAR led by ROBERT ANDERSON and FREDERICK S. PERLS

ROBERT ANDERSON has produced more than 60 documentary films for KRON-TV in San Francisco. Among them have been studies of sociological and environmental subjects, such as urban blight and minority groups, and psychological studies such as Not to Have Lived, a study of automatized living, and Homosexual. He has brought cinema verité and other "New Wave" techniques to television, winning critical acclaim and several national awards for his work. Among his current projects is a film entitled The Human Frontier, shot on location at the Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs, which utilizes impressionistic film methods to document the expanding potential of the human mind.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, the founder of Gestalt Therapy and author of the book by that name, is now in permanent residence at Big Sur Hot Springs.

These three films will be shown during the seminar. Dr. Perls and Mr. Anderson, film writer, will discuss them from the point of view of depth psychology and from that of the film writer. They will then explore the relevancy of the films to the lives of the seminar participants. These discussions will lead to experiments in individual imagery and role playing around the major themes evoked by the movies.

INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY led by VIRGINIA SATIR

VIRGINIA SATIR is Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. She has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in Europe and Israel. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities. She will direct the Esalen Residential Program which begins in the fall of 1966.

A short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment. Participants in these sessions must have had some experience as family therapists. For further information, write Virginia Satir, 777 Bryant Street, Palo Alto, California.

July 22-24 A CELEBRATION led by STEWART BRAND

Stewart Brand has travelled for two years through Indian reservations to create America Needs Indians, an electronic film and slide projection art form. He conceived and organized the Trips Festival in San Francisco last January and is now creating something called Epic Theater. He is calling this weekend celebration "Closer" because he hopes it is moving in that direction. This is not quite a happening nor theater nor seminar — celebration seems to be the best word for it.

THE NEW MORALITY: SITUATIONAL ETHICS AND "THE NEW THEOLOGY" led by DAVID J. BAAR and ROBERT WARREN CROMEY

DAVID J. BAAR is 29 years old and has been an Episcopal Priest for four years. He is married and has two children. A native Californian, he is a graduate in mathematics from the University of California, Berkeley, and a graduate of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley. He is presently Chaplain to the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike, Bishop of California. The Rev. Baar is author of a course in sex education for high school students and has developed pilot programs in sex education for the Episcopal Church. He has worked actively for several years in CORE and Friends of SNCC groups.

ROBERT WARREN CROMEY is 35 years old and has been an Episcopal Priest for 10 years. He is married and has three children. He has been active in the civil rights movement; marched in Selma; was elected to the Board of the NAACP, San Francisco Branch; was arrested in a sit-in on Auto Row in San Francisco in 1964. The Rev. Cromey is one of the founders of the Council on Religion and the Homosexual. His book on new morality and sex ethics will be published by E. P. Dutton and Company of New York City in the fall of 1966. He is Vicar of St. Aidan's Church in San Francisco. In 1963-65 he was Executive Assistant to The Rt. Rev. James A. Pike.

The seminar will deal particularly with the ethics of sex as conditioned by the decline of religious legal codes, the insights of behavioral science, the theological awakening of our century and the changes in Twentieth Century cultural standards. Discussions will also deal with the ethics and subsequent attitudes toward child development and creativity, pre-marital and extra-marital sexual encounter, homosexuality, and single standard ethics for men and women.

A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP: EDUCATION AND THE DIMENSIONS OF CONSCIOUSNESS led by ROLLO MAY

Weekend seminar
Five-day workshop

ROLLO MAY is Training and Supervisory Analyst at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis and Psychology. Among his books are The Meaning of Anxiety, Man's Search for Himself, Existence: A New Dimension of Psychology and Psychiatry, and Symbols in Religion and Literature. Two other seminal books by Dr. May will be published in the fall of 1966.

This seminar and workshop will study phenomenology as it throws light on education and inner resources. (Education here refers not only to groups but to the re-education of the individual in psychoanalysis and other forms of therapy.) Phenomenology is the science which begins not with impersonal objects but with acts of consciousness, and endeavors to discover objective reality by the deepening and enlarging of subjective reality.

The meaning of myths and symbols as the language emerging from these deeper levels of consciousness will also be explored.

Such an emphasis in education is especially urgent today because individuals and groups tend to be pushed by impersonal forces while the world becomes more dangerous due to technological advance. In such a world inner resources such as imagination, intentionality and the capacity for decision must be developed.

The workshop will expand and develop the themes introduced during the weekend seminar. However, the seminar and workshop may be attended separately.

Workshop: $150 per person, double; $170 single

A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP: SOME FIRST STEPS TOWARD A THEORY FOR ESALEN ACTIVITIES led by ABRAHAM KAPLAN and WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

Aug 12-14 Weekend Seminar

Aug 14-19 Five-day Workshop

Throughout its short history the Esalen Institute has invited a selected group of professionals to conduct workshops. The areas covered are highly varied yet represent a relatively consistent view of life. The psychology has generally taken the humanistic, organic approach represented by people such as Maslow, Rogers, May, Murphy and Perls. The philosophy finds new meaning for our time in existentialism, Zen and other types of Eastern philosophy. The workshops have emphasized creative aspects of human life, such as fantasy, body awareness and self-expression. The pivotal activity of the Institute has been a variety of experiential approaches in which participants engage these philosophical approaches to man.

Drs. Kaplan and Schutz will explore the possibility of applying some historical perspectives and theoretical structures to these activities in the hopes of developing a comprehensive and consistent framework. Participants are invited to offer ideas of their own.

Following the weekend of philosophical and theoretical exploration, an experiential five-day workshop will be conducted by Drs. Kaplan and Schutz. This workshop will attempt to put into practice the concepts discussed on the weekend including techniques for developing fantasy, body awareness, interpersonal encounter and other training methods that may grow out of the seminar discussion.

The seminar and workshop will be integrated to form one total experience. However, it will be possible to attend either one separately.

Seminar: $ 59 per person, double; $ 67 single Workshop: $150 per person, double; $170 single ABRAHAM KAPLAN is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan and was formerly Chairman, Department of Philosophy, University of California at Los Angeles. He has also taught at Harvard, Columbia and New York University; has been the recipient of Guggenheim and Rockefeller fellowships, a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences (Palo Alto) and at the Center for Advanced Studies at Wesleyan University (Connecticut). He is the author of Power and Society, The New World of Philosophy, American Ethics and Public Policy, The Conduct of Inquiry and numerous articles in professional and other journals. Professor Kaplan is especially interested in logic and scientific methodology, and in Oriental philosophy. In the past few years he has become interested in the encounter or T-group both from the standpoint of practice and theory.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is a leading group dynamics theorist, researcher and trainer, known for the theory described in his book, FIRO: A Three-Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior. He has introduced new T-group methods and has researched their effectiveness in various organizational settings. He is now exploring other dimensions of personal and group development, including inner imagery process and the physical dynamics of personality structure. He is a pioneer in the multi-dimensional and integral approach to personal becoming which, we at Esalen believe, will soon be fundamental to therapy and education.

August 19-21

MEDITATION led by ARTHUR J. DEIKMAN, EDWARD MAUPIN and ROBERT E. MOGAR

ARTHUR J. DEIKMAN, M.D., is Research Associate at the Austen Riggs Center, Stockbridge, Massachusetts. His time is divided between research and the private practice of psychiatry. For the past four years he has been conducting a laboratory investigation of meditation and mystic experience. He published an article on experimental meditation in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease.

EDWARD MAUPIN is Assistant Professor of Medical Psychology, Department of Psychiatry, University of California at Los Angeles. He has conducted research into personality factors involved in meditation, which he views as an important facilitator for personal growth. He has published articles on meditation and Zen Buddhism in the Journal of Consulting Psychology and the Psychedelic Review.

This seminar will survey the history and methods of meditation, together with recent psychological research on the subject. Discussion will be supplemented by guided practice of various techniques to enable participants to explore meditative experience for themselves.

$59 per person, double; $67 single

ROBERT E. MOGAR is Associate Professor and Director of the Institute of Psychedelic Research at San Francisco State College. A frequent contributor to psychological journals, his current research involves the effects of psychedelic drugs on learning, perception and personality, and their potential for enhancing creative performance. His major interest is in discovering and cultivating those qualities common to psychedelic, hypnotic, mystical and meditative states.

August 21-26

DIMENSIONS OF OPERATIONAL CREATIVITY led by GEORGE I. BROWN

GEORGE I. BROWN is Associate Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. During the past two years he has conducted a pioneering project to develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students. This program is presently being expanded to include other districts in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. He has invented a new method for teaching creativity, involving the development of a "creative sub-self"; this method is currently being used in his project with school teachers and is described in a forthcoming book, Ways of Growth (edited by Michael Murphy and Herbert A. Otto).

This workshop will focus primarily on techniques for developing creativity: on the prelogical intuitive processes and affective domain, and their implications for personal, professional and occupational creative problem-solving. Participants will be encouraged to examine the creative process at both intellectual and emotional levels. General approaches as well as specific techniques for the encouragement of divergent thinking and open behavioral systems will be utilized in a context which Dr. Brown terms "operational creativity." Throughout the workshop, participants will be encouraged to develop their own strategies for the enhancement of creativity. By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, one unit of professional credit will be offered: course no. x313.52.
Limited to an enrollment of 30.

$140 per person, double; $160 single

IDA ROLF will be in residence during June and July working primarily with the participants in Dr. Perls' workshops. Dr. Rolf's work, called structural integration, is a system of deep muscular-fascial restructuring of the body. This method facilitates physical and psychological balance and well-being.

BERNARD GUNTHER will be in residence conducting classes in physical resensitization. He is also available, by appointment, to teach individuals and groups his new approach to massage.

GIA-FU FENG will be in residence conducting classes in Tai Chi Chuan (meditation-in-action) and calligraphy.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, the founder of Gestalt Therapy, will conduct workshops on the following dates:

FIVE-DAY WORKSHOPS
May 29-June 3
(with Dr. Ida Rolf

June 5-10

A MONTH-LONG WORKSHOP primarily for professional psychotherapists (a few lay people will be admitted)
July 3-31
(with Dr. Ida Rolf and Bernard Gunther)

WEEKEND SEMINARS
June 3-5
August 26-28

THREE 5-DAY WORKSHOPS limited to professional participants

August 7-12
August 14-19 } (co-led by Dr.
August 21-26 } James S. Simkin)

COSTS Costs cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the hot mineral baths and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan and sensory awakening. Tips for restaurant and cabin personnel are also covered. A new approach to massage, available by appointment, is extra.

Weekend seminars begin with dinner on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. The amount listed "double" is a per person cost; the amount listed for single is also a per person cost. "Double" means double occupancy (two to a cabin).

All seminars and workshops begin with dinner, followed by an informal session the first evening at 9:00 (unless otherwise stated), and end with lunch on the last day.

STUDENT RATES for Student Body Card Holders: $15 discount on weekend seminars, unless otherwise noted.

ACCOMMODATIONS Accommodations are possible at Big Sur Hot Springs, South Coast Motel (AAA, $2.50 per day per person extra, 2 miles north), Redwood Lodge (15 miles north), Glen Oaks Motel (15 miles north), or at any of several campgrounds or other motels.

RESERVATIONS Must be made one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. A non-refundable deposit of $10 is required. Write Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California 93920; phone Big Sur 2634.

LOCATION Big Sur Hot Springs is located on Coast Highway One, 45 miles south of Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe. It is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on road maps as "Slates Hot Springs."

DRESS Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits.

SPECIAL INFORMATION University Extension credits from the University of California at Santa Barbara will be given for some of these programs. For more specific information, write Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs.

Contributions to the Esalen Institute are tax deductible.

Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some of these seminars.

Radio station KXKX-FM in San Francisco (88.5 meg.) broadcasts portions of the Esalen Institute seminars every Wednesday evening from 8:30 to 9:30. KXKX provides a program guide for those who are interested.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of weekend seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. Plans are now being developed for a Residential Program to begin in the fall of 1966 at Big Sur Hot Springs. This program will encourage an intensive study of those means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awareness and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education. A research program will be run concurrently to study the effectiveness of such programs for human development.

Esalen Institute Seminars

Fall 1966

People can change. Their institutions can change.
Whole societies can change.
All can change for the better, not just superficially, but deep down.
To these truths—
often obscured behind the complexities and disappointments of the times—Esalen Institute dedicates this program of seminars and workshops.

FROM DREAM TO REALITY: A CALL TO ACTION
LED BY
GEORGE B. LEONARD, JAMES FADIMAN AND MICHAEL MURPHY

The era of the human potential is already upon us. All of us—aware of it or not—have roles to play in a human drama involving basic shifts in the aims and expectations of life on this planet. The seminar leaders will celebrate the new era, make explicit the hopeful and ever-evolving goals of Esalen Institute and engage in dialogue with seminar participants about the part that each can play in changing the world.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

GEORGE B. LEONARD, west coast editor for Look magazine, has acquired intimate knowledge of what is being done throughout the nation to develop the full range of human capabilities, and is incorporating this knowledge in a book, Education. He has won more national awards for education reporting than any other writer. His vision, energy and understanding have stimulated and helped to direct many programs for human betterment.

JAMES FADIMAN is an Associate with Snowden, Sullivan and Goodwin, psychological consultants to management. He was formerly Assistant Professor of Psychology at San Francisco State College. His special interest is in the psychology of awareness and personal growth.

MICHAEL MURPHY is President and co-founder of the Esalen Institute.

September 3-4
TWO CONCERTS WITH USTAD ALI AKBAR KAHN

Saturday evening, September 3, 8:30
Sunday afternoon, September 4, 2:00

Ali Akbar Kahn is regarded by many as India's greatest musician. His instrument is the sarode. He comes to the United States under the auspices of The American Society for Eastern Arts.

CRAFT WORKSHOP

September 5-9
DOWN HOME WITH STAFF MEMBERS OF BIG SUR
HOT SPRINGS

In response to many requests from seminar participants at Esalen Institute, staff members of Big Sur Hot Springs (most of whom, in addition to their various operational functions, are craftsmen and artists in their own right) will lead a craft workshop. Facilities and instruction will be available in pottery, weaving, jewelry, metal sculpture and enameling. An informal approach, including some discussion, will provide an opportunity for participants to explore the possibilities discovered in direct experience with the creative process.

$96 per person, double; $112 single.

KARL LEE is a potter, printmaker and sometime breakfast cook. He has taught privately in Los Angeles, and is now in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. He will emphasize the use of texture, design and form, applied to the basic handbuilding methods, and demonstrate his "Exploded Form" technique, also known as the "Lost Pot" method.

MARYA BYRON is a weaver. She has been working for the past year with natural dyes obtained from native plants. Her work will consist chiefly of tapestry on small, handmade looms.

JAMES SELLERS will work around a concept he calls "Three-Dimensional Drawing", in a variety of metals. In addition to jewelry and sculpture, he is well known on the west coast as a sandalmaker.

J. EDWARD TAYLOR is a musician and baker. He will work with those interested in the art of baking.

PETER MELCHIOR will explore the translation of certain ideas gained while working with watercolors to the medium of enamels on metal.

GIA-FU FENG specializes in Tai Chi Chuan (meditation-in-action) and calligraphy.

In 1962, Jim Sellers and Peter Melchior, together with other local craftsmen, formed the "Guild of Hands", opening the first craft shop at Big Sur Hot Springs. The lessons of the years intervening are now being used to develop an Esalen Institute Craft Program.

September 9-11
CONSCIOUSNESS BEYOND SYMBOLS
LED BY ALAN WATTS

Ways in which the cultures of Asia have explored levels of consciousness beyond the named and noticed world of things and events which we call everyday reality. The specific methods of exploration and the types of experience discovered, illustrated with color slides, and compared with recent knowledge about the physiology and psychology of perception.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; and many other writings, has been—with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern world view.

September 16-18
A WEEKEND WITH ABRAHAM MASLOW

Among those who have strongly influenced the outlook and spirit of Esalen Institute is Abraham Maslow. Years ago, Professor Maslow hit upon the simple and brilliant idea of studying, not sickness, but health in human personality. While others gave new names to pathologies that diminish man, he discovered and celebrated forces that liberate the human spirit. While others stressed the destructive and the "normal," he showed how to explore the peaks of experience. His work informs and inspires all who would raise the ceiling of human possibilities.

At Hot Springs this fall, Professor Maslow will share with seminar participants the key elements of his most recent efforts, including the application of his theories to education.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ABRAHAM MASLOW is Professor of Psychology at Brandeis University. Educated in many fields of psychology, he has carried out notable animal research and studies of human motivation. Dr. Maslow is the author of Motivation and Personality; Toward a Psychology of Being; Religions, Values and Peak Experiences; Eupsychian Management. He was one of the first psychologists to study health and personal growth in a sustained way.

This institute will highlight ways in which each marriage partner can enhance the growth of the self while enhancing the growth of the other. For couples only. Limit: 15 couples.

$240 per couple.

October 16-21
INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

A short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment.

Participants in these sessions must have had some experience as family therapists. Limit: 30.

$170 per person, double; $190 single.

November 6-11
INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

(Same as above)

December 4-9
INSTITUTE ON COMMUNICATION AND SELF CONCEPT

This experiential workshop is open to anyone over the age of 18 who would like to expand his range and knowledge of interaction with others and explore the growth which ensues from such interaction. Limit: 30.

$170 per person, double; $190 single.

VIRGINIA SATIR is Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. She has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in Europe and Israel. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities. She is presently directing the Esalen Residential Program.

September 23-25
DISCOVERING
THE HERE-AND-NOW SELF
LED BY ARTHUR SHEDLIN

These days there is too little silence in our lives. Most of the noise that surrounds us is not cordial to our personal growth. In this workshop we will employ alternate periods of meditation and group encounter for our personal enrichment.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ARTHUR SHEDLIN has been professionally interested in the being and becoming of people, including himself, for the past thirty years. His major modes of expression have been teaching, counseling and consultation in universities (Chicago and UCLA), in foreign lands and in industrial and governmental settings (U.S. and abroad). Since his return from Europe he has been a faculty member of the Behavioral Science area of the Graduate School of Business Administration at UCLA, and is one of the best T-group leaders in captivity.

September 23-25
EXPLORATIONS IN POSITIVE EXPERIENCE
LED BY
STEWART B. SHAPIRO

In the context of basic encounter groups, Dr. Shapiro will demonstrate the ego therapy, experiments in positive experience and "identity training" which he has developed. These approaches include the "inner dialogue" with one's subselves which he has described in his various writings. They also include deliberate techniques for temporarily suspending anxiety, guilt and hostility so that unusual states of positive experience may emerge. Dr. Shapiro encourages participants in these groups to anchor their positive experience with their own symbols such as nature, man, God.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

STEWART B. SHAPIRO is a Co-Director of Western Psychological Center, Encino, California. Author of many articles in the fields of psychotherapy and group processes, he is on the faculty of the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration, Behavioral Sciences Department. Among his many interests is the development of his own brand of contemporary eclecticism which synthesizes some of the work of Frederick Perls, Eric Berne, Abraham Maslow, Carl Rogers and others. With James V. Clark and others at UCLA, Dr. Shapiro has been conducting advanced sensitivity training for married couples and plans to expand to total family sensitivity training.

September 27-30
A WORKSHOP
WITH VIDEO TAPE:
EXPLORATIONS
IN SELF-CONFRONTATION
LED BY
FREDERICK H. STOLLER,
MARGARET ROBINSON AND
H. L. MYERHOFF

Video tape enables the individual to confront himself in action, to clarify attitudes toward himself. A conceptual framework will be developed through discussions of the importance of self-image and role-taking. Examples of reactions to self in intensive groups will be shown. Workshops will then be held in which participants will have opportunities to see themselves in interaction with others via video tape, and to view their own non-verbal interaction, expressive movements and physical contact with others.

$97 per person, double; $109 single.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, clinical psychologist, is a frequent leader of marathon groups and consultant on group approaches in addition to being a Senior Psychologist at Camarillo State Hospital. Dr. Stoller is one of the major innovators of marathon therapy and has pioneered in open group therapy on closed-circuit television. His interest in the utilization of video tape in a group context led to the development of "focused feedback" to extend feedback functions of encounter groups. He has been a consultant to the Institute of Group Therapy in Los Angeles, the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Youth Study Center at the University of Southern California. In addition, he is collaborating on a book on the marathon approach with George Bach and Jack Gibb, tentatively titled The 300 Year Weekend.

MARGARET ROBINSON is currently a psychology associate at Camarillo State Hospital where she is conducting research on video tape feedback while working on her doctoral dissertation at the University of Southern California. Formerly an actress, she is active as a consultant to industry, utilizing her interest in feedback.

H. L. MYERHOFF has conducted research in the development of marathon groups at Camarillo State Hospital where he is a psychology associate. This summer he will be conducting field research in the psychology of the Chontal Indians in the Oaxaca region of Mexico together with his wife who specializes in anthropology. He has also conducted field observations of middle class gangs.

October 2-7
THE TORI PROCESS IN EDUCATION AND MANAGEMENT
LED BY JACK R. GIBB

There are often conflicts and divergent aims between educational methods and management practices within the same organization. The TORI process is designed to reduce such dissonance in the system. This process (which takes its name from psychological factors essential to effective management and education, namely: trust, openness, realization, interdependence) has been developed by Jack and Lorraine Gibb from their research and consulting experience in a wide variety of organizational settings. The process has been demonstrated to be an effective method of changing behavior and management practices in industrial, educational and voluntary organizations.

Enrollment is limited to 27 people who will experience the TORI process of personal education. There will be demonstrations, lectures and group experiences. These will be followed by a specific examination of the application of the method to the participants' own organization.

$150 per person, double; $170 single.

JACK R. GIBB has taught at a number of universities, including Michigan State, University of Colorado and Brigham Young. He is currently a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California. He is co-editor of T-Group Theory and Laboratory Method. He and his wife, Lorraine, will soon publish a book, The Emergent Group: A Study of Trust and Freedom, which will describe in detail the TORI method. The method is a culmination of several years of research sponsored by the Office of Naval Research and of consulting with a variety of organizations. Dr. Gibb has pioneered in the development of leaderless groups and has worked in a wide variety of organizational settings, including the National Training Laboratories, the YMCA and various industrial corporations.

October 7-9
PERSUASION AND MANIPULATION
LED BY ARTHUR HASTINGS

Almost every action we make can be seen as the result of persuasion: getting up in the morning, choosing an occupation, coming to this seminar. Psychotherapy is persuasion, T-groups persuade, and our culture controls us through persuasion. The seminar will first look at open persuasion: speeches, advertising and propaganda. Dr. Hastings will describe findings from his research on communication, belief and behavior. The processes will then be examined in less overt uses: interpersonal relations, therapy, T-groups and social control. The seminar will explore unexpressed value judgments in these uses of persuasion along with ways of freeing ourselves from manipulation.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ARTHUR HASTINGS is an assistant professor of public address at Stanford University. He conducts courses on humor, utopias and other topics in modified T-group style. In his current research he is analyzing relationships between communication and behavior, and investigating the processes of language. An authority on reasoning processes, he is the co-author of Argumentation and Advocacy, and editor of the Macmillan Series in Speech and Communication.

September 30-
October 2
ON PROGRAMMING NON-VERBAL BEHAVIOR: A WEEKEND WITH B. F. SKINNER

In recent years, operant or Skinnerian conditioning — the skillful use of positive reinforcement — has proved out as a fast, effective way of changing human behavior. The method is especially powerful in dealing with those non-verbal aspects of life that have become a particular concern of the Esalen Institute. Already Skinnerian techniques have been used to teach spatial relationships, discrimination of color and musical pitch, visual vigilance and the like. Dr. Joe Kamiya of the University of California Medical Center has trained naive subjects, with operant conditioning, to change their systolic blood pressures and their basic brainwave rhythms. In the latter experiment, Kamiya's subjects seem to be achieving, in a few short sessions, at least a part of the inner control towards which Zen masters strive.

At Hot Springs, Professor Skinner will tell of some of the successful applications of operant conditioning to non-verbal behavior. He will describe its use in gaining self-knowledge and self-control. He will show how understanding societal and family contingencies of reinforcement can help explain the behavior of such geniuses as Ramakrishna and Mozart— and how the present-day Western environment tends to extinguish many rich and divergent classes of behavior. Professor Skinner will then speculate on possible ways, within this society, to devise programs for training people in a wide range of non-verbal activities.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

B. F. SKINNER, Professor of Psychology at Harvard University, is world famous for his development of operant conditioning and the various learning machines which he has invented. He has also become widely known—and notorious in some circles—for his advocacy of a radical application of scientific control to human behavior. He has not been insensitive to his critics, replying to them in many brilliant, highly literate writings. His books include The Behavior of Organisms, Science and Human Behavior and Walden Two, a program for Utopia in novel form.

October 21-23
PSYCHODRAMA AND THE BODY
LED BY
DAVID AND JUNE SCHWARTZ

Psychodrama techniques will be used to explore the meaning for each individual of the physical body, and to discover why bodies sometimes seem to have minds of their own. The goal will be to experience bodies freed from the fantasy of dirt, with the emphasis on play. During the weekend, each participant will be urged to avail himself of a massage from a Hot Springs staff member, and to complete one task for himself—something he "lets" himself do.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

DAVID SCHWARTZ is an administrator in a Pasadena residential treatment center for children and is a student of psychodrama. JUNE SCHWARTZ edits controversial magazines, has worked as a freelance travel writer.

October 28-
November 4
A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP:
BIO-ENERGETIC ANALYSIS
LED BY ALEXANDER LOWEN AND
JOHN C. PIERRAKOS

October 28-30
WEEKEND SEMINAR

A workshop seminar to explore the techniques of Bio-Energetic analysis including the mobilization of breathing to charge the body with feeling, the release of involuntary movement to further the awareness of the body, and the use of expressive movements to discharge emotional tension. Participants will have an opportunity to experience (a) personality difficulties in terms of bodily rigidity; (b) the effect of these techniques in reducing muscular tensions and bodily rigidity. The seminar will include a discussion of the relation between body structure and personality with special emphasis on the inhibition of breathing, the restriction of motility and the dissociation from the body. Seminar members should bring swimming trunks and leotards.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm and the forthcoming book The Betrayal of The Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

JOHN C. PIERRAKOS, M.D., is Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and a co-worker with Dr. Lowen. He is a practicing psychiatrist in New York City.

October 7-9
ONTOGOGY:
EDUCATION FOR THE HUMAN FRONTIER
LED BY
JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL

The seminar will speculate about the further potentials of being human. Use will be made of the concept of ontogogy ("leading out into being") as developed in Part Three of Dr. Bugental's The Search for Authenticity (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1965). Concepts such as "emancipation from the self", actualizing one's potential, and transcendence will be viewed with an orientation to seek the implications and possibilities for training and personal growth. Seminar participants will be invited to conduct experiments which will translate such concepts into experience.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL, a partner of Psychological Services Associates, Los Angeles, was one of the organizers and the president pro tem of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. For many years he has worked to combine existential approaches with psychoanalytic thought and practice. With his associates at PSA and members of the faculty of UCLA's Graduate School of Business Administration he has organized workshops to encourage personality growth. From such exploratory work he has developed a concept of the "ontogogic" phase of psychotherapy, the phase which develops from symptom-oriented therapy into a fuller exploration of being and growth. He is author of The Search for Authenticity.

MASK, MYTH, AND DREAM
LED BY
JOSEPH CAMPBELL

A series of discussions of the history, psychology and continuing force today, of the basic traditional symbols of the Oriental and Occidental spheres of civilization. The aim will be to appreciate both their common ground and their differences, with a view to the application of their understanding to the ends of contemporary life and art.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with a Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer (Myths and Symbols in Indian Art and Civilization, The King and the Corpse, Philosophies of India, The Art of Indian Asia), as well as of the five Bollingen volumes of Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks (Spirit and Nature, The Mysteries, Man and Time, Spiritual Disciplines, Man and Transformation). He has been a member of the Literature Department of Sarah Lawrence College since 1934 and a lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State, Washington, D.C. since 1956. His lifelong interest has been in Comparative Mythology and the history and psychology of symbolic forms.

FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP FOR PROFESSIONALS

LED BY ALEXANDER LOWEN AND JOHN C. PIERRAKOS

An intensive workshop in the principles and techniques of Bio-Energetic analysis for professionally qualified persons: psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, body therapists, each of whom will have an opportunity to observe and take part in the therapy. Nightly discussions will be held about the therapy of emotional disorders, using Bio-Energetic techniques. Applicants are advised to write to the Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis, 71 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10016, before registering to insure their acceptance in this workshop. Participants will be furnished with a bibliography and selected material in advance of the workshop. Limited to 15 persons.

$150 per person, double; $170 single.

November 4-6
THE EVOLUTION OF LOVE AND AWARENESS
LED BY ASHLEY MONTAGU

An exploration of the manner in which man came to be, with an examination of evolutionary pressures — ecological, psychological, social — which set the challenges to which the progenitors of man were forced to respond and, by responding, become human. The understanding of the nature of man which such knowledge provides enables us to comprehend, more fully than has hitherto been possible, the special satisfactions which developing human beings require if they are to achieve fulfillment. This implies the appreciation of many non-verbal acts of communication, which begin to be operative before birth. These and non-verbal aspects of postnatal life will be considered in detail.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

ASHLEY MONTAGU is an anthropologist and social biologist. Formerly Professor of Anatomy, Graduate School, New York University; Professor of Anatomy, Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, Philadelphia; Chairman and Professor, Department of Anthropology, Rutgers University; Director of Research, New Jersey Committee for Healthy Growth and Development; Consultant to UNESCO. He is the author of Man's Most Dangerous Myth: The Fallacy of Race; The Idea of Race; The Natural Superiority of Women; Man: His First Million Years; Prenatal Influences; The Direction of Human Development; and many other books.

THE PHASES OF INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP DEVELOPMENT
LED BY
WARREN G. BENNIS AND WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

Are there necessary and inevitable steps through which groups must pass to reach their full development? Are these steps identifiable? Can they be described? Do they apply to any group regardless of its form or purpose, or only to certain types?

Does the individual also develop through predictable phases? Are these similar to those through which groups pass? Professors Bennis and Schutz have taken the position that there are definite phases of development which are quite similar for both. They will discuss their theories and research, including a description of the developmental phases, the reasons for their inevitability, and the use to which knowledge of them may be put in the conduct and understanding of groups and the development of individuals. These discussions will be interspersed with experiences in small groups in which these phases will be studied.

WARREN BENNIS is Professor of Management and Chairman of the Organization Studies Group at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1965-66 he was Visiting Professor and M.I.T. project director at the Indian Institute of Management, Calcutta, India. He is the author of over 75 articles and several books on group and organizational behavior. His latest book, Changing Organizations (McGraw-Hill, 1965), reflects his primary research and teaching interest: evolutionary and planned organizational change. He has served as a consultant to the Department of State, the American Management Association, Space Technology Laboratory.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is a leading group dynamics theorist, researcher and trainer, known for the theory described in his book, FIRO: A Three-Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior. He has introduced new T-group methods and has researched their effectiveness in various organizational settings. He is now exploring other dimensions of personal and group development, including inner imagery process and the physical dynamics of personality structure. He is a pioneer in the multi-dimensional and integral approach to personal becoming which, we at Esalen believe, will soon be fundamental to therapy and education.

NON-VERBAL SYMBOLISM
LED BY
S. I. HAYAKAWA, JOHN S. KEEL AND RALPH PUTZKER

A semantic approach to various non-verbal, non-linear modes of symbolization in human experience; discussions and demonstrations relating to the contemporary arts, ritualistic activity, mass media, gesture and metacommunication, spatial relationships, etc.; the use of the "abstraction ladder" as a means of learning how to "speak about the un-speakable"; consideration of relevant ideas of Korzybski, Langer, Read, McLuhan, Hall.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

S. I. HAYAKAWA, Professor of English at San Francisco State College and Editor of ETC., is known primarily for his elucidations of General Semantics. But he is also a Professor-Of-Things-In-General. Almost any of his articles or books reveals his urbane, widely informed outlook. He is author of Language in Thought and Action; Symbol, Status and Personality; and many articles and reviews.

JOHN S. KEEL is Associate Professor of Art Education at San Francisco State College; he is also an authority on the work of Sir Herbert Read.

RALPH PUTZKER is Assistant Professor of Art at San Francisco State College, and is currently engaged in research on creativity in adult education.

THE DEPTH STUDY OF MAN AND ITS APPLICATIONS
LED BY IRA PROGOFF

We require a conception of the nature of man large enough to provide room for potentialities that are still undefined, and dynamic enough to touch the sources of power in human personality. The conception of man in terms of his depth and his magnitude is basic, and it has two general areas of application. The first is in the understanding and the development of the capacities of the individual person. The second is in interpreting and extending the social works of man, both on the intellectual level of the humanities and in such applied areas as education, peace corps and group action.

The seminar will deal with the depth study of man in the format of four sessions:

IRA PROGOFF is a clinical psychologist in private practice in New York City. He is the author of The Death and Rebirth of Psychology, Depth Psychology and Modern Man, The Symbolic and the Real. In his practice and writing he has developed several important themes, notably, the unique character of each person's development, the creative aspects of unconscious motivation and the emergence of new dimensions of consciousness.

November 25-27
THE DEPTH STUDY OF MAN AND ITS APPLICATIONS
LED BY IRA PROGOFF

Session I: Statement of the underlying conceptions and principles of a depth view of man.

Session II: The application of these principles in the development of persons through the individual working either with himself alone or with another human being in a dialogue relationship.

Session III: The application of these principles in social contexts such as educational work, poverty and peace corps programs, political, religious and cultural activities.

Session IV: How a depth conception of man can contribute to the development of an Evolutional Democracy in the modern world.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

TRAINING THE SENSES AND THE EMOTIONS
LED BY SIDNEY COHEN

Much has been learned about mental states in recent years which has not yet been incorporated into practical teaching methods. Experience from the alterations produced by sensory deprivation, LSD, experimental meditation, sensitivity training and other studies have implications for enhancing sensory and emotional capabilities. Dr. Cohen will consider and assess the significance of the current data on various states of consciousness, including deep sleep, dreaming, the varieties of awareness and integral thought.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

SIDNEY COHEN, M.D., Chief of the Psychiatry Service, Wadsworth Veterans' Administration Hospital, Los Angeles, has written an authoritative survey of LSD research, The Beyond Within. He is actively interested as well in parapsychology, unusual states of awareness, creativity, the physiological concomitants of changes in consciousness.

December 2-4
HYPNOSIS
LED BY DAVID B. CHEEK AND
PETER MUTKE

This seminar will explore philosophical aspects and definitions of hypnosis, including the principles of suggestion and various misconceptions about the hypnotic process. There will be both discussion and demonstration of induction methods. The application of hypnosis to psychiatry, medicine and the paramedical sciences will also be discussed.

Open to physicians, dentists, psychiatrists, psychologists. An early sign-up will be appreciated.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

DAVID B. CHEEK, M.D., San Francisco, uses hypnosis in general practice. He is currently the President of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis, a member of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, and a Diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

PETER MUTKE, M.D., Carmel, uses hypnosis in general practice and surgery. A graduate of Heidelberg University, he is a Fellow of the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis and a member of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine.

December 9-11
PSYCHOTHERAPY
AND THE ARTS
LED BY PAUL BAUM

Paul Baum will demonstrate an approach to psychotherapy which combines a wide variety of work in the arts, including movement, painting, photography, writing, movies.

$59 per person, double; $67 single.

PAUL BAUM is a psychotherapist in private practice in Berkeley. He studied clinical psychology and child development at the University of California. He is working and studying with Ann Halprin of the Dancer's Workshop and is on the staff of the Family Guidance Clinic, Children's Hospital, Oakland.

December 26-30
DESIGNS FOR EDUCATIONAL INNOVATION
LED BY
GEORGE I. BROWN

A seminar in strategies for bringing about educational change. Focus will be on the development and functioning of change agents within the formal and informal organizations of the public schools. There will be discussions of resistance to change, techniques for bringing about innovation, differing models of change agents, the change agent team, and ethical problems in bringing about change. The seminar is appropriate for both administrators and teachers. Participants are encouraged to bring specific problems for consideration.

By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, three quarter units of professional credit will be offered: course No. x320.2. Inquire by writing the Extension office. Limit: 30.

$118 per person, double; $134 single.

GEORGE I. BROWN is Associate Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. During the past two years he has conducted a pioneering project to develop creativity in primary school teachers, principals and students. This program is presently being expanded to include other districts in the Santa Barbara-Goleta area. He has invented a new method for teaching creativity, involving the development of a "creative sub-self"; this method is currently being used in his project with school teachers. He is presently involved in the direction of the Esalen Residential Program.

DR. FREDERICK PERLS, founder of Gestalt Therapy, is currently in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. He will be conducting five-day workshops and weekend seminars for both laymen and professionals on the following dates:

For further information, write Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs.

Seminars—	Workshops—	Nov. 27-Dec. 2,
October 21-23,	Oct. 9-14,	Dec. 11-16,

Dec. 16-18;	Nov. 20-25,	Dec. 25-30.

BERNARD GUNTHER will be in residence conducting classes in physical resensitization. He is also available, by appointment, to teach individuals and groups his new approach to massage and sensory awakening.

GIA-FU FENG will be in residence conducting classes in Tai Chi Chuan (meditative movements) and calligraphy.

COSTS Costs cover tuition, food and lodging, use of the hot mineral baths and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan and sensory awakening. Tips for restaurant and cabin personnel are also covered. A new approach to massage, available by appointment, is extra.

Weekend seminars begin with dinner on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. The amount listed "double" is a per person cost; the amount listed for single is also a per person cost. "Double" means double occupancy (two to a cabin).

All seminars and workshops begin with dinner, followed by an informal session the first evening at 9:00 (unless otherwise stated), and end with lunch on the last day.

STUDENT RATES for Student Body Card Holders: $15 discount on weekend seminars, unless otherwise noted.

ACCOMMODATIONS Accommodations are possible at Big Sur Hot Springs, South Coast Motel (AAA, $2.50 per day per person extra, 2 miles north), Redwood Lodge (15 miles north), Glen Oaks Motel (15 miles north), or at any of several campgrounds or other motels.

RESERVATIONS Must be made one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. A non-refundable deposit of $10 is required. Write Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California 93920; phone Big Sur 2634.

LOCATION Big Sur Hot Springs is located on Coast Highway One, 45 miles south of Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe. It is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on road maps as "Slates Hot Springs."

DRESS Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits.

SPECIAL INFORMATION Contributions to the Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some of these seminars.

Radio station KXKX-FM in San Francisco (88.5 meg.) broadcasts portions of the Esalen Institute seminars and provides a program guide for those who are interested.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of weekend seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. A Residential Program is now under way at Big Sur Hot Springs. This program will encourage an intensive study of those means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awareness and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education. A research program is being run concurrently to study the effectiveness of such programs for human development.

ESALEN SEMINARS WINTER-SPRING 1967

December 30-January 1
THE GENERALIST POINT OF VIEW: A WEEKEND
with
GERALD FEIGEN

Gerald Feigen, M.D., is a surgeon, radio commentator, travel editor for RAMPARTS magazine, columnist, a member of the board for several corporations, an amateur painter, sculptor and anthropologist, a friend and translator of Marshall McLuhan, and President of the consulting firm, Generalists, Inc., San Francisco. He has been active in politics and civil rights. He is an expert ventriloquist who manufactures his own dummies and uses them to reach the mentally disturbed.

During the weekend Dr. Feigen will discuss the new world that is emerging around us, the effects of its communications media and electric technology upon our psyches and senses, and some modern ways of self-renewal. From time to time his dummies will meet the seminar participants. On New Year's Eve Auld Lang Syne will not be sung, but the participants will take a brave and original look at the passing of another year.

The aim of the weekend is to achieve an enlarged point of view and, perhaps, to move beyond points of view for a moment or two.

Recommended reading: Marshall McLuhan's Understanding Media.

January 1-6
MORE JOY:
A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP
led by
WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

WILLIAM SCHUTZ is a leading group dynamics theorist, researcher and trainer, known for the theory described in his book, FIRO: A Three-Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior—recently reprinted as The Interpersonal Underworld. He is currently Associate Professor, Department of Psychiatry, Division of Social and Community Psychiatry at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, and has taught at Harvard, Chicago and the Universisty of California at Berkeley. He has introduced new T-group methods and has researched their effectiveness in various organizational settings. He is now exploring other dimensions of personal and group development, including inner imagery process and the physical dynamics of personality structure. He is a pioneer in the multidimensional and integral approach to personal becoming which, we at Esalen believe, will soon be fundamental to therapy and education.

There is an ancient belief that the natural state of the human organism is joy, a state too rarely attained. This workshop is designed to help identify, release, and develop the ability to feel more joy—joy in bodily feelings, in human relations, in self-understanding, and in creative activity.

New methods for effecting such growth are being developed at various centers throughout the world. Recent experience indicates that integrating these techniques with the verbal encounter group leads to a potent and meaningful experience. In this workshop the chief vehicle of experience will be the encounter group incorporating methods of body movement, body awareness, fantasy, psychodrama, and the micro-lab. When appropriate, there will be some exploration of media such as poetry, dramatic improvisation, and creative thinking. Developing the ability to experience more joy in life is the workshop's guiding theme.

April 30-May 5
A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP
with
WILLIAM SCHUTZ

A workshop combining basic encounter groups with body awareness and movement, the use of fantasy and inner imagery, psychodrama and artistic expression. The program will be run in much the same way as Dr. Schutz's January workshop (described above). It will be designed to complement the first workshop so that a person may participate in either or both.

January 6-8
CULTIVATION IN CULTS
led by
ALAN WATTS

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; and many other writings, has been—with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern world view.

Among the enormous number of unconventional religions, philosophies, meditation methods and psychotherapies that have invaded or arisen in the West during the past century, how does one distinguish between the genuine and the phoney, the imaginative and the fantastic, the sane and the crazy? After thirty-five years in the study of this problem, Alan Watts offers some suggestions.

On Saturday evening, Alan Watts and Maurice Friedman will hold a dialogue on 'beat' Zen and 'beat' Hasidism.

January 6-8
MARTIN BUBER: ENCOUNTER ON THE NARROW RIDGE
led by
MAURICE FRIEDMAN

MAURICE FRIEDMAN is the author of Problematic Rebel: An Image of Modern Man; The Worlds of Existentialism: A Critical Reader; To Deny Our Nothingness: Contemporary Images of Man and Martin Buber: The Life of Dialogue. In his work he has encouraged a dialogue between existentialism and psychotherapy.

Maurice Friedman, generally considered the world's foremost interpreter of Martin Buber's thought, has spent the past year in Israel doing research for his forthcoming book, Martin Buber: the Life of Dialogue, by a focus on the events and meetings in Buber's life—the responses to the men and situations of his time out of which his philosophy of dialogue grew. The seminar will explore Buber's encounter with mysticism, his philosophy of dialogue, his encounter with Gnosticism, his teaching of the way of man according to Biblical faith and according to Hasidism, his encounter with psychoanalysis and education, and his philosophical anthropology. Each of these areas will be made concrete by the use of Buber's autobiographical fragments and his Tales of the Hasidim as well as by questions and illustrations drawn from the experience of seminar members.

By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, one and one-half quarter units of professional credit will be offered: course No. X410. Inquire by writing the University Extension Office. Limited to 20 participants.

January 13-15
THE TORI PROCESS OF SELF EDUCATION
led by
JACK and LORRAINE GIBB

JACK GIBB is currently a Resident Fellow and LORRAINE GIBB a Research Associate at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California. They have developed their methods from several years of research sponsored by the Office of Naval Research and have used them in their own home, college classes and various industrial and volunteer organizations. Jack Gibb has been prominent in the National Training Laboratories, has worked with the YMCA and with General Motors, Union Carbide and other leading industrial corporations.

The TORI method—named after four factors essential for personal growth: trust, openness, realization, interdependence—has been developed by the Gibbs as a way of educating the person and the group. It derives from their research and consulting experience in a wide variety of organizational settings and will be described by them in a forthcoming book entitled, The Emergent Group: A Study of Trust and Freedom. This method emphasizes people's ability to create groups which facilitate their own personal growth—in families, school rooms, management teams and other organizations. It focuses upon personal attitudes and qualities which create such favorable environments.

During the seminar there will be group experiences, demonstrations and discussions. There will be some examination of this method's application to the participants' own lives.

January 20-22
A WEEKEND WITH
R. BUCKMINSTER FULLER

R. BUCKMINSTER FULLER is the inventor of the Geodesic Dome, the Dymaxion House and other wonders. Over one hundred major corporations are manufacturing and erecting his structure inventions. He is the author of No More Second Hand God, Ideas and Integrities, The Unfinished Epic of Industrialization, and other books.

The poet laureate of modern technology will talk about the emerging world and man's opportunities.

January 27-29
GOD IN THE SECULAR CITY
led by HARVEY G. COX
and
BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE

HARVEY G. COX is Associate Professor of Church and Society in the School of Divinity, Harvard University. He is author of The Secular City and numerous articles which have opened up new perspectives on secularization and the religion of modern men. He has been active in civil rights work, was a "fraternal worker" in Berlin maintaining contact with churches and universities in East Germany, attended the New Delhi Conference of the World Conference of Churches in 1962.

BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE was a worker-bishop for the Episcopal Diocese of California and is in residence at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, Santa Barbara. He is a leader of Christian reform in liturgy, social action and theology. His writings include Beyond Anxiety, A Time for Christian Candor and What Is This Treasure?

A discussion of the sources and implications of secularization in modern life. The seminar will explore these questions: Is there a place for God in the existence of contemporary man? Can theology proceed in a secular fashion? Can the issues confronting us today be illuminated by theological perspectives?
By arrangement with the University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, one and one-half quarter units of professional credit will be offered: course No. X411. Inquire by writing the Extension Office.

February 3-5
DESIGNING ENVIRONMENTS TO ENHANCE PSYCHIC STATES: A WORKSHOP
led by
NELSON VAN JUDAH

NELSON VAN JUDAH is a designer and Assistant Professor of Industrial Design at San Jose State College. He teaches innovative design courses at San Jose and Stanford University, emphasizing creativity, values, rational-intuitive approaches to design problems and a general awareness of the broad influences of environment upon psychological states. He is a student and translator of the ideas of R. Buckminster Fuller.

This workshop will try to create a new, immediate awareness of environmental influences upon moods and mental functioning. With the help of color projectors and various mobile structures, different kinds of interiors will be experimented with. Participants will have an opportunity to create some of these experimental environments themselves.
Preliminary materials and suggested preparations for the workshop will be supplied to participants who register at least three weeks in advance.

February 3-5
THE MORAL EDUCATION OF CHILDREN
led by
MICHAEL SCRIVEN

MICHAEL SCRIVEN is Professor of Philosophy at the University of California at Berkeley. He is Director of the Values Project of the Social Science Education Consortium which has been concerned with the teaching of values in the schools. He is the author of Primary Philosophy, in which his account of a rationally-based humanistic ethics was first published.

What do children learn about morality and when? What should they learn, and why? How can they be taught, and by whom? Moral education of children is impossible without moral understanding on the part of the parent. This seminar will therefore begin with a critical discussion of the major systems of morality explicit or implicit in our culture today, with strong emphasis on their practical applications. The favored approach here is to treat moral problems as extremely strategic problems in the 'game' of social living, as problems deserving intellectual respect as well as great emotional resources, insoluble without a synthesis of these.
Results of work with children will be presented, along with procedures for tackling the affective and cognitive aspects of the problem.

February 10-12
SYNECTICS
led by
GUNTHER M. WEIL

GUNTHER M. WEIL is an industrial and educational consultant and is currently Director of Educational Research for Synectics, Inc., a Cambridge, Massachusetts firm specializing in the psychology and sociology of innovation. He was formerly Assistant Professor of Psychology at Brandeis University, a former editor of the Psychedelic Review and has conducted and published research on the psychedelic drugs. His major interest is in processes underlying personal and social change.

Synectics is a psychological discipline allowing a systematic exploration of prelogical consciousness within a specific context of discovery: technological, educational, artistic or interpersonal. The attempt to make explicit and operational the dynamics and mechanisms of naturally-occurring creative experience and performance has led to the development of these methods over a twenty year period. Current Synectics research is applying these methods to problems of dramatic interpretation and the formulation of religious experience.
Participants will have an opportunity to learn the theory and practice of Synectics and apply this discipline to problems of their own choice. The relationship of Synectics to other methods of enhanced awareness and creative problem solving will be examined and discussed.

February 10-17
A SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP: INDIVIDUAL AND GROUP APPLICATION OF GESTALT THERAPY
led by
JAMES S. SIMKIN

JAMES S. SIMKIN is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Los Angeles. He is developing methods of Gestalt Therapy and training professional psychotherapists in the use of these methods. Dr. Simkin is also a visiting Associate Professor in Psychology at California State College at Los Angeles and a lecturer for the UCLA Extension Division.

February 10-12: Weekend Seminar
This seminar will stress the individual application of Gestalt Therapy techniques. It will be limited to ten people, each of whom will have an opportunity to experience a 45-minute Gestalt Therapy individual session, with the other nine people as observers. A short discussion after each individual session will focus on the underlying principles of Gestalt Therapy. Five two-hour seminar meetings are planned beginning Friday evening and concluding Sunday at noon.
February 12-17: Five-day workshop
The workshop will include both individual and group application of the principles and techniques of Gestalt Therapy, with emphasis on the 'right-left' split, 'truth-buttons' and other phenomena which demonstrate the bodily aspects of personality.
Limited to 15 participants.

February 3-5
THE NONPROFESSIONAL AS PSYCHOTHERAPIST: A SEMINAR FOR PEOPLE IN AND OUT OF THE MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONS
led by
GERALD GOODMAN

GERALD GOODMAN is Director of the Interpersonal Relations Project and a Research Psychologist at the Institute of Human Development, University of California, Berkeley. Dr. Goodman has done original research on self-disclosure. His Interpersonal Relations Project is exploring new ways of assessing companionship as therapy and college students' potentialities as therapists. He is interested in the "grass roots" small group movement, in the possibility of developing children as therapists and in other such adventurous enterprises. During seminars and workshops at the Esalen Institute he has developed some structured group methods which are finding use in the training of nonprofessionals.

The use of nonprofessionals in mental health projects is increasing rapidly. Students, housewives, addicts, children, etc., are now involved in systematic helping-relationships with others in trouble. Even though there is much controversy and little research concerned with these programs, they expand through the support and leadership of both professional and nonprofessional groups. This seminar will demonstrate various experimental group and one-to-one techniques applicable to the selection, training, and therapeutic efforts of nonprofessionals. The motivation, limitations, vision and struggle for legitimacy of the layman-therapist will be discussed. Both professionals and nonprofessionals working or interested in the area are invited to share their ideas, demonstrate their methods and participate in experimental groups. Dr. Goodman will describe his ongoing research on companionship as therapy, which studies college students and children in helping-relationships. Formal lectures will be de-emphasized in favor of participation in experimental groups and brainstorming sessions. Please state your reason for applying—if possible.

INSTITUTES WITH VIRGINIA SATIR

VIRGINIA SATIR is Director of the Residential Program, Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities. She is also interested in integrating the concepts of communication.

FEBRUARY 19-24
INSTITUTE ON BRIDGING THE ADULT-CHILD WORLD

For parents, teachers, clergymen, nurses or anyone else interested in children. Children over the age of four of any participating adults are also encouraged to come. Limit: 30.

MARCH 12-17
INSTITUTE ON COMMUNICATION AND SELF CONCEPT

This experiential workshop is open to anyone over the age of 18 who would like to expand his range and knowledge of interaction with others and explore the growth which can ensue from such interaction. Limit: 30.

April 23-28
INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

A short intensive course on family therapy which will include didactic discussion and illustrative sessions. The didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, along with a discussion of recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment.
Participants in these sessions must have had some experience as family therapists. Limit: 30.

MARCH 10-12
TOWARD A WIDER MEANING IN MARRIAGE
led by
GERALD and SALLY SMITH
and
BERNARD GUNTHER

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist and marriage counselor in Burlingame, California and a consultant with the San Mateo County Mental Health Services. Dr. Smith's clinical training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto, and the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. He has a particular interest in the applications of positive approaches of mental health to couples and families within the context of a "well family service."

SALLY SMITH is a homemaker and frequent partner with her husband in group experiences for couples and families.

BERNARD GUNTHER is a specialist in sensory awakening, in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. His work with sensory experience will be an integral part of this weekend.

One measure of the marriage relationship is the variety and intensity of feelings a couple can express to each other. It can be hypothesized that the greater the variety and intensity, the greater the possibility for a vital, rather than a bland, relationship. The focus of the seminar will be on non-verbal approaches which offer a special possibility in a short period of time for adding to the intensity and variety of feelings husband and wife can share. Art expression and communication analysis exercises will be used, plus numerous sensory awakening experiments. Limited to eight couples.

BEYOND THE OUTSIDER: A WEEKEND WITH COLIN WILSON

COLIN WILSON published his first book, The Outsider, in 1956 at the age of 24. Since then he has published a dozen books elaborating the themes of man's dilemma as an evolutionary being struggling to emerge from a dead universe. He left school at the age of 16, educated himself, and is now living quietly in the Cornwall countryside working on his philosophy.

This is the first in a series of Esalen Institute seminars featuring European writers, philosophers, artists and scientists. Mr. Colin Wilson and Dr. R. D. Laing are both coming to Esalen from England.

The author of The Outsider will discuss basic themes of his recent thinking. In describing the subject matter of this seminar he writes, "In certain moments of mysticism or poetic insight, man suddenly becomes aware of his basic freedom, and at the same time, of his evolutionary purpose. And yet this knowledge is not normally accessible to us. Why? The Christian mystics have traditionally believed that it is a form of divine grace, and cannot be pursued by reason or science. ('By love may he be gotten and holden; by thought never.') The nineteenth century romantic poets believed that these moments, when everything seems 'apparelled in celestial light,' come by chance, and cannot be controlled. In that case, the whole direction of our civilisation is mistaken, for man has based his civilisation and his hopes upon his increasing knowledge in the field of science.

"I do not believe that these higher states of consciousness are 'ineffable' and totally beyond the reach of analysis. The analysis of the mystics and the romantics was too crude, their language inadequate. I believe that man is on the point of an 'evolutionary leap,' when he will actually have control of these states of higher consciousness. To some extent, he already has control over them, but layer upon layer of habit prevents his making use of them.

"I have attempted to create a new psychology, based upon the phenomenology of Husserl. Fundamentally, I am an existentialist thinker, but with one important difference. I totally reject the fundamental pessimism of Sartre, Jaspers, Heidegger and the rest, and much of

ALTERNATIVE TO DIVORCE
led by
RICHARD E. FARSON
THOMAS GILLETTE

RICHARD E. FARSON is Director and a principal founder of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute (WBSI) in La Jolla, California. Under his leadership WBSI has conducted pioneering research in the use of self-directed groups for therapy and education. He is deeply interested in the problem of mental health in the community at large and in the application of small-group methods to education. He is editor of the recently published book, Science and Human Affairs.

THOMAS GILLETTE is a research associate at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, and Associate Professor of Sociology at San Diego State College where he is training personnel counselors at the Graduate School of Education and teaching courses in marriage and the family. He is primarily interested in interpersonal relations within the family and family development. On the staff of the Family Study Center at the University of Chicago, he carried out a project to increase individual competency in carrying out family roles and was Director of a similar project at the University of North Carolina using T-Group methods.

In our large California cities there are six divorces for every ten marriages. On some occasions 'applications' for divorce exceed applications for marriage. For many people marriage and family life is so disappointing, angry, burdensome, frustrating, joyless, lonely, unhappy, difficult, that they choose the stigma and misery of divorce as an alternative.

This seminar will examine the changing American family, motives for marriage, the causes of divorce, the meaning of the man-woman relationship, why marriage-counseling, psychotherapy and other efforts often fail to work, some radical and exciting proposals being made for revising the institute of marriage, and a plan for the development of urban centers to improve family life and increase one's competency in carrying out family roles. Open to anyone, single, married, divorced—in couples, families or alone.

February 24-26
A WEEKEND WITH CHARLOTTE SELVER
and
CHARLES V. W. BROOKS

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are on the staff of the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception and Relating. They also hold regular classes in New York and in Northern and Southern California. The approach they use was originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany; this approach has been further developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration.

A workshop to explore the self-regulating and regenerative tendencies of our organism, as well as our perceptive, intuitive and communicative powers. Miss Selver and Mr. Brooks will present their approach to the awakening of our capacities for contacting self and others. They feel that these innate capacities, once allowed into consciousness and duly exercised, can lead us to fuller and more wholesome functioning and to a state of greater trust in our own nature. The emphasis throughout is upon inner quiet and direct experience.

my philosophical work consists of detailed criticisms of these thinkers, showing how their existentialism has been too crude, too unphenomenological in method, and how this has led to their pessimism."

March 19-24
MEDITATIVE TECHNIQUES AND DEPTH IMAGERY: A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP
led by
ROBERT GERARD

ROBERT GERARD, clinical psychologist, has been engaged in such diverse occupations as motion picture writer and producer in Europe and Hollywood and behavioral scientist in charge of the Psychophysiological Research Laboratory at the Veterans' Administration Neuropsychiatric Hospital in Los Angeles. Dr. Gerard is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles, and is the president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis (psychosynthesis is an integral approach to personal becoming which combines imagination, inner imagery, meditation and other ways of extending awareness). He is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth. Dr. Gerard combines in his work a knowledge of Eastern meditative disciplines with modern scientific psychology.

In this workshop, Dr. Gerard will emphasize the guided practice of various methods of meditation and imagery to enable the participants to explore inner experience for themselves. He will first provide a groundwork in basic techniques, then proceed to advanced forms of both individual and group practice aimed at the expansion of awareness.

March 24-26
A WEEKEND WITH R. D. LAING

R. D. LAING is a psychoanalyst and psychiatrist at the Tavistock Institute of Human Relations in London. He has created a "blow-out" center in London in which psychosis is seen and treated as potentially healthy self renewal. He is the author of The Divided Self; Sanity, Madness and the Family; and other books and articles. He conducts research with schizophrenia, families, psychedelic drugs and unusual states of consciousness.

Dr. Laing will discuss the relationships between transcendental experience, psychosis and societal coercion. In describing the seminar he writes, "There is little conjunction of truth and social 'reality.' Around us are pseudo-events, to which we adjust with a false consciousness adapted to see these events as true and real, even beautiful. But the truth resides now less in what things are than in what they are not. We who are still half alive, living in the fibrillating heartland of monopoly capitalism—can we do more than reflect the decay around and within us? The requirement of the present, the failure of the past, is the same: to provide a thoroughly self-conscious and self-critical human account of man.

"Humanity is estranged from its authentic possibilities. This limited vision prevents any unequivocal view of the sanity of commonsense, or of the madness of the so-called madman. Our alienation goes to the roots. The realisation of this is the essential springboard for any serious reflection on any aspect of present human life. Viewed from different perspectives, this realisation unites men as diverse as Marx, Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Freud, Heidegger, Tillich and Sartre. We are born into a world where alienation awaits us. Alienation as our present destiny is achieved only by outrageous violence perpetuated by human beings on human beings."

March 26-31
THE SELF AND PHYSICAL MOVEMENT
led by
MARY WHITEHOUSE

MARY WHITEHOUSE, movement therapist and teacher, has a private studio in Los Angeles. She is a graduate of Wellesley College and received her Professional Diploma in Dance from the Wigman Central Institute, Dresden, Germany. Mrs. Whitehouse is a member of the Analytical Psychology Club of Los Angeles and the newly-formed national organization, The American Dance Therapy Association. Her training and experience in dance, combined with her studies in Jungian psychology, have resulted in a movement approach to individual growth. Her personal work, which she calls Movement in Depth, includes private practice, intensive weekend workshops for men and women and teacher training.

A five-day workshop in the psycho-physical exploration of movement: to release the movement impulse and increase the natural range and freedom of body functioning, strengthen the sense of personal identity, and work toward spontaneous, non-verbal expression. Three areas will be explored: the body moving (kinesthetic awareness); the inner impulse (relatedness to self); the outer connection (relatedness to world).
Since enrollment is limited, there will be a selection of applicants. Those wishing to register are requested to write Esalen Institute for an application to be filled out by March 1. Notification of selection will be sent out before March 10.

March 31-April 2
A WORKSHOP FOR PERSONAL GROWTH
led by
JAMES V. CLARK
and
STEWART B. SHAPIRO

JAMES V. CLARK is Professor at the Graduate School of Business Administration, UCLA and has been active with the National Training Laboratories, Bethel, Maine. He is an outstanding sensitivity trainer and an innovator with small group methods for personal growth. He has a special interest in the religious dimensions of the small group experience.

STEWART B. SHAPIRO is co-director of the Western Psychological Center in Encino, California. He has been involved in attempts to provide new and enriching experiences for people in psychotherapy and sensitivity training. His main focus has been on explorations in positive experience and the integration of personality through what he calls "Ego Therapy" —a method of inner dialogue with one's various selves.

Interpersonal encounter, meditation, rhythm, poetry, sensory awareness, role playing and movement will be combined in this experimental workshop. In describing the aims of the program, Drs. Clark and Shapiro write, "We believe that two of the most powerful human drives are the urge toward total experience and the need to make personally meaningful sense of the world. Words and theories can fixate our views of ourselves. We have learned to use them all too well— to separate us from others, from ourselves, and from nature. In this program, we will try to widen the spectrum of the participants' experience and self expression."
The workshop is limited to 24 persons, each of whom has had at least one previous experience with sensitivity training or basic encounter groups.

April 7-9
ALTERNATIVE VIEWS OF REALITY
led by
MICHAEL HARNER

MICHAEL HARNER, currently visiting Associate Professor of Anthropology at Columbia University, is Associate Research Anthropologist and Assistant Director of the Lowie Museum of Anthropology at the University of California, Berkeley. He is an authority on the Indians of the Amazon, has made three expeditions to that region, and has conducted extensive research on the cross-cultural use of psychoactive substances in shamanism and religion.

Many cultures have evolved highly distinctive ways of viewing reality, often radically different from our own. To enter into such alien systems of thought and awareness, and to enjoy them philosophically and aesthetically, is one of the greatest pleasures of anthropology. During the weekend, the seminar participants will explore various views of reality developed by non-Western peoples, emphasizing concepts of the interaction of the 'supernatural' and 'natural.' Study will be made of reality systems which involve the use of psychedelic agents as well as those which do not.

April 14-16
MAN TURNED ON TO NATURE
led by
GERARD V. HAIGH
and
BERNARD GUNTHER

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practicing psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He brings a life-long interest in nature to his work with basic encounter groups. This program's spark ignited while he was doing human relations training for the Peace Corps and for VISTA on Apache and Pima reservations in Arizona.

BERNARD GUNTHER is a teacher of body awareness in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. He is developing a new approach to direct sensory experience known as sensory awakening.

Modern man surrounds himself with his own artifacts and often distances himself from nature. He conceptualizes about the natural world in order to exploit it. By tensing his muscles he desensitizes his body, turning off himself and his environment.
This workshop is for those who wish to re-discover their relatedness to nature. The group will reach out towards a more harmonious contact with forest, earth, sky and sea. Body awareness techniques and an all-night vigil will be used to awaken certain senses and feelings, so that the participants may more fully experience themselves, each other, the redwoods and mountains.

April 16-21
THE INTERPERSONAL RELATIONSHIP AND THE FACILITATION OF LEARNING: A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP
led by
CARL R. ROGERS,
ARTHUR SHEDLIN and
ROBERT TANNENBAUM

CARL R. ROGERS, presently a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in La Jolla, California, was the principal founder of client-centered therapy. During recent years he has become increasingly interested in the basic encounter groups as a means of personal growth; his work with these groups promises to be as seminal as his work with one-to-one psychotherapy. Dr. Rogers is now exploring the use of basic encounter groups for education.

ARTHUR SHEDLIN is a faculty member in the Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of California, Los Angeles, and a leader of UCLA's Sensitivity Training Program. An expert in group dynamics, he has worked as a counselor and consultant in foreign countries and for government and industry in the United States.

ROBERT TANNENBAUM is Professor of Behavioral Science at the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of California, Los Angeles. He has been closely associated with UCLA's Sensitivity Training Program and with the Western Training Laboratories since their beginnings. In recent years he has experimented with a wide range of non-verbal approaches, in addition to traditional T-group methods, to facilitate the process of individual understanding and emotional growth.

In this time of teaching machines, automated education and computerized libraries, what is the place of person-to-person communication in the initiation and enhancement of learning?
In general sessions with Carl Rogers this question will be explored and discussed. During basic encounter groups, which will be the central focus of the workshop, there will be opportunities to explore the blocks in communication which occur; to understand ourselves more deeply; to discover for ourselves the extent to which interpersonal relationships facilitate our own self-learning. There will be three such encounter groups, each led by one of the leaders (Rogers, Shedlin, Tannenbaum).

April 21-23
ACTUALIZING POTENTIALITIES: AN EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP
led by
HERBERT A. OTTO

HERBERT A. OTTO is Professor and Director of the Human Potentialities Research Project at the University of Utah. Author of many articles in the field of human potentialities, he is editor of Explorations in Human Potentialities and author of Your Potentialities: The Unexplored Self. Dr. Otto has pioneered a number of direct experience methods designed to foster personal development.

Dr. Otto will introduce approaches to personal awakening which he has developed at the University of Utah. Some of these are the "Strength Bombardment", the "Minerva Experience Method" (a way of recalling peak experiences which have shaped one's personality) and various action programs designed to reinforce personal growth in one's everyday life. These methods are designed to help individuals discover their unique strengths and capacities. Much emphasis is given to the creation of a more positive and open-ended self-concept.

April 28-30
RIDING THE TIGER: AN ESALEN SAMPLER FOR PRE-SCHOOL AND ELEMENTARY TEACHERS
led by
GEORGE I. BROWN and JOHN POPPY

GEORGE I. BROWN is Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is currently interested in building models of the affective domain that can become part of the school curriculum. His major emphasis has been on the relationship of creativity, existence and awareness, and on the application of principles of existential psychology —especially Gestalt Therapy—to educational practice.

JOHN POPPY is a senior editor of LOOK magazine, based in San Francisco. His articles on education shared in the 1965 and 1966 School Bell Awards won by the magazine, and have brought him into close contact with many of the leading teachers and theorists in elementary education.

Most pre-school and elementary school children have 'talents' that later become dulled by the pressures of the educational system. Many of these talents—such as visual perception, open listening, richness of fantasy, self-disclosure, all sorts of non-verbal creativity —are areas that vitally concern the Esalen Institute. At a time when our idea of human possibilities can be greatly extended, teachers who can help children develop these native talents may expect what was once regarded as genius-level activity. But what of the teacher: While showing the child that cognitive 'fact' learning is most powerful as the servant of the affective, can the teacher keep pace with his pupil? Does a teacher who sees children blossoming with capabilities far beyond his own tend to hold these children back, through fear of losing authority or through simple jealousy?
This seminar will discuss ways of surmounting the 'jealousy barrier' and will explore ways in which teachers can keep up with children, thereby helping them more. It will take the form of an Esalen sampler, drawing on the resources of the Esalen staff and residential fellows to involve participants in experiences of sensory awareness, self-disclosure and inquiry.
By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, one and one-half quarter units of professional credit will be offered. Inquire at the University Extension Office.

A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP WITH WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ
Described above. See January 1-6.

May 5-12
TWO MARATHON WORKSHOPS
led by
GEORGE R. BACH, JACK R. GIBB and FREDERICK H. STOLLER

GEORGE R. BACH has worked with intensive therapeutic groups for more than 20 years. He is one of the originators of the "marathon" group experience, for which he has gained national recognition. He is now in private practice in Los Angeles and is a consultant for various organizations. He is the author of Intimate Enemy, a study of intimate relationship.

JACK R. GIBB, psychologist and group dynamics expert, is a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California. He has pioneered in the development of leaderless groups and has worked in a wide variety of organizational settings, including the National Training Laboratories, the YMCA and various industrial corporations. He is co-editor of T-Group Theory and Laboratory Method.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, psychologist at the Youth Studies Center, USC, is a frequent leader of marathon groups and a consultant on group approaches. He has pioneered in open group therapy on closed-circuit television. His interest in the utilization of video tape in a group context led to the development of "focused feedback" to extend feedback functions of encounter groups.

May 5-7 MARATHON I (starting Friday, May 5, following dinner)
A weekend of intimate interaction practice, for people (singles and pairs) interested in learning how to become more authentically intimate with others, especially with emotionally significant others.
Through the experience of an all night and day, 24 hour, nonstop marathon, participants will try to find new ways of creatively combining love and aggression, feelings and ideas, roles and being. Masking and distancing strategies will display themselves during the sessions—to be discarded, hopefully, in favor of accessibility and intimacy.

May 9-12 MARATHON II: INTIMATE ORGANIZATIONS (starting Tuesday, dinner, May 9, 7 p.m.)
Business organizations interested in improving the information flow among executives are invited to participate—in teams—in this four day workshop concerned with exploring ways of making organizations more intimate, less role-bound and more spontaneously creative.
Every organization will bring its own team of executives. We will supply each team with a marathon-experienced trainer. Team members will participate in intensive inter-action sessions focused on candid communication and the practice of "constructive executive-fighting" for more creative decision-making. Ways of preventing creativity-stifling effects of overbearing aggression styles will be studied.
The schedule includes theory-practice sessions as well as future application planning. During the 30 hour marathon, the technique of "focused feedback" using instant replay of live-video tapes will also be applied.
For further information and costs write to Mary Ellen Klee, care Esalen Institute.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, M.D., founder of Gestalt Therapy, is an Associate in Residence at the Esalen Institute, Big Sur. He will conduct weekend seminars and five-day workshops for both laymen and professionals on the following dates:

Workshops:
February 5-10
March 5-10
April 2-7
April 9-14

Seminars:
January 13-15
March 10-12
April 7-9

Seminars: $65 per person, double; $75 single Workshops: $155 per person, double; $180 single

BERNARD GUNTHER is in residence conducting classes in body sensitivity and non-verbal communication. He is also available, by appointment, to teach individuals, couples and groups his new approach to massage and sensory awakening.

GIA-FU FENG is in residence conducting classes in Tai Chi Chuan (meditative movements) and calligraphy.

Dr. Perls will also conduct two supervisory workshops for Gestalt Therapists and other psychotherapists using the Gestalt Therapy approach. These will deal with the difficulties encountered in therapy. They will include a course in pictorial language discovered through spontaneous painting. Each workshop is limited to 15 participants. Apply directly to Dr. Perls at Esalen Institute, Big Sur. A non-refundable registration fee of $15 is required, in addition to the $10 deposit required for all other programs.

Supervisory workshops: $170 per person, double; $195 single
January 8-13
January 15-20

Anyone interested in the seminar program beyond May 12 may write Esalen Institute for a tentative schedule of future seminars.

DRESS Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits.

SPECIAL INFORMATION Contributions to the Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some of these seminars.
Radio station KXKX-FM in San Francisco (88.5 meg.) broadcasts portions of the Esalen Institute seminars and provides a program guide for those who are interested.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of weekend seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. A Residential Program is now under way at Big Sur Hot Springs. This program is exploring various means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awakening and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education.
A research program is being run concurrently to study the effectiveness of such programs for human development.

A WEEKEND WITH THE ESALEN RESIDENTIAL FELLOWS

Esalen Institute is now conducting its first Residential Program. Since September of last year, fifteen resident Fellows have been working with sensory awareness, basic encounter groups, meditation, Gestalt Therapy, and other approaches combined into a single, intensive learning experiment. In this seminar they will report on their adventure, conduct experiential sessions with methods developed during the year, and speculate about the possibilities for future programs of this kind.

May 14-19
TOWARDS EXPANDED CONSCIOUSNESS
led by
CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are on the staff of the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception and Relating. They also hold regular classes in New York and in Northern and Southern California. The approach they use was originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany; this approach has been further developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration.

Expansion of consciousness is possible without the traditional religious practices of fasting and deprivation on the one hand, or the use of chemicals on the other. Consciousness can be refined and deepened through sensitive exploration of the living organism—both in its inner functioning and in its interaction with the world.
This study group will emphasize practice for the awakening and unfolding of the senses. Through sensing we learn to shed inhibition and over-doing (often manifested psychosomatically). We learn to follow innate tendencies toward order, balance and openness to the environment. Gradual development of inner quiet opens the way to richer perception (a component of creativity) and the feel and significance of each single happening and action in everyday life.

ON BEING MARRIED TO A PEOPLE HELPER
led by
JAMES V. CLARK and FRANCES CLARK

JAMES V. CLARK is Chairman of the Behavioral Science Area at the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration and is a Fellow of the National Training Laboratories. He is well known as an author and practitioner in the field of sensitivity training. FRANCES CLARK, after a career in music, elementary teaching and educational administration, is now a sensitivity training consultant.

Dr. and Mrs. Clark have conducted several couples' groups together. They are appropriately qualified for this seminar since both are in the helping professions and both have been married before.

This is a weekend to share the problems and challenges of marriage when one or both partners is in a helping profession. Couples only may attend, and one or the other, or both, must be a minister, psychologist, psychiatrist, social-worker, or the like. This seminar will be mainly an encounter group focusing on husband-wife communication.

May 21-26 COMMUNICATION AND SELF-CONCEPT led by VIRGINIA SATIR (see page 12)

EUROPEAN SERIES

The following is another in the continuing Esalen program for European writers, philosophers, artists and scientists. Colin Wilson and R. D. Laing came to Esalen from England this spring; Alain Robbe-Grillet and Robert Jungk will come from France and Vienna.

May 26-28
FROM REALISM TO REALITY: A WEEKEND with ALAIN ROBBE-GRILLET

ALAIN ROBBE-GRILLET is famed as the principal creator of the "nouveau roman", "the new novel". His literary innovations have been imitated by many novelists and film writers all over the world. He wrote the screenplays for Last Year at Marienbad and The Immortal. Some of his novels are Jealousy, The Voyeur, and The House of Assignation.

Personal growth requires us to give-up certain "realities" for new and better ones. Such limiting "realities" may be images of oneself, of others or of life in general. But when we begin to change, critics—or critical voices within us—often tell us that we are not being "realistic", that realism demands that we remain as we are. Robbe-Grillet has fought this battle in his literary work. This seminar takes its title from his essay in the Evergreen Review (February, 1966), in which he describes the novelist's mission to open new dimensions of reality in spite of established criticism. In his movies and novels, for example, Last Year at Marienbad, he has created new modes of apprehending the world.
In this seminar Robbe-Grillet will discuss the nature of reality and its relation to images and some of the issues involved in the expansion of consciousness. One warning: he does not speak English, so the entire discussion will be conducted with an interpreter.

May 26-28
A WEEKEND with J. L. MORENO

PSYCHODRAMA, REALITY THERAPIES AND MASS MEDIA OF COMMUNICATION:

J. L. MORENO, M.D., is world famous as the principal developer of psychodrama. He is founder and President Emeritus of the American Society of Group Psychotherapy and Psychodrama. He is currently President of the Moreno Academy, Beacon, N. Y. His many works have been translated into more than twenty languages.

June 2-4
THE SYMBO EXPERIMENT led by EDWARD MAUPIN

EDWARD MAUPIN will direct the Esalen Institute Residential Program in its second year. During the past year he has been a Resident Fellow himself. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

The English language emphasizes individuality and separateness. The Symbo experiment, developed in the Esalen Residential Program, maximizes other kinds of experience by suspending the separateness assumption. Participants will meet in groups of six or eight to explore their group in the light of the new assumption. The seminar fee will be reduced to $40 for those who are willing to sleep in sleeping bags.

THE INNER CHOICE: MANIPULATION OR ACTUALIZATION led by EVERETT SHOSTROM

EVERETT SHOSTROM is Director of the Institute of Therapeutic Psychology in Santa Ana. He is on the staff of the Institute of Industrial Relations, UCLA and is a co-author of Therapeutic Psychology.

Dr. Shostrom will discuss his new book, Man the Manipulator, The Inner Journey from Manipulation to Actualization, published in April, 1967. Films produced by Dr. Shostrom also will be shown during the seminar: Actualization Therapy, from Dr. Shostrom's 1966-67 television series, Three Approaches to Psychotherapy, featuring Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis and Fritz Perls, and Dr. Shostrom's latest film: Maslow and Self-Actualization.

A WORKSHOP WITH THE GUILD OF HANDS

MARYA BYRON
JOHN HORLER
KARL LEE
SANDRA McKIM
PETER MELCHIOR
JAMES SELLERS

This is the second in a series of workshops conducted by the Guild of Hands. An attempt will be made to give each person a chance to discover some fresh and imaginative approaches to the understanding of media. The atmosphere will be informal. A variety of tools and materials as well as the combined skills of several experienced craftsmen and artists will be available. Activities may range from weaving to construction (on the spot) of a kiln or foundry, and will be determined mainly by the interests of the participants themselves.

METAL: Sculpture, Welding, Casting, Jewelry, Enameling

TEXTILES: Batik, Weaving, Dying, Spinning

GRAPHICS: Woodcuts, Serigraphy, Drawing

CERAMICS: Stoneware, Porcelain, Hand-building, Wheel work, Firing

LEATHER WORK

Limited to 20 participants

June 23-25
THE POWER OF SPACE
led by
ALAN WATTS

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been—with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years, he has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

Space, which is ordinarily regarded as empty nothingness, may, in fact, be our own consciousness—sensed in the form of an external dimension; and human awe at the vastness of space may be man's astonishment at himself. A reconsideration of our position as "insignificant germs on a minute ball of rock, attached to a minor star on the outer fringe of one of the smaller galaxies."
Speculations on the heavens will include a Harp Concert given by JOEL ANDREWS, Saturday at 9 P.M.

$65 per person, double; $75 per person, single.

June 25-28
THE FUTURE OF CONSCIOUSNESS
led by
ALAN WATTS, DAVID BAAR, and PAUL LEE

ALAN WATTS (see above, June 23-25)
DAVID J. BAAR is an Episcopal priest. He is a graduate in Math from the University of California, Berkeley, and a graduate of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Berkeley. He was Chaplain to the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike and is now Chaplain to the Rt. Rev. C. Kilmer Myers, of California. The Rev. Baar is completing a book on the theology of sex and has written articles and conducted seminars on the use of psychedelic drugs.
PAUL LEE, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Philosophy, University of California, Santa Cruz. He was formerly Editor of the "Psychedelic Review". Assistant Professor of Humanities at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Protestant Chaplain to Brandeis University.

An exploration into directions now forming in our cultural consciousness of finite and transcendent values with a look at the future of man's values and beliefs in a subjectively expanding universe. What will be the future of religion when cultures vastly different from ours are encountered in other solar systems, galaxies or dimensions of being? Can man's social ethics and awareness of himself meet the demands of burgeoning scientific knowledge? Will any religion, organized or otherwise, satisfy humanity's search for a world view in an era when infinite worlds become available?

$100 per person, double; $115 per person, single.

June 25-30
A PHOTOGRAPHY WORKSHOP
led by
PAUL FUSCO,
LOOK Magazine Staff Photographer

Sponsored by the Guild of Hands

PAUL FUSCO'S approach might be called "the photography of involvement." In describing his workshop he says: "Photography is an experience, an involvement with, and a commitment to the subject of the photograph. You don't stand aside and steal moments off the top, but you enter into that life as fully as you can. It's what flows between you and the subject that gives you insight and the stuff to photograph."
There will be daily photographic work in Big Sur by all workshop participants and daily evaluation sessions. In the evenings there will be lectures and discussions including various aspects of Fusco's approach to photography. Some of these evening sessions will focus on the life of a city, a moment of love, the movement of a dance. An experimental slide projection system will be used to encourage direct participation with the photographs. Fusco's memorable photo essays for LOOK magazine include: "A View of the City", "Japan", "The Fence" (depicting life along the Iron Curtain), "American Women".

$175 per person, double; $200 per person, single.

UNIVERSITIES FOR THE FUTURE

led by
DAVID GOLDBERG and JIM NIXON

DAVID GOLDBERG is Advanced Planning Officer of the Bureau of Research, U. S. Office of Education. He was formerly a Research Associate in Psychiatry and a Lecturer in Psychology at Yale University where he gave a graduate seminar in Autonomic Psycho-physiology. He is currently planning a program of studies of the future and acting as advisor in the planning of several new colleges and "schools of the future."

JIM NIXON, Student Body President of San Francisco State College, helped found and was first co-ordinator of the Experimental College. A graduate student in philosophy, he has given talks on educational innovation to various groups around the country.

Growing out of some experimental seminars in the Fall of 1965, the Experimental College of San Francisco State College was founded as an attempt by students to build examples of new ways of teaching and learning which might state a direction for the college as a whole. Its principal idea has been the belief that students can take responsibility for their own education.

Seminar participants will be actively engaged in the creation of utopian models for the university of twenty years or more from today. The seminar will be reality oriented in that it will take account both of the social forces which will bear upon the university of the future, and of the potentialities for human development which are just beginning to be discovered.

As background for the workshop, David Goldberg will discuss the demands the society of the future will place on the university, and Jim Nixon will discuss the human needs that confront the university of the future. They will also discuss some of their theoretical ideas about learning and how to best structure institutions to foster learning.

NEW APPROACHES FOR EDUCATION: THREE WORKSHOPS led by GEORGE I. BROWN

The following workshops are designed primarily for teachers, administrators and the parents of students, to introduce educational approaches for the affective domain (relationships, feelings and the senses). However, they will be open to people in other professions as well.

July 2-7

CREATIVITY AND AWARENESS:

led by
GEORGE I. BROWN

GEORGE I. BROWN is Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is currently interested in building models for the affective domain that can become part of the school curriculum. His major emphasis has been on the relationship of creativity, existence and awareness, and on the application of principles of existential psychology—especially Gestalt Therapy—to educational practice.

Making use of research, both theoretical and functional, the workshop will capitalize on recent innovations in the development of creativity. The workshop will be divided into three phases: 1) a theoretical discussion involving psychological and philosophical dimensions of the creative process, 2) experiences in "transiential" techniques such as the creative sub-self, synectics, self-object modification, hedonic impulse training, and the "other universes through art" approach, and 3) the application of principles of Gestalt Therapy to personal and professional functioning.

July 9-14
A TRAINING WORKSHOP FOR SENSORY AWAKENING
led by
GEORGE I. BROWN and BERNARD GUNTHER,
Teacher of Body Awareness, Esalen Institute.

As Aldous Huxley pointed out, "organized education is predominantly verbal education." This kind of learning often facilitates thinking at the expense of direct experience and often produces automatic behavior while limiting creativity and uniqueness. Dewey and others have pointed to the need to balance the conceptual with the nonverbal.

Sensory awakening is a process designed to heighten sensitivity and awareness. Through simple experiments, students learn to allow relaxation, body feeling and heightened contact with their environment as well as others. This workshop will combine theoretical background and personal experience with a training program for those who wish to learn, teach and apply these methods in educational or therapeutic situations.

July 16-21
RECENT INNOVATIONS IN WAYS OF GROWTH
led by
GEORGE I. BROWN and ESALEN RESIDENTIAL FELLOWS

This workshop will give participants an opportunity to become familiar with many of the approaches toward the extension of human consciousness used in the Esalen Residential Program. These include sensitivity training and encounter groups of different types, meditation, sensory awareness, Symbo (an approach to group mind), and marathon.

The program will be conducted by Residential Fellows under the direction of Dr. Brown. There will be an examination of the contributions these approaches can make to one's personal educational experience and to the formal educational process at all levels.

July 7-9
SENSITIVITY TRAINING IN THE THEATER: PERSONAL and PROFESSIONAL GROWTH FOR THE WORKING ACTOR
led by
BETTY BERZON and JEFF COREY

BETTY BERZON, Research Associate of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California, is Director of a three year research project on self-directed therapeutic groups, under a grant from the U. S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. She has also conducted numerous Sensitivity Training Workshops and is particularly interested in innovative uses of this approach.

JEFF COREY has acted on Broadway, in films and on television. He co-starred in Frankenheimer's "Seconds", Arthur Penn's "Mickey One", Genet's film "The Balcony", "The Cincinnati Kid", "Home of the Brave", and many others.

On Broadway he played Rosencranz in Leslie Howard's Hamlet, performed in Life and Death of An American, Transit, and other plays. He is now director of his own studio, is Professor of Theater Arts at San Fernando State College and is on the faculty of the Pasadena Playhouse College. Many successful actors and actresses have studied with him.

For many years now the sensitivity training group, with its climate of emotional honesty and openness to change, has been used to enable people to become more closely related to their feelings, more flexible, more open and responsive in their encounters with others. It has been used in social service settings, in education, in industry—but ironically, it has not been used in the theater where human encounter is the substance of which drama is made and the dynamic force which brings it to life.

During the weekend, participants will be encouraged to find those depths of understanding and responsiveness in themselves that for an actor can make the difference between craft and art in his work. The approach used will be an integration of the training techniques Jeff Corey has developed in his work with actors, and small group sessions led by Betty Berzon.

July 7-9
WOMAN
led by
ROBERT CROMEY and LILLIAN CROMEY and
BERNARD GUNTHER

The REV. ROBERT WARREN CROMEY is the Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church in San Francisco. He is author of a soon to be published book on sex ethics and the new morality. He is a founder of the Council on Religion and the Homosexual, and a member of the Board of the San Francisco branch of the NAACP. He has been active in the civil rights movement in San Francisco. He is the moderator of the radio series on the young adult called "The Now Generation" produced by KXKX-FM.
LILLIAN CROMEY is a homemaker, mother of three daughters and a graduate student in English literature at San Francisco State College.
BERNARD GUNTHER is a specialist in sensory awakening and is in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. His work with sensory experience relates directly to an understanding of "Woman."

This seminar will explore a timeless question, the opportunities and problems of woman. In today's society she has been rendered uneasy by new morality, urban anonymity, superior education, desire for a vocation other than motherhood, and serious doubts about traditional family expectations of her. What is the status of woman in some of the new modes of family life, e.g.: the Haight-Ashbury commune (the new Bohemia), the suburb, the mother with career?
The weekend will include discussions, small group interactions and sensory awakening sessions.

July 9-August 4

A MONTH LONG WORKSHOP IN GESTALT THERAPY led by FREDERICK PERLS (see page 13)

July 14-16
A DANCE WORKSHOP
ANN HALPRIN

ANN HALPRIN is founder and director of the Dancers' Workshop Company, San Francisco. Her innovative dance group has toured America and in Europe under the auspices of the State Department. Some of her notable experiments with dance include involvement of the audience in the performance, vocalization by the dancers, and the use of sculptors, musicians and others in the staging of her presentations.

This workshop will emphasize those aspects of dance which focus on the feed-back between movement and emotional responses. Direct, natural and spontaneous body skills will be used so that anyone, irrespective of previous training, can participate fully.

July 14-16
A WEEKEND
with
SIDNEY JOURARD

SIDNEY JOURARD, Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, is well known for his extensive research on self-disclosure. He has been concerned with the depersonalizing effect of psychological research upon its subjects. With this concern and his interest in human spirit and growth, he has encouraged the development of a more humanistic psychology in the United States. He is the author of Personal Adjustment and The Transparent Self.

In this seminar, Dr. Jourard will examine how psychology and psychiatry have asked man to reveal himself and then unwittingly use this knowledge of man to increase the degree of his being controlled and limited by the social system. Some new directions and objectives for psychological research, counseling and therapy will be discussed, where the aim is to help man discover how his growth is limited, how latent possibilities may be uncovered, and how his freedom may be enlarged. As the technological base of our society changes, e.g., through growing automation, so the tasks of clergymen, teachers, psychologists and psychiatrists will change. This seminar will explore the evocative and inventive possibilities in these professions, rather than the manipulative and controlling functions they have already explored.

July 16-21

BECOMING AN EXISTENTIAL COUNSELOR
led by
SIDNEY JOURARD

This will be a workshop in which participants will seek to transcend the technical aspects of their training as counselors and psychotherapists, with the aims of becoming more effective in their professional praxis, and more akin to Gurus and guides than psychotechnicians. Through group meetings and dialogue, participants will explore and share ways in which they are mystified and "lost" in the social system, and ways in which they might find more liberated and livable personal existences.

July 21-23

RACIAL CONFRONTATION AS TRANSCENDENTAL EXPERIENCE
led by
GEORGE B. LEONARD and PRICE COBBS

GEORGE B. LEONARD, Senior Editor and West Coast Managing Editor for LOOK magazine, is widely known for his articles on segregation and education. His forthcoming book, Education, will explore many aspects of human potentiality. From his upbringing in Georgia and his travels for LOOK magazine, he has acquired an intimate knowledge of the agonies and opportunities of racial confrontation.

PRICE COBBS is a psychiatrist in private practice in San Francisco. He is also on the staff of the Mount Zion Hospital and Medical Center and is a consultant to the Glide Foundation in San Francisco. He is an instructor in psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco. He has been active with the Urban League and participated in the march at Selma.

Racial segregation exists among people with divided selves. A person who is alien to some part of himself is invariably separated from anyone who represents that alien part. The historic effort to integrate black man and white has involved us all in a vast working out of our divided human nature.

Racial confrontation can be an example for all kinds of human encounter. When it goes deep enough—past superficial niceties and role-playing—it can be a vehicle for transcendental experience. Price Cobbs, a negro psychiatrist from San Francisco, and George Leonard, a white journalist and author born and raised in Georgia, will conduct a marathon group encounter between races. The group will try to get past the roles and attitudes that divide its participants, so that they may encounter at a level beyond race.

INVENTING THE FUTURE: EXERCISES IN SOCIAL IMAGINATION
led by
ROBERT JUNGK and CHARLOTTE BUHLER

ROBERT JUNGK is author of Tomorrow is Already Here, Brighter Than a Thousand Suns, Children of the Ashes, and The Big Machine (to be published in the United States in 1967). He is Director of the "Institut fuer Zukunftsfragen" in Vienna, which is devoted to research into the future, and is co-editor of a series of books, Models for a Better World. He is interested in a normative approach to the future, which will put values in command of material possibilities.

CHARLOTTE BUHLER is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Beverly Hills. She was one of the early proponents of a more humanistic psychology and was President of the American Association of Humanistic Psychology in 1965-66. She is well known for her interest in the life cycle and the place of goals in people's lives.

While technological inventions abound and tend to submerge traditional human institutions, there is little effort in the United States or Europe to encourage social invention. This seminar will be a free idea session to stimulate proposals for creative social developments at the world, national, institutional and family levels. Some of the themes will be "new environments for future living", "new styles of productive work", "new democratic institutions", "ways of preserving the individual in a six billion man world". We hope that this will be the first in a series of similar workshops.

August 4-11 SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP with ROLLO MAY

August 4-6 SEMINAR

August 6-11 WORKSHOP

ROLLO MAY is Training and Supervisory Analyst at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis and Psychology. Among his books are The Meaning of Anxiety, Man's Search for Himself, Existence: A New Dimension of Psychology and Psychiatry, and Symbols in Religion and Literature.

Identity and personal significance will be explored in several ways. One will be through myths as the source of identity, for example, the myths about love and sex, about work (the myth of Sisyphus), about creativity (the myth of Prometheus). Other areas to be explored are: identity in relation to meditation, to erotic experience, and to the problem of death.

The workshop following the seminar will explore the themes described above and will be concerned particularly with the relation of psychoanalysis to meditation and to myths. We shall try to discover the myths (mostly unconscious) by which we and others in modern America live. Some time will be spent exploring the participant's own experience in meditation and its relationship to the themes of the workshop. Limit: 12

August 6-9
CLOSE YET FREE WITHIN MARRIAGE: A Workshop for Couples Who are Married or Intending Marriage

led by
GERALD and SALLY SMITH and BERNARD GUNTHER

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.
SALLY SMITH is a wife, mother and homemaker and a frequent partner with her husband in group experiences for couples and families.
BERNARD GUNTHER is a specialist in sensory awakening in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. His work with sensory experience will be an integral part of this weekend.

In many, or perhaps most, marital relationships there is a tension between being close and being free to fulfill oneself as a separate person. As long as the relationship continues to be vital, this paradox is rarely resolved; instead it is coped with creatively or destructively. The purpose of this workshop will be to experience ways of being intimate yet autonomous, ways to allow greater distance from the other and hence enter more deliberately and fully in times of closeness.
One focus during the workshop will be specific verbal communication skills. Another focus will be non-verbal experience, including sensory awareness and couples art expression. There will also be opportunity to sort out some specific expectations of yourself and expectations of your partner. Videotape will be used to permit immediate feed-back during some of the sessions.

Limited to eight couples. $195/couple

August 11-13
SHAMANISM, PSYCHEDELICS AND THE SCHIZOPHRENIAS

led by
JULIAN SILVERMAN

JULIAN SILVERMAN, Ph.D., is a Research Clinical Psychologist at the National Institute of Mental Health, Bethesda, Maryland, where he heads a unit on perceptual and cognitive studies in the Adult Psychiatry Branch of that institution. His main focus of research has been on abnormal sensory, perceptual and cognitive processes.
He has published experimental and theoretical articles in such leading journals as The Psychological Review, Psychosomatic Medicine, The Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease, and The American Anthropologist.

Recent developments in psychological, physiological, and anthropological research on altered states of consciousness indicate the need for a thoroughgoing revision of contemparary psychiatric and philosophical conceptions in this area. The seminar sessions are concerned with an appraisal and re-evaluation of these researches and conceptions. An empirically based conceptual model is developed which: 1) gives emphasis to the positive, integrative, problem-solving significances of the various altered-state behaviors, and; 2) systematically recasts certain major aspects of modern-day "mental illness."

August 18-20

ALLOWING

led by

BERNARD GUNTHER, EDWARD MAUPIN and ESALEN STAFF

BERNARD GUNTHER teaches body awareness at the Esalen Institute. He is developing several new approaches to direct sensory experience.

EDWARD MAUPIN will direct the Esalen Institute Residential Program in its second year. During the past year he has been a Resident Fellow himself. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan, was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

This workshop is limited to participants in past Esalen seminars. It will consist of several approaches toward the art of letting go, such as sensory approaches; meditation, a game to develop a "group-mind", massage and other ways being developed at Esalen.

August 20-25

MORE JOY: A FIVE-DAY WORKSHOP

led by

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ, Ph.D., is a leading group dynamics theorist, researcher and trainer, known for the theory described in his book, FIRO: A Three Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior—recently reprinted as The Interpersonal Underworld. He is currently Associate Professor, Department of Psychiatry, Division of Social and Community Psychiatry at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine, and has taught at Harvard, Chicago and the University of California, Berkeley. He has introduced new T-group methods and has researched their effectiveness in various organizational settings. He is now exploring other dimensions of personal and group development, including inner imagery process and the physical dynamics of personality structure. He is a pioneer in the multidimensional and integral approach to personal becoming which, we at Esalen believe, will soon be fundamental to therapy and education.

A workshop combining the encounter group with body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy experiments, psychodrama and the micro-lab. There will also be some poetry reading and writing and dramatic improvisation. Developing the ability to experience joy is the workshop's guiding theme.

$175 per person, double; $200 single.

August 25-27

DIMENSIONS OF THE MIND: Four Explorations through Lecture-Discussions

led by

HUSTON SMITH

HUSTON SMITH is Professor of Philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His birth and childhood in China aroused a life-long interest in Asian thought, while his present post calls for special attention to the relation between science and the humanities. He is the author of The Religions of Man, Condemned to Meaning, and two articles on the religious implications of LSD.

1) The Mind in Space. Chief differences geographical separation has occasioned in man's view of life and the world. The outlooks of India, China, and the West compared.

2) The Mind in Time. How our Western estimate of man and the world has changed in passing through the classical, medieval, and modern periods into our present post-modern era.

3) The Mind in Matter. What science is discovering about mind. Does the computer provide an adequate model?

4) The Mind Transcendent. Do insights reached through mystical experiences, natural or drug-induced, contribute to our understanding of life and its opportunities?

The weekend will include a showing of Professor Smith's interview with D. T. Suzuki which originally appeared on NBC's "Wisdom" series.

August 27-September 1
A PHOTOGRAPHY WORKSHOP
with
BRETT WESTON

The Weston influence upon modern photography has been widespread and profound. Edward Weston opened many new ways for photographers and helped establish photography as a fine art. His son Brett has developed and refined his father's approach and has added original dimensions of his own. In this workshop Brett Weston will stress the view camera format for which he and his father are famous. He will lead daily field trips through the Big Sur country, looking for a variety of views on ridges, cliffs, beaches and canyons. There will be technical discussions and informal print critiques (each member of the workshop will be asked to bring two prints for criticism). Weston prints and films will be shown during evening sessions. Enrollment is limited to twenty, allowing for more personal contact and instruction.

$175 per person, double; $200 per person, single.

INSTITUTES with VIRGINIA SATIR

VIRGINIA SATIR is a Director of the Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and plans to form "well family" clinics for the development of the family's creative potentialities. She is also interested in integrating the concepts of communication.

May 21-26
COMMUNICATION AND SELF-CONCEPT

An experiential workshop to facilitate personal authenticity, spontaneity and creativity. The participants will explore their communications and interactions with others and the development of their own self-concepts.

$175 per person, double; $200 per person, single.

June 18-23
COMMUNICATION IN MARRIAGE

An experiential workshop for married couples and those contemplating marriage. Participants will explore the development of meaningful, creative communication for rewarding relationship. The sensory, emotional and intellectual dimensions will all be included.

$175 per person, double; $200 per person, single.

Tuesday Night, July 25-
Friday Noon, August 4
INSTITUTE ON CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY

An intensive experiential seminar to explore family organization, development and operation as they relate to education, prevention of family problems and treatment. Didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy, recent research findings and newer tools for family diagnosis and treatment. Participants in these sessions must have had some experience as family therapists. Limit: 30.

$330 per person, double; $380 per person, single.

INSTITUTES with FREDERICK S. PERLS

FREDERICK S. PERLS, M.D., the founder of Gestalt Therapy, is in permanent residence at the Esalen Institute, Big Sur. He will conduct seminars and workshops on the following dates:

FIVE-DAY WORKSHOPS
June 4-9
June 11-16

Workshops: $155 per person, double; $180, single

VIDEO-TAPE FEEDBACK will be used during these workshops from time to time. RENTAL OF VIDEO-TAPES exploring various aspects of Dr. Perls' approach is now possible. For information write: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California, 93920.

May 15-September 1
DR. IDA ROLF

DR. IDA ROLF will be in residence from May 15 to September 1. She will work in conjunction with Dr. Frederick Perls and with private individuals on an appointment basis. Her work, called Structural Integration, is a system of deep musculo-fascial organization which attempts to release excessive tension and realign body structure to establish more efficient functioning.
Dr. Rolf will also conduct a month-long workshop for qualified professionals as preliminary training for those who want to become Rolf practitioners. For information on this training session write: Bernard Gunther, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California 93920.

Esalen Institute will co-sponsor, with the Northern California Chapter, American Medical Writers' Association, a Workshop in Medical Writing, May 12-14. Aimed toward improving communication, this workshop will explore methods by which to achieve this goal. Open to editors, physicians, dentists, etc., writing in the health science field, whether members or non-members of A. M. W. A. Cost: $60. Limit 15.

Led by: Paula Harris, Editorial Consultant, Mill Valley, and Harley M. Messinger, M.D., Ph.D., Berkeley.

APPLICATIONS ARE NOW BEING ACCEPTED FOR THE 1967-68 RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM

This program, currently in its first year at Big Sur Hot Springs, combines sensory training techniques, basic encounter groups, meditation, work with physical movement and other methods focusing on the process, non-verbal levels of personality. Edward Maupin and William C. Schutz will direct the program in its second year. Psychiatrists, educators, artists, and other specialists will work with the Resident Fellows at intervals through the year.
It should be clear to all applicants that this is not a highly structured program. Self-design by the Fellows, using the various approaches introduced by the specialists involved, is a basic feature. The process of finding one's own direction and drawing upon the available resources to enhance it, is central to the program's concept.

For application forms write: Esalen Institute Residential Program, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California, 93920.

GIA-FU FENG is in residence conducting classes in physical movement based upon Tai Chi Chuan and occasional classes for calligraphy.

Anyone interested in the seminar program beyond September 1, may write Esalen Institute for a tentative schedule of future seminars.

COSTS

WEEKEND SEMINARS
$60 per person, double; $70 per person, single, unless otherwise noted.

$155 per person, double; $180 per person, single, unless otherwise noted.

Double means shared occupancy. We arrange the sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Cost covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the pool and hot mineral baths and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan and sensory awakening. Tips for restaurant and cabin personnel are also covered. A new approach to massage, available by appointment, is extra.
Weekend seminars begin with dinner on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. All seminars and workshops begin with dinner, followed by an informal session the first evening at 9:00 (unless otherwise stated) and end with lunch on the last day.

MEMBER RATES: $5 discount on weekend seminars and midweek workshops.

STUDENT RATES: For Student Body Card Holders: $15 discount on weekend seminars only, unless otherwise noted.

RESERVATIONS

Must be made one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. A non-refundable deposit of $10 is required. Write Esalen Institute, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California, 93920; phone 2634 between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. only.
Reservations Staff: Sharlotte Broudy, Judy Isaacs.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE

$10 per person from Monterey, with advance notice. No public transportation is available to the Hot Springs.

LOCATION

Big Sur Hot Springs is located on Coast Highway One, 45 miles south of Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe. It is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on road maps as "Slates Hot Springs."

DRESS

Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits. Please bring your own flashlight.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

Contributions to the Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some of these seminars.

Radio station KXKX-FM in San Francisco (88.5 meg.) broadcasts portions of the Esalen Institute seminars and provides a program guide for those who are interested.

We are now establishing a service to provide copies of broadcast-quality tape recordings of our lectures here at Esalen. Anyone interested in recorded tapes of past, present or future seminars or lectures, please write:
ESALEN RECORDINGS, Big Sur Hot Springs, Big Sur, California 93920.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences which emphasize the potentialities of human existence. To date, its activities have consisted chiefly of weekend seminars and mid-week workshops such as the ones described in this brochure. A Residential Program is now underway at Big Sur Hot Springs, exploring various means for extending awareness, such as basic encounter groups, sensory awakening and meditation, which are ordinarily neglected in modern education.

A San Francisco branch of Esalen Institute will be opened in the fall of 1967.

THE SCOPE OF THE HUMAN POTENTIAL

Certain investigations of personality and behavior are beginning to demonstrate the possibility that human consciousness and creativity may be vastly expanded. But because of their strangeness and power, these findings are confronted by fears and social resistance. In this series of discussions, some of the scientists involved in such seemingly dangerous research will discuss the historic possibilities of their work and the many obstacles they face. On Wednesday evening they will make a series of proposals for further research and development which could be implemented if the resources would be made available.

Monday evening POSSIBLE BREAKTHROUGHS IN EDUCATION AND THE HUMAN SCIENCES
Principal Speakers: B. F. Skinner, Willis W. Harman
Panel: Price M. Cobbs (moderator), Willis W. Harman, George B. Leonard, Joe Kamiya, B. F. Skinner

Tuesday evening SOCIAL RESISTANCE TO A SCIENCE OF HUMAN POTENTIAL
Principal Speakers: Richard E. Farson, B. F. Skinner
Panel: Price M. Cobbs (moderator), Richard E. Farson, Willis W. Harman, George B. Leonard, Robert Mogar, B. F. Skinner

Wednesday evening PROPOSALS FOR AN EXPANDED EDUCATION AND SCIENCE OF MAN
Speakers: Price M. Cobbs (moderator), Richard E. Farson, Willis W. Harman, George B. Leonard, Joe Kamiya

Each discussant will speak for about fifteen minutes. The panel will then discuss the proposals which have been made.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral. Time 8 - 10:30 P.M.
Tickets by advance sale: $3.00 per evening; $7.00 per series

PRICE COBBS is a psychiatrist in private practice in San Francisco. He is also an instructor in psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, and is on the staff at Mt. Zion Hospital.

RICHARD E. FARSON is Director and Co-Founder of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla. His institute is conducting pioneering research in the dynamics of social change and new educational methods such as non-directed encounter groups and simulation games.

WILLIS W. HARMAN is Senior Systems Analyst at Stanford Research Institute as well as Professor of Electrical Engineering at Stanford. He is currently involved in educational research and a study of the philosophy of science.

JOE KAMIYA is a research psychologist at Langley Porter Institute, San Francisco. In an attempt to combine introspection with objective measurement, he created the original experiments enabling human beings to gain control of their brain wave patterns.

GEORGE B. LEONARD is the West Coast Editorial Manager of LOOK magazine. He has won more national awards for educational reporting than anyone else in the history of magazine journalism. He is concerned now with the creation of models of education which include the full range of human potentials. These ideas will be presented in his forthcoming book Education and Ecstasy.

ROBERT MOGAR is Professor of Psychology at San Francisco State College. He has conducted research on the effects of psychedelic drugs upon personality and creativity.

B. F. SKINNER, Professor of Psychology, Harvard University, is world famous for his theories of behavior and the development of operant conditioning. He is author of Science and Human Behavior, Walden Two, and most recently, The Technology of Teaching.

LANGUAGE AS PSYCHEDELIC EXPERIENCE led by Ronald Gross

Many techniques for expanding consciousness have tried to reject language in favor of strictly non-verbal experience. Mystics ancient and modern have struggled against language as they have against their own bodies.

Words often do blind us to the full non-verbal realities of living. But words can also open our eyes to new experiences. Language can turn us on as well as off. So perhaps we need to redeem our everyday language just as we try—through therapy and contemplation—to redeem our enjoyment of personal relationships, our fantasies and dreams, our sensory experience.

Painters from Duchamp to Warhol have "anointed" commonplace objects by presenting them as works of art, objets trouvés. Ronald Gross has attempted to do the same thing for language in Pop Poems, recently published by Simon and Schuster. He approaches language as "the most pervasive psychedelic technology in human society." The purpose of his seminar is to make participants freshly and creatively aware of language, and to launch them on their own exploration of the semantic environment. Participants will create "found poems," create "perspectives by incongruity," brainstorm metaphors and analogies. The seminar will pay particular attention to the ways in which language, public and private, affects thought, feeling, and action.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 4 - 10 P.M. (with dinner break). $25.00 per person.

RONALD GROSS is the inventor of Pop Poetry and other experimental techniques of literary composition. He is a leading figure in the "impersonal poetry" movement that is exploring radically different ways of writing, such as the use of computers, found materials, chance methods, instructional "programs," and other artforms such as painting or printing (Concrete Poetry), music, and theater.

Mr. Gross is also known for his books of social and cultural criticism; he has written for Harper's, Saturday Review, The New York Times Magazine, Commentary, etc., as well as for organizations such as the Ford Foundation, The National Science Foundation, and the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO. He is consulting editor for the Dell Publishing Company, and chairman of the advisory committee of the General Semantics Foundation.

LEARNING THROUGH THEATER GAMES
led by ALAN MYERSON

In this workshop, Mr. Myerson will introduce a series of exercises based upon techniques for improvisation in the theater. Cleverness is not the object for the weekend; the participants will, hopefully, gain in simplicity. The object of the exercises is to open up new ways of seeing, thinking, feeling and behaving in a spirit of play.

ALAN MYERSON is the founder and producer of The Committee, San Francisco. He has directed films and television programs, has acted in many movies and plays, and has taught acting in New York, Chicago and at the University of California, Berkeley. He is best known for the improvisational theater which The Committee has helped to make famous. The kind of exercises which he will be using in this workshop are now being experimented with in various elementary and high schools around the United States.

MAN TURNED ON TO NATURE
led by BERNARD GUNTHER and GERARD V. HAIGH

Modern man surrounds himself with his own artifacts and often distances himself from nature. He conceptualizes about the natural world in order to exploit it. By tensing his muscles he desensitizes his body, turning off himself and his environment.

This workshop is for those who wish to re-discover their relatedness to nature. Body awareness techniques, encounter groups and meditation will be used to awaken senses and feelings, so that the participants may more fully experience themselves, each other, the redwoods and mountains.

BERNARD GUNTHER is a teacher of body awareness in residence at Big Sur Hot Springs. He is developing a new approach to direct sensory experience.

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practicing psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He brings a life-long interest in nature to his work with basic encounter groups. This program's spark ignited while he was doing human relations training for the Peace Corps and for VISTA on Apache and Pima reservations in Arizona.

THREE LECTURES by DR. CARL ROGERS

DR. ROGERS will focus his three lectures on the basic encounter group as an instrument for constructive personal growth, for organizational change, and for the resolution of individual and intergroup tensions. He will endeavor to include comments on his own way of facilitating a basic encounter group; the typical process of such a group; the personal and organizational outcomes; the way in which it could be used to change the climate, the functioning, and the structure of an educational system; how it might change such a system from a focus on teaching to an emphasis on the facilitation of learning.

Dr. Rogers will also discuss the implications of his work for the philosophy of science. Fundamental questions about the structure of the human sciences arise from the problem of understanding group encounter and personal growth.

Location: Longshoremen's Memorial Hall, San Francisco

Time: 8 P.M.

Tickets by advance sale: $2.00 per lecture; $5.00 per series.

CARL ROGERS is presently a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute at La Jolla. Past President of the American Psychological Association, he is most famous as a principal founder of Client-Centered Therapy, perhaps the most important American contribution to psychotherapy. Dr. Rogers' insistence on the primacy of human values and human understanding in psychotherapy, education, and all phases of life has had a wide influence on his colleagues and countless others. His interests now have turned principally to the study of basic encounter groups and the philosophy of science.

THE PRESERVATION AND EXTENSION OF INDIVIDUAL FREEDOMS: TWO LECTURES by JOE K. ADAMS

Today, just as during the Soviet and Nazi revolutions, the Reformation, and the early centuries of Christianity, some of those who wish to lead the way into a "better life" are indifferent or hostile toward individual freedoms, considering the latter superfluous, impracticable, or destructive. An analysis of some of the means whereby masses of people are ideologically seduced into the loss of freedom will be presented. The cults of unintelligibility and irrationalism, which are especially strong among the younger generation, will be discussed. The present communication media make it possible, at least theoretically, to avoid the horrors of past revolutions and not only to preserve, but to extend individual freedoms. Constructive suggestions toward this goal will be presented, pertaining to the fields of education, recreation, and "mental health".

Two sessions of two hours each will be held. Each session will consist of a one hour lecture followed by a dialogue between the speaker and those of the audience who wish to ask questions or to challenge the assertions made.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8 P.M.

Tickets by advance sale: $2.00 per lecture.

JOE K. ADAMS describes himself as a "semi-hermit", living in Big Sur. After teaching psychology for seven years, he went into clinical training, then into research with LSD-25, then, after "more or less 'recovering' " from a psychosis, into the practice of psychotherapy. At present he devotes his time to "writing, brooding, and playing" and is one of a growing number of experts who have serious reservations about taking the role of "helper" in relation with "one who is being helped".

THE LESSONS OF KUNDALINI YOGA FOR WESTERN PSYCHOLOGY:

A seminar discussion of the themes developed by Joseph Campbell during his Thursday night talk.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 10 AM - 12 NOON

Tickets by advance sale: $3.00

JOHN BLEIBTREU is the author of The Parable of the Beast and an article in the Atlantic Monthly entitled "LSD and the Third Eye". In his writings he has assembled evidence that ancient intuitions about the "third eye" and the "serpent power" of Kundalini Yoga are substantiated by recent physiological discoveries.

EDWARD MAUPIN is a director of the Esalen Institute Residential Program in its second year. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

THE MYSTICAL EXPERIENCE & THE HERO'S JOURNEY led by JOSEPH CAMPBELL

A review and comparison of myths and legends representing fundamental historic stages in the transformation of man's concept and realization of the "quest beyond meaning". Primitive, Oriental and Occidental archtypes of the hero journey will be compared, with particular attention to the shift of accent in the European Grail Quest and Tristan romances from faith in traditional authority to individual experience in self-responsible adventure. Gnostic, Neoplatonic, Tantric, and modern psychological interpretations of the imagery will be analyzed and contrasted. The chief concern of the seminar will be for the relevance of the initiatory symbols to the adventure of modern life.

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with A Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer, as well as the five Bollingen volumes of Papers *from the Eranos Yearbooks. SCIENCE, MAN & THE YEAR 2000 A.D.:
led by LANCELOT LAW WHYTE

Much of Dr. Whyte's discussion will center around the philosophy of science in 1967. He will present an ethical and aesthetic outline of a possible escape from some present intellectual confusions. He will also elaborate the ideas from his book The Next Development in Man.

LANCELOT LAW WHYTE has been an important influence upon psychologists and philosophers who are interested in a unitary view of man and nature. Psychological theorists of the humanistic point of view, such as Maslow, Rogers and Perls, have long regarded him as one of the most important philosophers of science. His books include The Next Development in Man, The Unconscious Before Freud, and Internal Factors in Evolution.

A WORKSHOP IN BIO-ENERGETIC ANALYSIS led by ALEXANDER LOWEN

This workshop is professionally oriented for psychologists, therapists and people in related fields. Dr. Lowen will present the approach which he has developed at his Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis. His approach emphasizes the individual's potential for more pleasure, heightened feeling and greater self-awareness through the use of the rhythmic and involuntary movements of the body. Workshop participants will have an opportunity to experience the effects of techniques for reducing muscular tension and bodily rigidities and to explore the relation between body function and personality. The importance of bodily pleasure to personality will be a central emphasis.

Limited to twenty persons. For a bibliography of suggested reading write the Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis, 71 Park Avenue, New York.

$155 per person, shared room.

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm and The Betrayal of the Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

CREATIVITY AND INNOVATION led by GEORGE & JUDITH BROWN

Dr. Brown will present approaches which he has developed for increasing creativity and awareness. His approach draws from the principles of existential psychology, especially Gestalt Therapy, from synectics and from the personality research of Frank Barron and others. He has developed a number of specific methods himself, e.g., the use of a "creative sub-self", "hedonic impulse training" and a method for entering "other universes" through art. The workshop will emphasize the application of creativity and awareness to individual life style and vocation.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 4 - 10 P.M. with dinner break.

LISTENING TO CHILDREN
led by J. RICHARD SUCHMAN, MATTHEW MILES, ROSSLYN SUCHMAN & BETTY MILES

Children readily communicate their inner worlds of feelings, beliefs, ideas and come through clearly to those who can listen. In this weekend workshop, participants will be paired with children to explore their own abilities to listen to the inner child. In encounter groups, the participants will use these listening experiences as reference points in the exploration of self in relation to children.

The workshop will be designed for anyone who cares about more genuine contacts with children. Each participant will be required to bring his own tape recorder (battery operated if feasible) and supply of tape. When applying, please specify in which age level in children you are most interested. Limit: 24.
$70 per person, shared room.

J. RICHARD SUCHMAN, Ph.D. is a research psychologist and author-consultant at Science Research Associates in Palo Alto. He is well known for the inquiry training for children which he developed at the University of Illinois. For two years he was a director of research at the United States Office of Education.

MATTHEW B. MILES, Ph.D., is Professor of Psychology and Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, N. Y., and a research associate at the Horace Mann-Lincoln Institute of School Experimentation. He is the editor of Innovations in Education (Teachers College Press, 1964). He is pioneering in the application of group dynamics to educational innovation.

ROSSLYN SUCHMAN, Ph.D., is a research psychologist at the Institute for Human Development, University of California, Berkeley. She has a special interest in perceptual development and perceptual training of children.

BETTY MILES has authored books for young children and has taught at kindergarten and pre-school levels. She is particularly interested now in films for children.

SYNCHRONICITY & THE FRONTIERS OF TIME:
led by GEORGE I. BROWN & PETER MELCHIOR

Human beings tend in our age to become more and more absorbed in clockwork time—linear time which we invented and superimposed upon the natural world.

If you are a person who has experienced unusual coincidences, strange yet productive combinations of circumstances, and have wondered . . . and if you would like to share a weekend devoted to exploration of this phenomenon, you are invited to join others with a similar interest.

The seminar will include an informal exploration of the theory of synchronicity (meaningful coincidence) from Heraclitus to Jung and the notion that we may be able to expand certain self and culturally imposed limits in order to use synchronicity in a practical way. Limit: 30.

GEORGE I. BROWN is Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is especially interested in creativity and the usefulness of altered perception.

PETER MELCHIOR is on the staff of Esalen Institute. A book of his poems entitled Umbrellas for a Hard Rain has recently been published by Esalen Publications. He is a craftsman and poet with an eye for the unusual.

APPROACHES TO SENSORY AWAKENING
led by BERNARD GUNTHER

This workshop will introduce a variety of approaches to sensory awakening. Developed at the Esalen Institute by Bernard Gunther, this non-verbal process focuses on body language, posture and awareness. It employs various exercises and games to cultivate sensitivity and to allow more direct experience in the here and now.

Each evening will have a slightly different focus: On Monday evening, relaxation techniques will be presented. These techniques involve the focusing of awareness upon chronic tension patterns throughout the body and practice in control and release of these tensions.

On Tuesday evening the focus will be upon breathing, various unconscious interruptions of it and methods for allowing its more natural flow. Magda Proskauer, physiotherapist and teacher of body awareness in San Francisco, will co-lead this program with Mr. Gunther.

On Wednesday evening the focus will be upon movement, using approaches derived from dance and from methods developed by John Graham. Mr. Graham, a dancer and dance teacher at San Francisco State College, will co-lead this program with Mr. Gunther.

On Thursday evening the focus will be on body language and healing. Tension, depression and disease may be non-verbal messages trying to tell us something. This program will explore the possibilities of healing through paying attention to the body's messages. The exercises presented will use direct kinesthetic "feel" from within and sensory contact through touch.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 8 - 10:30 P.M.

A WORK SHOP WITH VIDEO TAPE: EXPLORATIONS IN SELF-CONFRONTATION led by FREDERICK H. STOLLER, BETTY BERZON, MARGARET ROBINSON & H. L. MYERHOFF

Video tape provides a mirror by which we may see ourselves as others see us. In this seminar a conceptual framework will be developed through discussions of the importance of self-image and role taking. Workshops will then be held in which participants will have opportunities to see themselves in interaction with others via video tape playback, in order to view their own non-verbal interaction, expressive movements and physical contact with others.
$70 per person, shared room.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, clinical psychologist, is a Senior Psychologist at Camarillo State Hospital. He is one of the major innovators of marathon therapy and has pioneered in open group therapy on closed-circuit television. His interest in the utilization of video tape in a group context led to the development of "focused feedback" to extend feedback functions of encounter groups. A novel by Jerry Sohl entitled The Lemon Eaters (Simon & Schuster, 1967) is based upon one of Dr. Stoller's groups.

BETTY BERZON, Research Associate of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California, is Director of a three year research project on self-directed therapeutic groups, under a grant from the U. S. Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. She has conducted numerous sensitivity workshops and is particularly interested in the innovative uses of this approach.

MARGARET ROBINSON is currently a psychology associate at Camarillo State Hospital where she is conducting research on video tape feedback. Formerly an actress, she is active as a consultant to industry, utilizing her interest in video tape.

H. L. MYERHOFF has conducted research in the development of marathon groups at Camarillo State Hospital where he is a psychology associate. Last summer he conducted field research in the psychology of the Chontal Indians in the Oaxaca region of Mexico. He has also conducted field observations of middle class gangs.

EXPLORATIONS IN POSITIVE EXPERIENCE
led by STEWART B. SHAPIRO

Critics of psychotherapy and group dynamics have often complained that these fields lack the light touch, that they involve too much "blood letting". Dr. Shapiro's approach to psychotherapy, however, is a rollicking takeoff from the premise that learning is joy. His approach draws theoretically from Maslow, Rogers, Perls and Berne, and in methodology from basic encounter groups, Gestalt Therapy, Transactional Analysis and other sources. Dr. Shapiro has added techniques of his own such as a method for "inner dialogue" among various sub-selves, the use of "self-drawing" and "mirror-talking".

THE ANATOMY OF INSPIRATION led by GUNTHER WEIL

Our current understanding of the creative process recognizes the importance of: 1) the interplay of cognitive and emotional polarities, and 2) the synthesis of familiar, disparate and sometimes contradictory elements into new, extraordinary gestalts. These features also seem characteristic of other altered states of awareness.

Participants in this seminar will explore the application of a training model developed by Dr. Weil that deliberately stimulates these important attributes of creative awareness. The model has been adapted for a variety of uses: group encounter training; "discovery" or inquiry learning; dream-logic analysis; dramatic interpretation; management training and new product development.

Seminar participants will have the opportunity to: 1) explore the historical and theoretical development of the training model; 2) experiment with current techniques; and 3) apply the model to a variety of problems that they may bring to the seminar or which may spontaneously emerge during the seminar weekend. Limited to 30 participants.

GUNTHER WEIL is a social psychologist currently conducting research and training for the Education Development Center in Boston, Mass. He has done extensive educational and industrial consulting with particular emphasis on the psychology and sociology of creativity and innovation. He was formerly Assistant Professor of Psychology at Brandeis University and also a past editor of the Psychedelic Review.

SELF-DISCOVERY THROUGH THEATER led by GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D.

Avant garde drama offers a medium by which we may penetrate phoniness and contact our own emotions. Conventional structures for interpreting reality are challenged by the play. No new structure is provided. The theater-goer who permits himself to get involved must reach inside himself to find meaning. If the drama is not dismissed as meaningless, the only way to cope with the shock of its impact is to explore one's own inner experience.

In this program we will present excerpts from such playwrights as Beckett, Pirandello, Albee. We will then meet in small groups to share the feelings and meanings which emerge out of participation (as audience) in the drama. The small group will provide the medium through which vague emotions may become clarified and integrated into one's image of one's self. Thus may be completed the self-discovery process initiated by the drama.

GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D., was President of the Arizona State Psychological Association and of the Western Region American Academy of Psychotherapists.

THE GENERATION GAP: ADOLESCENTS AND THEIR PARENTS led by WILLIAM ZIELONKA, Ph.D.

The present gulf bewteen adolescents and their parents seems, to many, to be greater than ever. The pace of social change and the presence of many cultural and individual tensions contribute to a sense of alienation within families. Issues of individuality, authority, identity, freedom, and responsibility, essential to the emergence of the adolescent into adulthood and equally important to the parent, may be the source of conflict or the scene of genuine love. It is hoped that many adolescents will attend this lecture and take part in the discussion which follows it.

DESIGNING ENVIRONMENTS FOR EXPANDING AWARENESS

A LECTURE AND PANEL DISCUSSION

Our growing technological capabilities and the new interest in increasing awareness are both demanding a new approach to our man-made environment. If man's self-created environment is an externalization of his psychic needs, what will it be like when he no longer needs rigid boundaries, outward coercions or a mass of inert protective material. This question will be discussed in a lecture with slides by Neill Smith, San Francisco architect, and then by a panel. The same panel will meet on Friday morning, November 24th, with R. Buckminster Fuller to discuss his perspectives on these questions.

SENSORY AWAKENING FOR COUPLES
led by BERNARD GUNTHER

We often allow our most intimate relationships to become static and routine. Habit replaces contact and we rarely experience the other person or the vast possibilities which might be shared. Fixed concepts and excessive tension are major reasons for such closedoffness. In this sensory awakening weekend for couples (not necessarily married) we will explore relaxation, awareness, massage and sensory encounter as means for opening to one another.

A WEEKEND WITH MEMBERS OF THE INSTITUTE FOR CREATIVE & ARTISTIC DEVELOPMENT

The Institute for Creative and Artistic Development provides a sophisticated total growth program. In its theoretical statement, love and joy are key concepts for understanding and promoting personal growth. Its staff will demonstrate some of the approaches they have worked out over the past three years, including techniques for relating experiences of love and joy to theatrical productions. (Graham Leath Productions, the theatre division of the Institute, is a leading avant garde dance group.) The Institute is applying principles of creative behavior, as well as the experience of joy, in the public educational system from kindergarten to college. Also, the Institute has developed a therapeutic program for married couples and their adolescent children.

This weekend will provide a variety of experiences, including a workshop and a theater presentation. This will give participants a chance to understand, experience, and question the Institute's program. The staff of the Institute which is located in Berkeley includes:

EUGENE SAGAN—psychologist
JUANITA BRADSHAW—Creative Behavior teacher
JOHN GRAHAM—dancer and dance teacher
A. A. LEATH—dancer and dance teacher

CREATIVITY & AWARENESS
led by GEORGE I. BROWN & JUDITH BROWN

Making use of research, both theoretical and functional, the workshop will capitalize on recent innovations in the development of creativity. The workshop will divide into three phases: 1) a theoretical discussion involving psychological and philosophical dimensions of the creative process, 2) experiences in "transiential" techniques such as the creative sub-self, synectics, self-object modification, hedonic impulse training, and the "other universes through art" approach, and 3) the application of principles of Gestalt Therapy to personal and professional functioning.

By arrangement with University of California Extension, Santa Barbara, two units of professional credit will be offered.
$155 per person, shared room

GEORGE I. BROWN is Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is currently interested in building models for the affective domain that can become part of the school curriculum. His major emphasis has been on the relationship of creativity, existence and awareness, and on the application of principles of existential psychology—especially Gestalt Therapy—to educational practice.

JUDITH BROWN has worked as co-trainer with her husband with student groups and adults. Her own training has been with Dr. Frederick Perls, founder of Gestalt Therapy. She is the mother of four children.

OPEN WORKSHOP
led by WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ (See page 16)

PROGRAMS WITH WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

DR. WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ has recently joined the Esalen staff as Director of the Residential Program. Dr. Schutz is a teacher, researcher, theorist and practitioner in the fields of interpersonal behavior and research design. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Berkeley and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was the research director of a state-wide study of school administration in California and the national research co-ordinator for one of the largest inter-university projects in education, the Cooperative Program for Educational Development (COPED) of the U. S. Office of Education.

*As a theorist, his work on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior (*The Interpersonal Underworld, Science and Behavior Books, 1966) has been called, "The most promising attempt yet offered for an integrated theory of group dynamics and psychoanalysis." (Durkin, The Group in Depth*). Tests derived from his FIRO theory have been translated into Spanish, French, Japanese, Hebrew and Finnish.*

His most important immediate contribution to the Esalen program will be through his innovation in group methods. Dr. Schutz is recognized as one of the leading encounter group (T-group) trainers in the country, has served on the staff of the National Training Laboratories Intern Training Program at Bethel, Maine. For the past two years he has taught group process and group psychotherapy to psychiatric residents. In his recent work he has begun to integrate group methods, body movement, fantasy, psychodrama and other techniques. His latest theoretical efforts (described in a book to be published by Grove Press in late 1967) attempt to establish a framework for such an integration.

During the coming year, Dr. Schutz will lead a five-day program every month. On alternate months he will conduct advanced workshops with specialists in fields such as psychodrama, sensory awareness, fantasy, behavior therapy, Gestalt therapy and meditation. As a prerequisite for attendance at the advanced workshops, one must have participated in one of Dr. Schutz's open workshops or a similar program.

October 29 - November 3

OPEN WORKSHOP

A workshop combining the encounter group with body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy experiments, psychodrama and the micro-lab. There will also be some poetry reading and writing and dramatic improvisation. Developing the ability to experience joy is the workshop's guiding theme.

November 26 - December 1

ADVANCED WORKSHOP

co-led with HANNAH WEINER

HANNAH WEINER is a well known expert in psychodrama and a former student of J. L. Moreno.

December 31 - January 5

Didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy and procedures for family diagnosis and treatment. Limit: 25.
$175 per person, shared room

VIRGINIA SATIR is a Director of the Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute. Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from reseach at the Mental Reseach Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and has helped to establish "well family" clinics in various parts of the United States. She is also developing a center at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, to explore and integrate the various modes of communication and family development.

INSTITUTES WITH FREDERICK S. PERLS

FREDERICK S. PERLS, M.D., the founder of Gestalt Therapy, is in permanent residance at the Esalen Institute, Big Sur. He will conduct seminars and workshops on the following dates:

FIVE-DAY WORKSHOPS

November 12 - 17

November 19 - 24

$155 per person, shared room

December 26 - 31 with Dr. James S. Simkin

December 8 - 17

$295 per person, shared room

In these workshops Dr. Perls will be assisted by ROBERT K. HALL, M.D. Dr. Hall is a psychiatrist, currently an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur. He believes that many "abnormal" states of consciousness are but extensions of awareness into the unfamiliar aspects of common reality. He is interested in the use of Gestalt technique, "group-mind" experiences and writing as vehicles for serious exploration of unusual modes of experience and reality.

VIDEO-TAPE FEEDBACK will be used during these workshops from time to time.

RENTAL OF VIDEO-TAPES exploring various aspects of Dr. Perls' approach is now possible. For information write: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE

With the opening of the San Francisco program, Esalen Institute is starting a new service. We will act as consultant to families, organizations and individuals who would like to experiment with the kinds of approaches we present in our seminars. We will encourage those who approach us to design their own program, while we provide ideas, contacts and the resources of our staff. We will try anything—from one-day marathons to year-long educational experiments—about which we feel competent, drawing upon psychologists, artists, architects, awareness teachers or whoever is needed for the program's success. The aim of this service will be to fit imaginative ideas (informed by the best research and experience available) to the needs and interests of the participants.

DO YOU DO IT? OR DOES IT DO YOU?
Seminar led by ALAN WATTS

An exploration of the volitional relationship between the knower and the known, and thus of the Hindu-Buddhist doctrine of karma, that "everything which comes to you is a return to you of what went out of you." In other words: Is what happens to you just what you wanted?

The program will include a Harp Concert given by JOEL ANDREWS, Saturday at 9 p.m.

$65 per person, shared room

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been—with D. T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years Dr. Watts has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

JOEL ANDREWS is a leading harp virtuoso, has performed with the San Francisco Symphony and other leading orchestras. He has invented many new effects for the harp, which have been used in movies, compositions of his own, and for producing special psychic effects.

Tuesday Evenings at 8 p.m.

DANTE'S WAY TO THE STARS
7 lectures by CLAUDIO NARANJO

"Midway in our life's journey I went astray from the straight road and woke to find myself alone in a dark wood." These are the first lines of the work wherein Dante shows—not the "direct way," for this he regards incompatible with the "present state of humanity"—but another way, long and contemplative, which may lead man to his full spiritual goal after knowledge of hell and the effortful climbing to Purgatory.

The seminar will attempt to show the relevance of Dante's ideas to contemporary man and the relevance of his developmental conception to that of present trends in psychiatry.

The emphasis in the meetings will be on self observation, psychological exercises and a group discussion of Dante's symbols rather than upon traditional literary comment.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8:00 p.m.

Series ticket $15; single lecture $2.50 (Students: $10; $2)

CLAUDIO NARANJO is a practicing psychiatrist and a former professor of Psychology of Art. He is principally known for his research in psychopharmacology at the University of Chile. He has been a Fulbright scholar at Harvard University and a Guggenheim Fellow at U.C. Berkeley.

KINETIC THEATRE
5-Day Workshop with ANN HALPRIN and LAWRENCE HALPRIN

Ann Halprin will present her approach to Kinetic Theatre. This approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. Exercises will be structured to (1) build the individual's natural movement abilities, (2) release spontaneous processes leading to art events and (3) translate the art experiences into personal statements. These exercises will interrelate with the immediate environment.

The course is limited to professional psychotherapists and advanced students in theatre, architecture and related arts.

Location: To be announced (write Esalen, PO Box 31389, San Francisco 94131)

Time: Monday thru Friday, 4 p.m.-10 p.m. with dinner break

Workshop reservation: $75

See March 1-3 for additional event with Ann Halprin.

ANN HALPRIN founded the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco in 1950, and since then has been its artistic director. She has appeared and directed underground art movies and a TV program produced in Sweden for world-wide distribution; has taught and produced happenings in universities and colleges throughout the country; and is currently participating in the Dancers' Workshop Training Program in San Francisco. She has travelled with her company to major international festivals in Italy, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Finland and Poland. A featured article in the June 26, 1967 National Observer says: "Ann Halprin has extended the frontier of dance beyond even the most recognized avant-garde artist, both by performance and by teaching." The approach that will be used in these workshops was reported extensively in Progressive Architecture of July 1967 and Dance Magazine of November 1966.

LAWRENCE HALPRIN, environmental designer and author of Cities and Freeways, will make a presentation pertinent to this approach during the San Francisco workshop.

U.S.A. 2000: THREE ALTERNATIVE VIEWS

Lectures by CARL ROGERS, HERMAN KAHN, and ALAN WATTS

The United States in the year 2000 will surely be a far cry from what it is today. One way of speculating about our future is by constructing pictures or scenarios of future possibilities based upon highly selected national and international trends.

Each of the speakers will present his own scenario extrapolated from (1) the developing concern for more fulfilling human relationships, (2) the increasing availability of sophisticated technology, and (3) the growing desire for transcendental, psychedelic, or consciousness-expanding experience.

Location: Longshoremen's Memorial Hall, Mason and Beach

Time: Wednesday, 8:00 p.m.-10:30 p.m.

Lecture tickets by advance sale: $3.00 (Students $2.00)

U.S.A. 2000: THREE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEMS

Seminars led by WILLIS HARMAN, RICHARD FARSON, and DONALD MICHAEL

Education by its very nature is future oriented. Today's pre-schooler will be a middle-aged wage earner at the turn of the century; how might we educate him now for life in the year 2000?

Each discussion group will design a model educational system for one of three possible worlds: TRANSCENDENTAL, INTERPERSONAL, or TECHNOLOGICAL. They will then seek a synthesis of the three models. Each seminar will be limited to 25 participants, with preferences given to students and educators.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral, California at Taylor

Time: Wednesday, 8:00 to 10:30 p.m. public lectures and dialogue with ROGERS, KAHN, WATTS at LONGSHOREMEN'S MEMORIAL HALL, TAYLOR AND BEACH are included.

Thursday, 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.: Gresham Hall—Group discussions

Friday, 9 a.m. to 12:00 noon: Gresham Hall—Group reports and model synthesis

Seminar reservation: $45 per person

CARL ROGERS is presently a Resident Fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute at La Jolla. Past President of the American Psychological Association, he is most famous as a principal founder of Client-Centered Therapy, author of On Becoming a Person, and critic of Skinnerian Psychology.

HERMAN KAHN is Director and principal founder of Hudson Institute, an organization for the study of public policy and future possibilities. Formerly engaged as a physicist at the RAND Corporation, Mr. Kahn is author of On Thermonuclear War and Thinking About the Unthinkable.

ALAN WATTS is a noted writer, lecturer, and philosopher. He is author of The Way of Zen; The Joyous Cosmology; Adventures in the Chemistry of Consciousness; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other books and articles on Oriental religion and philosophy.

WILLIS HARMAN (transcendental world) is a Professor of Engineering at Stanford University and Director of the Pilot Educational Policy Research Center at Stanford Research Institute. He has taught, for 11 years, a seminar on The Human Potentiality at Stanford, is on the Board of Editors of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology, has done research on educational implications of psychedelic experience, and has published on the human potentiality and on potential educational and creative uses of psychedelic drugs.

RICHARD FARSON (interpersonal world) is Director of both the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute and of the Pilot Educational Policy Research Center located there. He is a social psychologist and has lectured at Harvard University, University of Chicago, and San Diego State College. He has done research and written extensively on sensitivity training, small group processes, education, and the future; he also edited Science and Human Affairs.

DONALD MICHAEL (technological world) is Professor of Psychology and Program Director, Center for Research on the Utilization of Scientific Knowledge, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan and a Fellow and co-founder of the Institute for Policy Studies, Washington, D.C. He is author of The Next Generation: The Prospects Ahead for the Youth of Today and Tomorrow and Cybernation: The Silent Conquest.

DAVID GOLDBERG (program coordinator) is Advanced Planning Officer, Bureau of Research, U. S. Office of Education where he administers the Policy Research Center Program. He was formerly a Lecturer in Psychology, Yale University and Research Fellow, Yale University Medical School.

CREATIVE AWARENESS AND EDUCATION: An Experimental Workshop
Seminar led by RICHARD KATZ

Part of the flatness in education comes from a failure to encourage the sensing of one's self and environment in any new way. Workshop members will participate in a series of experiential awareness exercises which have particular relevance to education. The exercises will utilize non-verbal media, such as body language. They will emphasize non-verbal experience and communication, and sensory enhancement.

As an outgrowth of these exercises, workshop members will consider whether and how education can stimulate awareness and draw out its catalytic powers for increasing creativity and personal growth.

$60 per person, shared room

RICHARD KATZ, formerly Lecturer in Education at Harvard, is now teaching at Brandeis University. Originally trained as a clinical psychologist, his research now focuses on personal and social growth, and deals with such areas as: enhanced knowing and perception, including the psychedelic experience, alternative models of education; non-verbal media, including body language, film and photography; and techniques for increasing awareness. He serves as a consultant with the Outward Bound Schools and the Peace Corps.

THE NEW DOMAINS OF EDUCATION
5-Day Workshop with THE ESALEN RESIDENTIAL FELLOWS

Esalen Institute is now conducting its second 9-month Residential Program. Since September 1967 twenty Resident Fellows have been working with sensory awakening, basic encounter groups, meditation, Gestalt Therapy, and other approaches combined into a single, intensive learning experiment. During this experiment they hope to improve current methods for educating the senses, the feelings, personal relationships and altered states of consciousness, and to find ways to integrate these methods into education generally.

In this workshop the Resident Fellows and the program directors, Bill Schutz and Edward Maupin, will report on the program results to date and conduct experiential sessions to give workshop participants a direct look at their work.

$155 per person, shared room

EDWARD MAUPIN, a member of the first year Residential Program, is co-director with Dr. Schutz of the Program in its second year. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is director of the Residential Program. See page 21 for further biographical data.

PSYCHOTECHNICS
A seminar with SUSAN SONTAG

During this seminar Miss Sontag will elaborate the themes first stated in her San Francisco lecture (see above). During this more expanded discussion she will explore similarities and differences between various contemplative disciplines and modern approaches toward the expansion of consciousness, such as those of Freud, Stanislavsky and Norman O. Brown.

$60 per person, shared room

SUSAN SONTAG has taught philosophy at Harvard, City College of New York, Sarah Lawrence College, and Columbia University. She has received fellowships from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Guggenheim Foundation, has published a number of short stories and two novels, The Benefactor and Death Kit. She is a prolific essayist and many of her writings in this form have been collected in Against Interpretation. She is currently at work on her third novel.

BEING INTIMATE IN A LARGE GROUP: A Radical Experiment in Encounter
4-day Workshop led by JACK and LORRAINE GIBB

Jack and Lorraine Gibb have pioneered in demonstrating that some of the same aims usually achieved in T-groups and the intensive small group experience (personal growth, authenticity, intimacy, openness, warmth) can be achieved in large groups, in relatively short periods of time, without the presence of professional leaders. These findings have great significance for people working in education, youth groups, women's groups, industry, extension classes, religious education.

In this workshop each participant will join a small encounter group for the four-day period. Each evening all participants (hopefully 100 to 200 in number) will interact as a single group, in a variety of ways, using some of the approaches pioneered by the Gibbs. These approaches include: microlabs, confrontation teams, sensory awareness, meditation, listening teams, the triangular group, multiple role playing, and other methods modified or devised by the Gibbs to create intimacy in the large group situation.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 5:00 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. each day, Monday thru Thursday, with one hour out for dinner

Workshop registration: $25 (Students $20)

JACK GIBB is a consulting psychologist in private practice in La Jolla. As an organizational development specialist he has worked with General Motors, Dow Chemical Company, the National YMCA, the Methodist Church, American Telephone and Telegraph, and the U. S. Department of State. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. He is co-editor of the basic text: T-Group Theory and Laboratory Method. With his wife LORRAINE, Dr. Gibb has achieved in large groups those phenomena of openness, warmth, intimacy, authenticity and personal growth that characterize similar experiences in small groups.

RACIAL CONFRONTATION AS TRANSCENDENTAL EXPERIENCE
Weekend seminar led by GEORGE B. LEONARD and PRICE COBBS

Racial segregation exists among people with divided selves. A person who is alien to some part of himself is invariably separated from anyone who represents that alien part. The historic effort to integrate black man and white has involved us all in a vast working out of our divided human nature.

Racial confrontation can be an example for all kinds of human encounter. When it goes deep enough—beyond superficial niceties and role-playing—it can be a vehicle for transcendental experience. Price Cobbs, a Negro psychiatrist from San Francisco, and George Leonard, a white journalist and author born and raised in Georgia, will conduct a marathon group encounter between races. The group will try to get past the roles and attitudes that divide its participants, so that they may encounter at a level beyond race.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8:00 p.m., Friday evening
10:00 a.m., Saturday continuous through the night to Sunday morning

Seminar reservation: $50 per person

GEORGE B. LEONARD, Senior Editor and West Coast Editorial Manager of LOOK Magazine, is widely known for his articles on segregation and education. His forthcoming book Education and Ecstacy will explore many aspects of human potentiality. From his upbringing in Georgia and his travels for LOOK Magazine, he has acquired an intimate knowledge of the agonies and opportunities of racial confrontation.

PRICE COBBS is a psychiatrist in private practice in San Francisco. He is also an assistant clinical professor in psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, and is very active in the social applications of psychiatry. He is a consultant to the Glide Foundation in San Francisco.

This event will be repeated on the weekend of April 19-21.

TOWARD A WIDER MEANING IN MARRIAGE

Seminar workshop with JERRY and SALLY SMITH

In many, or perhaps most, marital relationships there is a tension between being close and being free to fulfill oneself as a separate person. As long as the relationship continues to be vital, this paradox is rarely resolved; instead it is coped with creatively or destructively. When coped with creatively a couple can risk expressing a wide variety and intensity of feelings to each other. The greater the variety and intensity, the greater the possibility for life rather than blandness in the relationship.

Focus throughout this workshop will be on a greater awareness of the relationship in the moment rather than the "baggage" of the past. Innovative approaches will be used, including sensory experiences, couples' art expression, Gestalt applications, and role playing.

Limited to 12 couples.

$140 per couple; $40 per couple non-refundable deposit required

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

SALLY SMITH is a wife, mother and homemaker and a frequent partner with her husband in group experiences for couples and families.

See March 16-17, May 3-5 for additional events with the Smiths.

THE QUEST FOR LOVE

Seminar led by BETTY BERZON and FREDERICK H. STOLLER

A weekend workshop for single men and women who want to explore the personal meaning of their own quest for love. Participants will meet in small groups to examine the process by which we become acquainted with and move closer to other human beings. In the group sessions video-tape will be used to reflect back to individuals how they tend to invite and receive the interest of others.

BETTY BERZON has been a Research Associate at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute since 1959. During that time she has conducted the Institute's research program on self-directed groups. Her particular interest is in innovative uses of small groups for personal growth learning. She is author of a number of papers and is co-editor of a book The Use of Small Groups in Rehabilitation: New Directions from Research.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is a Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, where he is engaged in training and research of group methods. He is responsible for introducing the use of video-tape into the group setting and his technique of focussed feedback is designed to enhance the functions of encounter groups. He is co-author of a book on the marathon approach to learning in small groups, tentatively titled The 300 Year Weekend.

MY OWN PHILOSOPHY AND PSYCHOLOGY

Seminar with COLIN WILSON

Another free-wheeling weekend of talk with Mr. Wilson, this time about the intertwining roots of modern psychology and philosophy. Mr. Wilson proposes to elaborate his fundamental disagreement with Freud and enunciate his own psychological and philosophical orientation, with special reference to Maslow, Frankl, Straus, Boss and others.

$60 per person, shared room

COLIN WILSON published his first book The Outsider in 1956 at the age of 24. Since then he has published a dozen books elaborating the themes of man's dilemma as an evolutionary being struggling to emerge from a dead universe. He left school at the age of 16 to educate himself, and is now living quietly and working both in the U. S. and the Cornwall countryside.

A WORKSHOP FOR THE EXPLORATION OF MOVEMENT led by JO ANNE TAYLOR

In this workshop an effort will be made to release the movement impulse and increase the natural range and freedom of body functioning. Mrs. Taylor feels that such experience of physical enhancement strengthens one's sense of personal identity.

Since enrollment is limited, there will be a selection of applicants. Those wishing to register are requested to write Ensalen Institute for an application to be returned by JANUARY 15. Notification of selection will be sent out by January 20.

$155 per person, shared room ($20 non-refundable deposit required; deposit is returned if application not accepted for this workshop)

JO ANNE TAYLOR, teacher of movement and dance, was trained by Mary Whitehouse and is a member of her staff in Los Angeles. Mrs. Taylor has studied intensively with Magda Proskauer and at the Martha Graham School in New York.

DISCLOSING MAN TO HIMSELF
A weekend with SIDNEY JOURARD

In this seminar Dr. Jourard will discuss his most recent thinking about self-disclosure, transcendence and ecstasy. He will also conduct experiential sessions to explore the role of self-disclosure in promoting self-knowledge and knowledge of others.

$60 per person, shared room

SIDNEY JOURARD, Professor of Psychology, University of Florida, is well known for his extensive research on self-disclosure. He has been concerned with the depersonalizing effect of psychological research upon its subjects. With this concern and his interest in human spirit and growth, he has encouraged the development of a more humanistic psychology in the United States. He is the author of Personal Adjustment, The Transparent Self and Disclosing Man to Himself.

TOWARD EXPANDED CONSCIOUSNESS
Seminar with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS

Expansion of consciousness is possible without the traditional religious practices of fasting and deprivation on the one hand, or the use of chemicals on the other. Consciousness can be refined and deepened through sensitive exploration of the living organism—both in its inner functioning and in its interaction with the world.

Miss Selver's approach to sensory awareness encourages this kind of sensitive exploration, emphasizing the organism's natural capacity for harmony and delight.

$65 per person, shared room

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are on the staff of the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception and Relating. They also hold regular classes in New York and in Northern and Southern California. The approach they use was originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany; this approach has been further developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration.

THE SYMBO EXPERIMENT

3-day Workshop led by EDWARD MAUPIN

The English language emphasizes individuality and separateness. The Symbo Experiment, developed in the Esalen Residential Program, maximizes other kinds of experience by suspending the separateness assumption.

Participants will join in groups of six or eight to explore their group in the light of the new assumptions of relatedness, reciprocity, symbiosis, and organic growth. There are three rules: (1) See the group as an organism. (2) Be aware of what is going on. (3) Do not try to change anything. The Symbo Experiment accomplishes much the same results as a Marathon, without force or coercion, simply by allowing.

$90 per person, shared room

EDWARD MAUPIN is a director of the Esalen Institute Residential Program in its second year. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

COUPLES WORKSHOP: "EXPERIENCING ONE ANOTHER"

Led by DICK MILLER and JOAN ZWEBEN

Rather than relating directly, we usually respond to our images, myths, or expectations of the other person. This is especially true of what could be our most significant relationships—love and intimacy.

In this 5-day workshop the participants will work towards dissolving depersonalization through direct contact with one another. Communication through gesture, touch and voice, will be a central focus. There will be encounter groups, using verbal and non-verbal techniques in an effort to achieve heightened appreciation of the sensory, emotional and intellectual dimensions of both self and the other.

The workshop will begin with a 20-hour marathon.

COUPLES WEEKEND: "EXPERIENCING ONE ANOTHER"

Led by DICK MILLER and JOAN ZWEBEN

This weekend seminar follows the same pattern as the longer 5-day workshop listed above. It too will begin with a 24-hour marathon.

In both cases "Couples" can refer to any significant two-person relationship: work, play, love; business, friendship, marriage.

$140 per couple ($40 per couple non-refundable deposit required)

DICK L. MILLER is on the faculty of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he is a Clinical Psychologist in the Counseling Division of the Bureau of Psychological Services and a Lecturer in the Department of Psychology. He is also coordinator of a large-scale program utilizing experimental innovations to facilitate college teaching.

JOAN ZWEBEN is currently completing work on her doctorate in clinical psychology. She has received intensive training in psychoanalytic psychotherapy, and has done marital therapy and co-led marathons. Her major interest is in family therapy, and she is currently doing research on parenthood as a growth experience.

AGGRESSION AND PEACE REVISITED

A 3-day Seminar led by GEORGE BACH

This seminar will explore more effective means of dealing with man's hostility to man on all levels:

1. Intrapsychic (self-destruction)
2. Interpersonal (marital fighting)
3. Intergroup (intergenerational—the generation gap; interracial—black against white)
4. International (Vietnam and Israeli wars)

For the past 23 years, beginning in 1944 with research on young children's terrible fantasies, Dr. Bach has been engaged in an intensive study of aggressive behavior and conflict. In this seminar he will share the results of his research and observations.

Dr. Bach writes, "The student of human aggression can learn to recognize the transformation of aggression from the intrapsychic and interpersonal levels to the intergroup level, or from personally responsible aggressive styles to anonymous, personally non-responsible aggressive styles. The aggressive practices of traditional institutions, including the military establishment and other political, nationalistic and economic structures, will be examined in this seminar. These institutions often reinforce destructive ways of psychologically and socially managing aggression."

It is Dr. Bach's position that aggression is here to stay and that to ignore its existence is dangerous. The exclusive emphasis on "Love" is unrealistic and self-deceptive. We must develop new channels, and move toward new solutions.

Seminar participants will meet in small groups to practice "hurtless aggression." These groups will be given fight issues to work out, using constructive fight techniques which Dr. Bach will explain in his lectures. The seminar will also explore the possibility of containing aggression through developing a greater acceptance of realistic eyeball-to-eyeball, rather than person-to-symbol, aggressive confrontation and by developing a new anti-ethic to the then-and-there forms of aggression.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: Monday, 4:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.
Tuesday, 4:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.
Wednesday, 4:30 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Seminar reservation: $30 per person

GEORGE R. BACH has worked with intensive therapeutic groups for more than 20 years. He is one of the originators of the "marathon" group experience, for which he has gained national recognition. He is now in private practice in Los Angeles and is a consultant for various organizations. He is the author of Intimate Enemy, a study of intimate relationship.

SUMIE AND CALLIGRAPHY

A weekend with HISASHI OHTA

This seminar and workshop with Dr. Ohta includes instruction and practice in both Sumie—Oriental brush painting—and Calligraphy—Japanese Kanji, Gyosho, Sosho.

Dr. Ohta writes: "Sumie and Calligraphy seek the creative essence of tranquility. They are not only art forms, but also a contemplative approach to life. Zen teaches that Buddhahood is present, but dormant, within every individual and that it can be reached not only by contemplation and self-examination but also by such disciplines as Sumie and Calligraphy."

An individual set of Sumie art supplies, personally selected by Dr. Ohta, is included in the seminar fee.

$72 per person, shared room

HISASHI OHTA, a native of Tokyo, began his study of Sumi art at the age of eight. After graduating from Tokyo University, he traveled extensively through the Orient, making a special study of ancient Chinese art. In the United States since 1958, he has lectured at many major museums throughout the country, and taught at the Chouinard Art Institute and at the Pasadena Museum of Art. He is currently teaching at the University Extension of UCLA and at the Master Sumie Art Center in Beverly Hills, of which he is also the founder.

KINETIC THEATRE
A weekend with ANN HALPRIN

Ann Halprin will present her approach to Kinetic Theatre. This approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. Exercises will be structured to (1) build the individual's natural movement abilities, (2) release spontaneous processes leading to art events and (3) translate the art experiences into personal statements. These exercises will interrelate with the immediate environment.

The course is limited to professional psychotherapists and advanced students in theatre, architecture and related arts.

Location: To be announced (write Esalen, PO Box 31389, San Francisco 94131)

Time: Monday thru Friday, 4 p.m.-10 p.m. with dinner break

Workshop reservation: $75

ANN HALPRIN founded the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco in 1950, and since then has been its artistic director. She has appeared and directed underground art movies and a TV program produced in Sweden for world-wide distribution; has taught and produced happenings in universities and colleges throughout the country; and is currently participating in the Dancers' Workshop Training Program in San Francisco. She has travelled with her company to major international festivals in Italy, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Finland and Poland. A featured article in the June 26, 1967 National Observer says: "Ann Halprin has extended the frontier of dance beyond even the most recognized avant garde artist, both by performance and by teaching." The approach that will be used in these workshops was reported extensively in Progressive Architecture of July 1967 and Dance Magazine of November 1966.

ECOLOGICAL AWARENESS
9 Lectures by RALPH METZNER

Drawing on the teachings and theories of Tibetan Buddhism, G. I. Gurdjieff, Teilhard de Chardin, Buckminster Fuller, the American Indians and modern ecologists, as well as the results of psychedelic researches, this course will explore concepts of reciprocal balance and conscious interrelatedness in four areas: (1) man's relationship to the universe; (2) his interaction with other life-forms on this planet; (3) his relationships with fellow-men; and (4) the field of his own consciousness.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8:00 p.m.

DIMENSIONS OF CONSCIOUSNESS

March 8-10 Big Sur

HYPNOSIS, PERCEPTION AND THE DIMENSIONS OF CONSCIOUSNESS

A Seminar with BERNARD AARONSON

Alteration of consciousness involves both perceptual and cognitive changes. In the older literature on mystical experience, attention was focused on what one must do to produce these experiences rather than on what must happen before other changes can take place. In the recent literature on psychedelic experience resulting from drug ingestion, attention has been focused on biochemical and neurophysical correlates of such experience. To understand adequately what occurs when consciousness changes, one must be able to trace causation at the level of consciousness itself. This is not only of value in its own right but affords ways of making biochemical accounts more specific and behavorial training more precise.

This course involves the presentation of the data from a series of experiments on the effects of posthypnotic suggestion of perceptual change on behavior.

$60 per person, shared room

BERNARD AARONSON, Ph.D., is currently Chief of the Experimental Psychology Section of the New Jersey Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry at Princeton, and is Director of the Psychology Department of the Trenton State Hospital. During the past few years Dr. Aaronson has become fascinated with space-time perception as a function of mental disease. He has designed both experimental procedures and equipment which demonstrate that the sense of time's passage and the dimensions of space vary from individual to individual and that, by altering these perceptions through hypnotic suggestion, one can radially alter large sections of the behavioral repertoire. He has published almost half a hundred scholarly papers for the journals on these and related subjects.

PERCEPTION AND ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS

A Symposium with BERNARD AARONSON, HUMPHREY OSMOND, JOE KAMIYA, EDWARD MAUPIN, RALPH METZNER and CHARLES T. TART

This symposium will review various new researches which shed light on the alteration of consciousness. Recent work with hypnosis, brain wave conditioning, meditation, psychedelic drugs and other procedures will be discussed and compared. A few demonstrations of these procedures will be presented, chiefly with hypnosis, meditation, and new group methods.

The symposium leaders will all speculate about future possibilities for the expansion of consciousness and will make some proposals of their own about what can be done now.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday evenings

Symposium tickets: Series $9; single admission $3 (Students: $7.50; $2.50)

JOE KAMIYA, Ph.D., is a research psychologist at Langley Porter Institute, San Francisco. In an attempt to combine introspection with objective measurement, he created the original experiments enabling human beings to gain control of their brain wave patterns.

EDWARD MAUPIN, Ph.D., is a director of the Esalen Institute Residential Program in its second year. Before coming to Esalen, he was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was probably the only one in American history on the subject of Meditation.

RALPH METZNER, Ph.D., is Editor of The Psychedelic Review. He is co-author of The Psychedelic Experience with Timothy Leary and Richard Alpert, and is the editor of a forthcoming collection of descriptions of psychedelic experiences entitled The Ecstatic Adventure, to be published in the Spring of 1968 by Macmillan.

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Psychology, University of California, Davis. He has conducted research and has published widely in the fields of sleep and dreaming, hypnosis, and ESP. He is currently conducting a research project funded by the National Institute of Mental Health to study the possibility of controlling and utilizing the dream state.

CONSCIOUSNESS AND SOCIETY: Past, Present and Future

A seminar with HUMPHRY OSMOND

A discussion with Dr. Osmond of the personal and social consequences of a growing knowledge of experiential worlds. Dr. Osmund will explore the effects of psychedelics on societies past and present and will speculate about the future in the light of the growing interest in altered states of consciousness.

$60 per person, shared room

HUMPHRY OSMOND is Director of the Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry of New Jersey. He is one of the pioneers of LSD research and invented the term "psychedelic" to describe the mind-manifesting (rather than the merely therapeutic or psychosis-mimicking) effects of drugs like LSD, psilocybin and mescaline. He was born and educated in England, conducted his early drug research in Canada, then moved to the United States in 1963. He is also noted for his research with schizophrenia and is the principal founder of the American Schizophrenia Foundation. One of his current projects is the redesign of mental hospitals and other environments to promote psychic health and well-being. In the manner of William James, he is interested and knowledgeable in most of the areas of human functioning.

TOWARD A WIDER MEANING IN MARRIAGE
Seminar workshop with JERRY and SALLY SMITH

In many, or perhaps most, marital relationships there is a tension between being close and being free to fulfill oneself as a separate person. As long as the relationship continues to be vital, this paradox is rarely resolved; instead it is coped with creatively or destructively. When coped with creatively a couple can risk expressing a wide variety and intensity of feelings to each other. The greater the variety and intensity, the greater the possibility for life rather than blandness in the relationship.

Focus throughout this workshop will be on a greater awareness of the relationship in the moment rather than the "baggage" of the past. Innovative approaches will be used, including sensory experiences, couples' art expression, Gestalt applications, and role playing.

Limited to 12 couples.

Location: Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic Avenue, Berkeley

Time: Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Sunday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Workshop reservation: $90 per couple—includes Saturday lunch, Sunday breakfast and lunch; $40 per couple non-refundable deposit required

(Those desiring sleeping accommodations Saturday night may write directly to the Berkeley Center for arrangements. The Center has a limited number of rooms available and will help those whom it cannot accommodate to find lodging elsewhere.)

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

SALLY SMITH is a wife, mother and homemaker and a frequent partner with her husband in group experiences for couples and families.

THE NEW DOMAINS OF EDUCATION
5-Day Workshop with THE ESALEN RESIDENTIAL FELLOWS

Esalen Institute is now conducting its second 9-month Residential Program. Since September 1967 twenty Resident Fellows have been working with sensory awakening, basic encounter groups, meditation, Gestalt Therapy, and other approaches combined into a single, intensive learning experiment. During this experiment they hope to improve current methods for educating the senses, the feelings, personal relationships and altered states of consciousness, and to find ways to integrate these methods into education generally.

In this workshop the Resident Fellows and the program directors, Bill Schutz and Edward Maupin, will report on the program results to date and conduct experiential sessions to give workshop participants a direct look at their work.

TIBETAN BOOK OF THE DEAD
Seminar with HARIDAS CHAUDHURI and GIA-FU FENG

The Tibetan Book of the Dead is a guidebook for spiritual seekers—whether they are planning to explore the higher regions of consciousness by meditation and yoga, the mystic realms with drugs like mescalin and LSD, or the subtler planes of awareness achieved after physical death. It shows the path to immortality through the labyrinths of doubt, death, and the distortions of one's own mind. It sets forth the art of dying for life everlasting, and living for the conquest of death.

The seminar will include discussion, evaluation, and actual meditation along the lines indicated in Tibetan mysticism.

$60 per person, shared room

HARIDAS CHAUDHURI is professor of Indian philosophy and Chairman of the Department of South Asia at The American Academy of Asian Studies, San Francisco. He is also president of Cultural Integration Fellowship. He is author of Integral Yoga: the Concept of Harmonious and Creative Living; Modern Man's Religion; Philosophy of Meditation; and Sri Aurobindo: Prophet of Life Divine.

GIA-FU FENG, born in Shanghai and educated in Peking, travelled throughout Southwest China bordering Burma and India, where he received Taoist meditation training. Gia-fu is in residence at Stillpoint Foundation, Los Gatos, and at Esalen Institute in Big Sur where he conducts classes based upon Tai Chi Chuan and teaches calligraphy.

IMAGINATION

Weekend Seminar with ROBERT GERARD

Imagination is an essential component of creativity, empathy, aesthetic sensitivity and zestful living. Unfortunately, imagination is too often suppressed or misused. This workshop will demonstrate techniques for the creative use of imagination.

The participants will also explore integrative techniques developed by Dr. Gerard to enlist imaginative processes for resolving psychological conflicts and furthering psychological growth.

Finally, the participants will experiment with certain inner imagery techniques which are particularly effective in helping people expand their experiences beyond the usual, to heightened states of awareness similar to the consciousness-expanding aspects of LSD, but as a natural process without the use of any drugs.

Location: Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic Avenue, Berkeley

Time: Friday 9 p.m. to Sunday noon

Seminar reservation: $42 per person—includes Saturday lunch and Sunday breakfast

Those desiring sleeping accommodations Friday and Saturday nights may write directly to the Berkeley Center for arrangements. The Center has a limited number of rooms available and will help those whom it cannot accommodate to find lodging nearby.

ROBERT GERARD is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles and is President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis (psychosynthesis focuses on methods for unifying all aspects of our human nature: physical, emotional, mental and spiritual).

Dr. Gerard is a life member of the New York Academy of Sciences and a pioneer in the development of new therapeutic techniques, including the use of inner imagery, symbolic visualization and creative meditation. He is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth. Dr. Gerard combines in his work a knowledge of Eastern meditative disciplines with modern scientific psychology.

CREATIVITY AND THE DAIMONIC

A seminar with ROLLO MAY

The daimonic means any element in the self—such as sex, anger, and the drive for power—which has the power to take over the entire personality. If the person can integrate his daimonic impulses, the result is creativity. If he cannot, the result is possession by "demons," the historical term for psychosis and neurosis.

This seminar will undertake the examination of the daimon as individual guide as in Socrates' "daimon," and as the source of creative impulses as in Plato, Keats and Klee. The daimonic is also important in the present-day problems of political power and violence.

We shall explore ways of confronting and integrating the daimonic in ourselves.

ART AND PSYCHOTHERAPY

Lecture by ROLLO MAY

The artist and the neurotic have this in common: both are especially sensitive to the unconscious temper and conflicts of their society. The artist is able to express these conflicts constructively however, and the neurotic is blocked by them.

This lecture will explore how the artist (like Giotto at the beginning of the Renaissance, and Cezanne at the beginning of our own period) predicts the emergence of the new age.

CREATIVITY AND THE UNCONSCIOUS

Lecture by ROLLO MAY

It is known that the creative impulses have one source in the unconscious dimensions of the individual's experience. We shall inquire how these unconscious dimensions work, and what determines which impulses will emerge.

Location: Longshoremen's Memorial Hall, Mason and Beach

Time: Sunday and Monday evenings at 8:00

Lecture tickets by advance sale or at the door: $2.50 per lecture (Students $2)

ROLLO MAY is Training and Supervisory Analyst at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis and Psychology. He has served as visiting professor at Harvard and at Princeton. Among his books are The Meaning of Anxiety; Man's Search for Himself; Psychology and the Human Dilemma; and Love and Will—the last to be published June 1968.

A 5-DAY WORKSHOP

With CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS

This study group will emphasize practice for the awakening and unfolding of the senses.

Through sensing we learn to shed inhibition and over-doing (often manifested psychosomatically). We learn to follow innate tendencies toward order, balance and openness to the environment. Gradual development of inner quiet opens the way to richer perception (a component of creativity) and the feel and significance of each single happening and action in everyday life.

$155 per person, shared room ($20 non-refundable deposit required)

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are on the staff of the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception and Relating. They also hold regular classes in New York and in Northern and Southern California. The approach they use was originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany; this approach has been further developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration.

MAN AND WOMAN

Workshop with BILL NUNN, LARYSSA NECHAY and GIA-FU FENG

This 5-day workshop will explore ways of enriching the man-woman relationship. The approach will be based on the Conjoint Family Therapy work of Virginia Satir and others, but will draw too from work with sensory awareness and awakening. There will be both didactic and experiential sessions.

$155 per person, shared room ($20 per person non-refundable deposit)

WILLIAM NUNN, M.D., is director of the Family Therapy Institute, Los Gatos. He pursues a double career, as a pediatrician and a family therapist, was trained at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine and the Mental Research Institute of Palo Alto.

LARYSSA NECHAY, A.C.S.W., is a family therapist in private practice and director of training at the Family Therapy Institute at Los Gatos. She is also a Research Associate at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto, where she has been a co-worker with Virginia Satir for several years.

GIA-FU FENG, one-time management consultant for Wharton, is interested in cultural impact on family conflict. He has taught, among other things, comparative cultures East and West. He is now in residence at Stillpoint Foundation, Los Gatos, and at Esalen Institute in Big Sur where he conducts classes based upon Tai Chi Chuan and teaches calligraphy.

A Teachers' Workshop led by JANE MANNING

This 5-day workshop for teachers will explore ways of understanding and developing the natural movement expression of children.

Experiencing basic movement will help the teacher become aware of her own capacity for creative expression in the language of the body. Work will include simple body technique, individual and group improvisation, all of which will provide a basis for discussion.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. each day, Monday thru Friday, with supper break

Workshop reservation: $75 per person

JANE MANNING has worked in early childhood education for the past 12 years. She is on the teaching staff at the Center For Early Education and is associated with Mary Whitehouse at their studio in Los Angeles. She has conducted workshop demonstrations for California Association for Childhood Education, Southern California Association for Nursery Education, Child Study Center at Mount Sinai Hospital, and Headstart programs.

ON BEING HUMAN

Seminar led by JAMES BUGENTAL

This seminar will speculate about the further potentials of being human. Use will be made of the concept of ontology ("leading out into being") as developed in Part Three of Dr. Bugental's The Search for Authenticity. Concepts such as "emancipation from the self," actualizing one's potential, and transcendance will be explored to seek the implications and possibilities for training and personal growth. Seminar participants will be encouraged to conduct experiments which will translate such concepts into experience.

$60 per person, shared room

JAMES BUGENTAL, partner and founder of Psychological Services Associates, Los Angeles, was one of the organizers and the president pro-tem of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. With his associates at PSA and members of the faculty of UCLA's Graduate School of Business Administration he has organized workshops to encourage personality growth. He is the author of The Search for Authenticity (1965) and editor of Challenges of Humanistic Psychology (1967).

INTO ALIVENESS: A Weekend for Professional People
Seminar led by ELLIOTT LEIGHTON and SONI POLAKOF

This will be an experiential weekend designed especially for professionals—lawyers, doctors, teachers and others.

Many professionals live in a word-oriented society in which verbal skills are often self-defeating in that they displace more meaningful communications with others. This weekend group will experiment with ways of meeting the "self" and in "reaching out" non-verbally.

Couples are especially invited to participate.

$60 per person, shared room

ELLIOTT "BUD" LEIGHTON is Associate Director of Esalen at Big Sur. Formerly a practicing lawyer, he was one of last year's Residential Fellows and is now doing graduate studies in Humanistic Psychology at Sonoma State College. He has led many Esalen group programs and has been the coordinator of the Esalen Extension Program.

SONI POLAKOF is a member of the Esalen business staff. She has been an active member of Esalen Extension Program, and has led numerous sensitivity groups. She is also the mother of three children.

RACIAL CONFRONTATION AS TRANSCENDENTAL EXPERIENCE
Weekend seminar led by GEORGE B. LEONARD and PRICE COBBS

Racial segregation exists among people with divided selves. A person who is alien to some part of himself is invariably separated from anyone who represents that alien part. The historic effort to integrate black man and white has involved us all in a vast working out of our divided human nature.

Racial confrontation can be an example for all kinds of human encounter. When it goes deep enough—beyond superficial niceties and role-playing—it can be a vehicle for transcendental experience. Price Cobbs, a Negro psychiatrist from San Francisco, and George Leonard, a white journalist and author born and raised in Georgia, will conduct a marathon group encounter between races. The group will try to get past the roles and attitudes that divide its participants, so that they may encounter at a level beyond race.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 8:00 p.m., Friday evening
10:00 a.m., Saturday continuous through the night to Sunday morning

Seminar reservation: $50 per person

GEORGE B. LEONARD, Senior Editor and West Coast Editorial Manager of LOOK Magazine, is widely known for his articles on segregation and education. His forthcoming book Education and Ecstacy will explore many aspects of human potentiality. From his upbringing in Georgia and his travels for LOOK Magazine, he has acquired an intimate knowledge of the agonies and opportunities of racial confrontation.

PRICE COBBS is a psychiatrist in private practice in San Francisco. He is also an assistant clinical professor in psychiatry at the University of California School of Medicine, San Francisco, and is very active in the social applications of psychiatry. He is a consultant to the Glide Foundation in San Francisco.

THE VISUAL REVOLUTION
Seminar led by LOU STOUMEN

This weekend will be an exploration of filmcraft as the new literacy, and the power of film as the power of dream. Discussion will also include: the art of seeing; film and reality; film as experience; Marshall McLuhan as prophet of the image; the image of sex; Rock music and the psychedelic film. There will be screening and discussion of several films including a silent classic, recent experimental shorts, and three of Professor Stoumen's own films.

$65 per person, shared room

A few scholarships at reduced rate are available (on written application to Esalen BEFORE MARCH 15) to film and art students and to young filmmakers.

LOU STOUMEN is a writer, director, producer and cinematographer who twice (1957 and 1963) won the Academy Award. His more than 100 films, long and short, include The Naked Eye; The True Story of the Civil War; Black Fox (with Marlene Dietrich); Winston Churchill—The Valiant Years (TV series, with Richard Burton); Meaning in Modern Art; and Image of Love. His still photos have been exhibited at the Museum of Modern Art (including "The Family of Man"). He is currently associate professor of UCLA's Theater Arts Department, teaching film production and film history.

EXPERIENTIAL FOCUSING: Psychotherapy, Meditation, Interaction
Seminar with EUGENE T. GENDLIN

This seminar involves both theory and practice. Instructions using many highly specific steps have been devised to teach "experiential focusing," the direct attention to felt meanings. The steps include, among other things, working with the global feel of all of a personal problem; the "peaking up" of salient felt meanings; attending to a felt meaning in a way in which it shifts of its own accord; letting words arise freshly from such an "experiential shift"; giving an honest disposition to each troubling "item"; and, when all that arises at a given time is so dealt with in one of these ways, discovering beneath it all a level of intensely alive deep peace.

Practice steps include the use of experiential focusing in personal interaction. This involves not merely honest expression, but steps of focusing to discover and formulate sayably the uncomfortable edge we usually ignore, and expressing first what might make us seem vulnerable, rather than as is usually done, beginning our reaching out with what leaves us defended but makes the other person vulnerable.

$65 per person, shared room

EUGENE T. GENDLIN, born in Vienna, received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, where he is now Associate Professor in the Department of Psychology. He also teaches and directs a program in Philosophical Psychology in the undergraduate College of the University. Among his publications are Experiencing and the Creation of Meaning; A Theory of Personality Change; Values and the Process of Experiencing; and Expressive Meanings.

THEORIES, THERAPIES AND THERAPISTS: Recent Innovations in Psychotherapy
Seminar led by DICK L. MILLER and Staff

The Rogerian and Existential movements represent a shift in emphasis from sickness to healthy growth processes and as such free us from the limits of traditional psychoanalysis.

Instead of assuming growth will automatically take place once the obstacles are removed, the newer methods shift to the process of developing healthier adaptation, attempting to guide the person through the trial and error of evolving new ways of being and behaving. The specific tasks, "games" and sensory awareness techniques utilized thus have applicability far beyond the therapy situation.

In this seminar we will discuss some of the current theories didactically, examine some of the therapies experientially, and attempt to evaluate the position of the psychotherapist as a change agent. We will focus on Gestalt Therapy (Fritz Perls), Conjoint Family Therapy (Virginia Satir), and Marathon Group Therapy (George Bach and Fred Stoller).

$60 per person, shared room

DICK L. MILLER is on the faculty of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he is a Clinical Psychologist in the Counseling Division of the Bureau of Psychological Services and a Lecturer in the Department of Psychology. He is also coordinator of a large-scale program utilizing experimental innovations to facilitate college teaching.

TOWARD A WIDER MEANING IN MARRIAGE
Seminar workshop with JERRY and SALLY SMITH

In many, or perhaps most, marital relationships there is a tension between being close and being free to fulfill oneself as a separate person. As long as the relationship continues to be vital, this paradox is rarely resolved; instead it is coped with creatively or destructively. When coped with creatively a couple can risk expressing a wide variety and intensity of feelings to each other. The greater the variety and intensity, the greater the possibility for life rather than blandness in the relationship.

Focus throughout this workshop will be on a greater awareness of the relationship in the moment rather than the "baggage" of the past. Innovative approaches will be used, including sensory experiences, couples' art expression, Gestalt applications, and role playing.

Limited to 12 couples.

$140 per couple; $40 per couple non-refundable deposit required

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

SALLY SMITH is a wife, mother and homemaker and a frequent partner with her husband in group experiences for couples and families.

ANXIETY AND TENSION CONTROL
A Workshop with EDMUND JACOBSON

Dr. Jacobson, author of Progressive Relaxation and many other books on the control of bodily tension, will discuss his research into bodily function and self-control and the relevance of his ideas to medical training and medicine generally. He believes that much sickness can be alleviated or prevented by education in the control of bodily tension and has developed a wide variety of methods for relaxation of the muscles and autonomic system.

The workshop is open to the medical profession as well as lay persons.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: Wednesday and Thursday 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. with supper break

Workshop reservation: $25 per person

EDMUND JACOBSON, founder and director of the Laboratory for Clinical Psychology, Chicago, has among his books and publications Anxiety and Tension Control; Progressive Relaxation; Biology of Emotions; You Must Relax; Tension Control for Businessmen; and How to Relax and Have Your Baby.

A WEEKEND OF GREEK DANCE
Led by LOUISE ANDERSON and LOUIS PAUL

Sharing the rhythms and emotions of dance and popular folksong is as much a part of Greek culture now as it was 3000 years ago.

This will be a weekend of Greek dance from the ancient syrtos to the contemporary "Zorba" dance. The steps are easy, requiring no special training. Style and feeling are of prime importance, and within them lie the pride, dignity, joy, tragedy and the triumph of freedom.

The feelings involved in these dances will be explored by Dr. Paul and Louise Anderson and shared by the workshop participants.

$60 per person, shared room

LOUISE ANDERSON, a psychotherapist in West Los Angeles, became interested in Greek music and culture several years ago. She has studied Greek village and tavern dancing and their relationship to regional cultures. At the request of Dr. Sotirios Chianis, the Greek ethno-musicologist at UCLA, she began to instruct in Greek music and dance.

LOUIS PAUL, M.D., is a psychiatrist and psychoanalyst in Beverly Hills, and a teaching consultant in crisis intervention, family therapy, and experiential-analytic psychotherapy. He is the editor of Psychoanalytic Clinical Interpretation.

PROGRAMS WITH WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

December 31-January 5 — Big Sur

OPEN WORKSHOP

This workshop combines encounter group methods with body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy experiments, psychodrama and the micro-lab. There may also be some poetry reading and writing and dramatic improvisation. Developing the ability to experience joy is the workshop's guiding theme.

Participation in an Open Workshop is a prerequisite for attending any of the Advanced Workshops conducted by Dr. Schutz, co-led with specialists in such fields as behavior therapy, sensory awakening, fantasy, Gestalt therapy, meditation.

$175 per person, shared room

January 28-February 2 — Big Sur

ADVANCED ENCOUNTER GROUPS AND BEHAVIOR THERAPY

Co-led with MICHAEL KAHN

This advanced workshop explores the techniques of behavior therapy pioneered by Wolpe and Lazarus and their integration into encounter groups. For each group one daily meeting will be devoted to an intensive exploration of the behavior therapy methods led by Dr. Kahn. Another daily group meeting will be an encounter group in which these methods will be integrated with others used in these groups, such as fantasy, movement, and dramatic techniques.

$175 per person, shared room

February 12-15 — San Francisco

MORE JOY: A 4-Day Workshop

This open workshop follows the ancient belief that the natural state of the human organism is joy, a state too rarely attained. The experiences are designed to help identify, release, and develop the ability to feel more joy—joy in bodily feelings, in human relations, in self-understanding, and in creative activity. New methods for effecting such growth are being developed at various centers throughout the world. Recent experiments indicate that integrating these techniques with the verbal encounter group leads to a potent and meaningful experience.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral

Time: 4:30 to 10:30 each evening, Monday thru Thursday

Reservation: $80 per person

OPEN WORKSHOP

(See December 31-January 5 description)

$175 per person, shared room

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ has recently joined the Esalen staff as Director of the Residential Program. Dr. Schutz is a teacher, researcher, theorist and practitioner in the fields of interpersonal behavior and research design. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Berkeley and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was the research director of a state-wide study of school administration in California and the national research co-ordinator for one of the largest inter-university projects in education, the Cooperative Program for Educational Development (COPED) of the U.S. Office of Education.

*As a theorist, his work on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior (*The Interpersonal Underworld, Science and Behavior Books, 1966) has been called, "The most promising attempt yet offered for an integrated theory of group dynamics and psychoanalysis" (Durkin, The Group in Depth). Tests derived from his FIRO theory have been translated into Spanish, French, Japanese, Hebrew and Finnish.

His most important immediate contribution to the Esalen program is through his innovation in group methods. Dr. Schutz is recognized as one of the leading encounter group (T-group) trainers in the country, has served on the staff of the National Training Laboratories Intern Training Program at Bethel, Maine. For the past two years he has taught group process and group psychotherapy to psychiatric residents. In his recent work he has begun to integrate group methods, body movement, fantasy, psychodrama and other techniques. His latest theoretical efforts (described in his latest book, JOY, published by Grove Press, 1967) attempt to establish a framework for such an integration.

MICHAEL KAHN received his Ph.D. from Harvard University, has taught at Yale and is currently on the faculty of the Department of Psychology at the University of Texas. He has experimented extensively with behavior therapy methods, and is an experienced encounter group leader, having been on the staff of the Personal Growth Laboratory at Bethel, Maine.

MICHAEL MURPHY is president and director of Esalen Institute. His undergraduate study was at Stanford University. Thereafter he spent 18 months in India at the Aurobindo Ashram at Pondicherry, where he learned and practiced the disciplines of meditation.

PROGRAMS IN SENSORY AWAKENING WITH BERNARD GUNTHER

As Aldous Huxley pointed out, "Organized education is predominantly verbal education." This kind of learning often facilitates thinking at the expense of direct experience, and produces automatic behavior while limiting creativity and uniqueness. Dewey and others have indicated the need to balance the conceptual with the non-verbal.

Sensory Awakening is a process designed to heighten sensitivity and awareness. Through simple experiments, students learn to allow relaxation, body feeling, and heightened contact with their environment as well as with other persons.

DATES	PLACE	TYPE	LEADERS	TITLE AND DESCRIPTION	COST
Jan. 19-21	Big Sur	Weekend	Hall-Gunther	Gestalt Therapy and Sensory Awakening	$60
				A weekend workshop combining the experiences of gestalt therapy and sensory encounter.
Jan. 21-26	Big Sur	5-Day	Gunther	Sensory Meditation Workshop	$155
				Five days of active meditation combining the excitement of movement and direct experience with the sensitivity of non-verbal awareness. The workshop will include relaxation and meditation in everyday activity; walking, bathing, eating, breathing, touching.
Jan. 26-28	S.F.	Weekend	Hall-Gunther	Gestalt Therapy and Sensory Awakening	$40
				(See Jan. 19-21 description) Location to be announced: Friday 8:00 p.m. to Sunday noon.
Feb. 5-6-7	S.F.	Evenings	Gunther	Applications of Sensory Awakening	$9
				This evening workshop will introduce a variety of approaches to Sensory Awakening. Each evening will have a different focus: Monday evening—reawakening and rediscovering your body self. Tuesday evening—couples re-sensitizing one another in awareness games. Wednesday evening—getting to be part of a group non-verbally. Gresham Hall: 8:00 p.m.
Mar. 22-24	Big Sur	Weekend	Gunther	A No-Non-Sense Weekend	$60
				Much of our existence, excitement, joy, is devoured by excessive tension, verbalization, inhibition—non-sense. This seminar is devoted to sense, play, and physical contact.
Mar. 29-31	S.F.	Weekend	Hall-Gunther	Gestalt Therapy and Sensory Awakening	$40
				(See Jan. 19-21 description) Location to be announced: Friday 8:00 p.m. to Sunday noon.
Apr. 21-26	Big Sur	5-Day	Gunther	Training in Sensory Awakening	$155
				This workshop will combine theoretical background and personal experience, with a training program for those who wish to learn, teach, and apply Sensory Awakening methods in educational and therapeutic situations.

BERNIE GUNTHER is a teacher of body awareness in residence at Esalen Institute. Here he has developed his own approach to direct experience and non-verbal encounter known as Sensory Awakening. A book on his work will be published in the Fall of 1968.

ROBERT K. HALL, M.D., is a physician and psychiatrist in residence at Esalen in Big Sur. A gestalt therapist and poet, he is interested in exploring the hypothesis that many "abnormal" states of consciousness are but extensions of awareness into unfamiliar aspects of common reality.

ESALEN ENCOUNTER GROUPS

in the San Francisco Bay Area

Regular encounter group meetings are now under way in the San Francisco Bay Area, and new groups are being formed as demand increases. Under the general supervision of William C. Schutz, Ph.D., group leaders are utilizing the eclectic approach which has arisen out of the seminar and resident programs at Esalen-Big Sur. Sensory awareness and physical movement techniques are used with other approaches when occasion demands, providing unique opportunities for meeting individual group needs.

Locations: San Francisco, East Bay and other areas.

Cost: $50 per person for ten weeks, subject to change

MEMORIES OF THE FUTURE
Four Dialogues with GERALD FEIGEN

These lectures are a generalist's approach to a comprehensible future. The four weekly sessions will deal with the possibility for the individual to survive. They will cover understandable approaches through sociality, politicality, and religiosity:

Session I: The animal and cultural makeup of the individual; his survival potential.

Session II: Sociality–its present drift, and modifications which must be made for individual survival.

Session III: Politicality–economic and political alternatives to the present rush to authoritarianism.

Session IV: Religiosity–managing death and meaning; the living spirit in the dying animal.

Fifteen free scholarships will be donated by Dr. Feigen (write: Feigen Scholarships, c/o Esalen, P. O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131).

Location: Library, Grace Cathedral House
Time: 8:00 p.m., Wednesday evenings, May 8, 15, 22, 29
Series ticket $10; single lecture $3 (Students $7; $2)

GERALD MASON FEIGEN is a surgeon, radio commentator, host for a weekly TV program, an editor and consultant for Ramparts Magazine, a board officer for several corporations, an amateur painter, sculptor and anthropologist, a friend and translator of Marshall McLuhan, Leopold Kohn and Louis Kelso, and President of Generalists Inc. of San Francisco. He is active in politics and civil rights. He is an expert ventriloquist who manufactures his own dummies and uses them to reach disturbed children.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 8:00 p.m., Thursday, May 23
Lecture tickets: $2.50 (Students $1.50)

See page 14, May 24-26, Big Sur, for biographical data and additional event with David Bakan.

May 20, 21 – San Francisco

A BENEFIT FOR THE SAN FRANCISCO ZEN CENTER AND THE ZEN MOUNTAIN CENTER

The word Zen is so free from physical and mental concepts that the only way to really hear and see it is through a Zen Master. A Zen Master (O-Roshi) is one who has internalized the practice and teachings of Zen so that his life effortlessly communicates its truth. There are very few Roshis in the world—less than twenty in the Soto School, and almost none of them speak English. We are lucky to have an English speaking Zen Master living here in San Francisco, Shunryu Suzuki Roshi. He is head of the Zen Center and Sokoji Temple here and Abbot of Zen Mountain Center in the mountains at Tassajara near Big Sur.

Of the two large Zen schools in Japan, the Soto School is the larger but the Rinzai School is better known in America. The Soto School emphasizes the integration of teaching (drawn from all of Buddhism) and deep practice beyond thinking and feeling.

We have been impressed by the richness of this ancient tradition and by the quality of the Zen Center's discipline, and so we are presenting this benefit to assist in the purchase of Tassajara Hot Springs for Zen Mountain Center and to introduce this Zen Master to a wider audience. Suzuki Roshi will be assisted in answering questions and demonstrating the practice by a young American Zen priest, Richard Baker, President of Zen Center, Director of Zen Mountain Center.

There will be two public lectures. The first will be on how to practice meditation and its meaning, and the second will be on the intellectual teaching. These lectures will be given Monday and Tuesday evenings at Gresham Hall at 8:30 p.m.

And for those who wish to follow the practice further, there will be two and one half hours of meditation practice following a brief explanation each afternoon at 4:30 p.m., also at Gresham Hall.

Proceeds from this program will be donated to Zen Center for the purchase of Tassajara Hot Springs.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral, San Francisco
Time: 4:30-6:00 p.m., meditation and instruction,
8:30-10:00 p.m., Zen teachings; Monday and Tuesday, May 20, 21
Price: $3 for each lecture or meditation; $10 for the entire program

May 24-26 – San Francisco
THE RITE OF MOVEMENT: A Dance Celebration
Weekend Workshop with ANN HALPRIN and drums by CASEY SONNABEND

Ann Halprin will present her approach to the body and to dance. Her approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. She writes: "We will explore each individual's rhythm, and extend this expressive energy to an interplay with one another in the landscape, leading to a spontaneous group ritual." The first meeting will be at the Dancers' Workshop Studio; the group will then decide whether they wish to move their environment to Mt. Tamalpais or another Marin County location for the remaining sessions.

No formal dance training is required.

Location: Dancers' Workshop Studio, 321 Divisadero Street, San Francisco
Time: Starts Friday 8:00 p.m. and ends Sunday noon, May 24-26
Workshop reservation: $45 per person

ANN HALPRIN founded the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco in 1950, and since then has been its artistic director. She has appeared and directed underground art movies and a TV program produced in Sweden for world-wide distribution; has taught and produced happenings in universities and colleges throughout the country; and is currently participating in the Dancers' Workshop Training Program in San Francisco. She has travelled with her company to major international festivals in Italy, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Finland and Poland. A featured article in the June 26, 1967 National Observer says: "Ann Halprin has extended the frontier of dance beyond even the most recognized avant-garde artist, both by performance and by teaching." The approach that will be used in these workshops was reported extensively in Progressive Architecture of July 1967 and Dance Magazine of November 1966.

CASEY SONNABEND is currently a member of the Dancers' Workshop Company and teaches in the training program. His interest is in using rhythm as an energy in generating movement responses and in developing interdependency within a group. Together with Ann Halprin, he has evolved an approach which permits spontaneity to be uninterrupted by verbal instructions.

May 24-25 – San Francisco
A SEMINAR IN INDIAN MUSIC
With SHYAMADAS and RAVA KUMAR

Musicians of India work best where they can meet the people for whom they play. This seminar will include musical performances, discussions with the participants, and explanations of the Indian music and instruments. The sessions will run as follows:

1. Historical development—Basic Raga Families. Presentation of an evening raga.
2. Presentation and demonstration of other types and styles of Indian Music: Dhun, Thumri, Tagore devotional songs.
3. Beginning the development of one raga through all its phases—Bhairavi, a morning raga. Followed by several short pieces, after the afternoon discussion.
4. Second in the series on the morning raga; final presentation in its entirety.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: First session 8:00 p.m., Friday
Followed by three sessions Saturday, May 24-25
Seminar registration: $30 per person

May 27-28 — San Francisco
INDIVIDUALISM AND CREATIVE SOCIAL CHANGE
Lecture-Discussion-Workshop led by JOEL FORT

This lecture-workshop will be action oriented and will include discussion of subjects as diverse ad the drug scene, the ruptured work ethic, the changing sex morality, organizational life, racial conflict, and crime. The focus will be on what each of us can do to change or "turn on" our environment and ourselves in order to make life more meaningful and improve the quality of our society. It is hoped that those participating in the workshop will include active and potentially active social reformers who will help each other to become more effective and humane change agents, in and out of the establishment. Techniques such as encounter groups will be used to help the participants to become more able to act upon the knowledge communicated.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 7:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday and Tuesday, May 27-28
Workshop registration: $12 (Students $10)

JOEL FORT is a San Francisco physician who has specialized in public health and social psychiatry; a sociologist-criminologist; author; lecturer; social critic; and University of California faculty member where he has taught courses on social problems, deviant behavior, bureaucracy, sex and drugs. In 1964 through Supreme Court action he helped free California's public employees to voluntarily participate in politics on their own time. More recently he created and directed San Francisco's Center for Special Problems. The Center became a force for social change prior to Dr. Fort's ouster for being "too independent," a matter now before the courts.

June 3-6 — San Francisco
THE QUEST FOR LOVE
4-Evening Worksh op led by BETTY BERZON and FREDERICK H. STOLLER

A workshop for single men and women who want to explore the personal meaning of their own quest for love. Participants will meet in small groups to examine the process by which we become acquainted with and move closer to other human beings. In the group sessions video-tape will be used to reflect back to individuals how they tend to invite and receive the interest of others.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 3-6
Registration: $75 per person

BETTY BERZON has been a Research Associate at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute since 1959. During that time she has conducted the Institute's research program on self-directed groups. Her particular interest in in innovative uses of small groups for personal growth learning. She is author of a number of papers and is co-editor of a book The Use of Small Groups in Rehabilitation; New Directions from Research.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is a Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, where he is engaged in training and research of group methods. He is responsible for introducing the use of video tape into the group setting and his technique of focussed feedback is designed to enhance the functions of encounter groups. He is co-author of a book on the marathon approach to learning in small groups, tentatively titled The 300 Year Weekend.

SHYAMADAS CHAKRABORRTY resides near Calcutta, plays the sitar for All India Radio, for movies, and at musical evenings. His growing success enabled him to be invited to the University of California, Davis, to perform in the United States.

NAVA KUMAR PANDA is an accomplished tabla player from Orissa, India. He has taught the tabla at music colleges in India, and plays accompaniment to many famous sitarists in India and Nepal. Before entering the United States on his present cultural exchange tour under the auspices of the University of California, Davis, he resided in Calcutta, where he taught tabla and performed in concerts.

June 6 — San Jose
SENSE, NONSENSE, AND INCENSE
A Festival with ALAN WATTS and BERNARD GUNTHER

Alan Watts will speak on the sanity, fantasy, and delight of returning from the political map, to the physical map, and back to the real world.

Bernard Gunther will then conduct participants on a tour into the real world of sensory awakening.

Location: Civic Auditorium, Market and San Carlos Streets, San Jose
Time: 8:00 p.m., Thursday, June 6
Registration: $4 (Students $2.50)

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been with D. T. Suzuki the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years Dr. Watts has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

BERNARD GUNTHER is an Associate in Residence at Esalen-Big Sur, where he has developed his own approach to direct experience and non-verbal communication known as Sensory Awakening. In addition to his book Sense Relaxation Below Your Mind (MacMillan 1968), he has authored three books of poems and several articles describing his work.

Mr. Beach is a frequent participant in the "Humanist Institute" program of the American Humanist Association.

June 17-20 – San Francisco
TUNING IN TO KIDS
4-Day Workshop with ROSSLYN and RICHARD SUCHMAN

Children have much to say to those who can get the message. This seminar brings child and adult together in pairs and small groups to "be" in open communication, and to explore sensory, play, work, and inquiry experiences together. The barriers that separate the generations will be lowered so that the greatest range of communication can be experienced.

Enrollment is limited to 24 adult participants.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 17-20
Registration: $75 per person

J. RICHARD SUCHMAN is a research psychologist and an author for Science Research Associates and a free-lance educational consultant. He is well known for the inquiry training for children which he developed at the University of Illinois. For two years he was a director of research at the United States Office of Education.

ROSSLYN SUCHMAN is a research psychologist at the Institute for Human Development, University of California, Berkeley. She has a special interest in perceptual development and perceptual training of children.

June 24-27 – San Francisco
THE FRONTIERS OF ENCOUNTER TECHNIQUE
4-Evening Workshop with JOHN HEIDER and STEVE STROUD

The encounter group represents one of the richest training grounds for the intensive development of human potential. Here members may explore and expand themselves within the laboratory of the group.

It is now possible to speak of the systematic development of various functions:

1. Development of sensory receptivity: learning to become aware of internal and external reality by reawakening the sense organs.
2. Development of emotional expression: learning to recognize the emotional state of oneself and of others and to release the barriers to honest expression.
3. Development of intuition: learning to recognize and trust the small cues the environment offers.
4. Development of the ability to move one's body: learning to live harmoniously within the world of muscles and viscera.

The techniques used, some new and some old, include sensory awakening exercises, moving meditation, sitting meditation, interpersonal encounter, non-verbal encounter, psychodramatics, and experiments with group energies through various forms of self-expression and release.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 24-27
Registration: $65 per person

JOHN HEIDER is an Esalen Institute Resident Fellow, has worked as a psychologist on the problems of building bridges between the religious-mystical and scientific communities. He has been engaged for several years in research on meditation and has led encounter groups in California and on the East Coast.

STEVEN A. STROUD is an Esalen Institute Resident Fellow. He has been responsible for developing techniques to alter the awareness and energy state of groups. Before coming to Esalen, he worked with the University of Kentucky and the University of California, Davis, leading groups for Peace Corps Training Programs.

See page 22, August 16-18, Big Sur, for additional event with John Heider and Steven A. Stroud.

July 8-11 — San Francisco
RESOLUTION OF PERSONAL CONFLICT IN LOVE, WORK AND FRIENDSHIP
4-Evening Workshop with STEWART SHAPIRO

In describing this workshop, Dr. Shapiro writes: "We are experiencing the beginning of a human revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival—as individuals and for mankind itself.

"This workshop will concentrate on understanding inner personal conflicts as well as conflicts with important people in our lives—spouse, family, children, superiors or subordinates, colleagues, friends, etc. Through role playing and other exercises, various approaches to handling conflict will be demonstrated.

"Emphasis will be placed on forming explicit and sound 'personal contracts' with other people to minimize destructive conflicts. This enables other people to really know what we expect of them and what they expect of us. How to form and re-negotiate realistic contracts will be demonstrated by 'contract exercises'.

"Subject areas to be covered will include: (1) How to recognize the difference between destructive and constructive conflicts. (2) How to understand the conflict games we play with ourselves and others. (3) Role conflicts and value conflicts. (4) Competitive win-lose conflicts where there are limited rewards."

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: Monday thru Thursday, 4:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., July 8-11
Workshop fee: $70 per person

STEWART SHAPIRO, in addition to his exploration of positive experience at Esalen, is becoming known on the West Coast as an expert in Conflict Management. Drawing on his extensive background as a Clinical Psychologist and Human Relations Trainer, Dr. Shapiro has developed innovative approaches in understanding and resolving human conflicts. He has recently conducted laboratories and workshops on conflict at the Institute of Industrial relations of UCLA, The Western Training Laboratory of NTL, and for the California Association of Executives of Child Welfare Institutions.

Dr. Shapiro is an Associate Professor of Education and Director of Counseling and Guidance, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara.

July 15-18 — San Francisco
SENSE RELAXATION—BELOW YOUR MIND
4-Evening Workshop with BERNARD GUNTHER

This four-evening workshop will explore the sensory experiments outlined in Mr. Gunther's book, Sense Relaxation—Below Your Mind.

Monday Evening: Self Awareness—relaxation and body feeling, movement and the release of tension.

Tuesday Evening: Two Discover one another through sensory encountering, awareness and physical contact.

Wednesday Evening: Intimate Couples renewing a relationship with sensitivity, non-verbal communication and touch.

Thursday Evening: Group Games—experiences in a group, feeling individuality and unity.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 8:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 15-18
Registration: $12 the series (no single session tickets)

July 19 — San Francisco
PSYCHOMAT (Friday Evening)
With GERARD HAIGH

The Psychomat is a gathering where you can come when you choose and leave when you choose. While you are in the Psychomat you are expected to try to be as open as you can in your encounter with others. Dr. Haigh of the Psychological Service Associates and members of the Esalen Resident Program will be present to help people encounter each other, although no predetermined program will be offered. Whatever happens will happen.

The following ground rules are suggested for participants: (1) Talk with whomever you choose about whatever you choose. (2) Call them as you see them. (3) Try to help others do the same, but no psychologizing.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 5:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m., Friday evening, July 19
Admission: $2

July 20 — San Francisco
ONE-DAY MARATHON (Saturday)
Led by GERARD HAIGH

The 13-hour marathon will stress basic encounter, awareness of feeling, directness and openness. The assumption during this marathon is that growth occurs through increasing the extent and intensity of contact with the driving forces, fantasies and feelings in a person's inner experience. Limit 25 participants.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m., Saturday, July 20
Admission: $25 per person, including meals

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practicing psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles, and is president-elect of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology.

July 22-25 — San Francisco
THEATER GAMES and EXERCISES FROM THE IMPROVISATIONAL THEATER
Workshop with VIOLA SPOLIN and ALAN MYERSON

In this workshop Viola Spolin will present some of the Theater Games which she has invented. These exercises are described in her book Improvisation for the Theater (Northwestern Press); they are being widely used in schools, colleges, psychotherapy, as well as in actor training.

Mr. Myerson will present some of the exercises he has developed at The Committee and elsewhere for enhancing spontaneity, range of personal expression, and improvisational ability. This workshop is open to teachers, psychotherapists, actors, and laymen.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 22-25
Registration: $70 per person

VIOLA SPOLIN has been perhaps the strongest influence in the creation of improvisational theater. Her son Paul Sills created Chicago's famed Second City. Miss Spolin's book Improvisation for the Theater is the most thorough description available of Theater Games.

ALAN MYERSON is the founder and producer of The Committee, San Francisco. He has directed films and television programs, has acted in many movies and plays, and has taught acting in New York, Chicago, and at the University of California, Berkeley. He is best known for the improvisational theater which The Committee has helped to make famous.

July 24 — San Francisco
BEYOND SECULARITY
Lecture by HARVEY COX

Man has now reached a level of consciousness and self-consciousness about himself which seems to preclude spontaneity and immediacy in religion and life. Can this experiential element be restored?

July 25 — San Francisco
RELIGION IN THE 21st CENTURY
Lecture by HARVEY COX

Various 'scenarios' have been suggested for what religion will be like in the year 2000 and beyond. What are they? Which are the most probable?

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 8:00 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, July 24, 25
Lecture tickets: $3 each evening (Students $2)

See page 20, July 26-28, Big Sur, for biographical description and additional event with Harvey Cox.

DIMENSIONS OF DIALOGUE: THE VERBAL REVOLUTION
Lecture by FLOYD W. MATSON

The concept of dialogue, as a countervailing force against the manipulative rhetorics of mass culture and power politics, has been gaining adherence and finding expression in more and more fields ranging from psychotherapy to political participation, from social science to social welfare. In these lectures Dr. Matson will examine the most promising dimensions of, and major spokesmen for, the dialogical revolution in human communication.

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 8:00 p.m., Thursday, August 1
Lecture tickets: $2.50 (Students $2)

FLOYD W. MATSON is Professor of American Studies and Director of an interdisciplinary Social Science Program at the University of Hawaii. He has authored and edited several books presenting humanistic perspective in social science, psychology and philosophy, of which the best known are The Broken Image (1964), The Human Dialogue (1966), and Being, Becoming and Behavior (1967).

TWO LECTURES ON CONFIRMATION
by MAURICE FRIEDMAN

Wednesday Evening: THE CALL: TENSION BETWEEN PERSONAL AND SOCIAL CONFIRMATION
Thursday Evening: THE COURAGE TO RESPOND: CONFIRMATION AND EXISTENTIAL TRUST

In these two lectures Maurice Friedman will discuss the problem of confirmation, arrived at through dialogue with Kafka and Buber, and considered here in its two phases: the call and the response. Discussants will be TOLBERT McCARROLL and ANN DREYFUSS.

Location: First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary
Time: 8:00 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, August 7, 8
Lecture tickets: $3 each evening (Students $2)

MAURICE FRIEDMAN is Professor of Religion at Temple University, Philadelphia, and a member of the permanent faculty of Pendle Hill, the Quaker Center for Study and Dialogue at Wallingford, Pa. Dr. Friedman taught for many years at Sarah Lawrence College, The New School for Social Research, and the Washington School of Psychiatry and for shorter periods at Manhattanville, Hebrew Union, and Vassar Colleges and at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychology, Psychoanalysis and Psychiatry. Twenty years of work has established him as the world's foremost interpreter of the life and thought of Martin Buber. He is the author of Martin Buber: The Life of Dialogue; Problematic Rebel: An Image of Modern Man; The Worlds of Existentialism: A Critical Reader; To Deny Our Nothingness: Contemporary Images of Man; and the forthcoming critical biography Martin Buber: Encounter on the Narrow Ridge.

ANN DREYFUSS is an associate at the Family Therapy Institute in Los Gatos, California and Associate Director, Group Center, also in Los Gatos. She is a part-time research associate with Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla. Miss Dreyfuss has worked with a variety of groups, ranging from small children to extended families. She has pioneered the use of live animals in play therapy with children.

TOLBERT McCARROLL is the Executive Director of the American Humanist Association.

EXPLORATIONS IN POSITIVE EXPERIENCE
4-Evening Workshop with STEWART SHAPIRO

Critics of psychotherapy and group dynamics have often complained that these fields lack the light touch, that they involve too much "blood letting." Dr. Shapiro's approach to psychotherapy, however, is a rollicking takeoff from the premise that learning is joy. His approach draws theoretically from Maslow, Rogers, Perls and Berne, and in methodology from basic encounter groups, Gestalt Therapy, Transactional Analysis and other sources. Dr. Shapiro has added techniques of his own such as a method for "inner dialogue" among various sub-selves, the use of "self-drawing" and "mirror-talking."

Location: Gresham Hall, Grace Cathedral
Time: 4:30 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, August 19-22
Workshop fee: $70 per person

STEWART SHAPIRO is an Associate Professor of Education and Director of Counseling and Guidance, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara, and a psychotherapist with the Western Psychological Center in Encino, California.

Politics of Experience

Recent developments in psychological, physiological and anthropological research on altered states of consciousness indicate the need for a revision of psychiatric and philosophic conceptions in this area. This month-long series of seminars and workshops is concerned with an appraisal and re-evaluation of these conceptions.

In the course of these sessions a model will be developed which (1) considers the positive, integrative, problem-solving features of altered states of consciousness, and (2) systematically recasts certain major aspects of modern-day "mental illness."

June 7-9 — Weekend Seminar in Big Sur
DIVINE MADNESS
With ALAN WATTS

A discussion of the suggestive parallels between the behavior of sages and fools, liberated yogins and blithering idiots, centering around their respective sensations of being one with God. This will involve the question as to whether the various forms of "insanity" are in fact diseases of the mind, or, in some cases, simply variations of consciousness from which we may have much to learn.

July 5-7 — Weekend Seminar in Big Sur
THE SENSE AND NONSENSE OF PSYCHOSIS
With JULIAN SILVERMAN, R. D. LAING, WILSON VAN DUSEN

What sense, if any, is contained in psychotic phenomena? This seminar will examine the limitations of present medical explanations of psychosis. The positive and negative effects of contemporary psychiatric treatment will be considered.

THE VALUE OF PSYCHOTIC EXPERIENCE

July 7-12 — 5-Day Workshop in Big Sur
THE JOURNEY OF THE MIND
With JULIAN SILVERMAN, R. D. LAING, WILSON VAN DUSEN

This five-day workshop will examine in depth types of psychotic experience. Opportunity may be had to make contact with one's own personal style of madness.

July 14-19 — 5-Day Workshop in Big Sur
POSITIVE DISINTEGRATION
With JULIAN SILVERMAN, R. D. LAING, K. DABROWSKI

The meaning of both minor and extreme "disintegrative" behaviors will be studied in the larger framework of a total growth process. Traditional psychiatric treatments will be considered along with possible alternative perspectives and techniques. The fear of loss of control (both in patient and therapist) will be examined for its role in the course of psychosis.

PSYCHOSIS AS PERSONAL TRANSFORMATION
With JULIAN SILVERMAN, R. D. LAING and JOHN PERRY

Schizophrenic psychosis is a grouping of several syndromes, some static, some deteriorating, and some highly dynamic. The dynamic syndromes reveal processes in depth, expressed in primordial images, that have as their aim the reorganization of the emotional foundations of the self. These processes have affinities with certain archaic myth and ritual forms which will be examined during the course of the seminar.

August 2-4 — Weekend Seminar in Big Sur
SHAMANISTIC, RITUAL AND PSYCHOTIC WAYS TO THE UNCONSCIOUS
With CLAUDIO NARANJO and MICHAEL HARNER

Shamanism has for millenia provided man with a cultural outlet for his unconscious and has also given him a traditional method of learning from otherworld experiences. In this seminar, experimentation will be undertaken with methods developed in primitive cultures to learn directly from nature. The group will attempt to develop a shamanistic system consistent with our culture. The relationship of shamanistic experience to certain forms of psychosis in the West will be examined.

Dr. Naranjo will discuss the relationship among shamanism, psychosis, psychedelic experience and mythical thinking. He will also describe "the world of Ayahuasca"—the particular area of the psyche tapped by yage, and a comparison of how this is evidenced in the cultures of the Upper Amazon and in our own.

Dr. Harner will present a panorama of shamanistic ways and their echoes in the "civilized" world.

Drs. Naranjo and Harner will join Drs. Silverman, Laing and Perry in Saturday night's panel on THE ANTHROPOLOGY OF PSYCHOSIS.

JULIAN SILVERMAN, Bethesda, Maryland, (program chairman) is a research clinical psychologist at the National Institute of Mental Health, where he heads the section on perceptual and cognitive studies in the Adult Psychiatry Branch. His main foci of research have been on the psychology and physiology of abnormal cognitive processes and on individual differences in the thinking styles of psychotherapists. He has published experimental and theoretical articles in such journals as The Psychological Review; Psychosomatic Medicine; and The American Anthropologist.

RONALD D. LAING, London, England, is a psychoanalyst and psychiatrist who has created "blow-out" centers in London in which psychosis is seen and treated as potentially healthy self-renewal. He has been associated with Tavistock Institute of Human Relations. He is the author of The Divided Self, The Politics of Experience and other books and articles. He conducts research with schizophrenics, families, and psychedelic drugs.

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been – with D. T. Suzuki – the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years Dr. Watts has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

WILSON VAN DUSEN, chief psychologist at Mendocino State Hospital, California, has extensively studied various aspects of altered states of consciousness from the dream and inner "voice" experience of non-psychotic subjects (including himself) to the more bizarre worlds of schizophrenics. He has formulated meaningful parallels between these types of experience which point toward spontaneous growth-directed forces in even the most "abnormal" aspects of human life.

KAZIMIERZ DABROWSKI, Warsaw, Poland, is presently Visiting Professor of Psychology and Psychiatry at the University of Alberta, Canada. He has been a professor in the Polish Academy of Science and Director of the Institute of Child Psychiatry and Mental Hygiene in Warsaw. His theoretical and clinical work over more than 30 years has developed into his theory of "positive disintegration," emphasizing the development of personality through disintegration, sometimes of a cataclysmic sort. His first published works in English have recently appeared under the titles Positive Disintegration and Personality-Shaping Through Positive Disintegration.

STANISLAV GROF, Prague, Czechoslovakia, is a research psychiatrist, currently on a fellowship at the Johns Hopkins Medical School in Baltimore. During the past decade he has conducted numerous studies with LSD subjects in Prague. His work has important implications for the development of healthy personality and exceptional personal functioning.

JOHN PERRY is a Jungian analyst in San Francisco and is Director of Studies at the C. J. Jung Institute. During World War II he lived in China; he is well versed in Oriental culture and philosophy. His work during the past several years has centered around the potentially reconstitutive and mythic aspects of the schizophrenic process. His publications include The Self in Psychotic Process and Lord of the Four Quarters.

JOE K. ADAMS, Big Sur, has known psychosis both as a psychologist and as a patient. His main interest lies in ideological conflict and the part that "mental illness" plays in the current cultural revolution.

ALLEN GINSBERG is poet, world-traveler, social philosopher.

CLAUDIO NARANJO, Santiago, Chile, is a research psychiatrist, University of Chile; associate, Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley; and consultant to Stanford Research Institute. He has studied the use of hallucinogens by shamans in different parts of South America and has introduced several psychotropic drugs into clinical practice. He is deeply concerned with the relationship between the quest for sanity and enlightenment.

MICHAEL HARNER, formerly Associate Research Anthropologist and Assistant Director of the Lowie Museum of Anthropology at the University of California, Berkeley, is now Associate Professor of Anthropology at Columbia University. He is an authority on the Indians of the Amazon, has made three expeditions to that region, and has conducted extensive research on the cross-cultural use of psychoactive substances in shamanism and religion.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND COSTS:

All programs are open, but preference will be given to professionals.

The three five-day programs will all include a dream seminar led by FREDERICK S. PERLS and also the opportunity for encounter group participation.

THE HUMAN POTENTIAL AND NEGATIVITY
Weekend Seminar with STUART MILLER and DAVID SCHWARTZ

No one would argue that our society lacks negativity: war, riots, and the thousand meannesses of our private lives. In an effort to correct some of this waste, many contemporary authorities in psychology, philosophy, and therapy have chosen to accentuate the possibilities for health, joy, and the actualization of human potential. Much of the impulse for this movement stems from the unreasonable repressions which our society imposes on human aggression, sexuality, and individuality. But it may be that unrealistic hopes have been raised and, also, that negativity which is a legitimate part of the human experience has been too easily brushed aside. "Growth," for example, may not necessarily be growth toward "health." Skepticism, criticism, and suffering may be legitimate aspects of the fully free human potential.

In this weekend seminar, participants will be able to explore their own negative thoughts and feelings. Ironic and tragic modes of thought will be examined; the archetypal figures of the rogue and the scoffer will be invited. The seminar includes a session of "scoffing" and another in which the group will criticize Esalen Institute.

$65 per person, shared room

STUART MILLER has a Ph.D. in comparative literature and is the author of The Picaresque Novel, a monograph on education and grading, and an article entitled "Confessions of a New Academic Man." DAVID SCHWARTZ thinks that listing his credentials is phoney, warns that he has no answers, and boasts considerable experience with both the positive and the negative. Both Schwartz and Miller scoffed and suffered their way through last year's Resident Fellow program at Esalen Institute.

CREATING NEW FORMS OF WORSHIP
3-Day Workshop led by BILL McGAW and DOM CIRINCIONE

Today religion is facing a crisis of far-reaching proportions. In many situations a sense of community is almost non-existent, and in many churches there is less and less participation from youth. A possible source of renewal may be the inclusion of encounter and awareness techniques in the Sunday morning worship and other rituals.

Workshop members will be introduced to a dynamic theory of ritual and symbol which is open to creative change. Experiential worship services will be presented and discussed. These presentations and discussions will be based upon exploratory work done by Bill McGaw and Dom Cirincione at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute with a grant from the Lilly Endowment.

Members will be involved in discussions on the future of religion and will participate in group dynamics sessions applicable to religious services and liturgy building. On the final night of the workshop the participants will conduct a worship service which they have created.

$100 per person, shared room.

BILL McGAW, Director of Communications at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, possesses a background in mass media and human encounter theory and practice. With a grant from the Lilly Endowment, Mr. McGaw is experimenting with new froms of liturgy. Working in co-operation with ministers and congregations of every denomination in the San Diego area, Mr. McGaw has first-hand experience with exciting and deeply moving worship services.

DOM CIRINCIONE, Resident Consultant at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, brings a varied background in philosophy, psychology and religion to this workshop. As a member of the Jesuit order, he has spent ten years in studies for the priesthood and has been involved in working with the renewal of liturgy and today's religious experience.

AWAKE, TUNE IN: UNFOLD
5-Day Workshop with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS

Some forty years ago these words, so often loosely used today, assumed deep significance in the explorations into the natural potentials of the human being which were carried out by Charlotte Selver's teacher Elsa Gindler. The work which evolved from these explorations was an approach, through practice, involving the person as a total organism, which very often unearthed, liberated and cultivated abilities and sensitivities which Gindler's students had not even been conscious of possessing.

"Awaking" (wach werden) meant the process of one's energies (neuromuscular and perceptive) becoming alerted, leading to greater movability and a fuller use of the senses and intuitive powers. It became evident that more quiet and peace were needed for sensations to become clearer and relating fuller, as resistances, rigidities, pressure, and preconceptions gradually had to dissolve.

Becoming "tuned in" (eingestellt werden) by the other, by a task or a given situation, brought one face to face with the creative nature of the organism, with the miracle of potency: powers arise and come into play which correspond exactly to the demands of the occasion at hand. This calls for permissiveness, subtle reactiveness, and openness and fuller presence for the actual circumstances.

The cultivation of these functions was found to permit an "unfolding" (entfalten) into a living far richer and more responsive than what we usually know—a reestablishing of delight from ever-new experiencing which was our birthright in childhood but which all too often had to be abandoned in the course of an overly mechanical education.

Charlotte Selver, who was one of Elsa Gindler's students during much of the 20 or 30 years when this work was evolving, has, on the basis of Elsa Gindler's teaching, developed many new variations to the same ends. An introduction to this practical work in self-orientation will be the function of this five-day workshop.

> This indigenous Western discipline, in its quiet immediacy and depth of contact, has such kinship with the practice of Zen and Taoism that I consider it an experiential substance corresponding to my own philosophical orientation. — Alan Watts

$165 per person, shared room

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are faculty members at the New School for Social Research, New York, in the field of Sensory Awareness, Perception and Non-verbal Communication. They hold regular classes in New York and in Northern and Southern California. Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, this approach has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of her own teaching and exploration. Miss Selver's pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for most of the work with sensory awareness, sensory awakening and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Since 1956 she has held joint seminars with Alan Watts, and for the past two years has held joint seminars with Shunryu Suzuki Roshi, Zen Master, Abbot of Zen Mountain Center, Tassajara, and Zen Center, San Francisco. Charles Brooks held a workshop in the Spring of 1968 in Santiago at the invitation of the University of Chile.

SPIRITUAL EXERCISES—OLD AND NEW
5-Day Workshop with CLAUDIO NARANJO

During this workshop Dr. Naranjo will present a survey of practical means that have been advocated for the attainment of higher states of consciousness and being. Dr. Naranjo claims that beyond the apparent dissimilarity of ways, such as dervish dancing and Tibetan sexual rituals, and beyond the seeming incompatibility of the ascetic way of detachment and that of merging with life, a basic identity can be discovered among all the exercises aiming at the hidden treasure in man.

Participants will be guided through a series of meditation approaches, communication rituals, and exercises in self-expression selected out of the mystical traditions, psychotherapy and the arts. Participants should be open to a degree of intimacy comparable to that required in group psychotherapy.

$165 per person, shared room

CLAUDIO NARANJO is a research psychiatrist at the University of Chile; research associate, Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley; consultant to Stanford Research Institute; and staff member of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute. He has taught Psychology of Art and Social Pathology, investigated the use of hallucinogens by shamans in different parts of South America, and introduced several psychotropic drugs into clinical practice. Dr. Naranjo has had personal experience with the ways of several mystical traditions and is concerned with the relationship between the quests for sanity and enlightenment.

VIDEO TAPE FEEDBACK: Explorations in Self-Confrontation
Weekend Seminar with FRED STOLLER, MARGOT ROBINSON and H. L. MYERHOFF

Confronting one's self requires a different set of attitudes from being confronted by others. When the two are combined, a range of self-knowledge is possible which is unlikely when either is eliminated. The possibilities of self-confrontation, within the context of a group encounter, will be explored in this workshop with a variety of video tape feedback techniques.

Training in role-taking and self-objectivity will be major elements in this workshop.

$75 per person, shared room

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is currently Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California. As one of the original pioneers in the marathon group, focused feedback with video tape, and the family workshop, he has conducted a wide range of groups in many settings. Trained as a clinical psychologist, he is currently involved in research, training and writing about the group approach, the potential for growth, and the consequences of social groupings.

MARGOT ROBINSON completed her doctoral dissertation on the topic of video tape feedback while on the staff at Camarillo State Hospital. She is now in private practice as a clinical psychologist with Associated Psychological Consultants in Los Angeles.

H. L. MYERHOFF has conducted research in the development of marathon groups at Camarillo State Hospital where he is a psychology associate. Last summer he conducted field research in the psychology of the Chontal Indians in the Oaxaca region of Mexico. He has also conducted field observations of middle class gangs.

REINCARNATION AND KARMA
Weekend Seminar with PAUL LEE and ROLF von ECKARTSBERG

Reincarnation and Karma are classic symbols for the misery of the burden of self-consciousness. In a discussion of these symbols from the psychological and philosophical point of view, concepts such as finitude and evil will be elaborated according to their mythical description. The question of human transcendence in the course of the life cycle and the renewal of personal identity will constitute the main theme of the lectures.

The seminar will argue and will attempt to demonstrate to its members that modern secular consciousness is uniquely ready and waiting for a reappropriation of ancient wisdom through participation in mythical symbols, illuminating the cultural and social configurations that have us under their spell.

The Myth of Er, a myth of transmigration and reincarnation, recounted by Socrates at the close of Plato's Republic, will be enacted by all members of the audience, affording them a moment for deliberating over their choice of identity and destiny.

$65 per person, shared room

PAUL LEE, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Philosophy, Crown College, University of California, Santa Cruz. He was formerly Editor of the Psychedelic Review, Assistant Professor of Humanities at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Protestant Chaplain to Brandeis University.

ROLF von ECKARTSBERG is Professor of Psychology at Duquesne University. He is the author of a number of articles describing his central concern, the exploration and description of consciousness.

AGENCY AND COMMUNION IN HUMAN EXISTENCE
Weekend Seminar with DAVID BAKAN

Agency (roughly equivalent to autonomy and independence) and Communion are the two modalities of human existence, according to the thesis elaborated by Dr. Bakan in his book The Duality of Human Existence. These two modalities, he argues, are fundamental to human existence, but in modern times agency has gained ascendency, aided in part by science, Protestantism, and modern Western man's preoccupation with independence and freedom. Unmitigated agency might even contribute to various forms of disease, notably cancer. Dr. Bakan recognizes that Tillich's "ultimate concern" cannot be restricted purely to the theological area but must be seen too in science, ideology, myth, sexuality, practice of medicine and study of man's psyche.

DAVID BAKAN is a professor of psychology at the University of Chicago. He has taught at Harvard University, the University of Missouri, the Ohio State University, and the University of Rochester. He is the author of numerous articles in professional journals as well as magazines such as Commentary and The New Republic. He is the author of the following books: Sigmund Freud and the Jewish Mystical Tradition; The Duality of Human Existence; On Method; and Disease, Pain, and Sacrifice.

DYNAMICS OF POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS
Weekend Seminar with RUDY COLE, GLENN WILSON and HERB BAUS

What happens to people who become involved in politics? How do they relate to each other; to the candidates; to the community they wish to influence? What motivates them? What drew them into politics? After they work in a campaign, what kinds of changes take place in their relationships to the candidates and to the community? What changes in their own feelings about politics and those they wish to influence?

Why are the extreme elements of society more active in politics than people who are not? What is the motivation for people who have very clear views on social and political issues?

What happens to the concerned citizen politicians who are personally motivated by one issue or one candidate? How do they relate to the candidates and to the community, and what happens to them?

$65 per person, shared room

RUDY COLE was associate editor of the Los Angeles Legal Journal and was formerly editor of the Beverly Hills Times. He has been public relations director for thirteen political campaigns in California including a number of bond issues.

GLENN WILSON is senior vice president of Lytton Financial Corporation, was managing director of the Democratic National Convention in 1960, was statewide manager for Stanley Mosk in 1958, and managed a number of other campaigns, including Senator Richards'. He is a long-time resident of Pasadena, a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

HERB BAUS is a member of the firm of Baus and Ross, which managed the Barry Goldwater campaign in 1964 in the primaries in California, which was successful; also the referendum on the "No" campaign for pay television in 1964, which was also successful. The firm successfully managed a considerable number of Republican campaigns. He is senior partner of one of the oldest political Republican public relations firms in the nation, and is the author of a forthcoming book on the practical aspects of politics.

BASIC GROUP DYNAMICS through Guided Action Encounter Groups
Weekend led by LEON FINE

Practice in paraphrasing, perception check, report of internal states, dealing with here and now, and direct expression of feeling are individual communication skills to be practiced in this workshop. Examination of discussion flow, the effects of the leader as a model for member behavior, a technique for direct behavior modification in small groups, and ego-building techniques will also be practiced. Action and behavior as forms of communication will be stressed and experienced.

The design is meant to be of use to the professional who wants to extend his group process skills as well as to the individual who seeks to increase his interpersonal effectiveness.

$65 per person, shared room

PSYCHODRAMA
5-Day Workshop with LEON FINE and REIKO FINE

This workshop, limited to professionals, is designed to increase effectiveness with psychodramatic method. Action projective techniques, role presentation, doubling, role reversal, soliloquoy, aside, etc., will be experienced and discussed. Staging, Director, Auxiliary-ego, and Audience positions will be explored. Individual and group-centered methods, the Action Sociogram and Spectogram, and other models for action diagnosis or feedback will be experienced.

The design stresses experience as the primary method of learning, and participants will be given a chance to try to criticize role positions of the process. Discussion will be geared to the professional level and the workshop is therefore limited to those directing or assisting in group process activities.

$185 per person, shared room (limited enrollment, with preference to those attending the weekend on Group Dynamics immediately preceding)

LEON J. FINE is Assistant Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Oregon Medical School, and Director of Seminars in Group Processes. He was formerly Director of the St. Louis State Hospital Training Institute for Psychodrama and Group Psychotherapy. Dr. Fine has designed and directed sensitivity-psychodrama training programs for psychiatrists, psychologists, pastoral counselors, social workers, nurses and educators in this country and in Japan. His psychodrama training was obtained from Dr. J. L. Moreno.

REIKO FINE conducts groups for wives of spouses in the helping professions for the Division of Continued Education of the University of Oregon. She serves as a co-leader in the psychodrama and group dynamics programs run by Seminars in Group Processes. She served as translator and co-leader in workshops in Japan. Mrs. Fine has studied psychodrama at Beacon with J. L. Moreno, at St. Elizabeth's Hospital with J. Enneis, and at the St. Louis Institute with her husband.

THE PSYCHIATRIST AND HIS WORLD
Weekend Seminar with ARNOLD A. ROGOW

An exploration of the role of psychiatrists and psychoanalysts in American Society. Prevalent values in psychiatry will be discussed, and controversies and issues within the profession will be explored. A major question is the extent to which psychiatry can move from the "adjustment" orientation to a critical, reformist, or even revolutionary position. The seminar will draw on questionnaire data and interviews with 184 psychiatrists and psychoanalysts.

$65 per person, shared room

ARNOLD A. ROGOW, a Graduate Professor of Political Science, City College of New York, is a prolific author of books, articles and reviews and has taught at Princeton, Haverford, UCLA and Stanford University. With Harold Lasswell he has conducted research into the relationship between sex and political attitudes, the results of which will be published this year in a book entitled Sex and Politics. The subject matter of his seminar at Esalen is drawn from a research project into the attitudes and beliefs of psychiatrists and psychoanalysts.

MAN TURNED ON TO NATURE
Weekend Workshop Led by BERNARD GUNTHER and GERARD HAIGH

Modern man tends to create a controlled environment in which he exists alienated from nature. Our culture teaches an exploitative attitude toward the natural world which often estranges us from part of our own nature. We are conditioned to tense our muscles, desensitize our bodies and then get turned off from ourselves and from our environment.

This workshop is for those who wish to intensify their relatedness to nature. Body awareness techniques, basic encounter techniques, and meditation will be used to awaken senses and feelings.

$70 per person, shared room

BERNARD GUNTHER is a teacher of body awareness in residence at Esalen, Big Sur. He is developing a new approach to direct sensory experience.

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practicing psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles, and is President-Elect of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology. He brings a life-long interest in nature to his work with basic encounter groups. This program's spark ignited while he was doing human relations training fro the Peace Corps and for VISTA on Apache and Pima reservations in Arizona.

THE NEW DOMAINS OF EDUCATION
5-Day Workshop with THE ESALEN RESIDENT FELLOWS

Esalen Institute has now completed its second 9-month Resident Program. Starting in September 1967, twenty Resident Fellows have worked continously with sensory awakening, basic encounter groups, meditation, Gestalt Therapy and other approaches combined into a single, intensive learning process. During this experiment their purpose was to improve current methods for educating the senses, the feelings, personal relationships and altered states of consciousness, and to find ways to integrate these methods into education generally.

In this workshop the Resident Fellows and the program directors, Bill Schutz and Edward Maupin, will report on the program results to date and will conduct experiential sessions to give workshop participants a direct look at their work.

$165 per person, shared room

WILLIAM SCHUTZ and EDWARD MAUPIN are co-directors of the Esalen Resident Program. See pages 23 and 25 for further biographical data.

HYDROPSYCHOTHERAPY
5-Day Workshop with LILY WIENER

Psychiatry today has largely ignored significant aspects of the interrelationship between emotional and bodily states. In water, formerly unconscious movements of the body are placed under conscious control, facilitating not only bodily but emotional changes as well.

This workshop, utilizing a heated pool, is limited to ten qualified professionals. Please apply early and state qualifications.

$195 per person, shared room

LILY WIENER has pioneered the development of hydropsychotherapy. For more than ten years she has been working with psychiatric patients, with whom, according to numerous reports, she has had noteworthy success. Her work has been reported in the Medical Section of LIFE Magazine (June 10, 1966).

THE AVANT-GARDE FROM DADA TO McLUHAN AND BEYOND
A Weekend with JEFF BERNER

The weekend will discuss, illustrate and demonstrate the origins and development of international avant-garde activity since 1885. The influence of Pataphysics, Dada, Surrealism, Existentialism, Happenings, Zen and the psychedelic experience will be discussed. Workshop members will explore avant-garde world views from Jarry and Tzara to McLuhan and beyond.

Presentations of movements at the growing edge of worldwide avant-gardening will be made: Fluxus, de-coll/age, Letterism, Concretism, The Mediocres, Spatialism, etc., with many anecdotes and personalities. Films, mini-Happenings and other phenomena will also occur.

$65 per person, shared room

JEFF BERNER is Extension Instructor in French Culture, University of California, Berkeley; Instructor, San Francisco State Downtown Center; Editor Stolen Paper Editions; collector of Aktual Art International Exhibition (San Francisco Museum, May '67; Stanford Gallery, December '67); columnist, "Astronauts of Inner Space," San Francisco Sunday Chronicle; poet; importer of European experimental cinema.

EXPERIENCING ONE ANOTHER
5-Day Workshop with DICK MILLER and LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG

Especially recommended for couples (any significant two-person relationship: work, play, love, business, friendship, marriage).

"All living is meeting," Martin Buber wrote; yet in most relationships we do not meet each other but remain enmeshed in our own myths, fantasies and expectations. This workshop will provide a space in which the participant may vitalize his friendly, sexual, and loving relations. Communication, both verbal and through gesture, touch and voice, will be the central focus. The aim will be to fully experience the sensory, emotional and intellectual dimensions of each other.

The workshop will begin with a 24-hour marathon.

$185 per person, shared room

DICK L. MILLER is on the faculty of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he is a Clinical Psychologist in the Institute for Human Adjustment and a lecturer in the Department of Psychology. He is also coordinator of a large-scale program utilizing experiential innovations to facilitate college teaching. During the summer of 1967 he was in residence at Esalen Institute, where he assisted in workshops with Virginia Satir and George Bach.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG is a practicing psychotherapist in Albuquerque, New Mexico. He has worked with Laura and Frederick S. Perls for over a decade and has adapted the methods of Gestalt Therapy to a variety of settings. His present involvement is in founding viable communities using intensive groups as founding experiences. A physical community to be built by one of his groups along the upper Rio Grande River is in the design stage.

NEW PATTERNS OF LOVE AND FRIENDSHIP
5-Day Workshop with BOB RIMMER

Bob Rimmer is the author of The Rebellion of Yale Marratt, The Harrad Experiment and other novels. Basic themes in his work are the creation of new patterns of sexual and family relationship in our culture and the building of a new psychological sophistication which will free people for more intense enjoyment of life. Mr. Rimmer is also president of Relief Printing Corporation of Boston, New York and Los Angeles.

In this workshop Mr. Rimmer will discuss his unconventional ideas and brainstorm with the seminar participants about Utopian possibilities. It is suggested that all participants read The Harrad Experiment in preparation for these discussions.

EDUCATIONAL RESEARCH IN THE AFFECTIVE DOMAIN
Seminar and Report from GEORGE I. BROWN and RESEARCH STAFF

An opportunity to meet with the staff of the project funded by Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Ford Foundation in which various approaches to learning in the affective domain (feeling, sensing, intuition, etc.) as developed at Esalen and by others are integrated into the school curriculum.

The staff will not only report on their experiences in the project but will also lead participants in experiencing some of the affective approaches. A special rate will be provided for this weekend.

$50 per person, shared room

GEORGE I. BROWN is Professor of Education at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is currently interested in building models for the affective domain that can become part of the school curriculum. His major emphasis has been on the relationship of creativity, existence and awareness, and on the application of principles of existential psychology – especially Gestalt Therapy – to educational practice.

FANTASY AND FEELING IN EDUCATION
Weekend Seminar with RICHARD M. JONES

This seminar will examine the impact of Andras Angyal's holistic psychology and Erik Erikson's developmental psychology on contemporary educational theory and practice. Particular emphasis will be placed on the cultivation of emotion and imagination in formal elementary learning. Elementary teachers currently struggling with the "new curricula" in social studies are especially welcome.

$65 per person, shared room

RICHARD M. JONES is currently Visiting Professor of Psychology and Consultant in Counseling at the University of California at Santa Cruz. He was formerly Professor of Psychology and Director of the Psychological Counseling Center at Brandeis University, and Teaching Consultant with Educational Services Incorporated. Relevant publications include An Application of Psychoanalysis to Education (Charles C. Thomas, Springfield, Illinois, 1960); Ego Synthesis in Dreams (Shenckman Publishing Company, Cambridge, Mass., 1962); and Contemporary Educational Psychology (New York, Harper and Row, 1967).

BEHAVIORIST AND HUMANIST
Weekend Seminar with MICHAEL SCRIVEN

What does it mean to say you understand a person or a particular action? The traditional scientific answer is that understanding is only present when laws are known governing the person's behavior. A supposed consequence of this view is that behavior you can't predict is only 'understood' in a spurious sense. The traditional humanist answer has referred to 'sympathy', 'empathy', 'insight', or 'seeing from the inside'; the scientist has criticized these concepts as excessively subjective or impressionistic. This dispute has erupted in clinical and experimental psychology, historiography and the social sciences in general. It will be examined and illustrated with the participants' own examples, and a novel reconciliation of the viewpoints will be suggested.

$65 per person, shared room

MICHAEL SCRIVEN is a professor of philosophy at the University of California at Berkeley. He is also on the editorial board of The International Journal of Psychology, Contemporary Psychology, Behavioral Research Labs, and The Social Sciences Educational Consortium, Inc. He founded the first Australian society for parapsychological research, has degrees in mathematics as well as philosophy, writes about automobiles, computers, and educational reform; and especially enjoys science-fiction, trees and purveying a little iconoclasm to about twenty institutions a year. He is the author of Primary Philosophy, Applied Logic, and over a hundred shorter pieces.

CREATING PARISH LIFE
Weekend Seminar with ROBERT CROMEY

During the past eight years, the Rev. Robert Cromey has introduced experimental educational programs and worship services into the life of his parishes in New York and San Francisco. For example, during this year's Lenten season he conducted services using sensory awareness exercises, encounter groups, meditation and light shows.

In this seminar he and members of his parish will describe their experiments and explore the possibilities for creating similar programs in parishes, groups and other community organizations.

$65 per person, shared room

The REV. ROBERT WARREN CROMEY is the Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church in San Francisco. He is a founder of the Council on Religion and the Homosexual, and was a member of the San Francisco branch of the NAACP. He has been active in the civil rights movement in San Francisco. He is the moderator of a radio series on the young adult called "The Now Generation" originally produced by KXKX-FM.

PSYCHOANALYSIS AND ZEN
Weekend Seminar led by SUZUKI ROSHI, ALBERT LUBIN and DICK BAKER

For psychoanalysts, the id, the ego and the superego refer to psychic forces which are overwhelmingly real. But Zen asks, "What is the elusive psyche which is analyzed?" For Zen nothing exists, neither psyche, analysis, or one who analyzes. Buddhism does not assert what is Truth. Rather, Buddhism teaches that we should know what mind and awareness actually are, not only what the mind knows of. In fact, there is no-thing to be known.

What is the common ground of these two approaches to man's wholeness?

$65 per person, shared room

SHUNRYU SUZUKI ROSHI is Master of Zen Center, San Francisco, and Abbot of the Zen Mountain Center, Tassajara.

ALBERT LUBIN is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, Stanford University, a member of the Committee on Religion of the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry, and formerly on the faculty of the San Francisco Psychoanalytic Institute. He is also on the board of "The Psychoanalytic Forum." He has long been interested in the psychology of religion and the psychology of art, and is completing a book on Vincent van Gogh.

RICHARD BAKER is Zen Priest and President of Zen Center, San Francisco, and Director of the Zen Mountain Center, Tassajara.

AWARENESS AND CREATIVITY
5-Day Workshop with GEORGE I. BROWN and JUDITH R. BROWN

This workshop is based on the theory that to create is to discover and that discovering depends greatly upon how aware a person is of himself and the universe, including others.

The workshop consists of two phases: First, experiences are provided in developing "readiness" for creativity and awareness; these experiences include synectics, self-object modification, the creative sub-self, "other universes" and hedonic impulse training. The second phase includes sensitivity training and encounter groups with a special emphasis on awareness training. Awareness training as practiced by the Browns is directed toward experiencing the reality of the now and becoming more in touch with feelings of authenticity in contrast with the insufficiency of fantasy, illusion, and intellectualization.

$165 per person, shared room

GEORGE I. BROWN teaches courses in group interaction, creativity, awareness and sensitivity training as a professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. With his wife he has given workshops and seminars for many diverse groups in the United States and Canada. Dr. Brown is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, brings much experience in group awareness training. Her approach is based on principles of Gestalt Therapy as founded by Dr. Frederick Perls, with whom she has worked as a co-therapist.

EXPLORING THE BIG SUR COUNTRY
5-Day Workshop with ART GRANT

Art Grant, artist and connoisseur of found objects, will conduct a tour along Big Sur Redwood canyons and streambeds, ocean beaches and mountain slopes, giving participants a good excuse for experiencing the Big Sur country while creating sculptured pieces from objects discovered during these explorations.

Individual 50-power pocket microscopes available from the workshop leader.

Participants are encouraged to bring sketch materials—newsprint, color crayons or felt pens—if they wish, for sketching.

$165 per person, shared room

ART GRANT is an expert on creating sculpture from commonplace objects and junk. In the past ten years he has had 47 one-man art shows at museums such as the San Francisco Museum of Art Annual, the Sausalito Art Festival, and the San Francisco Art Festival. He is represented in the permanent collections of the Oakland Art Museum and the San Francisco Museum of Art. He is the co-author of Sculpture from Junk (Reinhold Publishing Corp., N.Y.).

PARTICIPATION IN AVANT-GARDE THEATRE
Weekend Seminar with The Balcony Theatre Corporation under the direction of WILLEM F. WANROOY

In this experimental workshop an effort will be made to eliminate the separateness between audience and play. Several avant-garde plays and sketches will be presented and at several intervals the actors will stop performing, then freeze. The group will verbalize the first thing they feel about the philosophies and 'emotional states' expressed at that moment. Then the play will continue, and so on. Members of the group will also be encouraged to come on stage during the performance and to observe the actors. Thus, a new intimacy will be created between spectators and actors/playwrights. The hitherto silent involvement of the audience will be transformed into an openly expressed one; there need no longer be 'separated onlookers.'

$65 per person, shared room

THE BALCONY THEATRE CORPORATION, a non-profit entity, was founded several years ago by WILLEM F. WANROOY, who has done theatre work in Asia, Europe and the United States. Wanrooy, now an American citizen, has constantly been searching for new domains in the relationships between spectator and the performing arts. The two other members of the group are LYLE STEPHEN, a professional actor who received his Master's Degree in Theatre Arts, and JOY CRAWFORD, a professional actress with extensive experience on the New York and Los Angeles stage.

APOCALYPSE AND TOTALITARIANISM:
Aspects of the Daemonic in Revolution, Religion, and Art
A Weekend Seminar with BILL THOMPSON and IRA EINHORN

In describing this seminar, Dr. Thompson writes: "An exploration of the impact of religious imagination upon political and artistic movements and events, when, in those heightened moments of anticipation and dread, the past and the future come together in the imagination to shatter the prevailing order of civilization. At such times actual events appear to burst into apocalyptic liberation or totalitarian collectivization, and the ordinary shapelessness of historical reality is lost in new artistic forms in which the event itself takes on the joy of sacrament and the terror of sacrifice.

"Our own sense of 'America 1968' will be seen during this seminar against a backdrop of history ranging from Moses to Elijah Muhammad, from St. John the Divine to Yeats, D. H. Lawrence and Norman O. Brown, and from the cargo cults of Melanesia to the flying saucer contactees of California."

$65 per person, shared room

WILLIAM I. THOMPSON is Associate Professor of Humanities at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is author of The Imagination of an Insurrection: Dublin, Easter 1916. He has also written an apocalyptic play about California, an adaptation of Euripides' Bacchae in which Governor Reagan figures as Pentheus.

IRA EINHORN, widely educated in the apocalyptic, totalitarian and other modes, now teaches in the Free University of Pennsylvania. He is a collector of material for many articles and books on the American apocalypse.

SUGGESTED READING: The apocalyptic mode—Norman O. Brown's Love's Body or Nathaniel West's The Day of the Locust; the totalitarian mode—Herbert Marcuse's One Dimensional Man or Thomas Pynchon's The Crying of Lot 49.

FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY
5-Day Workshop with GEORGE I. BROWN and JUDITH R. BROWN

A workshop for couples who feel they have a healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationships even more real, exciting and substantial. The focus of the program will move through misleading and confusing preconceptions of one's self and one's marriage partner to increasing perception and response to a real person in a real world.

The Browns will use approaches to awareness and sensitivity training along with marriage games that, once learned in the workshop, can continue to be used by the couple in their home setting.

$330 per couple

GOD IN THE SECULAR CITY
Weekend Seminar with HARVEY COX

Although ours is a society of vast and ponderous structures, it is also one in which the quest for an authentic personal identity has become central. Religion today, instead of sanctifying existing practices and blessing the status quo, has become for many people an avenue to personal style and a catalyst for social change. This topic will be discussed in connection with new movements in religion such as radical theology, the underground church, the growing interest in eastern spirituality and the theology of hope.

$65 per person, shared room

HARVEY G. COX is Associate Professor of Church and Society in the School of Divinity, Harvard University. He is author of The Secular City and numerous articles which have opened up new perspectives on secularization and the religion of modern men. He has been active in civil rights work, was a "fraternal worker" in Berlin maintaining contact with churches and universities in East Germany, attended the New Delhi Conference of the World Conference of Churches in 1962.

DEVELOPING INNER RESOURCES
5-Day Workshop with HOBART THOMAS and MICHAEL MURPHY

Much of the time in ordinary life the individual is distracted from contact with his deepest inner resources. As a result he feels out of tune, and life is far less rewarding than it otherwise might be. In this workshop we will explore various ways for the individual to develop his own sense of inner direction as he experiences himself alone and in his relationship to others. Attention will be given to a wide variety of human experiences including meditation, sensory awareness, body movement, fantasy and group encounter. The emphasis is on freedom to explore and find one's own way within a wide range of possibilities. Limit: 20 people.

$165 per person, shared room

HOBART THOMAS is Professor of Psychology at Sonoma State College, an Associate of National Training Laboratories in Group Development, and a practicing psychotherapist. He has led encounter groups in a variety of settings for the past 12 years both in the U.S. and abroad. At Sonoma State College, as chairman of the Psychology Department, he was one of the people instrumental in originating the conferences in Existential Psychology and the Graduate Program in Humanistic Psychology.

MICHAEL MURPHY, president of Esalen Institute, is a long-time, if sometimes wavering, student of meditation.

TRAINING IN TEACHING AND LEADING AFFECTIVE LEARNING
Two 5-Day Workshops with GEORGE I. BROWN and RESEARCH STAFF

Members of the staff of the Esalen program in the affective domain (funded by the Ford Foundation) under the direction of Dr. George I. Brown, will conduct two sequential five-day training sessions in improving teaching in the affective domain and in ways to better integrate affective and cognitive learning. (There will be a break for the weekend between sessions.)

This workshop is provided as a result of many requests by teachers and others who are interested in improving their leadership skills in areas such as interpersonal relationships, intra-personal learning, sensitivity and awareness training as applied to the classroom, creativity, etc. The training will be based on the experiences of the staff in using these approaches in elementary and secondary schools and college classrooms.

$165 per person, shared room, for each 5-day workshop

THE RITE OF MOVEMENT: A Dance Celebration
Weekend Workshop with ANN HALPRIN and drums by CASEY SONNABEND

Ann Halprin will present her approach to the body and to dance. Her approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. She writes: "We will explore each individual's rhythm, and extend this expressive energy to an interplay with one another in the landscape, leading to a spontaneous group ritual."

No formal dance training is required.

PERSONAL, SOCIAL, AND EXISTENTIAL CONFIRMATION
A Weekend Discussion and Basic Encounter Seminar led by MAURICE FRIEDMAN and ANN DREYFUSS

"Sent forth from the natural domain of species into the hazard of the solitary category, surrounded by the air of a chaos which came into being with him, secretly and bashfully man watches for a Yes which allows him to be and which can come to him only from one human person to another."

Martin Buber, The Knowledge of Man

Discussions during the weekend will center around four areas:

1. How do I find the calling through which I can become myself in response to the world's call? How can I live authentically in the tension between personal, social, and existential confirmation?
2. What part does our confirming one another in dialogue play in our realizing our personal uniqueness? Can I accept you as you are, yet refuse to confirm you when you are unfaithful to the person you are called to become? Can I expect my child or my student to confirm me as well as I him? Ought the student to experience the teacher's side of the relationship, the patient the therapist's side?
3. Are the social roles I play and the groups to which I belong the means or the alternative to my being confirmed as a unique person? When is interhuman conflict an obstacle and when a gateway to mutual confirmation in depth?
4. Is there an existential confirmation that we experience through and beyond the personal and the social? Can existential trust accept and overcome the social and existential mistrust that robs us of the courage to respond?

SCENARIOS FOR THE YEAR 2000:
Weekend of Conversations with HERMAN KAHN and ANTHONY J. WIENER

Informal discussions exploring what the world will look like in the year 2000; methods and problems of technological, socio-economic, and cultural forecasting; and the dynamics and methods of "Think Tanks." It is recommended that seminar participants read The Year 2000: A Framework for Speculation on the Next Thirty-Three Years or the Summer 1967 Special Issue of Daedalus, Toward the Year 2000: Work in Progress.

This seminar is the first in an Esalen series on The Future; this series will be coordinated by David Goldberg, presently a "future watcher" for the U.S. Office of Education.

$65 per person, shared room

HERMAN KAHN is probably the world's most famous "futurist." He is a physicist and specialist in public policy analyses, is Director and Trustee of Hudson Institute and was its principal founder. Among his major interests at Hudson Institute have been studies on Latin American and other development problems, inquiries into alternative world futures and long-run (10 to 35 years) political, economic, technological and cultural changes, and research into strategic warfare and basic national security policies.

He is the author of On Thermonuclear War: Thinking About the Unthinkable and, in collaboration with Anthony J. Wiener, The Year 2000: A Framework for Speculation on the Next Thirty-Three Years prepared for the Commission on the Year 2000 of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

ANTHONY J. WIENER, Chairman of the Research Council of Hudson Institute, is a lawyer and social scientist whose major interests include political, sociological, and psychological aspects of public policy problems. He has conducted studies and written reports on topics such as international crises, arms control, various defense issues, problems of European political and military policies, the future of U.S. poverty and race relations, and long-range planning problems.

A TWO-DAY WORKSHOP FOR MARRIED COUPLES
With SONIA and ED NEVIS

This workshop will concentrate on the encounter between couples in order to highlight habitual modes of communication and to experiment with new ones. The primary focus will be upon the here-and-now encounter within the workshop setting, rather than on analysis of problems in the marital relationship. By providing fresh perspectives we hope to give impetus to continuing growth in marriage.

$130 per couple

EDWIN C. NEVIS has been management consultant since 1950 and has broad experience in sensitivity training, encounter groups and related personal and management development activities. He is an Associate of National Training Laboratories-Institute for Applied Behavioral Science, and President of the Cleveland Institute for Gestalt Therapy.

SONIA NEVIS has been developing, together with her husband, new approaches to the improvement of communication between husbands and wives. Recently she helped conduct a one-month workshop with Dr. Frederick Perls in which she worked intensively with married couples.

COMPREHENSIVE PERSONALITY CHANGE
A Weekend with ALBERT ELLIS

This workshop will present a comprehensive approach to basic personality change, encompassing (a) cognitive and rational methods, (b) emotive-expressive techniques, and (c) behavioral-motorial assignments.

Instead of formal lectures, live material will be emphasized, including recordings of therapeutic interviews, demonstration interviews, live group therapy sessions, and continuous audience participation and feedback. Participants can choose a self-helping experience as well as an opportunity to learn the essentials of this therapeutic technique.

$65 per person, shared room

ALBERT ELLIS is the originator of rational-emotive psychotherapy and is Executive Director of the Institute for Rational Living, a training and educational center. He is well known for his writings on sex, love and marriage relations and is a busy practitioner of individual and group psychotherapy and marriage and family counseling. He is the author of more than 250 articles and of 25 books, including A Guide to Rational Living; Reason and Emotion in Psychotherapy; The Art and Science of Love; and How to Prevent Your Child from Becoming a Neurotic Adult.

THOUGHT IN THE MIDST OF LIFE
5-Day Workshop with HUSTON SMITH

Shared reflective probing of, and collective meditation on, five brief texts—Asian and Western; psychological, philosophical, and religious—in an effort to hear the words they speak to the distinctive life-situation of each individual participant. A search for relevant philosophy. Enrollment limited to twelve.

$165 per person, shared room

HUSTON SMITH is Professor of Philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His birth and childhood in China produced a life-long interest in philosophical anthropology, comparative philosophy, and comparative religion, while his present post calls for special attention to the relation between science and the humanities. He is author of The Religions of Man; Condemned to Meaning; and The Purposes of Higher Education.

See page 9, August 21 and 22, San Francisco, for additional events with Huston Smith.

WORKSHOP IN ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop with EDWARD MAUPIN and JOHN HEIDER

John Heider and Edward Maupin will co-direct one semester of the 1968-69 Esalen Resident Program. Their joint leadership of this encounter workshop will draw upon their researches in meditation and upon techniques developed in past resident programs.

$165 per person, shared room

EDWARD MAUPIN is co-director of the Esalen Resident Program. Before coming to Esalen, Dr. Maupin was on the staff of the Neuropsychiatric Institute at UCLA. His Ph.D. dissertation in Psychology from the University of Michigan was on the subject of meditation. During the past year, Dr. Maupin has been intensively exploring the phenomenology of body experience and a wide variety of approaches for the enhancement of body awareness.

JOHN HEIDER, a Fellow in the 1967-68 Resident Program, will co-direct the program next year with William Schutz and Edward Maupin. His Ph.D. and dissertation from Duke University was on the subject of meditation. He is a student of altered states of consciousness and various techniques for personal growth.

GESTALT THERAPY PROGRAMS

Gestalt Therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, the founder of Gestalt Therapy, Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur
JAMES S. SIMKIN, clinical psychologist, Beverly Hills, co-leader of professional training groups with Dr. Perls for five years
JOSEPH J. DOWNING, psychiatrist, Director of Mental Health Programs, San Mateo County
ROBERT K. HALL, psychiatrist, Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur
CLAUDIO NARANJO, psychiatrist, Santiago, Chile, and Berkeley, California
IRMA LEE SHEPHERD, psychologist, Director of Psychological Center, Georgia State College, Atlanta, Georgia

All the staff have studied intensively with Dr. Perls and Dr. Simkin.

STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION
IDA P. ROLF in Residence

Ida P. Rolf will be in residence approximately from June 15 to September 15. She will work in conjunction with the Gestalt Therapy program and with private individuals on an appointment basis. Her work, called Structural Integration, is a system of deep musculo-fascial organization which releases excessive tension and realigns body structure to establish more efficient functioning.

If demand warrants, a class for training professionals will be given during the six-week period, July 15-August 24, at Big Sur. This class will be limited to five applicants to be chosen on a basis of adequate background knowledge (anatomy, physiology), and psychological testing to determine aptitude for this profession. The fee will be $1000, of which $500 is payable in advance, by June 15. This fee covers the class with complete manipulative supervision, teaching, and personal processing by Dr. Rolf. Without further fee it provides for attendance at another class which is mandatory to secure later certification. The fee does not include lodging. Interested candidates should contact Dr. Ida Rolf (11 Riverside Drive, New York City 10023) as soon as possible.

BIG SUR: PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOPS IN GESTALT THERAPY

5-DAY WORKSHOPS FOR PROFESSIONAL PSYCHOTHERAPISTS:

June 16-21 and August 11-16 Introductory Professional with FREDERICK S. PERLS, JAMES S. SIMKIN and IRMA LEE SHEPHERD

August 18-23 Advanced Professional with JAMES S. SIMKIN and JOSEPH J. DOWNING

Dr. Perls will be in residence and will participate in the August workshops.

These professional workshops will provide theoretical as well as practical training in the application of the existential and phenomenological method for individual, group and self-treatment. The participants will have an opportunity for artistic self-expression and of facing and coping with their own personal problems. Attention will be primarily focused on phenomenology through the use of non-interpretive techniques. For all workshops these techniques will be extended to a working through of dreams.

The August 11-16 workshop will serve as an introduction and background in Gestalt and Existential Therapy. Those attending will qualify for the advanced workshop.

The workshops are limited to not more than 20 qualified professionals. Applicants should apply at least three weeks in advance and should state qualifications. Envelopes should be marked: "Attention of GESTALT PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP."

$185 per person, shared room

VIDEO-TAPE FEEDBACK is used from time to time in workshops and seminars. VIDEO-TAPES and 16 mm SOUNDTRACK FILMS are now available by rental for training purposes, exploring various aspects of Dr. Perls' approach. For information write direct to: Frederick S. Perls, M.D., Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

ESALEN RESIDENT PROGRAM 1968-69

Co-Directors: Wm. C. Schutz, Edward Maupin, John Heider

For the past six years Esalen Institute has been presenting programs related to developing human potential. A wide variety of techniques have been presented here by practitioners from all over the world. The Resident Program was originally conceived to give a group of people opportunity to explore these techniques and experiences more intensively over a longer period of time than the weekend or week-long seminars permit.

The program is completing its second year. Fifteen Resident Fellows participated in 1966-67 under the direction of Virginia Satir. Twenty are in residence in the 1967-68 program under the direction of William Schutz and Edward Maupin. In each of the two groups, about half of the Fellows have been already established in a vocation—including psychology, law, art, education, religion—to which the Esalen experience might be expected to contribute something new. The other half have been people just out of school or the Peace Corps who have not yet settled into vocations. Both men and women participate, and the age range has been from 20 to 55.

As the program has evolved, the central focus has been on the encounter group as the basic forum into which other activities feed. The on-going seminar programs described in the Esalen brochure, plus special seminars for the resident group, introduce a wide variety of additional experiences for the Fellows to draw upon. This year special programs in almost the whole spectrum of body movement and body awareness techniques used at Esalen have been presented for the Fellows, as well as seminars in meditation, Gestalt Therapy, imagery, psychodrama, and the new group formats. As the program proceeds, the Fellows arrange projects of their own to explore things which have seemed promising for personal growth or for new practical applications. They have, for example, worked intensively with the body techniques of Alexander Lowen, adapted a dream technique of a Malaysian tribe, explored empathy experience, and evolved new approaches to group encounter.

This year there has been a practicum program in which Fellows work in outside settings—a home for adolescents, a private high school, a Negro ghetto elementary school, a state hospital, an experimental program at a state college—where the relevance of the Esalen experience can be explored. Fellows have also had supervised experience in leading encounter groups and other workshops.

In 1968-69 there will be two Resident Programs, each four and one half months long. The first begins September 15, 1968 and ends January 31, 1969; this program will be led by Edward Maupin, Ph.D. and John Heider, Ph.D. The second begins February 2, 1969 and ends June 13, 1969; this program will be led by William C. Schutz, Ph.D. The fee for each program, including room, board and tuition, is $2200. A few part-scholarships will be available.

If you wish to apply for either program, you should plan to attend the selection weekend at Big Sur on June 7-9, 1968. Write for application form: RESIDENT PROGRAM, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

San Francisco LECTURES, PANELS and SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for quicker return of tickets. Any event may be cancelled if advance sale shows insufficient interest. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

San Francisco SEMINARS and WORKSHOPS: Longer events require advance registration by means of a $10 per person (unless another amount is specified) non-refundable deposit. Please make reservations at least one week before each event. Mail reservation form or letter to: ESALEN INSTITUTE, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Many seminars and workshops are filled well in advance. If you plan to attend, avoid disappointment by making an early reservation.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

Grounds are closed except by reservation.

Big Sur SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. All seminars and workshops begin with dinner, usually followed by an informal session the first evening at 9:00 p.m., and end with lunch on the last day.

Big Sur COSTS: Seminar and workshop costs, listed under each program, are for shared occupancy; we arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Some private rooms are available on a limited basis for an additional $7 per night. The amount indicated covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan and Sensory Awakening; tips for restaurant and cabin personnel are also covered. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

Big Sur ACCOMMODATIONS are possible at Esalen Institute; and at South Coast Motel (AAA $5 per day per person extra, 2 miles north); at Big Sur State Park Lodge (14 miles north); or at other motels or campgrounds, at which one must make his own arrangements.

MEMBER RATES: Contributing Members, $5 discount on all seminars and workshops.

STUDENT RATES: Student Body card holders, $15 discount weekend seminars only.

Big Sur RESERVATIONS must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 non-refundable deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form or letter, with check, to: RESERVATION DESK, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

Big Sur LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the institute takes its name. From the north, the institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs, A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: there is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with advance notice.

RIDES from the San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—431-8771—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur.

RECOMMENDED DRESS in Big Sur: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Please bring your own flashlight. Please bring no pets.

SPECIAL INFORMATION:

Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops.

Listener-sponsored radio station KPFA-FM in Berkeley broadcasts portions of Esalen seminars and lectures and provides a program guide. San Francisco television station KQED, Channel 9, has "Experiments With Esalen" on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m. Other radio stations broadcasting all or portions of Esalen events are: KFRC ("Perspectives" on Sunday evenings 10:00 to midnight), KPEN-FM ("University Seminars" Sunday evenings at 11:00 p.m.), and KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific, Stockton). Last year, a selected series of programs from Esalen was broadcast over 40 educational radio stations under the title of "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio.

We have established a service to provide copies of tape recordings made during some Esalen seminars and lectures in San Francisco and Big Sur. Professional persons or organizations interested in specific recorded tapes of past, present or future programs, please write: ESALEN RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921.

16 mm films and video-tapes of Dr. Perls' approach to Gestalt Therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis. For information write: Frederick S. Perls, M.D., Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

For libraries and institutions with microfilm equipment, records of Esalen history, brochures and publications may be secured through the services of: MICROBIZ, 590 Howard, San Francisco 94105.

SPECIAL NOTE: If you have not attended a seminar or workshop during the past year and are not a Contributing Member of Esalen, but wish to remain on the Esalen mailing list for future brochures, or have a friend whom you wish to have placed on that list, a subscription to the Esalen mailings is $2 per year.

First requests for Esalen brochures are sent without charge, but we would like to know that those who continue to be on the mailing list are there because they wish to be and are willing to share in the expense of the brochures.

We continue to welcome your suggestions regarding the approach and content of the Esalen program.

ESALEN INSTITUTE

Esalen Institute is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this brochure, research and consulting programs, and a resident program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

August 4-30 — Big Sur
FOUR-WEEK INTENSIVE WORKSHOP
Assisted by Resident Fellows STEVE STROUD and BETTY FULLER

This workshop will integrate theory with techniques such as fantasy, dreams, hypnosis, psychodrama and improvisation, Gestalt Therapy, yoga, meditation, and massage. A special training program will be offered for those who wish to become encounter group leaders. A special group will be formed for couples interested in using these techniques for clarifying and strengthening their relationship.

Dr. Schutz will be assisted by selected Resident Fellows who will have completed the intensive nine-month program at Esalen.

Applicants should submit a statement of their aims along with their application. The workshop is limited to 40.

$785 per person, shared room ($400 non-refundable deposit required July 10)

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ has recently joined the Esalen staff as Director of the Residential Program. Dr. Schutz is a teacher, researcher, theorist and practitioner in the fields of interpersonal behavior and research design. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Berkeley and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was the research director of a state-wide study of school administration in California and the national research coordinator for one of the largest inter-university projects in education, the Cooperative Program for Educational Development (COPED) of the U.S. Office of Education.

As a theorist, his work on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior (The Interpersonal Underworld, Science and Behavior Books, 1966) has been called, "The most promising attempt yet offered for an integrated theory of group dynamics and psychoanalysis" (Durkin, The Group in Depth). Tests derived from his FIRO theory have been translated into Spanish, French, Japanese, Hebrew and Finnish.

His most important immediate contribution to the Esalen program is through his innovation in group methods. Dr. Schutz is recognized as one of the leading encounter group (T-group) trainers in the country, has served on the staff of the National Training Laboratories Intern Training Program at Bethel, Maine. For the past two years he has taught group process and group psychotherapy to psychiatric residents. In his recent work he has begun to integrate group methods, body movement, fantasy, psychodrama and other techniques. His latest theoretical efforts (described in his latest book JOY, published by Grove Press, 1967) attempt to establish a framework for such an integration.

VIRGINIA SATIR

VIRGINIA SATIR, who is now touring Europe and Africa, will return to Esalen in the Fall of 1968 to resume her program of monthly seminars.

ESALEN ENCOUNTER GROUPS in the San Francisco Bay Area

Regular encounter group meetings are now under way in the San Francisco Bay Area, and new groups are being formed as demand increases. Under the general supervision of William C. Schutz, Ph.D., group leaders are utilizing the eclectic approach which has arisen out of the seminar and resident programs at Esalen-Big Sur. Sensory awareness and physical movement techniques are used with other approaches when occasion demands, providing unique opportunities for meeting individual group needs.

AN INTERDISCIPLINARY SERIES ON RELIGION

In this series of seminars, lectures and workshops, Esalen will explore recent studies in comparative religion, theology, parapsychology and the behavioral sciences which have a direct bearing upon basic religious questions. It is our belief that no satisfying religious insight or religious life can be found without comprehending the many explorations and discoveries which are emerging in all these fields.

The series will continue through 1969 and will be the basis of ongoing explorations by the Prayer Commission of the Episcopal Diocese of California and a study group jointly sponsored by the Humanist Institute, San Francisco, Venture and Esalen. The programs accompanied by the symbol above belong to this series, though many other programs described in this brochure obviously touch upon directly related concerns.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

August 28-29 – San Francisco
DEMONSTRATIONS OF THE CLASSICAL MARATHON APPROACH
2-Day Workshop with GEORGE BACH and FREDERICK STOLLER

This professional training program is scheduled immediately preceding the official opening of the American Psychological Association's 1968 Annual Convention, which meets in San Francisco. In response to interest psychologists have shown in the marathon approach, this program is primarily designed for active participation by APA members. However, in order to provide typically heterogeneous groups, registration will be open to spouses, friends and others not involved in professional psychology.

Each of the small groups (14-16 participants) will have a marathon-experienced group facilitator. Drs. Bach and Stoller will be roaming trainers visiting and working with every group. At the beginning and conclusion of the participative sessions, periods for theoretical or scientific discussion are scheduled.

Location: Grace Cathedral
Time: begins 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, August 28 (Specific agenda available on inquiry)
Registration: $80 per person, including meals during marathon

GEORGE R. BACH has worked with intensive therapeutic groups for more than 20 years. He is one of the originators of the "marathon" group experience, for which he has gained national recognition. He is now in private practice in Los Angeles and is a consultant for various organizations. He is the author of Intimate Enemy, a study of intimate relationship.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, where he is involved in research and training in group methods and social psychology. Dr. Stoller has been a major pioneer in the development of the marathon group and in the introduction of videotape feedback in the group setting. Papers on these subjects appear in Innovations to Group Psychotherapy, G.M. Gazda (ed.) (Thomas). He has conducted a broad variety of intensive groups and is currently interested in enriching the types of growth that are possible in such settings.

September 3-5 – San Francisco
EXPLORATIONS IN NON-LINEAR ENCOUNTERS
3-Day Workshop with GUNTHER WEIL and SHERMAN KINGSBURY

To explore inside/outside; me/you; black/white; now/then; mind/body; work/play; turned on/turned off; theory/practice; evolution/revolution. Participants will have an opportunity to gain a greater understanding of their own capacity for growth in mind/body/feelings. The structure of the workshop will be that of the evolving encounter group with the use of methods drawn from sensitivity training, sensory awareness, psychodrama, synectics, and others.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Tuesday thru Thursday, September 3-5
Registration: $40 per person

GUNTHER WEIL, Ph.D., is a psychologist and currently Director of the Cambridge Environmental Transaction Center in Cambridge, Massachusetts and an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Boston College. His background includes extensive training and consulting activities in sensitivity training, organizational analysis and change, community organization, and the psychology and sociology of personal, social and technological innovation.

SHERMAN KINGSBURY is an ex-mathematician, sometimes teacher, management consultant and frequent leader of encounter groups. He is a Fellow of the NTL Institute for the Applied Behavioral Sciences.

September 9-12 – San Francisco
4-Day Workshop with STEVEN A. STROUD

Each evening will begin with a 1 to 1½ hour meeting consisting of directed exercises leading to meaningful contact with other people spiritually, verbally, physically and through emotional expression. The evenings will be devoted to spontaneous encounter with groups of 8-12 people. Techniques used include Gestalt Therapy, fantasy, psychodrama, hypnosis, breathing and movement exercises.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 9-12
Registration: $60 per person

STEVEN A. STROUD was one of last year's Resident Fellows at Esalen in Big Sur. He will co-direct this year's fall Resident Program with Drs. Maupin and Heider. He leads groups at Stanford and Santa Cruz Universities, at Esalen, Big Sur, and in the Bay Area.

September 11-November 13, Wednesday Evenings – San Francisco
THE PSYCHOLOGY OF OPTIMUM DEVELOPMENT
A Seminar/Workshop Series with JAMES FADIMAN

There has been a growing recognition in our culture that individual development while extensively mapped in the range of human illness, is not yet adequately explored along the dimensions of health and growth. In this series, through a variety of exercises, discussions and experimental techniques, there will be the opportunity to put into practice the insights and methods for continuing development. This is not a substitute for therapy but is intended for persons who wish to go beyond the formal and informal confines of the therapeutic model. Attention will be paid to the problems of integrating peak experiences into a normal life, the concepts of unity and related topics. Suggested readings will range from Maslow to mysticism.

Time: 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. each Wednesday, September 11-November 13
Registration: $40 per person per 10-week series; $5 per person per evening

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at Brandeis University and San Francisco State College. He has led seminars at Esalen over the past six years in a variety of areas relating to personal growth. He is presently a consultant to management with the firm of Snowden, Sullivan and Goodwin. He has had considerable experience in psychedelic research. He is on the editorial board of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology and the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology.

September 13-15 – San Francisco
THE HUMAN POTENTIAL: The Scope of Available Approaches
Weekend Seminar with SEVERIN PETERSON and JOHN MANN

There are, as a conservative estimate, hundreds of approaches for fostering personal growth. These approaches have arisen from medicine, industry, psychotherapy, religion, education, the behavioral sciences, and a variety of other contexts. Basic information will be given through the use of experiential sessions and the identification of underlying strategies. Approaches such as autogenic training, Alexander technique, Aikido, achievement-motivation, autoconditioning and active imagination are indications of what we will be exploring.

Location: See page 28.
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, September 13
Registration: $40 per person

SEVERIN PETERSON received his training in landscape architecture. He was a fellow in the Esalen Resident Program in 1966-67. As a research associate with Esalen Institute he conducted a survey of education approaches in the affective domain. Recently, along with John Mann, he was involved with a team at Stanford Research Institute whose report on modes and methods for actualizing human potential is the first attempt of its kind. Mr. Peterson is presently working on a book which surveys many approaches to personal growth.

JOHN MANN is a professor of social psychology and Chairman of the Department of Sociology of the State University of New York at Geneseo. He has acted as principal investigator for a number of government projects in the areas of intergroup relations, group dynamics, psychotherapy, and behavior change. His recent books Changing Human Behavior and Ways of Growth discuss how to create and evaluate behavior change in normal persons.

September 16-19 – San Francisco
ESALEN ENCOUNTER
4-Day Workshop with BETTY FULLER

This workshop is based on the belief that the natural state of the human organism is joy. Through encounter group methods, body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy, psychodrama, theater games and other methods described by Dr. William C. Schutz in his book, JOY (Grove Press), participants may identify, release, and develop their capacity to feel more joy. Verbal and non-verbal integrative techniques developed at Esalen and elsewhere will be used to help develop a sense of personal center as well as meaning and joy in interpersonal relationships.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 16-19
Registration: $60 per person

BETTY FULLER has recently joined the Esalen staff as Director of the San Francisco Encounter Group Program and as coordinator of the Esalen Consulting Service. As a Resident Fellow in the 1967-68 program at Big Sur, Miss Fuller co-led groups with Dr. William C. Schutz with whom she trained in encounter work. This year she will continue to assist Dr. Schutz with his Big Sur workshops, as well as leading her own groups in the Bay Area. Miss Fuller has an M.A. from the University of Michigan; she has been a radio-TV writer-director-actress, a secondary school teacher in Michigan and California, and, most recently, a founder and Associate Stage Director of Marin County's Festival Theatre, producer of the Straw Hat Revues.

September 21 – San Francisco
PSYCHOMAT (Saturday Morning)
led by GERARD HAIGH

The Psychomat is a gathering where you can come when you choose and leave when you choose. While you are in the Psychomat you are expected to try to be as open as you can in your encounter with others. Dr. Haigh of the Psychological Service Associates will be present to help people encounter each other, although no predetermined program will be offered. Whatever happens will happen.

The following ground rules are suggested for participants: 1) Talk with whomever you choose about whatever you choose. 2) Call them as you see them. 3) Try to help others do the same, but no psychologizing.

Location: Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church. See page 28 for directions.
Time: 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., Saturday, September 21
Registration: $2 per person

GERARD V. HAIGH, a practicing psychotherapist, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and has taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology.

September 23-26 – San Francisco
AWAKENING YOUR BODY SELF
4-Day Workshop with BERNARD GUNTHER

See page 26 for description.

September 25-29 — San Francisco
FESTIVAL OF RADICAL THEATER
Organized by Parnassus Institute

The new radical theater takes place in the streets and parks. It is often linked with popular movements but in the best instances transcends particular political viewpoints.

Three of the major street theaters in the country, The San Francisco Mime Troupe, El Teatro Campesino and the Bread & Puppet Theatre will cooperate in the presentation of five days of performances, workshops and discussions. Performances will include the major works of each company, the world premiere of a full-length film on the San Francisco Mime Troupe, and possibly a cooperative production featuring members of all three companies. There will be workshops in the commedia dell'arte style of acting, puppet theater, group production of scenarios, pace and movement. Workshop participants will work with the directors and leading players of each company. There will also be discussions of life-styles in radical theater, the theater and politics, organizing techniques and possible future directions for street theater.

The Festival will attempt to make some techniques of street theater generally available as an aid to the independent creation and development of radical theaters throughout the United States. (Anybody can do it.)

Location: San Francisco State College
Times: To be announced
Registration: $65 per person for the full 5-day program
$8 per person for 4-evening performance series
$2.50 per person for one evening performance

THE SAN FRANCISCO MIME TROUPE, under the direction of R.G. Davis, has been performing commedia dell'arte plays free in San Francisco parks since 1962, developing a style that combines farce and satire. They start with classic comedies and invent around them. After two successful national tours and a widely acclaimed New York run of their black and white minstrel show, Civil Rights in a Cracker Barrel, the Mime Troupe has returned to San Francisco to begin another season in the parks. They have recently received an Obie (off-Broadway award for artistic distinction).

EL TEATRO CAMPESINO is a bi-lingual street theater which grew out of the Delano grape strike. El Teatro has developed a unique style and presentational mode. In the past year it has added a kind of agit-prop vaudeville in which "actos" involving a set of stock characters drawn from California agriculture alternate with original songs and music. Some of their Actos deal with race and the history of the southwest. Their repertory includes a full-length play by director Luis Valdez entitled The Shrunken Head of Pancho Villa. El Teatro has also received an Obie this year.

THE BREAD & PUPPET THEATRE has invented a variety of theater forms for the streets and church halls of New York City, ranging from hand puppet shows and hand-cranked paper "movies" to ritual forms using actors and huge puppets. Director Peter Schumann is gaining a reputation as one of the most exciting theatrical imaginations in the country. Richard Schechner, editor of The Drama Review has called Bread & Puppet ". . . one of the most significant theaters in the USA." One of Bread & Puppet's productions, The Great Warrior, was seen last year over the Public Broadcasting Laboratory.

GAMES BEYOND GAMES
Weekend Workshop with FATHER HILARION

This workshop will examine ways of disorienting and restructuring perception to encourage that contemplative awareness in which the distinctions, contradictions, and dualities of ordinary consciousness are harmonized. Principles and practices of Advaita yoga will be introduced in a continuum of dialogue, meditation, encounter, body harmonics and a series of games invented by Father Hilarion. See page 23 for further description of these games and for biographical data (December 15-20, Big Sur).

Location: See page 28.
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, September 27
Registration: $40 per person

INTEGRATED ENCOUNTER
4-Day Workshop with WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ See page 27 for description.

October 4-6 — Berkeley
THE HANGUPS AND HOPES OF EMERGENT GLOBAL MAN
Weekend Seminar with WILLIS E. ELLIOTT

This seminar will explore the interior dialogue between primitive man of the antique past and global man of the impending future—a dialogue to which life has assigned present man. What is Man's prospect for transcending his historic internecine exclusivity (tribalism, nationalism, ideologism)? How can richness, diversity, pluralism be preserved and enhanced in confrontation with the bio- and techno-drives toward unity? How can man's traditional commitment to the Holy combine with metaphysical modesty and ideological humility to produce a new, global life-style? Pioneer communities that point the way to a higher affirmation of the individuality of persons and traditions will be discussed, as well as leisure and the experience of the Holy.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, October 4
Registration: $40 per person

WILLIS E. ELLIOTT is a theologian on the staff of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries. For two decades—after teaching religion and philosophy in the colleges, and the biblical languages in three seminaries—he has been intimately concerned with the creative interaction of the West's spiritual heritage and the behavioral sciences (his second earned doctorate, at the University of Chicago, being in this interdisciplinary area). His writings include articles on meditation and unity, pamphlets on emergent religion and politics, a book exploring a new approach to group interaction of the West's spiritual heritage and modern man's problems (The Pastoral Letters), and two books in process (Toward a Theology of Leisure and Violence and Availability).

October 4-6 – San Francisco
LOOK AROUND CORNERS AND SEE–HOW TO GROOVE
Weekend Workshop with NIK MARTIN

This workshop is based on the premise that though man has always lived in a world abounding with points of view, he all too often is content to consider only that one which he can easily embrace. Conceiving, listening to and understanding other points of view can bring greater understanding of others and enrich the knowledge we already possess. It can also be quite a trip! The workshop will involve encounter group techniques, micro-labs, imagery and role-playing. Each participant will have an opportunity to express his view of the outside as well as his view of himself, with constructive feedback from the rest of the group.

Location: See page 28.
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, October 4
Registration: $40 per person

NIK MARTIN can be found grooving as a KGO radio and TV personality in San Francisco. In the past he has been in radio and TV in Europe. He has dug a ditch, driven a truck, served as a soldier, attended Indiana University, and looked at a lot of things from many viewpoints.

October 7-10 – San Francisco
BEHAVIOR MODIFICATION
4-Day Workshop with SARA "SUKIE" UNOBSKEY

Behavior Modification is an approach derived from Skinnerian reinforcement theory, increasingly used for classroom management, family therapy, work with both retarded and gifted children. This approach will be demonstrated and discussed and will be adapted to the particular interests of the workshop participants. The encounter group format will also be discussed to explore ways in which reinforcement and extinction operate. Humanistic psychology and work in general with encounter groups could probably be clarified and strengthened by the application of the discoveries of reinforcement theory.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, October 7-10
Registration: $65 per person

SARA "SUKIE" UNOBSKEY has taught retarded, disturbed, brain injured, delinquent and normal children in experimental programs in the New York area. She has served as consultant to numerous groups and programs wishing to increase the learning potential of children. She is co-author of The Storefront Schools Proposal for Special Children and is former director of the Special Education Demonstration Center at Yeshwa University, where she trained graduate students in behavior modification and encounter groups.

October 7-10 – San Francisco
THEORIES, THERAPIES AND THERAPISTS:
Recent Innovations in Psychotherapy
4-Day Seminar Workshop with DICK MILLER & LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG

The Rogerian and Existential movements represent a shift in emphasis from sickness to healthy growth processes and as such free us from the limits of traditional, deterministic psychoanalysis. Instead of assuming growth will automatically take place once obstacles are removed, the newer methods shift to the process of developing healthier adaptation, attempting to guide the person through the trial and error of evolving new ways of being and behaving.

Experiential demonstrations of current psychotherapies will be our major activity in this seminar. Participants will be encouraged to take part in demonstrations of Gestalt Therapy, Conjoint Family Therapy, Experiential Therapy, Bio-energetic Analysis, and Multiple Psychotherapy.

The seminar has been specifically designed for professionals who wish to observe or experience a wide variety of therapeutic innovations. The non-professional will find this format easily understandable and involving.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, October 7-10
Registration: $70 per person

RICHARD LOUIS MILLER, Ph.D., is a Clinical Psychologist and Existential psychotherapist presently on leave from the psychology faculty of the University of Michigan. He is currently involved in developing innovations in marital, family and group psychotherapy. LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG, Ph.D., is a Clinical Psychologist and Gestalt psychotherapist who has worked with Laura and Frederick Perls for 15 years. He has adapted Gestalt methods to a wide variety of therapeutic settings. Drs. Miller and Bloomberg are Co-directors of The Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and will soon open a similar institute in Northern California. Multiple Psychotherapy refers to the concurrent use of two therapists in all therapeutic encounters. A book on their psychotherapeutic innovations entitled Multiple Psychotherapy and Community Development is in progress.

ON BEING MARRIED TO A PEOPLE HELPER
Weekend Workshop with JAMES V. and FRANCES CLARK

This workshop will share the problems and challenges of marriage when one or both partners are in a helping profession. Married couples only may attend, and one or both must be a minister, psychologist, psychiatrist, social worker or the like. This workshop will be mainly an encounter group focusing on husband-wife communication.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, October 11
Registration: $100 per couple

JAMES V. CLARK teaches in the Behavioral Sciences area at the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration and is a Fellow of the National Training Laboratories. He is an author and practitioner in the field of sensitivity training. FRANCES CLARK, after a career in music, elementary teaching and educational adminsitration, is now a sensitivity training consultant.

COUPLES' AND LOVERS' MARATHON
Weekend Marathon with GEORGE and PEGGY BACH

George and Peggy Bach, originators and developers of the husband/wife team approach in marathon groups, invite other spouses and lovers to join them in a 24-hour day and night continuous group session. Participants will practice the fine art of intimate communication. Verbal and nonverbal, fighting and loving, autonomous and dyadic ways of deepening and stimulating the male-female bond will be explored. Clarification of "multiple loving", its creative and destructive function in modern marriage will be attempted. Participants will also be introduced to Dr. Bach's original "Fight Training for Lovers" in which intimate partners can strengthen their love relationships by learning how to "fight" fairly and effectively. This marathon will in effect be a participative preview of Dr. Bach's book Intimate Enemies, to be published by Morrow in November. Pre-registration is necessary so that participants can study Dr. Bach's basic marathon rules ahead of time.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 8:00 p.m., Friday to 8:00 p.m., Saturday, October 18-19
Registration: $145 per couple

THE SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF REINCARNATION
Two Lectures by FRANCIS STORY

The subject of reincarnation has recently come under scientific scrutiny. Dr. Ian Stevenson of the University of Virginia School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry has undertaken a worldwide study of cases in which children claim to remember their past lives. Dr. Stevenson has studied over 200 such cases in India, the Middle East, Turkey, Alaska, Europe and America in an attempt to discover whether there is evidence that such children describe lives that were actually lived. He is amassing an impressive body of evidence that many of these children do recall people and events that did exist as they described them. This is a subject fraught with superstition and wishful thinking, but is obviously worthy of research.

FRANCIS STORY is a colleague of Dr. Stevenson and has studied claims of reincarnation in Southeast Asia for many years. He is a Buddhist scholar and long-time resident of Burma and Ceylon and an editor and author of many studies of Buddhism and comparative religion. In these discussions he will summarize many of the cases which he and Dr. Stevenson have studied. For background information read Dr. Stevenson's Twenty Cases Suggestive of Reincarnation, published by the American Society for Psychical Research, 1966.

October 16, Wednesday
CASES SUGGESTIVE OF REINCARNATION IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

This lecture will summarize observations made in the study of approximately fifty cases of reincarnation memories in India, Burma, Thailand, and Ceylon. Slides illustrating the subjects of some of the cases will be included in the presentation. Mr. Story will also review the question of the carry-over of personality traits, e.g., fears, likes, dislikes, aptitudes, interests, from one life to another. The material presented will include theoretical aspects of the subject with regard to factors influencing such carry-over.

October 17, Thursday
POST-MORTEM AND PRENATAL EXPERIENCES IN CASES OF CLAIMED REINCARNATION

An account of claimed memories of disembodied consciousness in cases of the reincarnation type and a comparison of these with similar experiences of living persons. The lecture will include discussion of concepts of the after death state, e.g., the Bardo state, described in The Tibetan Book of the Dead.

Location: Grace Cathedral
Time: 8:00 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, October 16 and 17
Registration: $2.50 regular per evening; $2 student per evening

For reservation information, see page 28.

DEVELOPMENT OF PERSONAL POTENTIAL
4-Day Workshop with BENNETT SHAPIRO

This workshop will integrate into a single program of personal development the major methods for human growth presented at Esalen. Participants will explore: the sense of personal center, the richness of natural body feelings, body feelings as indices of emotions, methods for quieting the mind and achieving optimum balance between relaxation and tension, awareness of physical environment, and enriched two-person relationships.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, October 21-24
Registration: $65 per person

BENNETT SHAPIRO, recently Esalen Resident Fellow, now is a staff consultant leading groups for Esalen both in the Bay Area and throughout the country. In an intensive two years at Esalen, Big Sur, he has studied with a wide range of teachers in over seventy-five workshops. He has studied intensively with Dr. William Schutz, is a former architect and visiting lecturer at Schools of Architecture and is interested in integrating methods for social and physical architecture into the educational system.

CLOSE YET FREE
Weekend Workshop for Couples with GERALD SMITH, JUDI KLEIN BRYANT and TODD BRYANT

To have closeness or intimacy and yet have room to personally grow . . . this is a basic dilemma of being married. The dilemma can be coped with either creatively or destructively. Our purpose will be to experience a number of ways of creatively coping with the dilemma of being "close yet free" within marriage. We will use aspects of family and Gestalt Therapy and numerous non-verbal and movement approaches. The movement approaches, led by Judi Bryant, will explore body language, encounter between couples and a celebration of physical expression. Innovative uses of videotape playback will be an integral part of the workshop. Videotape is often an extraordinary catalyst for integration and change.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, October 25
Registration: $110 per couple, including videotape feedback.

GERALD SMITH, Ph.D., is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

JUDI KLEIN BRYANT is a Movement Therapist at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco and Movement Consultant at San Francisco Family Therapy Center. She and her husband also give frequent workshops in the Bay Area and at Esalen.

TODD BRYANT specializes in the Moving Image and the Electric Vanity: Videotape Feedback through Celebrated Changes.

October 28-31 – San Francisco
EXPLORATIONS IN THE SELF AND THE WORLD
4-Day Workshop with FREDERICK STOLLER

Realization of one's own potentialities, in the broadest sense of the term, is an imperfect and halting process for most people. How one makes use of one's resources while moving through the world presents an even more difficult assessment for the individual. This workshop will explore what is available to the participant in himself and in the world and how these riches are used. It will be built around the encounter group with special bridges to the world outside the group. In addition to group interaction, special input material such as videotape and assessments of various types will be used.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 4:30 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, October 28-31
Registration: $65 per person

See page 4, August 28-29, San Francisco, for biographical data.

THE NEW PARTICIPATION
4-Day Seminar with RICHARD FARSON and HALL SPRAGUE

This seminar will explore the new participative mood in American society and the ways in which social technology being developed at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute can build on the healthy, productive aspects of that mood. Encounter tapes, games, small group processes, simulation techniques, films and other technology currently a part of WBSI's program will be demonstrated. Both of the leaders will make presentations on the range of the new participation and the ways in which new methods can be utilized to enable people to live closer to potential and to help solve the urgent problems of race relations, family life, mental health, education, city planning, etc.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, November 4-7
Registration $80 per person

RICHARD E. FARSON, Ph.D., is President and a principal founder of WBSI. He is the author of a number of papers, and is editor of the recent book, Science and Human Affairs. His research has been in the area of small-group processes, leadership and social power, and organizational behavior; he is particularly interested in developing new ways of dealing with the human problems of the future, and in the application and communication of behavioral sciences knowledge. He initiated the use of commercial television for the communication of small group experiences to mass audiences with the series Human Encounter.

HALL SPRAGUE joined the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in 1963, after working with RAND Corporation; Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education; Booz, Allen, and Hamilton; and the President of the University of Colorado. At WBSI he has explored uses of gaming and simulation for education and training, and developed some ideas about the New Participation. He attended the University of Colorado, from which he received a Bachelor's Degree in Fine Arts, English Literature, and Sociology, and a Master's Degree in Sociology.

BIO-ENERGETIC ANALYSIS
Weekend Workshop with ALEXANDER LOWEN and JOHN PIERRAKOS

This workshop is professionally oriented for psychiatrists, psychologists, therapists and people in related fields. Drs. Lowen and Pierrakos will present the approach which they have developed at the Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis. This approach is based on the energy dynamics of personality. It aims at the mobilization of energy through breathing and movement to increase feeling and promote self-awareness. Workshop participants will have an opportunity to experience the effects of techniques for reducing muscular tension and bodily rigidities and to explore the relation between body function and personality. The importance of bodily pleasure to personality will be a central emphasis. Participants should be familiar with the literature. A bibliography will be sent at time of inquiry.

$165 per person

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm, and The Betrayal of the Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

JOHN PIERRAKOS, M.D., is Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and a co-worker with Dr. Lowen. He is a practicing psychiatrist.

PSYCHOSIS AND THE HERO'S JOURNEY
Seminar with JOSEPH CAMPBELL and JOHN PERRY

A discussion of the possible relationships between the hallucinations and inner meanings produced by certain kinds of psychosis and the symbols of religion and art. Mr. Campbell is one of the world's leading interpreters of symbol; Dr. Perry has done clinical research and theoretical work on a particular kind of psychotic experience which is self-renewing and full of religious meaning. This discussion is part of Esalen's continuing exploration of the need for revision in psychiatric conceptions concerning altered states of consciousness.

Location: First Unitarian Church, Geary and Franklin Streets, San Francisco
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Thursday, November 14
Registration: $10 general; $6 student

See page 20, November 15-17, Big Sur, for biographical data for Joseph Campbell.

JOHN PERRY is a Jungian analyst in San Francisco and is Director of Studies at the C.J. Jung Institute. During World War II he lived in China; he is well versed in Oriental culture and philosophy. His work during the past several years has centered around the potentially reconstitutive and mythic aspects of the schizophrenic process. His publications include The Self in Psychotic Process and Lord of the Four Quarters.

FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY
Weekend Workshop with GEORGE I. BROWN and JUDITH R. BROWN

A workshop for couples who feel they have a healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationships even more real, exciting and substantial. The focus of the program will move through misleading and confusing preconceptions of one's self and one's marriage partner to increasing perception and response to a real person in a real world.

The Browns will use approaches to awareness and sensitivity training along with marriage games that, once learned in the workshop, can continue to be used by the couple in their home setting.

Location: See page 28.
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, November 15
Registration: $45 per person

GEORGE I. BROWN teaches courses in group interaction, creativity, awareness and sensitivity training as a professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. With his wife he has given workshops and seminars for many diverse groups in the United States and Canada. Dr. Brown is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, brings much experience in group awareness training. Her approach is based on principles of Gestalt Therapy as founded by Dr. Frederick Perls, with whom she has worked as a co-therapist.

TANTRIC YOGA AND TIBETAN MYSTICISM
2-Day Workshop with LAMA ANAGARIKA GOVINDA

This workshop will explore the fundamentals of Tantric Yoga and Tibetan mystical practice. Participants will discuss and practice different methods and levels of meditation. These methods range from exercises of bodily and mental relaxation to yogic concentration on various functions, emotions, sense-perceptions, and conceptual thought to the creative visualization and experience of archetypal forms and their re-integration into the spiritual center of man. The relationship of man and universe is based on the parallelism of sound-symbols (mantra), of mental attitude, expressed through bodily gestures (mudrâ), of visible form and color (yantra and mandala), and of the unifying power of meditational practice (yoga). Technique and symbology of this practice will be demonstrated and explained, supported by pictorial material.

LAMA GOVINDA is one of the world's leading scholars and interpreters of Tibetan Mysticism. For many years students from America and Europe have traveled to India to study and practice meditation with him.

See page 21 for further biographical data for Lama Govinda.

TOWARD A HUMANISTIC MYSTICISM
Weekend Seminar with FR. WILLIAM McNAMARA

An exploration into the kind of prayer, contemplation and religious life which can embrace the secular spirit of modern times. Father McNamara proposes an "earthy mysticism" which finds transcendence in the events of common life and encourages contemplation here and now. He will discuss the ecumenical movement, the meeting of East and West and the new theology which is needed to comprehend them. The seminar participants will have an opportunity to propose theological formulations of their own, appropriate to their experience, and share the religious meanings they have discovered in their lives.

Location: Grace Cathedral
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, November 22
Registration: $40 per person

FATHER WILLIAM McNAMARA, O.C.D., is a Carmelite contemplative. With a mandate from Pope John, he founded and directs The Spiritual Life Institute of America in Sedona, Arizona, an ecumenical institute to encourage contemplation among laymen and religious persons. He is also involved in the up-dating of Christian theology and prayer-life and has incurred the displeasure of certain conservative Christian leaders. He has been an advisor to Esalen and represents, we feel, the movement within Catholicism which promises a rediscovery of religious life in our times.

November 22-24 — San Francisco
ACTUALIZING SOCIAL POTENTIAL
Weekend Workshop with the Staff of Parnassus Institute

Personal growth through encounter, awareness, and sensitivity often does not transfer to back-home social systems. The social systems in which one lives and works need to change in order for them to express humanistic values and encourage personal exploration and growth.

This workshop will explore one model for humanistic social change. The model involves analysing some social system in order to discover its potentialities. Once the system's potential has been evaluated, it can be actualized by organizing a group of people to build examples of what is possible and desirable.

This workshop will use a variety of experiential techniques including theater and simulation games, scenarios and some encounter techniques to help participants develop skills at working to improve their social systems. The workshop will discuss styles of change, alternate social models, and values within the context of a world view.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, November 22
Registration: $45 per person

PARNASSUS INSTITUTE conducts teaching, training, and curriculum development projects, consults on institutional change, and organizes events and demonstration projects. The Parnassus Institute Staff:

JIM NIXON was one of the founders and the first coordinator of the Experimental College at San Francisco State College. He was also president of the Associated Students there. He is on the editorial board of Change magazine.

CHARLOTTE GAINES has taught music, art and basic ceramics in schools. She was the first Executive Secretary of the Experimental College at State College and a staff coordinator. She helped create the Center for Educational Innovation there.

KEN MARGOLIS has been Associate Director at the San Francisco Actor's Workshop and has served as Advisor to the San Quentin Drama Workshop at San Quentin Prison. In the past year, he has been interested in group production of scenarios and theater games as an aid to personal growth and inter-personal relations. Besides his work with Parnassus Institute Mr. Margolis is currently Instructor of Drama at University of California Extension.

CYNTHIA NIXON was one of the founders of the Experimental College at San Francisco State College and was its second coordinator. She has worked extensively with problems of designing learning environments and planning curricula. She is currently engaged in teaching a workshop in myth and poetry, and a workshop in power and information structures.

IMAGINATION
3-Day Workshop with ROBERT GERARD

This workshop will demonstrate techniques for the creative use of imagination. The participants will explore methods developed by Dr. Gerard to enlist imaginative processes for resolving psychological conflicts and furthering psychological growth. The participants will also experiment with certain inner imagery techniques which are effective in helping people expand their experiences beyond the usual to heightened states of awareness similar to the consciousness expanding aspects of LSD.

Location: See page 28.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Wednesday, November 25-27
Registration: $56 per person

ROBERT GERARD received his Ph.D. in clinical psychology from UCLA. He has been engaged in such diverse occupations as motion picture writer and producer in Europe and Hollywood, and behavioral scientist in charge of the Psychophysiological Research Laboratory at the Veteran's Administration Neuropsychiatric Hospital in Los Angeles. Dr. Gerard is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles and is the President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis (psychosynthesis focuses on methods for unifying all aspects of our human nature—physical, emotional, mental and spiritual).

Dr. Gerard is a life member of the New York Academy of Sciences and a pioneer in the development of new therapeutic techniques, including the use of inner imagery, symbolic visualization and creative meditation. He is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth. Dr. Gerard combines in his work a knowledge of Eastern meditative disciplines with modern scientific psychology.

CONFLICT AND CONCURRENCE
Weekend Workshop with JAMES F.T. BUGENTAL and ELIZABETH KEBER

Experience of conflict and concurrence are basic to almost all human relationships. Both are rich in their potentials for enhancing or disrupting the relationships themselves, the lives of the people involved, and the projects or tasks in which they are engaged. This workshop will explore the dynamics and significance of conflict and concurrence through dramatic improvisation and the basic encounter method. The participants will be helped to create and present plays which explore the forms and implications of various kinds of functional relationships. The interactions among the participants will also be used to aid them in exploring their feelings and reactions to conflict and concurrence and in seeking ways of making these more constructive and satisfying.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, November 29
Registration: $40 per person

JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., of Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is a psychotherapist and writer on existential-humanistic psychology. He will be for 1968-69 a Research Associate at the Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park, California. He is a past president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and of the California State Psychological Association, and has been on the faculty at UCLA and at Georgia Tech. He is the author of Psychological Interviewing (1952, 1966) and The Search for Authenticity: An Existential-Analytic Approach to Psychotherapy (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, 1965). In 1967 he edited Challenges of Humanistic Psychology (McGraw-Hill).

ELIZABETH C. KEBER, Ph.D., formerly a sister of the Immaculate Heart, is a counselor and an innovator in multi-media processes for encounter groups, seminars, and theater. Formerly Head of the Department of Theater Arts at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles, she has written plays, musicals, and inter-media productions for children and adults, has pioneered in developing audience involvement techniques, and has served on national consultative bodies on the arts in education. She has been increasingly concerned to bring the participation and affect-arousal insights of the theater to supplement the more usual procedures of personal counseling, basic encounter groups, and psychotherapy. She wrote Words of Ugo Betti (Los Angeles: Immaculate Heart College, 1965) which was illustrated by Sister Mary Corita.

BEING INTIMATE IN A LARGE GROUP: A Radical Experiment in High Trust and Freedom
4-Day Workshop with JACK and LORRAINE GIBB

Jack and Lorraine Gibb have pioneered in demonstrating that some of the same aims usually achieved in T-groups and the intensive small group experience (personal growth, authenticity, intimacy, openness, warmth) can be achieved in large groups, in relatively short periods of time, without the presence of professional leaders. These findings have great significance for people working in education, youth groups, women's groups, industry, extension classes, religious education.

In this workshop an experimental community will be created along lines developed by the Gibbs. This community will have a number of experiences in a developmental sequence which has been found to produce personal growth as well as high trust and intimacy in the total group. The experiences illustrate a theory of intimacy and include verbal and non-verbal relationships. The individual participant will have intensive growth experiences in pairs, small groups, and the total community.

Location: Grace Cathedral
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, December 2-5
Registration: $60 general; $30 student

JACK and LORRAINE GIBB are organizational consultants in private practice in La Jolla. Dr. Gibb has worked as an organizational development specialist with such organizations as General Motors, American Telephone and Telegraph, the Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church, the National YMCA, and the U.S. Psychology. He is co-editor of the basic text on group experiences: T-Group Theory and Laboratory Method. The Gibbs are developing a theory of the "intimate community", relevant to a wide variety of situations in our often impersonal culture.

STORYTELLING AND THE DISCOVERY OF IDENTITY
Weekend Workshop with DAVID STEERE and SAM KEEN

Storytelling may be man's most ancient art of establishing meaning for life. Even before he could tell stories to others, he danced and acted them out in ritual. Virtually every culture has been bound together by common myths and legends which furnished an unconscious commentary on purpose and values. Contemporary life conspires to deprive us of the capacity to experience our own personal story and the informing stories of those about us.

This weekend is designed to explore how we tell our own story and listen to the stories of others. A wide variety of techniques will be employed: fantasy exercises, time and space exploration, experiences in intensive telling and hearing, focused wishing, willing, and innovating, and group intervention. The aim is to discover identity, our persistent sense of self-sameness and continuity, through remembering who we are. Attention will be given to some typical human stories as they are reflected in pivotal myths of other cultures. Against the backdrop of group experience and mythical memory we will explore the manner in which each individual constructs his own history and invents his own future.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, December 13
Registration: $45 per person

DAVID STEERE, Th.D., is Professor of Psychology and Religion at Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He holds a B.D. degree from that institution and the Th.D. degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York where he worked in the Psychiatry and Religion Program. He is the author of several articles in the field of religion, mental health, and human relations and of the book New Ways of Caring to be published next year.

SAM KEEN, Ph.D., holds the S.T.B. and Th.M. from Harvard and the Ph.D. from Princeton. He is the author of Gabriel Marcel and a forthcoming book An Apology for Wonder. He has previously taught at Boston University, Douglass College and Princeton Seminary and is currently professor of Philosophy and Christian Faith at the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

August 30-September 1 — Big Sur
ESALEN ENCOUNTER MARATHON
Weekend Workshop with BETTY FULLER

The marathon will include a two-hour microlab to explore a variety of Esalen verbal and non-verbal encounter techniques. The weekend will include time to discover one's sense of center as well as intensive verbal and non-verbal interpersonal encounter in dyads, triads, and small groups. Fantasy, psychodrama, theater games, sensory awakening, Gestalt dialogue, body movement may all be part of the labors of the marathon.

$65 per person

BETTY FULLER has recently joined the Esalen staff as Director of the San Francisco Encounter Group Program and as coordinator of the Esalen Consulting Service. As a Resident Fellow in the 1967-68 program at Big Sur, Miss Fuller co-led groups with Dr. William C. Schutz with whom she trained in encounter work. This year she will continue to assist Dr. Schutz with his Big Sur workshops. Miss Fuller has an M.A. from the University of Michigan, ahs been a radio-TV writer-director-actress, a secondary school teacher in Michigan and California, and, most recently, a founder and Associate Stage Director of Marin County's Festival Theatre, producer of the Straw Hat Revues.

CLOSE YET FREE
3-Day Videotape Couples Workshop with GERALD SMITH, JUDI KLEIN BRYANT, and TODD BRYANT

To have closeness or intimacy and yet have room to personally grow . . . this is a basic dilemma in marriage. The dilemma can be coped with either creatively or destructively. Our purpose will be to experience a number of ways of creatively coping with the dilemma of being "close yet free" within marriage. We will use aspects of family and Gestalt Therapy and numerous non-verbal and movement approaches. The movement approaches, led by Judi Bryant, will explore body language, encounter between couples and a celebration of physical expression. Innovative uses of videotape playback will be an integral part of the workshop. Videotape is often an extraordinary catalyst for integration and change.

$230 per couple, including videotape feedback. Limit: 15 couples

GERALD SMITH, Ph.D., is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

JUDI KLEIN BRYANT is a Movement Therapist at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco and Movement Consultant at San Francisco Family Therapy Center. She and her husband also give frequent workshops in the Bay Area and at Esalen.

TODD BRYANT specializes in the Moving Image and the Electric Vanity: Videotape Feedback through Celebrated Changes.

BREATHING AND AWARENESS
4-Day Workshop with MAGDA PROSKAUER

A workshop involving various breathing techniques and exercises in awareness. Mrs. Proskauer's approach educates awareness of somatic processes which are normally unconscious or semi-conscious. In an extended workshop of this kind, participants can achieve more relaxation and awareness than they are able to in brief sessions. $150 per person

MAGDA PROSKAUER is a graduate of the University of Munich, Germany, and received a degree in physiotherapy from the University of Munich Medical School. While working in Europe she was influenced by various new schools of psycho-physical therapy. She has a private practice in body awareness and breathing therapy in San Francisco.

WHOSE IS THE KINGDOM, THE POWER, AND THE GLORY?
Weekend Seminar with ALAN WATTS

Does anyone have it for ever and ever? Does it belong to Jehovah, God the Father and King of kings, or is he just a dead image? Does it belong to mankind as top species of the biological order? Does it belong to you (whoever that may be)? And does it exist anyhow? A discussion of temporal power and spiritual authority, and of the future of the idea that there is someone who really knows what should be done.

$65 per person

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been – with D. T. Suzuki – the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years Dr. Watts has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

5-DAY WORKSHOP WITH SCOTT BEACH

The theme of these workshops is contained in the following statements: "I want to be more aware of myself and of my environment. I want to have richer communication with others. I want to love and be loved. I can't satisfy these wants without help from people who want the same things for themselves."

Mr. Beach will employ various encounter techniques he has invented, along with others gathered from experience with the Humanist Institute, Synanon, Esalen, The Committee and Neva Beach, his wife.

$165 per person

SCOTT BEACH is a founding member of The Committee, a theater of satiric improvisation in San Francisco. He appears regularly on TV, radio and in films. He is an associate editor of The Humanist and is a fellow of the Humanist Institute.

September 15-20 – Big Sur
PSYCHOLOGICAL KARATE
5-Day Workshop with HUSAIN CHUNG

Husain Chung calls his approach "psychological karate." Based on the psychodrama he learned from J. L. Moreno and the practice of Subud, it breaks down intellectualizing defenses and intensifies emotional issues in order to increase one's tolerance for conflict, anxiety and frustration. It is a quick, direct, surprise approach which unfolds hang-ups, in the belief that as one's tolerance for ambiguity grows life fills with awe and mystery.

In this workshop there will be intensive sessions of psychodrama and related exercises. As in karate, the emphasis is on excitement and power rather than the removal of problems or obstacles.

$165 per person

HUSAIN CHUNG was born in Shanghai and educated in the United States. He has practiced Subud intensively here and in Indonesia and has studied psychodrama with J. L. Moreno. He has taught and counseled in California public schools, clinics and mental hospitals, is now on the staff of the Graduate School of Psychology at Pepperdine College, Los Angeles. He conducts psychodrama workshops and training programs throughout the state and has developed the psychodrama marathon. These marathons, which Chung conducted for the Esalen program at Stanford University last year, were among the most dramatic and moving we have ever sponsored.

EDUCATION AND ECSTASY
Weekend Seminar with GEORGE LEONARD

George Leonard will discuss his book Education and Ecstasy (Delacorte 1968) and explore his radical proposals for change in education.

This book is the first major integration of education's new possibilities. It proposes ways in which the new school technology (electronic feedback systems, etc.), the discoveries of operant conditioning, the principle of the free learner and the emerging disciplines of the "affective" or "new domain" can be fruitfully combined. Leonard bases his proposals upon a fundamental reassessment of the nature and purposes of modern civilization; he believes that man is entering a post-civilized stage in which he no longer needs to be a component of society but can become instead a free-roving explorer of his many external and internal worlds.

Teaching the basic cognitive skills can now be accomplished in one-third the time it takes in most schools; the resulting free time could be turned to the development of more sensitive seeing, hearing, and relating, to the cultivation of fantasy and dreams, to art and contemplation. Students—at all ages—could begin to release those powers and talents our civilization has neglected or suppressed.

Leonard brings his vision to life by inventing a model school for the year 2001, in which reading is taught in a multi-media "basics dome" teeming with life and color. In this school students discover the laws of electricity on their own as if they were Faraday and others act out their dreams like natives in a Malayan tribe. This model school might seem to border on science fiction—yet every element in it is being explored somewhere in the world today. Leonard devotes a chapter to describing ways in which educators and concerned laymen could turn such a vision into reality. In his seminar he will discuss such steps in detail.

Leonard's book marks a new stage in the development of education. Seminar participants will have a chance to challenge and explore its implications.

$65 per person

GEORGE R. LEONARD is the West Coast Editorial Manager of Look magazine. He has won more national awards for educational reporting than anyone else in the history of magazine journalism. He is concerned now with the creation of models of education which include the full range of human potentials. With Price Cobbs he began the Esalen program of interracial encounter groups. He is now undertaking a long range study of the problems and possibilities of family life in America, possibly similar in scope to his studies of education.

MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop with MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN

An intensive but relaxing week of learning massage and meditation. There will be early morning (7:30-8:30) and late afternoon (5:30-6:00) periods of meditation, and morning sessions (9:30-12:30) of instruction in the Esalen style of massage. Afternoons (2-5) will be spent in practice sessions. Discussion and encounter (6:00-8:00) will develop the feelings that may arise from meditation and massage. Molly Schackman's approach to massage consists of a combination of sensory awakening—involving all the senses—and deeper muscular massage. She emphasizes the attitudes of affirmation and caring and the release of emotions.

Couples are encouraged to attend so they can continue to massage each other at home. All participants should bring alarm clocks in order to awake for early meditation; they should also plan to arrive in time to eat dinner before an 8:00 evening session on Sunday and try to stay through 5:00 p.m. on Friday.

$165 per person. Limit: 24

MOLLY SCHACKMAN has been giving massages and teaching massage for three years at Esalen and has trained the present staff of ten masseuses and masseurs. She is a devoted student of meditation and feels that its practice goes hand in hand with sensory awakening and massage.

MAN'S HOSTILITY TO MAN
Weekend Workshop with GEORGE BACH

This workshop will explore more effective means of dealing with man's hostility to man on all levels:

1. Intrapsychic (self-destruction)
2. Interpersonal (marital fighting)
3. Intergroup (intergenerational—the generation gap; interracial—black against white)
4. International (Vietnam and Israeli wars)

For the past 23 years, beginning in 1944 with research on young children's terrible fantasies, Dr. Bach has been engaged in an intensive study of aggressive behavior and conflict. In this workshop he will share the results of his research and observations.

Dr. Bach writes, "The student of human aggression can learn to recognize the transformation of aggression from the intrapsychic and interpersonal levels to the . . . intergroup level, or from personally responsible aggressive styles to anonymous, personally non-responsible aggressive styles. The aggressive practices of traditional institutions, including the military establishment and other political, nationalistic and economic structures, will be examined in this seminar. These institutions often reinforce destructive ways of psychologically and socially managing aggression."

It is Dr. Bach's position that aggression is here to stay and that to ignore its existence is dangerous. The exclusive emphasis on "Love" is unrealistic and self-deceptive. We must develop new channels, and move toward new solutions.

Seminar participants will meet in small groups to practice "hurtless aggression". These groups will be given fight issues to work out, using constructive fight techniques which Dr. Bach will explain in his lectures. The seminar will also explore the possibility of containing aggression through developing a greater acceptance of realistic eyeball-to-eyeball, rather than person-to-symbol, aggressive confrontation.

$75 per person

GEORGE R. BACH has worked with intensive therapeutic groups for more than 20 years. He is one of the originators of the "marathon" group experience, for which he has gained national recognition. He is now in private practice in Los Angeles and is a consultant for various organizations. He is the author of Intimate Enemy, a study of intimate relationship.

GRAPHIC ENCOUNTER: Meeting the Self & Others in Experiences with Materials
Weekend Workshop with SHERMAN KINGSBURY and TED KROEBER

Graphic materials such as fingerpaint and clay provide media for sensory experience and interpersonal encounter as well as for artistic expression. This workshop will explore what the individual and the group experiences in sensation and associations when working with these materials. The focus will not be on artistic products; rather it will be on what working with materials evokes: aloneness, intimacy, creation, movement, sensation, imagery . . . non-verbal encounter.

Wear washable clothes. Previous experience in encounter groups is desirable but not essential.

$65 per person

SHERMAN KINGSBURY is an ex-mathematician, sometime teacher, management consultant and frequent leader of encounter groups. He is a Fellow of the NTL Institute for the Applied Behavioral Sciences.

TED KROEBER teaches Psychology at San Francisco State College and has wide experience in sensitivity training. He and Mr. Kingsbury have explored jointly the use of graphic materials in basic encounter groups. Neither is an artist.

BECOME AS YOU WERE
5-Day Workshop with GERARD HAIGH

The adjusted American achieves a dubious state of "maturity" by burying many child parts under layers of shame and ridicule. A humanistic concept of maturity allows expression of much more of the child in the adult. Paradoxically, making contact with childish helplessness releases surges of power and contacting childish tears opens the channels for expression of joy.

In this workshop we will explore in areas of awe and wonder, in the realm of the silly and the stupid. Contact with nature, sensory awakening and non-verbal communication will be among the media used. Workshop participants will be invited to invent techniques for furthering this journey into the child part of the man.

$165 per person. Limit: 20

GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D., a practicing psychotherapist with Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and is a board member of the Topanga Center for Human Development.

Weekend Seminar with FRANCIS STORY

The subject of reincarnation has recently come under scientific scrutiny. Dr. Ian Stevenson of the University of Virginia School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry has undertaken a worldwide study of cases in which children claim to remember their past lives. Dr. Stevenson has studied over 200 such cases in India, the Middle East, Turkey, Alaska, Europe and America in an attempt to discover whether there is evidence that such children describe lives that were actually lived. He is amassing an impressive body of evidence that many of these children do recall people and events that did exist as they described them. This is a subject fraught with superstition and wishful thinking, but is obviously worthy of research.

FRANCIS STORY, a colleague of Dr. Stevenson, has studied claims of reincarnation in Southeast Asia for many years. He is a Buddhist scholar and long-time resident of Burma and Ceylon and an editor and author of many studies of Buddhism and comparative religion. In these discussions he will summarize many of the cases which he and Dr. Stevenson have studied. For background information on these programs read Dr. Stevenson's Twenty Cases Suggestive of Reincarnation, published by the American Society for Psychical Research, 1966.

This seminar will summarize observations made in the study of approximately fifty cases of reincarnation memories in India, Burma, Thailand, and Ceylon. Slides illustrating the subjects of some of the cases will be included in the presentation. Mr. Story will also review the question of the carry-over of personality traits, e.g., fears, likes, dislikes, aptitudes, interests, from one life to another. The material presented will include theoretical aspects of the subject with regard to factors influencing such carry-over and evidence from case studies of possible cases of reincarnation. He will give an account of claimed memories of disembodied consciousness in cases of the reincarnation type and a comparison of these with similar experiences of living persons. The seminar will include discussion of concepts of the after death state, e.g., the Bardo state, described in The Tibetan Book of the Dead.

REALITY AND ILLUSION: Learning to Discriminate
Weekend Workshop with GEORGE I. BROWN and JUDITH R. BROWN

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of Gestalt Therapy applied to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship.

Growth toward maturity is inhibited by fear of change and the unknown. Fantasied catastrophies are created by our "fine minds" at the prospect of moving into the adventure of new experience. Instead of moving into each moment as a fresh experience, we cling to the status quo, and thus we die long before we cease breathing.

Ways of beginning to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context.

THE CULTIVATION OF FANTASY
Weekend Workshop with HERBERT A. OTTO

Small encounter groups and a variety of other methods will be utilized to expand the horizons of imagination and to foster the productive use of our capacity to dream. Among the methods used will be the Open-Ended Group Fantasy, the Paradise Fantasy, Daydream Productivity, Brainstorming, Oceanic and Myth Fantasy, Love Fantasy Integration and others. The focus will be on the use of imagination as related to vocational and personal functioning.

THE NEW HUMANISTIC UNDERSTANDING OF MENTAL ILLNESS
Weekend Workshop with ERNEST BECKER

In describing his workshop, Dr. Becker writes, "One of the most exciting developments of contemporary thought is the breakthrough on the theory of mental illness. We now understand human breakdown with a clarity and relative simplicity that makes this knowledge available to even the non-specialist. But the most significant part of this understanding is the promise for human freedom: it shifts the burden of human breakdown from the individuals themselves, and instead accuses the social world in which the individual is immersed. The workshop will focus on a natural and simple understanding of such common behaviors as 'menopausal depression', 'jealousy-delusions', 'paranoia', and the real meaning of the 'Oedipus complex'."

$65 per person

ERNEST BECKER is professor of Social Psychology at San Francisco State College. His work is synthetic and cuts across the boundaries between disciplines. Last year, when the departments at Berkeley couldn't keep him on by fitting him into the appropriate academic niche he became the focus of nationwide publicity when the Berkeley students voted him the unprecedented honor of a chair to be financed by student funds. His most important books are The Revolution in Psychiatry: The New Understanding of Man; The Structure of Evil: An Essay on the Unification of the Science of Man; and Beyond Alienation: A Philosophy of Education for the Crisis of Democracy.

EXPLORING AND DEVELOPING EXTRASENSORY PERCEPTION
Weekend Seminar with CHARLES T. TART

Man has never been satisfied with the limitations of his physical senses and muscles; he has always strived for more knowledge, more power. The results have been good, bad, and mixed, and have been called science, philosophy, fortune-telling, magic. The latter areas are the most difficult for the Western mind to deal with. What scientific basis is there for accepting and developing such phenomena as telepathy, clairvoyance, precognition, psychokinesis, dowsing, survival of bodily death, etc.? Have you had such experiences and either suppressed them from awareness or exaggerated them?

This seminar, conducted by one of the country's leading parapsychologists, will approach these questions from a number of directions, both intellectual and experiential. Experiments will be carried out for testing the participant's own ESP. Techniques will be demonstrated which may enhance the participants' ESP capacities; and there will be discussion of the nature and meaning of the participants' personal ESP experiences.

$65 per person

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Psychology, University of California at Davis. He has also taught and done research at Stanford, University of North Carolina, and Duke. He has conducted extensive research into sleep and dreams, hypnosis, and ESP. He is currently conducting an intensive study, funded by the National Institute of Mental Health, into the possibilities of deliberately altering and controlling dreams. He is the editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings, N.Y., John Wiley and Sons, in press.

LEARNING THROUGH THEATER GAMES
5-Day Workshop with ALAN MYERSON

In this workshop, Mr. Myerson will introduce a series of exercises based upon techniques for improvisation in the theater. Cleverness is not the object for the workshop; the participants will, hopefully, gain in simplicity. The object of the exercises is to open up new ways of seeing, thinking, feeling and behaving in a spirit of play.

$165 per person

ALAN MYERSON is the founder and producer of The Committee, San Francisco. He has directed films and television programs, has acted in many movies and plays, and has taught acting in New York, Chicago and at the University of California, Berkeley. He is best known for the improvisational theater which The Committee has helped to make famous. The kind of exercises which he will be using in this workshop are now being experimented with in various elementary and high schools around the United States.

PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP IN BIO-ENERGETIC ANALYSIS
4 Days with ALEXANDER LOWEN and JOHN PIERRAKOS

This workshop is professionally oriented for psychiatrists, psychologists, therapists and people in related fields. Drs. Lowen and Pierrakos will present the approach which they have developed at the Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis. This approach is based on the energy dynamics of personality. It aims at the mobilization of energy through breathing and movement to increase feeling and promote self-awareness. Workshop participants will have an opportunity to experience the effects of techniques for reducing muscular tension and bodily rigidities and to explore the relation between body function and personality. The importance of bodily pleasure to personality will be a central emphasis. Participants should be familiar with the literature. A bibliography will be sent at time of inquiry.

$165 per person

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm, and The Betrayal of the Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

ALIENATION AND LONELINESS
Weekend Seminar with ABRAHAM KAPLAN

This seminar will combine philosophical reflections and emotional sharing around the themes of loneliness and isolation in the contemporary world, the acceptance of self and others, the search for love and meaning. The weekend will include a marathon session during which these basic issues will be explored in depth, joining emotion with insight and values.

$65 per person

ABRAHAM KAPLAN is Professor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan. He says of himself: "I am by training a positivist, by inclination, a pragmatist, in temperament, a mystic, in practice, a democrat; my faith Jewish, educated by Catholics, an habitual Protestant; born in Europe, raised in the Midwest, hardened in the East and softened in California." Dr. Kaplan was educated at the College of St. Thomas More in Minnesota, the University of Chicago, and the University of California at Los Angeles. He has taught at various times at NYU, Harvard, Columbia and UCLA. Currently he is organizing and directing the Fifth East-West Philosophers' Conference to be held at the University of Hawaii during the summer of 1969. Dr. Kaplan has published papers in numerous philosophical journals, and is author of the book, The New World of Philosophy.

SELF-CONFRONTATION
5-Day Workshop with FRED STOLLER

Through confrontation by others in the group, the individual has a unique opportunity to confront himself. When one is honest with others, he is ultimately honest with himself. In the format of group interaction participants will explore their self-concepts and images. Well established extensions of the group method such as videotape feedback as well as experimental techniques for investigating self which use photography and a variety of media will be introduced. One goal of the workshop will be to create new approaches to the explorations of self.

$165 per person

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, where he is involved in research and training in group methods and social psychology. Dr. Stoller has been a major pioneer in the development of the marathon group and in the introduction of videotape feedback in the group setting. Papers on these subjects appear in Innovations to Group Psychotherapy, G.M. Gazda (ed.) (Thomas). He has conducted a broad variety of intensive groups and is currently interested in enriching the types of growth that are possible in such settings.

THE IMAGERY OF VISION IN THE NOVELS OF JAMES JOYCE Weekend Seminar with JOSEPH CAMPBELL

The expansion of consciousness through the medium of art will be the leading theme of this seminar. A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, Ulysses, and Finnegan's Wake will be interpreted as stages in a modern Dantean adventure equivalent, respectively, to La Vita Nuova, Inferno and Purgatorio. Joyce's theory of art as a vehicle of illumination, his syncretization of dream, theology, and myth, the relationship of his insights to those of Freud and Jung (his contemporaries) and to Oriental thought, will be discussed in detail and in depth.

$65 per person

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with A Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer, as well as the five Bollingen volumes of Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks. He has been a member of the Literature Department of Sarah Lawrence College since 1934 and a lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State, Washington, D.C., since 1956.

A WEEKEND OF CREATIVE QUESTIONS
Weekend Workshop with ARTHUR SHEDLIN

This small encounter group will center around a series of deeply personal questions—questions of behavior, of meaning, of values, and of relationships.

They are what might be termed "post-insight" inquiries, which have been selected from recordings of encounter groups of widely diverse populations. These questions have come from people who have examined themselves and their circumstances, in depth, with the help of the group, have perceived themselves in a somewhat new light, and then asked, "Now what can I do about it? Or me? Or her? Or him? Or them?" With these questions as grist for the mill, participants might arrive at some new ways of seeing and behaving.

$65 per person. Limit: 15 people who have participated in one or more encounter groups in the past.

ARTHUR SHEDLIN has been personally and professionally interested in the being and becoming of people for the past thirty years. He has taught, counseled and consulted in universities (University of Chicago and University of California, Los Angeles), in industry and in government. He is now a faculty member of the Behavioral Science area of Graduate Business Administration at UCLA.

ACTION TECHNIQUES FOR GROUP LEADERS
5-Day Workshop with JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL and ELIZABETH C. KEBER

Group Leaders are often in search of new techniques for setting their groups in motion, deepening involvement, high-lighting particular events and feelings, and breaking through impasses and stalemates. This workshop will move rapidly from experience to experience in a kind of "bombardment" of action techniques to provide the participants with a library of tools for immediate use. Participants will be encouraged to select or reject from this library in terms of their own styles and needs. Each experiential session will be followed by brainstorming in small groups to allow each participant the opportunity to develop his own method of creating techniques and to benefit from the skills and tools of the rest of the group. The entire workshop will be geared to "getting the juices flowing", so that each participant realizes his own ability to discover techniques which are personally comfortable and peculiarly suited to his own needs. Recommended for psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, counselors, clergymen, religious education workers, teachers. $165 per person. Limit: 30

See page 12, November 29-December 1, San Francisco, for biographical data.

TANTRIC YOGA AND TIBETAN MYSTICISM
Weekend Workshop with LAMA ANAGARIKA GOVINDA

This workshop will explore the fundamentals of Tantric Yoga and Tibetan mystical practice. Participants will discuss and practice different methods and levels of meditation. These methods range from exercises of bodily and mental relaxation to yogic concentration on various functions, emotions, sense-perceptions, and conceptual thought to the creative visualization and experience of archetypal forms and their re-integration into the spiritual center of man. The relationship of man and universe is based on the parallelism of sound-symbols (mantra), of mental attitude, expressed through bodily gestures (mudrâ), of visible form and color (yantra and mandala), and of the unifying power of meditational practice (yoga). Technique and symbology of this practice will be demonstrated and explained, supported by pictorial material. $70 per person

LAMA GOVINDA is one of the world's leading scholars and interpreters of Tibetan Mysticism. For many years students from America and Europe have traveled to India to study and practice meditation with him. Now Esalen, Kairos, Oasis (in Chicago) and similar centers have joined to bring him to the United States for this and other programs. He is the spiritual head (Achârya) of the Ârya Maitreya Mandala, a Buddhist Order of the Tibetan Vajrayana, the teachings of which have been rendered in his main work Foundations of Tibetan Mysticism, which has appeared in English, German, French and Spanish editions. Among his other publications are The Psychological Attitude of Early Buddhist Philosophy, Art and Meditation, Stûpa Symbolism, Mandala.

AWARENESS THROUGH DANCE
Weekend Workshop with ANN HALPRIN

Ann Halprin will present her approach to the body and to dance. Her approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. She will incorporate new ideas emerging from work with her husband, Lawrence Halprin, and Paul Baum, with whom she is working this summer. These sessions focus on creative experiences which are generated from an understanding of community processes. Participants will explore their individual rhythm and use their expressive energy in a spontaneous interplay with each other in the landscape.

$65 per person

ANN HALPRIN, founder and artistic director of the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco, has appeared in and directed underground movies and an international TV program; has taught and produced happenings in many universities and colleges. Her company has appeared at major international festivals in Europe. Critics say "Ann Halprin has extended the frontier of dance beyond even the most recognized avant-garde artist, both by performance and by teaching." Her approach was reported extensively in Progressive Architecture (July 1967) and Dance Magazine (November 1966).

DREAMS, ESP AND ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS
Weekend Seminar with STANLEY KRIPPNER

Dr. Krippner will describe the much publicized and possibly history-making studies of telepathy and dreams which he and Montague Ullman are conducting at Maimonides Medical Center in New York. In these studies attempts are made to convey impressions telepathically to people who are dreaming.

Dr. Krippner will also present a history of man's attempts to understand telepathic, clairvoyant and precognitive dreams. He will contrast the dream state to other states of consciousness, emphasizing the way in which individuals are forced to use different aspects of their experience to move toward varied conscious and unconscious goals. He will discuss hypnosis, daydreaming, psychedelic awareness and other phenomena which demonstrate both similarities and differences to dreaming. He will also describe a theoretical approach to dreams which includes the latest clinical and experimental research. $65 per person

STANLEY KRIPPNER is the Director of the William C. Menninger Dream Laboratory, Maimonides Medical Center, Brooklyn, N.Y. He is also Lecturer at Wagner College, N.Y.C., and Special Education Consultant at the Staten Island Mental Health Clinic. The author of over 60 articles in psychology and education, Dr. Krippner is a contributor to Psychedelic Art by Masters & Houston, as well as a consulting editor for The Psychedelic Review. Dr. Krippner is a Fellow in the American Society for Clinical Hypnosis and a member of over 20 professional organizations including the American Psychological Association. He is Vice President of the National Association for Gifted Children and in 1959 received the Service to Youth Award, the YMCA's highest honor to a layman.

TRANCE AND DANCE: Experiential Anthropology
Weekend Seminar with KARL HEIDER and JOHN HEIDER

Experiencing other cultures traditionally relies heavily upon reading anthropologists' interpretations of the societies they have studied. Recently many fine films have added intimacy to cross-cultural encounter.

During this weekend, we shall integrate discussion, films, and actual mimicry of the films in order to recreate as fully as possible the experiences in question. The films will depict the use of dance by various cultures, their attempts to contact the divine, to step outside the personal ego. Discussion will provide intellectual background. The experiential sessions will involve group chants and dancing, often with flutes and drums. $65 per person

KARL G. HEIDER teaches anthropology at Brown University. Trained at Harvard, Dr. Heider has done field work in Europe, North America, Middle America, Melanesia, and Southeast Asia. He has made anthropological films in Guatemala and New Guinea.

JOHN HEIDER was trained as a clinical psychologist at Duke University where he specialized in the study of meditation. Before becoming a Director of Esalen's Resident Fellow Program, he was a Resident himself. He has worked for several years on the problem of integrating affective and experiential education into traditional scholarly and scientific frameworks.

PERSONAL DEPTH AND INNER TIME
Weekend Seminar with Ira Progoff

This workshop draws primarily upon two dimensions of experience—depth and inner time—to establish the personal identity and evoke the destiny of each individual. Participants will imaginatively re-enter their dreams, work with Dr. Progoff's approach to inner imagery, and explore their experience in group dialogue. Dr. Progoff's approach to "inner time" involves going back over the steppingstones of one's life to re-experience the intersections of personal existence, and to re-open the possibilities of roads taken and roads not taken.

The connecting thread of the workshop is each individual's Intensive Journal. The Journals are used actively throughout the workshop so that, as the weekend proceeds, each journal becomes an increasingly valid picture of the individual's inner life. All participants will receive an edition of the Intensive Journal used in the personal growth workshops conducted by Dr. Progoff.

$65 per person

DR. IRA PROGOFF is a psychotherapist, author, lecturer, and group leader. Since 1952, as a Bollingen Fellow, and later as Director of the Institute for Research in Depth Psychology at the Graduate School of Drew University, he has conducted pioneer research in the theory and practice of human development. His best known books are: The Symbolic and the Real, The Death and Rebirth of Psychology, Depth Psychology and Modern Man, Jung's Psychology and its Social Meaning. The Symbolic and the Real (Julian Press) is the suggested text for this workshop.

MOVEMENT AWARENESS ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop with IVAN GENDZEL and MARTHA NASTICH

In our bodies (including movement, gesture, attitude, touch) lie primary expressions of selfhood, preceding all other forms of communication. Contemporary culture, by displacing much of our essential communication into the realm of concepts and words, shrinks our capacity to experience the essence of ourselves and our ability to relate to all that is other.

In this workshop, by experiencing basic movement themes and exploring their psychic meaning, we will attempt to rediscover personal identity at its many levels, and to emerge from the limitation of sedentary existence into more vivid awareness of living, both as conflict and as harmony. All movement experiences will lead directly into verbal encounter to help conceptualize and then share the experience.

$65 per person. Limit: 20

IVAN B. GENDZEL, M.D., is a psychiatrist in Palo Alto and on the clinical faculty at Stanford Medical School. His interests include marathon groups and dance and movement as a form of self-expression.

MARTHA B. NASTICH is a teacher of Creative Dance in the Bay Area. Her teaching experience includes work with children, adults, teachers, and with blind and emotionally disturbed children. She has worked extensively with Mary Whitehouse and has done graduate work in movement therapy with Alma Hawkins.

GAMES BEYOND GAMES
5-Day Workshop with FATHER HILARION assisted by EDWARD MAUPIN

This workshop will combine dialogue, encounter and meditation with a series of games developed by Father Hilarion. These games include: "unsane" in which the group simulates behavior unrelated to habitual sanity; "slow-up and hurry-down" to alter accustomed time-space relationships; "fetish" to encourage creative preoccupation; "Brahman" in which a group can simultaneously experience transcendence and immanence; "amnesia" for concentration; "freeze"; "impasse"; "catalyst"; and others. Participants will also be encouraged to invent games of their own, in the belief that most of us can grow in the arts of social invention.

$165 per person

FATHER HILARION is a director of the Christian Yoga Order and Himalayan Academy, groups devoted to combining various religious traditions. He and his co-workers conduct contemplative retreats in Nevada and California and are experimenting with new ways of meditation, group encounter and physical discipline. Father Hilarion has practiced meditation intensively for ten years.

Weekend Seminar with JAMES FADIMAN

There has been a growing recognition in our culture that individual development, while extensively mapped in the range of human illness, is not yet adequately explored along the dimensions of health and growth. In this seminar, through a variety of exercises, discussions and experimental techniques, there will be the opportunity to put into practice the insights and methods for continuing development. This is not a substitute for therapy but is intended for persons who wish to go beyond the formal and informal confines of the therapeutic model. We will work toward gaining a better understanding of the forces which impede or accelerate personal growth. Attention will be paid to the problems of integrating peak experiences into a normal life, the concepts of unity and related topics. Those who make their reservations early enough in advance will be sent selected readings used in the weekend exercises.

A WEEKEND WITH ABRAHAM MASLOW

Dr. Maslow will discuss his most recent thinking about psychology, religion, eupsychia, education (especially in regard to self-actualization) and whatever else seems of interest.

$70 per person

DR. ABRAHAM MASLOW, Professor of Psychology at Brandeis University, was President of the American Psychological Association in 1968. Educated in many fields of psychology, he has carried out notable animal research and studies of human motivation. He is the author of Motivation and Personality; Toward a Psychology of Being; Religions, Values and Peak Experiences; The Psychology of Science. Dr. Maslow's pioneering studies of psychological health have encouraged the increasing theory and research concerned with human potentialities. His theoretical work and personal influence were instrumental in founding the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and much of the program at Esalen.

GESTALT THERAPY PROGRAMS

Gestalt Therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

CONJOINT FAMILY THERAPY, COMMUNICATION & SELF-CONCEPT
5-Day Workshop Co-led with GIA-FU FENG

An experiential training workshop for professional therapists and laymen. The participants will explore their communications and interactions with others and the development of their own self-concepts. The relationship of communication and self-concept to family organization and development is the central theme of the workshop. Didactic material will cover concepts of family therapy and procedures for family diagnosis and treatment.

$185 per person

VIRGINIA SATIR is a Director of the Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada, and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and has helped to establish "well family" clinics in various parts of the United States. She is the author of Conjoint Family Therapy.

GIA-FU FENG, born in Shanghai and educated in Peking, traveled throughout Southwest China bordering Burma and India, where he received Taoist meditation training. Gia-fu is in residence at Stillpoint Foundation, Los Gatos, and at Esalen Institute in Big Sur where he conducts classes based upon Tai Chi Chuan and teaches calligraphy.

VIRGINIA SATIR will be leading a six-week intensive professional training workshop in Big Sur in the summer of 1969.

EDWARD MAUPIN, Ph.D., is an Associate-in-Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, and is a Director of the Esalen Resident Program. He was formerly at the Neuropsychiatric Institute, UCLA. In his work he draws upon a wide variety of approaches to body awareness including methods derived from Wilhelm Reich, Alexander Lowen, Ida Rolf, Mary Whitehouse and the psycho-physical disciplines of various religious and esoteric traditions, such as Tantric Yoga and Christian Mysticism.

SPECIAL INFORMATION: Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops.

Listener-sponsored radio station KPFA-FM in Berkeley broadcasts portions of Esalen seminars and lectures and provides a program guide. San Francisco television station KQED, Channel 9, has "Experiments With Esalen". Other radio stations broadcasting all or portions of Esalen events are: KFRC ("Perspectives" on Sunday evenings 10:00 to midnight), KPEN-FM ("University Seminars" Sunday evenings at 11:00 p.m.), and KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific, Stockton). Last year, a series of Esalen programs was broadcast over 40 educational radio stations under the title "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio.

We have established a service to provide copies of tape recordings made during some Esalen seminars and lectures in San Francisco and Big Sur. Professional persons or organizations interested in specific recorded tapes of past, present or future programs, please write: ESALEN RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921.

16mm films and videotapes of Dr. Perl's approach to Gestalt Therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis. For information write: Frederick S. Perls, M.D., Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

Libraries and institutions with microfilm equipment may secure records of Esalen history, brochures and publications through: MICROBIZ, 590 Howard, San Francisco 94105.

SPECIAL NOTE: If you have not attended a seminar or workshop during the past year and are not a Contributing Member of Esalen, but wish to remain on the Esalen mailing list for future brochures, or have a friend whom you wish to have placed on that list, a subscription to the Esalen mailings is $2 per year. First requests for Esalen brochures are sent without charge, but we would like to know that those who continue to be on the mailing list are there because they wish to be and are willing to share in the expense of the brochures.

We continue to welcome your suggestions regarding the approach and content of the Esalen program.

Publication and broadcast rights to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors.

DREAMS AND HOROSCOPES
4-Day Workshop Co-led with KAREN BOLANDER

(Limited to 12 persons who can supply exact birth data: place, hour, date and year. Please mail these with application and with indication of: 1) marital status, and 2) number of children.)

Participants will be led through the exploration of a personal dream of their choice, mostly through enactment and other procedures of Gestalt Therapy. The archetypal content of the dream will be discussed and compared with the blind interpretation of their birth-chart recorded by Mrs. Bolander before the meeting. The weekend will be in the nature of a group inquiry as to the meaningfulness of astrological information.

$150 per person

KAREN BOLANDER graduated in Comparative Literature at the University of Minnesota and did graduate work at Columbia University. She studied at the Jung Institute in Zurich and undertook the study of astrology out of a personal inclination towards the study of symbols in general.

October 6-11 — Big Sur
OPENING-UP AND LETTING-GO
5-Day Workshop

Participants will be led through a series of exercises stemming from different places, times and fields—religion, esotericism, psychotherapy, art—that share the underlying challenge of letting go: in fantasy, thought, speech, movement, feeling, action, interpersonal contact. These may hopefully lead to a better knowledge and eventual overcoming of stifling over-control and hidden fears that impoverish life and personality.

$165 per person. Limit: 30

November 15-17 — Big Sur
PSYCHIC READING IN PSYCHOTHERAPY
Weekend Workshop Co-led with ANN ARMSTRONG

Dr. Naranjo will have the assistance of a clairvoyant and will take her leads into account in the therapeutic situation. This may mean focusing on issues which are not obvious at the moment to patient or therapist and which might have been bypassed in a brief encounter. The group will be invited to assess the value or effectiveness of the approach.

$65 per person. Limit: 12

ANN ARMSTRONG, who lives in Sacramento, developed her gift of clairvoyance eight years ago while undergoing hypnotherapy for recurring headaches. In the process, she discovered her need for personal development and a wider range of experience and contacted the "inner teacher" that led her to the region of herself from which advice was forthcoming to both herself and others. Her "readings" do not refer so much to external events as to the inner life which she believes she can help others to contact in themselves through her mediation.

CLAUDIO NARANJO, Santiago, Chile, is a research psychiatrist, University of Chile; associate, Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley; and Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute. He has studied the use of hallucinogens by shamans in different parts of South America and has introduced several psychotropic drugs into clinical practice. He is deeply concerned with the relationship between the quests for sanity and enlightenment.

AWAKENING YOUR BODY SELF
4-Day Workshop

"Your body self is a feeling of being; whatever you are doing: moving, breathing, loving."*

Excessive socialization, early trauma, tension and automatic behavior tend to suppress this fundamental center of our being, producing in most of us a vague sense of half-aliveness. In this weekend workshop we will use various sensory procedures to re-awaken the total body self. The focus of concentration will be on the re-creation of awareness in various body parts—feet, neck, face, chest, as well as in the organism as a whole.

Location: Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church. See page 28 for directions.
Time: 5:00 to 10:00 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 23-26
Registration: $75 per person

October 4-6 — Big Sur
AWAKENING TO RITUAL
Weekend Workshop

Though Western ritual has lost much of its meaning, its underlying essence is one of life and awareness. This tradition of experiential essence has been kept alive in the East by the Zen arts of tea ceremony, flower arrangement, brush painting and archery. On this weekend we will explore and invent basic sensory experiences that can become active meditations in modern everyday life as well as in various formal contexts—teaching, art, worship.

$65 per person

November 10-15 — Big Sur
WORDS, FEELINGS AND THE BODY
5-Day Workshop

"Most people think they feel rather than feel . . . The problem of language: nouns and verbs—the actor separate from the action."*

A week-long experimental workshop that will include new approaches to awareness, non-verbal communication, sensory and verbal encounter, body role-playing, meditation, massage and the hot mineral baths as methods for increasing energy, decreasing the illusory split between mind and body, words and feelings.

$165 per person

December 13-15 – Big Sur
SENSORY AWAKENING FOR COUPLES
Weekend Workshop

We often allow our most intimate relationships to become static and routine. Habit replaces contact and we rarely experience the other person or the vast possibilities which might be shared. Fixed concepts and excessive tension are major reasons for such closed-off-ness. In this sensory awakening workshop for couples (not necessarily married) we will explore relaxation, awareness, massage, and sensory encounter as means for opening to one another.

$65 per person

BERNARD GUNTHER is a student of Yoga, Zen and various Western mind-body ways toward integration. He has amalgamated many of these methods into his own approach to direct experience and non-verbal communication known as Sensory Awakening. For the last five years he has been an Associate in Residence at Esalen, Big Sur where he has developed new approaches to massage and sensory encounter.

Bernard Gunther: Sense Relaxation–Below Your Mind. MacMillan, 1968.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ Workshops

New syntheses of the various techniques being developed or integrated at Esalen will be used in the Integrated Encounters of Dr. Schutz. Many of these methods along with the theoretical bases are described in Dr. Schutz's book JOY. These include fantasy, psychodrama, hypnosis, yoga, Tai Chi, behavior modification, meditation, body work, massage, inner rhythm, and others as they arise. The special skills and backgrounds of the co-leader for Dr. Schutz's workshops will be utilized to enhance and enrich the approach.

For the following workshops, Dr. Schutz will work with a regular staff of co-leaders and special assistants. Most of these co-leaders and assistants were in the 1967-68 Resident Fellow program where they worked extensively with Dr. Schutz as well as with many other prominent figures in the area of encounter groups and related techniques. These co-leaders are also conducting their own groups and will eventually conduct these encounter group workshops at Big Sur.

The present workshops will admit about 50 participants, who will typically be divided into four groups with a co-leader meeting with each group. Dr. Schutz will conduct the opening and closing sessions and be co-leader for each group for approximately every other session.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is Co-director of the Esalen Resident Program and author of FIRO: A Three Dimensional Theory of Interpersonal Behavior, reprinted in paperback as The Interpersonal Underworld (Science & Behavior Books, 1966), and JOY (Grove Press, 1967)

CO-LEADERS

BETTY FULLER, a former Resident Fellow, has her Masters Degree in Dramatic Arts, and is experienced in stage direction and acting. She is Director of Esalen San Francisco Encounter Group Program. (She was immortalized in the New York Times as "Brigitte, the fat lady in leotards".)

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., Co-director of the current Esalen Resident Fellow Program, holds a Doctorate in Psychology. He is conducting research into meditation and other Eastern methods. He, also, was a Resident Fellow in 1967-68.

STUART MILLER, Ph.D., who holds his Doctorate in English Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. A Woodrow Wilson scholar, he is interested in the relation between literature and encounter. Dr. Miller is Esalen's Director of Development and a former Resident Fellow.

STEVEN STROUD, a former Resident Fellow, is now Co-director of the present Resident Fellow program. He was a Peace Corps member, serving in India. He has had special training in hypnosis and altered states of consciousness, especially as applied to encounter.

SUKI UNOBSKEY, formerly a teacher-trainer at Yeshiva University in New York, holds her Masters in Education. She is the originator of storefront schools for the underprivileged and has extensive experience with behavior modification.

SPECIAL ASSISTANTS

ANN HEIDER is a specialist in Moving Meditation, the Esalen version of Tai Chi Chuan. A former Resident Fellow and Woodrow Wilson scholar, she holds a Masters in Musicology.

PAMELA PORTUGAL, specialist in Yoga, is also a former Resident Fellow. She served with the Peace Corps in Nepal. She is co-author with Dr. Schutz of a forthcoming book on encounter experiences for couples.

ESALEN RESIDENT PROGRAM

There are still openings for the second program led by Dr. William Schutz. If you wish to apply for this program, you should plan to attend the selection weekend in Big Sur November 29-31, 1968.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE

Esalen is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups, and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops.

We have designed programs and provided experienced leaders for many community, governmental, religious, industrial and educational groups. Our work with educational institutions has been especially active; Esalen-type weekends now involve hundreds of students in on-going programs at Stanford University and the University of California at Santa Cruz.

If you are interested, write Betty Fuller, Esalen Consulting Service, Box 31389, San Francisco, CA 94131.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

San Francisco SEMINARS and WORKSHOPS: Longer events require advance registration by means of a $10 per person (unless another amount is specified) non-refundable deposit. Reservation deadline is one week prior to date of event. Mail reservation form or letter to: ESALEN INSTITUTE, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Many seminars and workshops are filled well in advance. If you plan to attend, avoid disappointment by making an early reservation.

San Francisco LECTURES, PANELS and SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for quicker return of tickets. Tickets are also on sale in advance for most events, at: San Francisco—Grace Cathedral Gift Shop, California and Taylor; City Lights Books, 261 Columbus. Berkeley—Record City, 2340 Telegraph Avenue. San Jose—Kit's Books, 1329 Winchester Boulevard. Any event may be cancelled if advance sale shows insufficient interest. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church is located at 101 Goldmine Drive at Diamond Heights Boulevard. Approach Diamond Heights Redevelopment by upper Market or Portola Drive. The No. 37 Corbett Municipal bus also reaches the church.

The Berkeley Center for Human Interaction is located at 1820 Scenic Avenue, Berkeley, just north of the University of California campus. Parking is available at the corner of Scenic and Arch Street.

Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. (They generally are composed of one Friday evening session, two or three Saturday sessions, and one Sunday morning session.)

Esalen San Francisco is moving into its own permanent quarters at the time of this brochure's publication. Programs not designated at other locations will be held at the Esalen building. Those registered for such programs will be notified of our new location well in advance of starting dates. Please phone the Esalen San Francisco office for further information (431-8771).

Those attending Esalen programs at Grace Cathedral (Episcopal) should use the ground level entrance at California and Taylor Streets.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

Grounds are closed except by reservation.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

CHECK IN / CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Pets, alas, are not welcome at all.

MEMBER RATES: Contributing Members, $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, both non-refundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur Reservations to San Francisco.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—431-8771—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

ESALEN INSTITUTE MEMBERSHIPS AND GIFT SUBSCRIPTIONS

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars—but future development and expansion depends upon funds assured through Memberships and special project grants.

As a Contributing Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, a similar reduction in Encounter Group membership fees, and mailings of The Esalen Newsletter and regular brochures.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a gift in the name of another. For those unfamiliar with the program of Esalen Institute, you may wish to provide a gift subscription for one year of brochure mailings.

All gifts and membership fees are tax-deductible. Esalen Institute is a non-profit California corporation with federal tax-exempt status.

Interdisciplinary Series on Religion

Theological Reflection on The Human Potential

In this series of workshops several theologians and philosophers will participate in experiential sessions involving encounter groups, sensory awakening, gestalt awareness training and related disciplines and will then reflect upon their experience from a theological perspective. In the light of the workshop experience they will reflect upon such issues as the nature of God and man, liberation, redemption, God's will, creation and the good life.

The participating theologians and philosophers all share in the contemporary effort to ground theology and philosophy in human experience. Since they have sought to discover the roots of religious experience and explore its fullest implications, their quest has been more in the secular world than in religious institutions. For this reason the revelatory and growth-promoting experiences which such workshops facilitate are significant for their theological-philosophical inquiry. Conversely, the increasing experimentation with human potential may benefit greatly from theological reflection upon crucial experiences of change and growth.

Each workshop in this series will be limited to fifteen participants in addition to the group leaders and theologians. Two theologians will participate in each workshop. Clergymen, professional psychologists and laymen are welcome to attend.

Experiential sessions will run Monday through Thursday evenings from 5 until 10. Sessions for theological reflection will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings from 10 until 12. Robert Cromey, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions.

All programs below take place in San Francisco.

January 6-10: WILLIAM NICHOLLS and SAM KEEN
Location: St. Aidan's Church, 101 Goldmine Drive (and Diamond Heights Blvd.)
Registration: $75 per person

January 27-31: HARVEY COX and MICHAEL NOVAK
Location: Esalen House
Registration: $75 per person

February 14-16 (Weekend): BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE and SAM KEEN
Location: Esalen House
Registration: $45 per person
Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, February 14

March 31-April 4: GORDON KAUFMAN and JOHN COBB
Location: Esalen House
Registration: $75 per person

May 5-9: WILLIAM HAMILTON and RICHARD RUBENSTEIN
Location: Esalen House
Registration: $75 per person

For reservation information, see page 36.

ROBERT CROMEY, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions. He is working to combine the kinds of human potential approaches being developed by Esalen into programs at St. Aidan's and elsewhere in the religious community and into the institutions of society. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology from the General Theological Seminary in New York City.

JOHN COBB, Ph.D., is Professor of Theology, School of Theology at Claremont. He has been centrally concerned with process, growth and evolution, sharing much of the philosophical outlook associated with Alfred North Whitehead. His recent books include A Christian Natural Theology, Theology as History, and The Structure of Christian Existence.

HARVEY COX is Associate Professor of Church and Society in the School of Divinity, Harvard University. He is author of The Secular City, On Not Leaving it to the Snake and numerous articles which have opened up new perspectives on secularization and the religion of modern man. He has been active in civil rights work, was a "fraternal worker" in Berlin maintaining contact with churches and universities in East Germany and attended the New Delhi Conference of the World Conference of Churches in 1962. Most recently his interest has turned to a theology of hope and encouragement of dialogue between Christian and Marxist.

WILLIAM HAMILTON, Ph.D., D.H.L., is Professor of Religion at New College, Sarasota, Florida. With Thomas Altizer and Paul Van Buren he has been the best known of the "God is Dead" group of radical theologians. With Altizer he edited Radical Theology and the Death of God; he is author of The New Essence of Christianity and many other articles and books. A gifted interpreter of the religious dimensions of popular culture, he often writes for periodicals such as Playboy and for television. He has defined the present theological options as being Christianity without God or post-Christianity with a new god. His fascination with the figure of Jesus has so far led him to explore the first option.

GORDON KAUFMAN, Ph.D., is Professor of Theology at the Harvard Divinity School. He is the author of The Context of Decision and Systematic Theology: A Historicist Perspective. A systematic thinker equally at home in discussions of philosophy, ethics and scientific method, he is especially concerned to understand the continuity between the new theology and traditional religious communities.

SAM KEEN, Ph.D., is Professor of Philosophy and Christian Faith at the Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He is the author of a study of Gabriel Marcel and An Apology for Wonder. His central theological concern is to explore everyday experiences and attitudes such as gratitude, wonder, trust, nostalgia and hope which give rise to the conviction that human beings inhabit a holy place; this concern will be elaborated in a collection of essays he is writing entitled Libations to a Dancing God.

WILLIAM NICHOLLS teaches in the Department of Religious Studies at the University of British Columbia. His chief theological concern is in the field of soteriology (the study of salvation or liberation). He is a student of Buddhism and other Eastern philosophical disciplines and of Western mysticism, especially as these relate to the experience of religious liberation.

MICHAEL NOVAK, formerly at Stanford University, is now Chairman of the Common Humanities Seminar at the State University of New York at Old Westbury. His books include A New Generation, The Open Church, Belief and Unbelief, and A Time to Build; of special relevance to this series is his article "Relativism in the New Theology" in The Religious Situation, 1968, (Beacon Press). A leading Roman Catholic lay theologian, he is an articulate commentator on literary and political events. With Robert McAfee Brown and Rabbi Heschel, he authored the influential pamphlet Vietnam: Crisis in Conscience.

BISHOP PIKE is a staff member of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, California. He was fifth Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California from May, 1958, to September, 1966. He has taught at three theological seminaries and three law schools, most recently at the University of California Law School in Berkeley. For three years he served as head of the Department of Religion of Columbia University. Bishop Pike is the author of many books and articles on law, religion and ethics. His most recent books, published by Harper & Row, are: You and the New Morality, and a trilogy on theology, A Time for Christian Candor, What is This Treasure and If This Be Heresy. His latest work, published by Doubleday, is entitled The Other Side. Next year he will publish a revolutionary study of Christian origins.

RICHARD RUBENSTEIN, Ph.D., is the best known Jewish radical theologian. He is author of After Auschwitz and The Religious Imagination. He is Director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation and Chaplain to Jewish students at the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie-Mellon University, Duquesne University and Chatham College. He has interpreted traditional and modern Judaism in the light of psychoanalytic thought and has sought to restore the depth and wisdom of the tragic vision of life. In his work he has attempted to define the theological problem of how we might be religious in a time of the death of God.

RACIAL CONFRONTATION

Esalen San Francisco is holding regular Racial Confrontation marathons. For information, write: Racial Confrontation, Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, Calif. 94131.

ESALEN ENCOUNTER GROUPS IN THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA

Regular encounter group meetings are now under way in the San Francisco Bay Area, and new groups are being formed as demand increases. Under the general supervision of William C. Schutz, Ph.D., group leaders are utilizing the eclectic approach which has arisen out of the seminar and resident programs at Esalen Big Sur. Sensory awareness and physical movement techniques are used with other approaches when occasion demands, providing opportunities for meeting individual group needs. For information write: Esalen Encounter Groups, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

SEX AND DRUGS ARE NOT FOUR LETTER WORDS
3-Day Seminar
with JOEL FORT

Two of the most important yet widely misunderstood and sensationalized issues of contemporary life will be explored in their philosophical and sociological complexity. This discussion will focus on such topics as hypocrisy, semantics, research findings, concepts of normality and deviance, and the relationship of morality to law and social policy. Participants are urged to read the writings of Masters and Johnson, Kinsey, R.E.L. Masters and Dr. Fort prior to the workshop.

Time: 6:30 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday thru Thursday, January 7-9
Registration: $50 per person

JOEL FORT, M.D., is a San Francisco physician specializing in public health and social psychiatry; he currently teaches at Berkeley and San Francisco State. Active in trying to change sex and drug laws, he was ousted as Director of The Center for Special Problems in San Francisco and is now challenging that ouster before the courts. Author and lecturer, he has also been consultant to the United Nations, Peace Corps, National Student Association and Office of Economic Opportunity.

A NEW LOOK AT CHRISTIAN ORIGINS
Weekend Seminar with BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE
and DIANE KENNEDY

Since the first discoveries of the Dead Sea Scrolls, continued archeological discoveries and scholarly research have been leading to a reinterpretation of the events surrounding the birth of Christianity. Bishop Pike and Diane Kennedy have conducted an intensive study of these new findings and will present the results of their study in this seminar. Some of the topics they will discuss are the reassessment of the historical Jesus in the light of newly discovered Dead Sea Scrolls, the influence of the Essene cult on Jesus, the role of the Essenes in the founding of Christianity, Jesus' role in the resistance movement of his day, the role of Jesus' brother and immediate family, Paul's influence in the transformation of Christian Judaism.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, January 10
Registration: $45 per person

See pages 4-5 for biographical data on Bishop Pike.

DIANE KENNEDY is the Director of the New Focus Foundation, an independent non-profit corporation which works closely with Bishop James A. Pike and is concerned with the communication of religious ideas and theological concerns outside of the present institutional church structures. She has worked with Bishop Pike on his exploratory studies on Christian origins.

THEORIES, THERAPIES AND THERAPISTS:
Recent Innovations in Psychotherapy
4-Day Seminar-Workshop with DICK MILLER and LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG

The Rogerian and Existential movements represent a shift in emphasis from sickness to healthy growth processes and as such free us from the limits of traditional, deterministic psychoanalysis. Instead of assuming growth will automatically take place once obstacles are removed, the newer methods shift to the process of developing healthier adaptation, attempting to guide the person through the trial and error of evolving new ways of being and behaving.

Experiential demonstrations of current psychotherapies will be the major activity in this seminar. Participants will be encouraged to take part in demonstrations of Gestalt Therapy, Conjoint Family Therapy, Experiential Therapy, Bio-energetic Analysis, and Multiple Psychotherapy.

The seminar has been specifically designed for professionals who wish to observe or experience a wide variety of therapeutic innovations. However, the non-professional will find this format easily understandable and involving.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, January 13-16
Registration: $75 per person

RICHARD LOUIS MILLER, Ph.D., is a Clinical Psychologist and Existential psychotherapist currently involved in developing innovations in marital, family and group psychotherapy. LAWRENCE BLOOMBERG, Ph.D., is a Clinical Psychologist and Gestalt psychotherapist who has adapted Gestalt methods to a wide variety of therapeutic settings. Drs. Miller and Bloomberg were Co-directors of The Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy in Albuquerque New Mexico, and are opening a similar institute in Northern California. Multiple Psychotherapy refers to the concurrent use of two therapists in all therapeutic encounters. A book on their psychotherapeutic innovations entitled Multiple Psychotherapy and Community Development is in progress.

TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY
A seminar with the editors of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology

This new journal, which will appear in the spring of 1969, will publish theoretical and applied research into mystical experience, ultimate values, unitive consciousness, self-transcendence, self-actualization and related experiences and activities. Its inquiry will be empirically based, making it the first journal to focus exclusively on the psychology of high level human functioning.

The Journal was founded by Anthony Sutich, the founder of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology. It emerges from the growing research interest in higher human possibilities with which the American Association for Humanistic Psychology, Esalen Institute and other organizations have concerned themselves.

This discussion will explore the Journal's central themes, future plans and possibilities. See page 34 for further information regarding the Journal.

FIGHT TRAINING FOR LOVERS AND COUPLES
Weekend Workshop with
GEORGE R. BACH and Staff

This workshop, beginning with a theory and demonstration session, will include a mini-marathon on Saturday in which participants will practice the fine art of intimate communication. Verbal and nonverbal, fighting and loving, autonomous and dyadic ways of deepening and stimulating the male-female bond will be explored. Participants will be introduced to Dr. Bach's original "Fight Training for Lovers" in which intimate partners can strengthen their love relationships by learning how to "fight" fairly and effectively. The weekend will end with a critique, integration and "Lovefeast" on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Participants should bring fight-willing partners and be prepared to study assigned sections in Dr. Bach's latest book, The Intimate Enemy, a copy of which will be supplied at the beginning of this weekend. Early preregistration is recommended.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, January 17
Registration: $155 per couple, including lunch & dinner Sat., lunch & cocktails Sun.

GEORGE BACH, Ph.D., founder and director of The Institute of Group Psychotherapy, is an innovator of the marathon experience and couples therapy. He is the author of Intimate Enemy.

FOR LOVING COUPLES, MARRIED OR NOT
Weekend Workshop with
SCOTT and NEVA BEACH

The theme of this workshop is contained in the following statements: "I want to be more aware of myself and of my environment. I want to have richer communication with others. I want to love and be loved. I can't satisfy these wants without help from people who want the same things for themselves." Specific attention will be given in this workshop to finding new ways for couples to know each other and grow with each other.

The Beaches will employ various encounter techniques they have invented, along with others gathered from experience with the Humanist Institute, Synanon, Esalen, The Committee and each other.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, January 31
Registration: $90 per couple

SCOTT BEACH is a founding member of The Committee, a theater of satiric improvisation in San Francisco. He appears regularly on TV, radio and in films. He is an associate editor of The Humanist and is a fellow of the Humanist Institute. NEVA BEACH is an executive assistant with the American Humanist Association and is a leader of the Humanist Institute program in San Francisco. She has appeared as panelist and speaker on the subject of "Marriage in the 21st Century".

ON LIFTING THE ARMOR WITH THE ARMOR OF ART Workshop
with HERBERT GOLD

In describing his seminar Herb Gold writes: "We will explore the possibilities of finding truth through the genial lying of literature. Brainstorming upon a shared stimulus, we will live through the poetry-story-essay which results. We will bring portable typewriters or soft pencils to the meetings; a situation from the general memory will be evoked—love, death, ambition, pride, self-discovery, fear, hatred, jealousy—and we will write for an hour. Then we will read and rewrite each other's work. What should emerge: a sense of the place of style and control as part of revelation. Both giving shape to the inchoate and the imagination of limits form an important part of freedom. We will practice this freedom."

Time: 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesdays, February 4, 11, 18, 25
Registration: $40 per person for the series

HERB GOLD is the author of Fathers, The Man Who Was Not With It, Salt, and other novels; Love and Like and other collections of stories; "The Age of Happy Problems" and other essays. He has taught at Harvard, Cornell, Stanford, The University of California at Berkeley, and contributes to Playboy and the Hudson Review.

PSYCHODRAMA MARATHON
Weekend Marathon
with HUSAIN CHUNG

This psychodrama marathon, 40 hours long, will provide an intense confrontation with the meaning of being human. The process of the marathon will be to provide an intensive encounter, breaking through defenses, and from this experience to re-awaken one's capacity for faith and trust and to strengthen one's tolerance for anxiety, frustration, and ambiguity.

Time: 8:00 p.m., Friday, thru noon, Sunday, February 7-9
Registration: $85 per person; including meals

HUSAIN CHUNG was born in Shanghai and educated in the United States. He has practiced Subud intensively here and in Indonesia and has studied psychodrama with J. L. Moreno. He has taught and counseled in California schools, clinics and mental hospitals, and is now associated with the Human Institute, Menlo Park, which conducts psychodrama workshops and marathons.

CREATING NEW FORMS OF WORSHIP
3-Day Workshop
with BILL MCGAW
and WILSON VAN DUSEN

Today religion is facing a crisis of far-reaching proportions. In many situations a sense of community is almost non-existent, and in many churches there is less and less participation from youth. A possible source of renewal may be the inclusion of encounter and awareness techniques in Sunday morning worship and other rituals.

Workshop members will be introduced to a dynamic theory of ritual and symbol which is open to creative change. Experiential worship services will be presented and discussed. These presentations and discussions will be based upon exploratory work conducted by Bill McGaw at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute under a grant from the Lilly Endowment.

Time 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Wednesday, February 10-12
Registration: $60 per person

BILL MCGAW, Director of Communications at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, possesses a background in mass media and human encounter theory and practice. Working in co-operation with ministers and congregations of every denomination in the San Diego area, Mr. McGaw has first-hand experience with exciting and deeply moving worship services, based on a theology of the Here and Now as opposed to a theology of the Hereafter.

WILSON VAN DUSEN, Chief Psychologist at Mendocino State Hospital and Professor at Sonoma State College, has published on pastoral psychology, psychedelic religious visions, and spirits. He is a scholar on the works of Emanuel Swedenborg. The honor has been accorded him of having his description of satori translated and published in Japanese by Zen Buddhists.

EDUCATION AS AN OPEN FIELD: RETHINKING EVERYTHING
4-Day Seminar
with PETER MARIN

In this seminar, Peter Marin hopes to rethink from scratch the ideas of childhood and adolescence and the basic ideas behind schooling itself. Education will be treated from aesthetic, anthropological, and political points of view; schools will be discussed as "model cosmologies", microcosmic versions of reality communicating implicit ideas. Mr. Marin believes education must be redefined in the way that Cage redefined music or the action painters approached art: in an openended, expansive process. Basic ideas will be drawn from Blake, Reich, Laing, Marcuse and other radical theorists. The seminar will conclude with a cooperative effort to redesign various kinds of schools on the basis of ideas developed during the seminar, and participants, it is hoped, will be encouraged to begin their own schools.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, February 17-20
Registration: $75 per person

PETER MARIN, M.A., B.A., is a poet, therapist, and former director of Pacific High School, a "free" school run almost entirely by students and one of the most radical private schools in the country today. He has taught at Hofstra University and Los Angeles State College, and was a counselor at the Southern California Counseling Center. Mr. Marin also helped organize Blake College in 1966, a small experimental school now in Eugene, Oregon.

TURNABOUT
Weekend Workshop with
PETER MARIN & STUDENTS

In most adolescent-adult encounters the power resides with the adults and the adolescents are rarely seen clearly or in a natural light. This experiment is designed to provide a new atmosphere for such encounters. Participants will put themselves entirely in the hands of eight adventurous adolescents. The students, all from Pacific High School, are familiar with marathon, encounter and psychodramatic techniques. They will be free to work with adults in whichever ways they wish; their general purpose will be to produce in them the kinds of adults they like to have around them. Participants are expected to go along with the students and to discover what it is the students are, want and need.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, February 21
Registration: $45 per person

CLOSE YET FREE
Weekend Videotape Couples' Workshop with GERALD SMITH,
JUDI KLEIN BRYANT
and TODD BRYANT

To have closeness or intimacy and yet have room to personally grow . . . this is a basic dilemma in marriage. The dilemma can be coped with either creatively or destructively. Our purpose will be to experience a number of ways of creatively coping with the dilemma of being "close yet free" within marriage. We will use aspects of family and Gestalt Therapy and numerous non-verbal and movement approaches. The movement approaches, led by Judi Bryant, will explore body language, encounter between couples and a celebration of physical expression. Innovative uses of videotape playback will be an integral part of the workshop. Videotape is often an extraordinary catalyst for integration and change.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, February 21
Registration: $110 per couple, including videotape feedback

PERSONAL COMMUNICATION STYLES
Weekend Workshop
and Multimedia Experience with VINCENT GIULIANO

We communicate via non-verbal body action, the voice, writing, pictures, and the use of things and situations. Each of us has a unique composition of communication styles. This workshop is concerned with helping an individual develop a better understanding of his own unique styles and to enriching the vocabulary of available styles. Communication of various messages, ranging from the highly emotional to the humdrum factual, will be explored via body movement, discourse in an encounter group format, the use of written messages and the use of images via polaroid photography and videotape recording.

A multimedia presentation, open to the public, will be included in the workshop. Entitled "Knowledge Transfer in the 1970's", the experience is an intermixing of two modalities of communication: a four-screen multi-media presentation involving image, cinematographic and stereophonic sound collages, and spontaneous interaction among participants.

Time: workshop begins 6:00 p.m., Friday, February 28. "Knowledge Transfer in the 1970's", a multimedia experience, 8:00 to 10:00 p.m., Friday, February 28—open to the public

Registration: $45 per person for the workshop

THE OPEN-MINDED HUMAN BIOCOMPUTER
3-Day Seminar
with JOHN C. LILLY

In describing this seminar, Dr. Lilly writes, "Sophisticated computer and brain theory treat the mind as the "software" (programs, metaprograms) of the brain. This kind of thinking further states that the mind's potential is as yet not fully known, that it can be investigated by new experimental methods as an open system, and that the results can be applied to large non-human brains.

"Such considerations will be illustrated by (1) experiments with dolphin-human interspecies communication, (2) interpersonal metaprogramming by belief-confrontation, by isolation, solitude and confinement experiments."

Time: 8:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Wednesday, March 3-5
Registration: $35 per person

JOHN C. LILLY is Director of Neurological Research at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore, and is Director of the Communication Research Institute, Miami, Florida, where he has conducted exploratory research into communication with dolphins. His primary research interest has been the relation of the mind to the brain. He has training in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology, psychology, physics, electronic engineering, and interspecies communication. He has carried out research on animals (cats, monkeys, dolphins) and on human subjects (including himself). He is the author of Man and Dolphin, The Mind of the Dolphin (A Non-human Intelligence) and Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer.

GETTING DEEPER FASTER
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES F.T. BUGENTAL and ELIZABETH KEBER

This weekend will be an extension of the work the leaders did at the American Association of Humanistic Psychology meetings in San Francisco. The sessions will be devoted to demonstrations and the acting out of various techniques for accelerating the getting acquainted process between two people.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, March 7
Registration: $45 per person

JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., of Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is a psychotherapist and writer on existential-humanistic psychology. He is for 1968-69 a Research Associate at the Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park, California. He is a past president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and of the California State Psychological Association, and has been on the faculty at UCLA and at Georgia Tech. He is the author of Psychological Interviewing and The Search for Authenticity: An Existential-Analytic Approach to Psychotherapy. In 1967 he edited Challenges of Humanistic Psychology.

AIKIDO:
THE WAY OF THE MIND
4-Day Workshop
with ROBERT FRAGER
and ROBERT NADEAU

Aikido is many things at once. It is a way of harmony—with others, with nature, and with oneself. Aikido is also a superb Japanese method of self-defense. Aikido training is based on the use of ki, or life energy. Strong ki is developed through calmness and concentration. Ki exercises will include training in calmness, efficiency, memory, concentration, ESP, will power, love and ki healing.

Certain of these disciplines were available only to the Japanese military, political, and economic elite until recently. Some techniques have never before been taught outside of Japan.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, March 10-13
Registration: $75 per person

ROBERT FRAGER, Ph.D., teaches psychology at Berkeley. He studied Aikido at the International Headquarters, Tokyo and holds the rank of second degree black belt. ROBERT NADEAU, who also holds a second degree black belt, teaches Aikido and meditation throughout the San Francisco Bay Area. He is the only full-time Aikido instructor in California. Both instructors are personal students of Master Morihei Ueshiba, the founder of Aikido.

NON-DRUG APPROACHES TO PSYCHEDELIC EXPERIENCE
Weekend Workshop with BERNARD S. AARONSON
and STEVEN A. STROUD

Psychedelic experience can be produced without drugs by methods involving the creation of hypnoidal states. Through the use of visualization and other procedures, including music, readings, and techniques for enhancing perception, participants will experience and try to understand the nature of psychedelic experience.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, March 14
Registration: $45 per person

BERNARD S. AARONSON, Ph.D., heads the experimental psychology section of the New Jersey Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry. He is interested in many techniques to promote human growth including hypnosis, elements of occult traditions, meditation, and operant conditioning. He has sixty publications to his credit, has been professor at several universities and is also engaged in the private practice of psychotherapy. With Humphrey Osmond he is editor of Psychedelics: Their Uses and Implications to be published by Doubleday.

GROUP/NON/GROUP
Weekend Workshop
with DAVID GOLDBERG

Encounter groups sometimes have the habit of developing coercive norms which tend to impede personal growth. In his (or her) quest for honesty and awareness, each participant in the group/non/group will be encouraged to do his own thing; he will be allowed to participate at his own rate and in his own way. Introspective meditation, non-verbal communication, love and self-respect will be encouraged. The group is especially recommended for students, educators, intellectuals and mystics.

Time: begins 7:00 p.m., Friday, March 21
Registraiton: $45 per person

DAVID GOLDBERG received his Ph.D. degree in autonomic psychophysiology from UCLA in 1964; he later taught at Yale University and San Francisco State College and was, until recently, the "futurist-in-residence" at the U.S. Office of Education. He has led groups in San Francisco, Washington, D.C. and the spaces in between.

WEEKEND WORKSHOP
with SCOTT BEACH

The theme of this workshop is contained in the following statements: "I want to be more aware of myself and of my environment. I want to have richer communication with others. I want to love and be loved. I can't satisfy these wants without help from people who want the same things for themselves."

Mr. Beach will employ various encounter techniques he has invented, along with others gathered from experience with the Humanist Institute, Synanon, Esalen, The Committee and Neva Beach, his wife.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, March 21
Registration: $45 per person

BECOME AS YOU WERE
4-Day Workshop
with GERARD HAIGH

The adjusted American achieves a dubious state of "maturity" by burying many child parts under layers of shame and ridicule. Relearning how to be a child may enrich the man's experience of being masculine and the woman's experience of being feminine. Re-experiencing being child with mother may shed light on one's approaches to loving, loving-making and love-seeking. Paradoxically, making contact with childish helplessness releases surges of power and contacting childish tears opens the channels for expression of joy.

In this workshop we will explore in areas of awe and wonder, in the realm of the silly and the stupid. Techniques used will be both experiential and conceptual. Workshop participants will be invited to collaborate in finding ways for furthering this journey into the child part of the man.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, March 24-27
Registration: $75 per person

GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D., a practicing psychotherapist with Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and is a board member of the Topanga Center for Human Development.

TRANSCENDING TECHNIQUE IN EXISTENTIAL COUNSELING AND PSYCHOTHERAPY
4-Day Workshop
with SIDNEY JOURARD

In this workshop Dr. Jourard will relate the concepts of self-transcendence to counseling and psychotherapy. He views the entire counseling-therapeutic enterprise as having much in common with those ancient disciplines which lead a person toward satori, liberation, union with God. In other words, true health involves much more than adjustment to the norms of the society; rather, it is an adjustment to the deepest human possibilities for creativity and expanded consciousness. It is recommended that participants read Dr. Jourard's books, The Transparent Self and Disclosing Man to Himself.

YOU'RE NOT REALLY DIVORCED: GHOSTS OF YOUR FORMER MARRIAGE
Weekend Workshop with LARRY BLOOMBERG, ABE
LEVITSKY and DICK MILLER

Divorce leaves a couple with serious unfinished business and a number of unresolved conflicts that have profound and negative effects on all future relationships. Major areas of difficulty arise when the ex-married responds to new relationships on the basis of the fantasies and expectations generated during the previous marriage. Another area of difficulty revolves around the children from previous marriages who serve as a continuous bridge between parents, make a real divorce impossible and create a fertile ground for continuing difficulties.

We welcome attendance by both partners of the former marriage; however, those who want to participate without their former spouse or with their present partner will be accepted.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, March 28
Registration: $45 per person

ABE LEVITSKY, Ph.D., is interested in the exploration of new social structures which allow the fullest development of human potential. He is on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute. Dr. Levitsky has taught at Brooklyn College, the University of Michigan and the Washington University Medical School. He has done extensive research in clinical and experimental hypnosis and is Associate Editor of The American Journal of Clinical Hypnosis.

THE OPEN FAMILY: A WORKSHOP FOR FAMILY ENCOUNTERS
Weekend Workshop with FREDERICK H. STOLLER and ANN DREYFUSS

Rapidly changing social conditions create constant new demands upon family structures. Increasing strains are being felt within those families whose network of role relationships remain rigid and limited. This family workshop will consist of groups of three or four families who will explore their communication patterns and relationships, within an encounter group structure, featuring videotape feedback. In addition, new techniques will be employed which are designed to enable the participating families to explore new patterns for themselves and to expand the potential of their ongoing patterns of relating to one another. All members of the family, no matter what their age, are invited to attend.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, March 28
Registration: $90 per couple with two children, including Saturday lunch;
$20 for each additional child

ANN DREYFUSS is on the staff at the Center for Human Communications, Los Gatos, California, where she has specialized in family therapy and new techniques for working with children. She has been on the staff of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute and has worked out unique techniques for animal play therapy with children.

OPTIMUM DEVELOPMENT
4-Day Workshop with JAMES FADIMAN

Behind the growing demand for "encounter" experiences there is the realization that we all can be more complete than we are. This workshop is for those who have explored their dark sides sufficiently through conventional or unconventional therapeutic techniques and are willing to discard a limited self image. The emphasis will be on understanding and practicing those habits which foster a continuing pattern of health and growth. The group will be encouraged to help its members without hostility or therapeutic probing.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, April 7-10
Registration: $75 per person

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at Brandeis and San Francisco State College. He is developing a series of teacher education films on drug use and abuse for KQED. He is an editor of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology and the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology.

MYTHOLOGY WORKSHOP
Weekend Workshop with PARNASSUS INSTITUTE STAFF

Man/woman, hero, space, crime, wilderness, the machine, the seasons, birth and death . . .

This workshop will discuss and act out myths of both ancient and contemporary origin. Parnassus Institute will bring a white monster and a machine. Participants are invited to bring—in mind or artifact—other examples and symbols of myth for the workshop to focus upon. Participants will draw on television, film, comic books, news, literature, conventions, tale telling and contemporary social and political issues for the matter of their own myth making.

Upon request, a selected reading list is available. If a participant is interested in a particular national or racial heritage, it should be noted upon signing up for the workshop.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, April 11
Registration: $45 per person

PARNASSUS INSTITUTE conducts teaching, training, and curriculum development projects, consults on institutional change, and organizes events and demonstration projects. The Parnassus-Institute Staff:

JIM NIXON was one of the founders and the first coordinator of the Experimental College at San Francisco State College. He was also president of the Associated Students there. He is on the editorial board of Change magazine.

KEN MARGOLIS has been Associate Director at the San Francisco Actor's Workshop and has served as Advisor to the San Quentin Drama Workshop at San Quentin Prison. In the past year, he has been interested in group production of scenarios and theater games as an aid to personal growth and inter-personal relations. Besides his work with Parnassus Institute Mr. Margolis is currently Instructor of Drama at University of California Extension.

CYNTHIA NIXON was one of the founders of the Experimental College at San Francisco State College and was its second coordinator. She has worked extensively with problems of designing learning environments and planning curricula. She is currently engaged in teaching a workshop in myth and poetry, and a workshop in power and information structures.

ENCOUNTER WITH FILM: PERSONAL GROWTH THROUGH CREATIVE CINEMA
Weekend Workshop with BETTY BERZON, RICHARD CHASE and ANTHONY ROSE

In this workshop, encounter methods will be used to facilitate the constructive use of tensions arising out of opposition between the need for personal creative expression and the demand for group cooperation in film-making task groups.

Following an orientation session, participants will divide into five-person task forces which will make 16 mm black and white sound motion pictures. At crucial times throughout the weekend the leaders will intervene with techniques aimed at facilitating the interplay of creative, social and personal processes. The workshop will close with an exhibition of the finished films.

All necessary film-making equipment and professional guidance will be available so that participants need have no prior experience with cinema techniques.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, April 25
Registration: $50 per person

BETTY BERZON has been Director, Group Program Development at the Human Development Institute, a Bell & Howell subsidiary, since April, 1968. For nine years before that she was on the staff of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California where she conducted the research on self-directed groups out of which Bell & Howell's ENCOUNTERTAPES for Personal Growth Groups were developed.

RICHARD G. CHASE, Jr. is on the staff of Dr. Frederick S. Perls at Esalen, Big Sur, and makes motion pictures on Gestalt psychotherapy and the work of Dr. Perls. He is also producer of Kairos' newly formed Communications Division and is developing a series of short films which will act as a catalyst for the facilitation of encounter groups.

ANTHONY L. ROSE, Ph.D., is an NIMH postdoctoral fellow at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute where he has been involved in facilitating basic encounter group workshops and in developing techniques for enhancing creative expression. Dr. Rose has recently assumed directorship of the Student Facilitator Training Program at Kairos Institute.

EXERCISES FOR THE MIND'S EYE
Weekend Workshop with ROBERT MCKIM

Capacity for visual imagery, important to many forms of creative behavior, is allowed to atrophy (or is even actively repressed) by contemporary education. This workshop is based on an integrated series of exercises which Professor McKim has collected and developed to restore vitality to the visual imagination. Participants will begin with "mind's eye-openers"; relaxation, sensory awakening, and massage. They will then build self-confidence in their imaging ability with after-images and group fantasy. Meditation techniques and tachistoscopic (flashing) images will develop concentration: experiences with synesthesia (combining sense modes) will intensify imagery. Finally, the mind's eye will be exercised by creative action. Wear old clothes (we'll use art materials).

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, April 25
Registration: $45 per person

ROBERT MCKIM, associate professor of design at Stanford, founded and directs a unique, engineering-and-art design program at Esalen-at-Stanford, Esalen's most active university outpost. Long interested in the psychology of creativity, his research into the effects of psychedelic agents upon the creative process alerted him to the importance of visual imagery to creativity. His forthcoming book, Rapid Visualization: Exercises in Visual Thinking, is illustrated by the "idea-sketches" of physicists, architects, geneticists, engineers, sculptors, and designers, and includes over 100 exercises directed toward the development and expression of visual thinking.

MARRIAGE: TRIAL, TRIBAL, COMMUNAL OR CONSERVATIVE
Weekend Workshop with
LARRY BLOOMBERG, ABE LEVITSKY, RICHARD MILLER and JANIE RHYNE

Marriage as an institution is under attack for not being a creative mode of family development and growth. Alternate forms are frequently being proposed and tried. This workshop is for the married or unmarried who are motivated to seriously and maturely explore their feelings about new forms of family structure. Those with strong negative or positive feelings towards new modes of marriage are particularly invited. We propose to fantasize, brainstorm and entertain, intellectually and experientially, new designs for families.

Time: begins 8:00 p.m., Friday, May 9
Registration: $45 per person

JANIE RHYNE, M.A., is an art therapist who has had training in art, psychology and anthropology. She uses art experience therapeutically in private practice, in Gestalt Art workshops at the U.C. Medical Center, the College of San Mateo, Georgia State College and elsewhere.

GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING FOR DENTISTS
5-Day Workshop with
ROBERT K. HALL, M.D., and
JACK L. ROSENBERG, D.D.S.

The practicing dentist must function under a tense climate of anxiety and occasional hostility equal to or exceeding that of the other helping professions, but he rarely has the specific training in dealing with it. The resulting stress is evidenced in a high percentage of emotional and somaticized stress indices such as coronary occlusion, divorce and job dissatisfaction. This workshop will explore the emotional aspects of the dental profession through Gestalt awareness training, encounter groups, body awareness exercises, role-playing and immediate videotape feedback.

$195 per person

JACK L. ROSENBERG, D.D.S., M.A., a practicing dentist in San Rafael, California, has a Masters degree in psychology and has been working in the field of psychology related to dentistry for the past ten years. He is Director of Counseling at University of Pacific School of Dentistry and teaches courses in Psychology Applied to Dentistry, Dental Auxiliary Utilization, Work Simplification and Practice Management. He has had wide experience in both group encounter and body awareness and utilizes these approaches frequently in his courses.

LOIS HUMISTON

This marathon encounter will emphasize the relationship of intimacy and separateness and the difference between growth and self-righteousness.

$75 per person

KARL E. HUMISTON earned his M.D. at Harvard and was psychiatrically trained in the United States and Scotland. He currently directs the psychiatric residency at Western State Hospital and is president of the Northwest Family Therapy Institute, Tacoma, Washington. Emphasizing use of family therapy and marathon groups in state hospital work and private practice, Dr. Humiston believes that these are not rigid techniques but are vehicles for one's personal style of developing the universal potential for humanness.

LOIS HUMISTON, B.S., home economist, wife, mother of four sons, co-leads marathons with her husband Karl.

FAMILY THERAPY
5-Day Workshop
with KARL HUMISTON

Conjoint family therapy, as developed by Virginia Satir and others, provides concepts and techniques for anyone doing counseling or psychotherapy. Based on the belief that psychological problems are "malnutrition symptoms" resulting from insufficient or distorted experiencing of self and others, this didactic-experiential workshop will emphasize participation in communication exercises and family role-playing, with opportunity for each to experience himself as person, patient and therapist. Limited to twenty participants, this workshop is open to couples and singles, professional and non-professional.

CREATING AN EDUCATION: AN EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP
Weekend Workshop with RICHARD KATZ

How can we realize education as an exciting journey or myth of transformation rather than an inopportune opportunity to pay too large a share of the dues of socialization? This workshop approaches this challenge by considering education as personal growth. There will be a series of experiential exercises focusing on themes such as creative awareness, encountering, trans-personal creating, non-verbal experiencing and communicating, and transforming evaluation into self-assessment. The exercises will stress the individual's capacity to educate himself, keeping the role of the "expert" to a bare minimum. A central issue for the workshop will be going beyond transitory expressiveness toward creative awareness in everyday life.

$65 per person

RICHARD KATZ, Ph.D., formerly a Lecturer in Education and Social Relations at Harvard, is now in the Psychology Department at Brandeis. His writing and research focuses on personal growth, new models of education, altered states of consciousness (e.g. in the psychedelic and religious contexts) and non-verbal media. Dr. Katz is a consultant for Outward Bound Schools and the Peace Corps. He has recently returned from field work in the Kalahari Desert studying the Bushman trance performance.

THE PERSONAL SUPER-BIOCOMPUTER AND THE PSYCHEDELICS
Weekend Seminar with JOHN C. LILLY

JOHN C. LILLY is Director of Neurological Research at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore, and is Director of the Communication Research Institute, Miami, Florida, where he has conducted exploratory research into communication with dolphins. His primary research interest has been the relation of the mind to the brain. He has training in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology, psychology, physics, electronic engineering, and interspecies communication. He has carried out research on animals (cats, monkeys, dolphins) and on human subjects (including himself). He is the author of Man and Dolphin, The Mind of the Dolphin (A Non-human Intelligence) and Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer.

The latter monograph, which will be discussed in this seminar, gives his theory and practice of research with human subjects with and without psychedelic agents. The methods used are isolation, meditation, and deep trance for control of conscious states, confrontation of the subject's basic philosophical beliefs and disciplined use of the psychedelic substances, in work with cross-species communication and expanded consciousness.

MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop with MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN

An intensive but relaxing week of learning massage and meditation. There will be early morning (7:30-8:30) and late afternoon (5:30-6:00) periods of meditation, and morning sessions (9:30-12:30) of instruction in the Esalen style of massage. Afternoons (2-5) will be spent in practice sessions. Discussion and encounter (6:00-8:00) will develop the feelings that may arise from meditation and massage. Molly Schackman's approach to massage consists of a combination of sensory awakening—involving all the senses—and deeper muscular massage. She emphasizes the attitudes of affirmation and caring and the release of emotions.

Couples are encouraged to attend so they can continue to massage each other at home. All participants should bring alarm clocks in order to awake for early meditation; they should also plan to arrive in time to eat dinner before an 8:00 evening session on Sunday, and try to stay through 5:00 p.m., Friday.

$165 per person

MOLLY SCHACKMAN has been giving massages and teaching massage for three years at Esalen and has trained the present staff of ten masseuses and masseurs. She is a devoted student of meditation and feels that its practice goes hand in hand with sensory awakening and massage.

AWARENESS THROUGH DANCE
Weekend Workshop
with ANN HALPRIN

Ann Halprin will present her approach to the body and to dance. Her approach stresses the way movement and environment affect each other. She will incorporate new ideas emerging from work with her husband, Lawrence Halprin, and Paul Baum. These sessions focus on creative experiences which are generated from an understanding of community processes. Participants will explore their individual rhythm and use their expressive energy in a spontaneous interplay with each other in the landscape.

$65 per person

ANN HALPRIN, founder and artistic director of the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco, has appeared in and directed underground movies and an international TV program; has taught and produced happenings in many universities and colleges. Her company has appeared at major international festivals in Europe. Critics say "Ann Halprin has extended the frontier of dance beyond even the most recognized avant-garde artist, both by performance and by teaching."

EXPLORATIONS IN SELF-EXAMINATION
5-Day Workshop with
FREDERICK H. STOLLER, H. L. MYERHOFF and MARGOT ROBINSON

This workshop will consist of small group encounters with a special emphasis upon highlighting and freeing the energy invested in "impression management", "maintaining face" and "locking into one's line". An array of approaches such as group intensification, videotape feedback, photography, special exercises and inputs will be explored with the goal of enabling the participant to discover in his own conflicts and troubles with others the impetus for growth and movement.

$165 per person

H. L. MYERHOFF is a clinical psychologist at the Kaiser Foundation psychiatric clinic in addition to lecturing in psychology at San Fernando Valley State College. Dr. Myerhoff has been involved from the beginning in the innovations of videotape and marathon groups and is currently involved in exploring new approaches with families where the usual motivations for psychotherapy are not present.

MARGOT ROBINSON is a clinical psychologist with Associated Psychological Consultants in Los Angeles. She completed her doctoral dissertation in the area of videotape feedback in the group.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER is Senior Research Associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California. As one of the major innovators of the marathon group and the developer of videotape techniques for the group setting, he has conducted a wide variety of groups with a very broad variety of populations. A clinical psychologist by training, Dr. Stoller is now concerned with developing a model for growth in contrast to the psychotherapeutic models which currently prevail. A novel, The Lemon Eaters, has been based upon his marathon groups; and he is author of an increasing series of papers.

EXPERIMENTS IN PSYCHOSYNTHESIS
Weekend Workshop
with ROBERT GERARD

Psychosynthesis focuses on methods for unifying all aspects of our human nature—physical, emotional, mental and spiritual. Psychosynthesis involves not only an integration around a personal ego but also an expansion of awareness to the "superconscious" dimension, a deeper unifying center which relates man to the universe.

The participants will experiment with a series of special techniques of inner imagery such as symbolic visualization, symbolic identification and symbolic fusion which were developed by Dr. Gerard to enhance integrative processes. Through a series of symbolic themes the participants will be helped to evoke experiences of unity with all life, from the personal and interpersonal to the planetary and universal.

$75 per person

ROBERT GERARD received his Ph.D. in clinical psychology from UCLA. He has been engaged in such diverse occupations as motion picture writer and producer in Europe and Hollywood, and behavioral scientist in charge of the Psychophysiological Research Laboratory at the Veterans Administration Neuropsychiatric Hospital in Los Angeles. Dr. Gerard is presently engaged in the practice of psychotherapy in Los Angeles and is the President of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis.

ENCOUNTERTAPE
WORKSHOP

The Bell & Howell Personal Growth ENCOUNTERTAPE Program is a set of audio-tape recordings that a self-directed encounter group can use to conduct its own sessions. The focusing activities of the ten sessions are designed to bring the group members into confrontation and to help them learn as much as possible from that confrontation. The workshop is suggested as a way for persons interested in use of the ENCOUNTERTAPES in their own settings to acquaint themselves with its operation.

The ENCOUNTERTAPES were developed as the result of an eight year research project conducted at the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute by Betty Berzon. They were developed to make available a personal growth learning experience to large numbers of people in situations where a professional group leader is not accessible.

During the workshop, films of Gestalt Therapy sessions will be shown; and, if time permits, tapes of other seminars will be played. A staff member will be available for consultation.

DISCOVERING THE SELVES INSIDE YOU
Weekend Workshop
with STEWART SHAPIRO

By means of encounter groups, meditation, art, music, psychodrama, body movement and fantasy, each participant will be encouraged to discover and actually map out his various subselves and to see how they do or do not work together. Building on the universal human need for personal integration, the emphasis will be on bringing out the life-loving positive organizing force within each person. Various ways of learning how to become a good parent to one's inner child and to develop an inner "chairman of the board" will be explored.

$65 per person

STEWART SHAPIRO is an Associate Professor of Education and Director of Counseling and Guidance, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara, and an experienced psychotherapist. He has also done extensive work in human relations and sensitivity training with the National Training Laboratories, Washington, D.C.

PROGRAMS AT STANFORD

Programs similar to those described in this brochure are being held in the Stanford University-Palo Alto area under the sponsorship of a group of Stanford students and faculty. Non-students and non-faculty members may attend these programs. They usually cost $15 or $17.50 per weekend. For further information contact: Martine Boot, 57 Homer Lane, Menlo Park, 94025, telephone (415) 854-5681.

Virginia Satir will lead a four-week intensive training workshop in Big Sur in the summer of 1969 from June 29 to July 25.

VIRGINIA SATIR is a Director of the Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada, and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and has helped to establish "well family" clinics in various parts of the United States. She is the author of Conjoint Family Therapy.

For reservation information, see page 36

In describing her work, Miss Selver writes, "Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles and interweavings of consciousness which we are, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, emotional problems or habit. But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy or self-disciplines in the search for peace By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

"These workshops will explore direct experience, which as it becomes clearer and stronger will slowly burn away the screen of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living."

STILLNESS, SENSING AND CEREMONY: The Way of Tea
Weekend Workshop with MILLY JOHNSTONE and CHARLOTTE SELVER

The traditional Japanese Tea Ceremony, like the Tai Chi Chuan of China, has been practiced for centuries in the Orient to bring its followers to the cultivation of mental quiet in full sensory presence. This workshop will blend the ancient Eastern rite with the modern Western approach of Sensory Awareness. Mrs. Johnstone, who officially introduced the Tea Ceremony for the Urasenke Tea School at the New York World's Fair, and who has been instrumental in bringing the School itself to the United States, will perform and explain the ceremony, for which participants will be prepared by Charlotte Selver. $75 per person

A Study Group for educators, therapists, social workers and parents.
Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday Thru Thursday, April 28-May 1
Registration: $75 per person

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V.W. BROOKS are in residence at Esalen Big Sur this spring on leave from the Faculty of the New School for Social Research, New York. Their field is Sensory Awareness, Perception and Non-verbal Communication. They hold regular classes in New York and conduct seminars and study groups throughout the United States and in Mexico.

Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, Sensory Awareness has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration. Miss Selver's pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for much of the work with sensory awareness, sensory awakening and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Since 1956 she has held joint seminars with Alan Watts, and for the past three years she and Charles Brooks have held joint seminars with Shunryu Suzuki Roshi, Zen Master, Abbot of Zen Mountain Center, Tassajara. Charles Brooks has assisted Miss Selver since 1963 and has conducted his own workshops in Santiago, Chile, Berkeley, Tassajara and Monhegan, Maine.

Gestalt Training, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

OPEN WORKSHOP IN GESTALT TRAINING AND STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION
5-Day Open Workshop with ROBERT K. HALL and J. STANLEY JOHNSON

Structural Integration, as practiced and taught by Dr. Ida P. Rolf, is a system of deep musculo-fascial organization which seeks to release excessive tension and to realign body structure to establish more efficient total functioning. It is now being used in conjunction with Gestalt Awareness Training as part of a more comprehensive program of human growth.

Each participant will have two one-hour long structural integration treatments.

WORKSHOPS IN GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING WITH GEORGE I. AND JUDITH BROWN

Based on principles of Gestalt Therapy, awareness training as practiced by the Browns involves two phases:

(1) Readiness techniques such as non-verbal communication games, sensory awakening, encounter and the conscious use of fantasy;

(2) Gestalt awareness training with the intent of helping workshop members get in touch with themselves, to become more aware of each other, to move through fantasy, illusion and preconception to "who" and "what" is really there.

Appropriate for individuals and couples. All workshops limited to 20 persons.

GEORGE ISAAC BROWN teaches courses in group interaction, creativity and awareness training as a professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is director of the Ford-Esalen project and is a nationally-known researcher in the affective domain and creativity. With his wife he has given workshops and seminars for many diverse groups in the United States and Canada. He is the author of Now: The Human Dimension.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, brings much experience in group awareness. Her approach is based on principles of Gestalt Therapy as founded by Dr. Frederick Perls, with whom she has worked as a co-therapist.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

SPECIAL INFORMATION: Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops.

Listener-sponsored radio station KPFA-FM in Berkeley broadcasts portions of Esalen seminars and lectures and provides a program guide. San Francisco television station KQED, Channel 9, has "Experiments With Esalen". Other radio stations broadcasting all or portions of Esalen events are: KFRC ("Perspectives" on Sunday evenings 10:00 to midnight), KPEN-FM ("University Seminars" Sunday evenings at 11:00 p.m.), and KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific, Stockton). Last year, a series of Esalen programs was broadcast over 40 educational radio stations under the title "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio.

We have established a service to provide copies of tape recordings made during some Esalen seminars and lectures in San Francisco and Big Sur. Professional persons or organizations interested in specific recorded tapes of past, present or future programs, please write: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921.

16mm films and videotapes of Dr. Perl's approach to Gestalt Therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis. For information write: Frederick S. Perls, M.D., Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

Libraries and institutions with microfilm equipment may secure records of Esalen history, brochures and publications through: MICROBIZ, 590 Howard, San Francisco 94105.

SPECIAL NOTE: If you have not attended a seminar or workshop during the past year and are not a Contributing Member of Esalen, but wish to remain on the Esalen mailing list for future brochures, or have a friend whom you wish to have placed on that list, a subscription to the Esalen mailings is $2 per year. First requests for Esalen brochures are sent without charge, but we would like to know that those who continue to be on the mailing list are there because they wish to be and are willing to share in the expense of the brochures.

We continue to welcome your suggestions regarding the approach and content of the Esalen program.

THE FRONTIERS OF ENCOUNTER TECHNIQUE
4-Day Workshop Co-led with STEVEN A. STROUD

The encounter group represents one of the richest training grounds for the intensive development of human potential. Here members may explore and expand themselves within the laboratory of the group.

It is now possible to speak of the systematic development of various functions:

(1) Development of sensory receptivity: learning to become aware of internal and external reality by reawakening the sense organs.

(2) Development of emotional expression: learning to recognize the emotional state of oneself and of others and to release the barriers to honest expression.

(3) Development of intuition: learning to recognize and trust the small cues the environment offers.

(4) Development of the ability to move one's body: learning to live harmoniously within the world of muscles and viscera.

The techniques used, some new and some old, include sensory awakening exercises, moving meditation, sitting meditation, interpersonal encounter, non-verbal encounter, psychodramatics and experiments with group energies through various forms of self-expression and release.

Time: 6:00 to 10:30 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, March 31-April 3

Registration: $165 per person

INTIMACY:
ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES
5-Day Workshops
Co-led with ANNE HEIDER

These workshops are designed for couples who wish to learn basic skills of verbal and non-verbal encounter. Emphasis will be placed on sensory/sensual sensitivity, upon the accurate reception and transmission of thought, emotion, intuition, and touch. Size of these groups will be limited to six couples, thus insuring intensive work for all participants.

$370 per couple

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., is a Director of the Esalen Institute Resident Program. He has done research on the effects of meditation on perception. He is particularly interested in the role which Esalen plays as a crossroads for many diverse elements of the Human Potential Movement; and he views himself as a natural philosopher working toward integrations of such practices as dance, meditation, sensory awakening and the adventure of encounter.

ANNE HEIDER holds a Masters degree in musicology from New York University. She has been a Resident Fellow, a special assistant to Dr. William C. Schutz and co-leader of many encounter groups with her husband John.

THE FIVE SENSES
Weekend Workshop

A weekend in which individual sessions will be devoted to becoming more sensitive in seeing, smelling, hearing, touching, tasting—being more aware in every sense.

$65 per person

BERNARD GUNTHER is a student of Yoga, Zen and various Western mind/body ways toward integration. He has amalgamated many of these methods into his own approach to direct experience and non-verbal communication known as Sensory Awakening. This method centers around experiments and games to increase aliveness and awareness. Mr. Gunther is the author of the book SENSE RELAXATION—Below Your Mind (MacMillan-Collier 1968), two long playing records and a number of articles and poems.

March 23-28 — Big Sur
BEING ONESELF
5-Day Workshop

The workshop will consist of a series of experiences, physical, social and artistic, that constitute a challenge in terms of authenticity and spontaneity, and can help to develop these qualities. $165 per person

CLAUDIO NARANJO, Santiago, Chile, is a research psychiatrist, University of Chile; associate, Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley; and Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute. He has studied the use of hallucinogens by shamans in different parts of South America and has introduced several psychotropic drugs into clinical practice. He is deeply concerned with the relationship between the quests for sanity and enlightenment.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ WORKSHOPS — TRANSITION

Dr. Schutz's interests are changing. The first part of his professional career was spent in psychological research and theory culminating in a book on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior. The next phase was concerned with encounter groups. His book JOY embodies the main ideas he has developed from ten years experience in this area. During the last few years his MORE JOY workshops have been offered at Esalen. Now once more Dr. Schutz is moving on, and his workshops must evolve.

He and the MORE JOY workshops are separating. Over the past years he along with others has been training a selected group of leaders to the point where they can continue the basic orientation of the workshops while also making the experiences grow and develop in individual ways according to interests of the new leaders.

In short, the future of the workshops is in excellent hands. The last week of each month will continue to be alloted to the MORE JOY workshops, which will now be run by the team of six described below.

Dr. Schutz will offer workshops in line with his changing direction. Prior to each MORE JOY workshop he will present a weekend devoted to whatever he is interested in at the moment. Since six months elapses between brochure writing time and the weekends, it is difficult to predict what these topics will be. He is now becoming interested in: various approaches to the body and how the body can be influenced by thought and feeling; further exploration of fantasy and inner imagery; the union of mystical experiences with some phenomena of our Western culture; and social action, particularly openness and honesty as it could apply to such institutions as politics and government. Each weekend will try to achieve the openness of an encounter group and will be a combination of experience and talk, since the integration of thinking and feeling is another topic of great interest to him.

Once a month, Dr. Schutz will present an evening combination of talk and participation in San Francisco. This series is an attempt to present his ideas to a larger audience in a shorter time. The first one (January 6) will be a large Brief Encounter Microlab allowing the audience to experience many of the techniques used in the MORE JOY workshops and to discuss the theory behind them. The February 3 demonstration will be aimed particularly at couples, offering them an opportunity to explore their relationship with some of the methods Dr. Schutz is putting into his new book. The March 3 and April 7 meetings will probably be devoted to the applications of these methods to political discourse and social problems.

ANNOUNCING
The publication of the
JOURNAL OF TRANSPERSONAL
PSYCHOLOGY

A journal for theoretical and applied research in peak experience, self-transcendence, ultimate values, ecstasy, awe, wonder, B-values, transcendental phenomena and related concepts, experiences and activities. The first issue, which will appear in the spring of 1969, will have articles by Anthony Sutich, Abraham Maslow ("The Farther Reaches of Human Nature"), Roberto Assagioli ("Symbols of Transpersonal Experience"), Michael Murphy ("Education for Transcendence"), Tom Armor ("On the Peak Experience and Transpersonal Psychology") and others. In this or subsequent issues there will be articles by Stanislav Grof on his LSD research in Prague, Czechoslovakia, by Walter Pahnke and by others exploring higher human possibilities.

Charter subscriptions are $5.00, if subscription is made before April 1, 1969. After that the regular subscription price is $7.50 for two issues a year.

For subscriptions write to: Journal of Transpersonal Psychology, Box 4437, Stanford, California 94305.

For reservation information, see page 36.

MORE JOY WORKSHOPS

"JOY" is used to mean the feeling that comes from realizing one's potential. The MORE JOY workshops are aimed in part at expanding the limits of one's self concept, at helping him experience things which he doesn't think he could experience. Every time this expansion is accomplished he feels more joy than he had previously. This glimpse of the possible is usually an invaluable event. Group leaders employ a wide variety of methods to try to help participants be more aware of the reality of what they are, how they feel and what others are really like. These methods include non-verbal, fantasy, dramatic methods, gestalt, meditation, yoga, massage, behavior modification (conditioning) and creativity techniques. Each workshop will include a group especially for couples.

WORKSHOP LEADERS

SEYMOUR CARTER is a former member of Synanon and a specialist in massage.

BETTY FULLER, former Resident Fellow, has her Masters degree in Dramatic Arts and is experienced in stage direction and acting. She is coordinator of the Esalen Consulting Service.

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., co-director of the Esalen Resident Program, holds a Doctorate in Psychology. He is conducting research into meditation and other Eastern methods. He also was a Resident Fellow in 1967-68.

STUART MILLER, Ph.D., who holds his Doctorate in Comparative Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. Dr. Miller is Esalen's Director of Development and a former Resident Fellow.

STEVEN STROUD, a former Resident Fellow, was co-director of the fall Resident Program. He was a Peace Corps member, serving in India. He has special training in hypnosis and altered states of consciousness, especially as applied to encounter.

SARA UNOBSKEY holds her Masters degree in Special Education and is experienced as a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and young adults. She is experienced in conditioning techniques and is interested in the relationship between these techniques and the encounter.

SPECIAL ASSISTANTS

ANNE HEIDER is a specialist in Moving Meditation, the Esalen version of Tai Chi Chuan. A former Resident Fellow and Woodrow Wilson scholar, she holds a Masters in Musicology.

PAMELA PORTUGAL, specialist in Yoga, is also a former Resident Fellow. She served with the Peace Corps in Nepal. She is co-author with Dr. Schutz of a forthcoming book on encounter experiences for couples.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE

Esalen is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups, and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops.

We have designed programs and provided experienced leaders for many community, governmental, religious, industrial and educational groups. Our work with educational institutions has been especially active; Esalen-type weekends now involve hundreds of students in on-going programs at Stanford University and elsewhere.

If you are interested, write Betty Fuller, Esalen Consulting Service, Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

Publication and broadcast rights to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors.

San Francisco SEMINARS and WORKSHOPS: Longer events require advance registration by means of a $10 per person (unless another amount is specified) non-refundable deposit. Reservation deadline is one week prior to date of event. Mail reservation form or letter to: ESALEN INSTITUTE, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. Many seminars and workshops are filled well in advance. If you plan to attend, avoid disappointment by making an early reservation.

Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. (They generally are composed of one Friday evening session, two or three Saturday sessions, and one Sunday morning session.)

San Francisco LECTURES, PANELS and SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope for quicker return of tickets. Tickets are also on sale in advance for most events, at: San Francisco—Grace Cathedral Gift Shop, California and Taylor; City Lights Books, 261 Columbus. Berkeley—Record City, 2340 Telegraph Avenue. Any event may be cancelled if advance sale shows insufficient interest. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door.

Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church is located at 101 Goldmine Drive at Diamond Heights Boulevard. Approach Diamond Heights Redevelopment by upper Market or Portola Drive. The No. 37 Corbett Municipal bus also reaches the church.

The Berkeley Center for Human Interaction is located at 1820 Scenic Avenue, Berkeley, just north of the University of California campus. Parking is available at the corner of Scenic and Arch Street.

Grounds are closed except by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

CHECK IN / CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Pets, alas, are not welcome at all.

MEMBER RATES: Contributing Members, $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, both non-refundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks are able to furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds which will be acceptable.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The porperty, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—431-8771—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION AND TICKET ORDER FORM

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen seminars, workshops and lectures. You may use it for either Big Sur or San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please do make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

Theological Reflection on The Human Potential

Co-sponsored with
The Division of Christian Life and Mission
NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

In this series of workshops several theologians and philosophers will participate in experiential sessions involving encounter groups, sensory awakening, gestalt awareness training and related disciplines and will then reflect upon their experience from a theological perspective. In the light of the workshop experience they will reflect upon such issues as the nature of God and man, liberation, redemption, God's will, creation and the good life.

The participating theologians and philosophers all share in the contemporary effort to ground theology and philosophy in human experience. For this reason the revelatory and growth-promoting experiences which such workshops facilitate are significant for their theological-philosophical inquiry. Conversely, the increasing experimentation with human potential may benefit greatly from theological reflection upon crucial experiences of change and growth.

Four workshops in this series were run during the January-through-April period. The theologians participating in them were Sam Keen, Harvey Cox, Michael Novak, Bishop James Pike, Gordon Kaufman and John Cobb. More workshops will be held during the fall of 1969 and will be described in the next Esalen brochure. As the series goes on, we will begin to include as leaders people who are not theologians in a formal sense but who are committed to the kind of religious inquiry which this series represents.

For the William Hamilton / Richard Rubenstein and Brother Antoninus/Maurice Friedman workshops, experiential sessions will run Monday through Thursday evenings from 5 until 10. Sessions for theological reflection will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings from 10 until 12. The Robinson workshop will begin with a session on Tuesday, June 24, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; the meeting will resume at 5 p.m. on Tuesday and continue with the same schedule as the other workshops. Participants will be notified as to location when they sign up for a workshop. Robert Cromey, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions.

May 5-9: WILLIAM HAMILTON and RICHARD RUBENSTEIN
Registration: $75 per person

June 16-20: BROTHER ANTONINUS and MAURICE FRIEDMAN
Registration: $75 per person

June 24-27: BISHOP JOHN A. T. ROBINSON and RUTH ROBINSON
Registration: $75 per person
(This workshop will emphasize the theological-psychological aspects of marriage and the man-woman relationship in general.)

For reservation information, see page 36.

ROBERT CROMEY, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions. He is working to combine the kinds of human potential approaches being developed by Esalen into programs at St. Aidan's and elsewhere in the religious community and into the institutions of society. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology from the General Theological Seminary in New York City.

BROTHER ANTONINUS was born in Sacramento in 1912 and grew up in the San Joaquin Valley. He left Fresno State College to go back to the land, to marry, to write his poems and to plant a vineyard. After World War II, which he spent as a conscientious objector, he returned to the Bay Area. He entered the Roman Catholic Church in 1949 and the Dominican Order in 1951. His books include The Residual Years, The Crooked Vines of God, The Hazards of Holiness, and The Rose of Solitude.

MAURICE FRIEDMAN is Professor of Religion at Temple University, Philadelphia, and a member of the permanent faculty of Pendle Hill, the Quaker Center for Study and Dialogue at Wallingford, Pa. Dr. Friedman taught for many years at Sarah Lawrence College, The New School for Social Research, and the Washington School of Psychiatry and for shorter periods at Manhattanville, Hebrew Union, and Vassar Colleges and at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychology, Psychoanalysis and Psychiatry. Twenty years of work has established him as the world's foremost interpreter of the life and thought of Martin Buber. He is the author of Martin Buber: The Life of Dialogue; Problematic Rebel: An Image of Modern Man; The Worlds of Existentialism: A Critical Reader; To Deny Our Nothingness: Contemporary Images of Man; and the forthcoming critical biography Martin Buber: Encounter on the Narrow Ridge.

WILLIAM HAMILTON, Ph.D., D.H.L., is Professor of Religion at New College, Sarasota, Florida. With Thomas Altizer and Paul Van Buren he has been the best known of the "God is Dead" group of radical theologians. With Altizer he edited Radical Theology and the Death of God; he is author of The New Essence of Christianity and many other articles and books. A gifted interpreter of the religious dimensions of popular culture, he often writes for periodicals such as Playboy and for television. He has defined the present theological options as being Christianity without God or post-Christianity with a new god. His fascination with the figure of Jesus has so far led him to explore the first option.

BISHOP JOHN ROBINSON is the Bishop of Woolwich. He became world-famous for his book Honest to God, in which he vigorously questioned many of the basic assumptions of contemporary Christian faith. His most recent book, Exploration into God, is a step toward a theology which comprehends the kind of experience and concern with which our series, Theological Reflection on the Human Potential, is dealing.

RUTH ROBINSON is a creative religious thinker in her own right. She collaborates with her husband in many ways, seen and unseen.

RICHARD RUBENSTEIN, Ph.D., is the best known Jewish radical theologian. He is author of After Auschwitz and The Religious Imagination. He is Director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation and Chaplain to Jewish students at the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie-Mellon University, Duquesne University and Chatham College. He has interpreted traditional and modern Judaism in the light of psychoanalytic thought and has sought to restore the depth and wisdom of the tragic vision of life. In his work he has attempted to define the theological problem of how we might be religious in a time of the death of God.

RACIAL CONFRONTATION

Co-sponsored with PACIFIC PSYCHOTHERAPY ASSOCIATES, San Francisco

Racial Confrontation Workshops have been held with increasing frequency since inception in 1967. Each workshop is conducted in recognition of a greater public confrontation which has brought bloodshed and death, terror and polarization.

This series of Racial Confrontations is to allow for bloodless riots where the most dreaded thoughts and emotions may be expressed, where self-delusions that limit can be stripped away. Rather than fear such confrontation, we can welcome it and thereby expand racial identity into creative humanness.

Each weekend confrontation works toward movement from thinking to feeling to active commitment for change among participants. The format for most groups is based on programs conducted by Price Cobbs, M.D., and George Leonard, the first black-white leadership team at Esalen.

Other experienced leadership teams will conduct this series of workshops and are available for similar workshops and consultation to public and private groups. It is hoped that many will seek their services. Inquiries should be directed to the San Francisco office: RACIAL CONFRONTATION, Esalen, P. O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131.

ESALEN ENCOUNTER GROUPS IN THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA

Regular encounter group meetings are now underway in the San Francisco Bay Area and new groups are being formed as demand increases. Under the general supervision of William C. Schutz, Ph.D., group leaders are utilizing the eclectic approach which has arisen out of the seminar, workshop and resident programs at Esalen, Big Sur. Each 5-week series includes 4-hour weekly meetings and one 12- to 15-hour marathon. Groups are held in San Francisco, Marin County, the East Bay and on the Peninsula. Two series are scheduled for summer 1969. June 23-July 24 and August 4 to September 4. Cost per series is $75; a $15 deposit is required with registration. When sending registration, be sure to state which series and location preference. For further information write: Esalen Encounter Groups, P. O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

7 to 11 p.m., Thursday, May 15
West Campus Auditorium Theatre, 1222 University Ave., Berkeley

Richard Alpert had been on the faculties of Stanford, Harvard and the University of California. His search has led from the academic to the psychedelic to the traditional, but obscured, mystical practices of the East.

In 1967 Dr. Alpert started by Land Rover in Iran in search of men who might still retain the keys to the knowledge of enlightenment. Finally his search found fruit in relationship to a Master of Raja Yoga. He returns to the United States as BABA RAM DASS.

May 16-17
GROUP IMPROVISATION
24-Hour Marathon
with DENNY ZEITLIN, JUDI KLEIN BRYANT
and TODD BRYANT

This workshop will explore and attempt to facilitate individual creativity. By means of an intensive group experience, utilizing a variety of musical and electronic instruments, body movement and dance, and videotape feedback, the participants will be encouraged to liberate their creative potential. Enrollment is limited. No prior formal artistic training is necessary.

$65 per person, including meals
8 p.m. Friday thru 8 p.m. Saturday

DENNIS J. ZEITLIN, M.D., psychiatrist and internationally renowned jazz pianist, received his medical degree from the Johns Hopkins University. He completed his psychiatric residency at the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute, where he is now on the clinical faculty and is consultant to the Youth Drug Project. He is staff psychiatrist with the Community Mental Health Services and is in private practice in San Francisco. Dr. Zeitlin is deeply involved in the use of gestalt, psychodrama, and other existential approaches to individual growth in the group setting. Known to the music world as Denny Zeitlin, he and his trio have extended the frontiers of modern jazz through recordings, concerts, and TV appearances. Dr. Zeitlin has pioneered the use of improvised music in group psychotherapy.

JUDI KLEIN BRYANT is Movement Therapist at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco and Movement Consultant at San Francisco Family Therapy Center. She and her husband also give frequent workshops in the Bay Area and at Esalen.

TODD BRYANT is video consultant to the Family Therapy Center in San Francisco, where he provides selective feedback with videotape for groups, movement classes, and families in therapy. He is also consultant to the Alameda County Probation Department, where he teaches his own methods of employing television in therapeutic settings. In this workshop he will be interested in using video feedback as a group catalyst, and in providing an objective view of personality interactions and energy composition. Members of the group may at times be encouraged to operate the television equipment.

May 15-18
THE THEOLOGY OF
BERNARD LONERGAN
Weekend Workshop with
FR. TIMOTHY FALLON,
GARY SCHOUBORG and
DOMINIC CIRINCIONE

Bernard J. Lonergan, S.J., is a Canadian-born Jesuit, former Professor and Rector of the Gregorian University in Rome, author of Insight, A Study of Human Understanding. His thought ranges from economic ethics to philosophy of education, from cognitional analysis to theological methodology. Herder and Herder has published a volume of Father Lonergan's work in their "Collection" series, 1967.

Lonergan's central notion of "self appropriation" begins with being with oneself as one is without prejudice. The process by which one attains this integration comes under what Lonergan calls "the law of genuineness." To fail in this genuineness is not to escape but only to displace the tensions between limitation and transcendence. Such a displacement is the root of the phenomenon of scotosis in individuals, and bias at the level of common sense as well as the root of philosophical differences.

Scotosis, therefore, is the central element to be discovered and analyzed in the process of self-appropriation. It is an abberation of understanding which arises not in conscious acts, but in the censorship that governs the emergence of psychic contents; and since it violates the exigence constituted by demand functions of neural patterns and processes, it invites the anguish of abnormality in one's acting toward others. (continued)

THE THEOLOGY OF BERNARD LONERGAN

Hence, right at the threshold of self-appropriation, one is faced with the tension which can only be illuminated and helped by adequate psychological theory and practice. This seminar will focus on the crippling scotisis which keeps man from realizing himself as redeemed, liberated and creative. A discussion of therapies, religious practices and humanistic explorations will expand the theological-philosophical inquiry.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 16

TIMOTHY P. FALLON, a San Francisco-born Jesuit, received his M.A. degree in Philosophy from Gonzaga University, his Licente in Sacred Theology from Alma College and the Ph.D. from the University of Toronto. He is currently professor of philosophy at Santa Clara University. Father Fallon has studied extensively with Father Lonergan and has taught the thought of Father Lonergan since 1961.

GARY SCHOUBORG, S.J., is at present completing his theological studies for the priesthood. He received a Master's degree in Mathematics as well as one in Philosophy. He is author of an article entitled "Secular Humanism and the Christian Faith," published in Catholic World. He is presently finishing a book called The Inquiring Believer. Mr. Schouborg is also a pupil of Father Lonergan.

DOMINIC CIRINCIONE, S.J., Consultant at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, brings a varied background in philosophy, psychology and religion to this workshop. As a member of the Jesuit order, he has spent ten years in studies for the priesthood and has been involved in working with the renewal of liturgy and today's religious experience. He is currently on the staff of Center for Studies of the Person, La Jolla.

May 19-22
OPTIMUM DEVELOPMENT
4-Day Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

Behind the growing demand for "encounter" experiences there is the realization that we all can be more complete than we are. This workshop is for those who have explored their dark sides sufficiently through conventional or unconventional therapeutic techniques and are willing to discard a limited self image. The emphasis will be on understanding and practicing those habits which foster a continuing pattern of health and growth. The group will be encouraged to help its members without hostility or therapeutic probing.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, May 19-22

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught pyschology at San Francisco State College and at Brandeis University. He has written a film series for instructional television, is an editor of several journals, writes a column for a medical journal and is a consultant to industrial and educational institutions.

May 19-22
INSCAPE OF
THE SPIRIT
4-Day Seminar
with EDWARD FARRELL

Discussions and celebrations of the possibilities for renewal in the Christian experience, of Christ as an evolving power and wisdom, of the ceaseless eruption of religious fervor in man, of eros, agape and caritas as dimensions of transhuman energy. During the seminar there will be periods for prayer and meditation, experimental liturgy and discussion of the participant's own religious experience.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, May 19-22

EDWARD FARRELL is a Roman Catholic priest. He is a faculty member and Spiritual Director of the Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit, Michigan, has been trained in the classics and in the life of prayer, has done pastoral work in ecumenism, civil rights, family work and retreat work. His Irish nature is the vehicle for many spirits, angels and illuminations for which he is creating forms in his teaching and retreats.

May 23-25
THE USE OF TOOLS
Weekend Workshop
with DAVID EVANS,
STEWART BRAND and WHOLE EARTH CATALOG
STAFF

If a major dynamic of human evolution is the interaction of man and his tools (Washburn and others say it is), then it's worth investigating some of the new modes of tool use—from the satisfying do-it-ourself labor of intentional communities to the intense experience of living and working on-line with a powerful computer facility.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 23

DAVID EVANS is currently a Research Engineer in the Augmented Human Intellect Research Center of Stanford Research Institute. His interests are in planning and design methodology (particularly the role of highly interactive computer systems as aids in planning and design processes), in technological forecasting, and in studying the process of change in a technological society.

STEWART BRAND has worked on two exhibits (Astronomia, IBM's permanent exhibit on the history of astronomy at the Hayden Planetarium in New York; We Are All 1, USCO's environmental art human be-in at the Riverside Museum, New York in 1966), has made two sound-slide-film shows ("America Needs Indians", "WAR GOD") and has organized two high-energy public events ("Trips Festival" at the Longshoremen's Hall in San Francisco; "Whatever It Is" at San Francisco State College). At present he heads the Whole Earth Truck Store and Catalog Division of Portola Institute in Menlo Park, California.

Access to tools is the function of the WHOLE EARTH CATALOG, published by Portola Institute. It is a periodical which gives evaluation and purchasing information on a broad range of tools and techniques associated with independent education: grain grinders, calculators, design texts, tipis, film manuals, dome plans, lab equipment, buckskin, electronic gear, cybernetics theory, methods of learning, etc.

For reservation information, see page 36.

POLICE AND REVOLUTIONARIES
Weekend Workshop
with JOEL FORT

Confrontation and Dialogue between

police		radicals
prosecutors	and	militants
judges		extremists
jailers		reactionaries

Two special kinds of minority groups, each with strong views of themselves and each other ("pigs" and "commies", for example), will be given the opportunity to make contact with themselves and each other and find alternative ways of reacting and behaving. The individual's capacity for growth, change, tolerance, and for channeling anger and aggression will be emphasized in an atmosphere of openness, honesty, spontaneity and hope for social progress. The style of the workshop will be eclectic, individualistic and innovative. It is hoped that the workshop will benefit the San Francisco Bay Area community and serve as a model elsewhere.

$50 per person (a few partial scholarships are available; please consult the San Francisco office)
8 to 11 p.m., Friday, May 23; 10 a.m., Saturday, continuing until after midnight

JOEL FORT, M.D.—specialist in public health and social psychiatry, physician, sociologist, criminologist, educator, author, lecturer, social critic and activist—is internationally recognized for his work in institutional change, drug abuse and sexual deviance. He is a lecturer in the School of Social Welfare, University of California, Berkeley, and in the Department of Biology and the Experimental College of San Francisco State College; a consultant to the National Student Association and the Peace Corps; co-director of the National Sex and Drug Forum in San Francisco; author of The Pleasure Seekers: The Drug Crisis, Youth and Society and contributor to scientific and general magazines. He has been a Court Examiner, consultant to the California Department of Corrections and to local probation departments, and has taught at the University of California School of Criminology. He has worked with groups for 14 years in therapy, counseling, teaching and encounter. In 1964 he won a unanimous State Supreme Court decision establishing the right of public employees to participate in political activities on their own time. In 1965 he founded San Francisco's Center for Special Problems, providing treatment, education and research on drug abuse, sexual problems, suicide and crime. The Center, which he directed until 1967, offers services for hippies, the poor, minority groups and others. He is also a consultant to Law Enforcement Study Center, Washington University, St. Louis.

May 27-28
PERCEPTUAL AWARENESS
AND THE EXPANSION OF CONSCIOUSNESS
2 Day Seminar
with ELEANOR CRISWELL

Persons exist at various levels of consciousness based on internal and external sensory stimulation. Perceptual awareness fluctuates with and contributes to the individual's level of consciousness. Perceptual experiences can be used to expand awareness and facilitate the actualization of human potential.

This seminar will present a theoretical framework and various experiential approaches for the enhancement of perceptual awareness, including optokinetic perceptual training, meditation (all sensory modes), breathing, auto-suggestion, interpersonal encounter, self-remembering, perceptual openness (phenomenological perception), various Yogic activities. In addition, new ways to enhance perceptual awareness will be invented by the seminar participants.

$30 general; $20 student
6 to 11 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday, May 27-28

ELEANOR CRISWELL, Ed.D., recently completed her doctoral work in educational psychology at the University of Florida, and is now on the staff of California State College at Hayward. She has taught psychology and human development courses for Jacksonville University of Florida. She has led encounter groups, taught yoga, and trained in electro-encephalography.

May 28-29
THEATRE OF ENCOUNTER
2 Evening Workshop
with ALEC RUBIN

An encounter group using new theatre techniques, this workshop will include verbal and non-verbal moment to moment confrontation, games and exercises evoking the expression of what's locked inside, body sounds and rhythms, flaying, beating, holding, being still, falling, hiding, "sounding" the body, tearing apart, coming together, being with. Its aims will be to open perception, unify opposite feelings and allow a free-flow of feeling and action.

$35 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Wednesday & Thursday, May 28-29

ALEC RUBIN is a movement therapist, encounter group leader, acting teacher and director. He was trained at the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy and influenced by the methods of gestalt, F.M. Alexander, Stanislavsky, Strasberg, Grotowski, Graham, Gindler, and Reich. He taught theatre and movement at Bennington, Cornell, N.Y.U., the Living Theatre, and the Actors Studio, and leads experiential church services and on-going groups on Long Island, where he is also involved in an Upward Bound program with the black community of Wyandanch. He just returned from Australia, where he introduced workshops in awareness and encounter to therapists and students in universities, clinics, and churches. He is director of Theatre of Encounter, a workshop for actors, playwrights and audiences in New York.

CREATIVE, PSYCHOTIC AND ECSTATIC STATES
Thursday Evening Seminar
with ROLAND FISCHER

Dr. Fischer describes his seminar as follows: "Normal, creative, schizophrenic, and mystical-ecstatic states are conceived on a continuum of increasingly higher central nervous system arousal. These levels are experienced in terms of increasing data content and increasing rate of data processing, which may result in a creative, hallucinatory, artistic or religious state. Eventually, however, the rate of processing cannot keep step with the ever-increasing data content—'the torrential flood of inner sensation'—and results in the schizophrenic 'jammed computer' state. At the peak of ecstatic states, interpretive activity ceases, or in biocybernetic terminology, there is no data content from without, and, therefore, no rate of data processing from within, the only content of the experience at the height of rapture being the reflection of the mystic in his own 'program'.

"Creative experiences are basically hallucinatory in nature and can be regarded as symbolic interpretations of one's own central nervous system activity. These experiences can be characterized in terms of: (1) increasing sensory to motor ratios which imply a gradual blocking of the intention and ability of the individual to verify his intense sensory experiences through voluntary motor performance; (2) by a transition from Aristotelian to multi-valued (symbolic) logic; and (3) by an increasingly geometric-ornamental or manneristic style which corresponds with the nonconventional representation found in much schizophrenic art."

$7 general; $5 student
6 to 11 p.m., Thursday, May 29

ROLAND FISCHER, Ph.D., initiated research into the staining behavior of cell membranes and biological research on schizophrenia, studying what he termed drug-induced "model psychoses". He is Professor in the Department of Psychiatry, Division of Behavioral and Neurobiological Sciences, and Associate Professor in the Department of Pharmacology, Ohio State University. He has published over 160 research papers in the following areas: cell membrane-and-receptor-models; gustatory chemoreception and pharmacogenetics; biological aspects of normal and pathological behavior, "model psychoses"; psychopharmacological aspects of time and space; and mechanisms and perceptual-behavioral correlates of central nervous system excitation and depression. He represents the U.S. on a Board of the International Society for Psychopathology and Artistic Expression.

ACTION ENCOUNTER
Extended Weekend Workshop
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A fast-moving, aggressive, body-oriented, intensive, tough-tender encounter group for couples and singles seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. The many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen will be integrated into an encounter group setting: sensory awakening, body movement, Gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation.

$65 per person (limited to 14)
Begins 8 p.m., Thursday, May 29, and ends 8 p.m., Sunday, June 1 (includes Memorial Day)

BENNETT SHAPIRO, 1967-68 Esalen Resident Fellow, is now a staff consultant leading groups for Esalen in the Bay Area and throughout the country. He has studied intensively with a wide variety of teachers and therapists for over three years at Esalen, including training with Dr. William Schutz. Formerly an architect and visiting lecturer at schools of architecture, he now is a full-time encounter group leader.

May 30-June 1
MANDALA: EXPLORATIONS OF THE CENTER
Weekend Workshop
with JOSÉ and MIRIAM ARGUELLES

This workshop will include a number of psycho-visual exercises for increasing powers of visualization, inner as well as outer. There will be a three part program, roughly speaking:

A. Retinal Massage—exercises in vision: how the eye sees; images and their origin; color, contrast, after-images; eidetic imagery and hallucination; correlation with psychedelic states. Use will be made of slides and light effects to loosen up the visual faculty.

B. Exercises in black and white; creating your own color; synesthetic experiences; music and vision; synchronicity; coordination of breath and vision; reaching the center; creating your own cosmos; various exercises to facilitate the creation of internal imagery and inner vision.

C. Coordination of vision or visionary states with physical motion: actualization of visual states—mandalas, cosmo-mythic imagery, archetypes. Use will be made of paints, colors, gestures, dance, music, etc.

Participants will be notified of inexpensive materials to bring to the workshop.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 30

JOSÉ ARGÜELLES studied at the University of Chicago and in Paris, taught at Princeton University, and now teaches art at the University of California at Davis. He has studied and written on visual perception. During the past two years he has been painting with his wife, often on the same project. They have co-sponsored happenings and workshops in New York, Princeton and California. MIRIAM T. ARGÜELLES taught at the University of Michigan and has exhibited with her husband.

June 2: PARTICIPATION-DISCUSSION with WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ. See page 34 for description.

EDUCATION IN THE "AFFECTIVE DOMAIN"
4-Day Workshop
with JANET LEDERMAN

A workshop for teachers, administrators and parents, demonstrating and using Gestalt Therapy Techniques, encounter group methods, body movement and sensory awareness. Participants may explore, experience and possibly uncover ways of integrating the "I" and the "educator". This group will be tailored to meet the participants' personal and professional interests and needs.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 2-5

JANET LEDERMAN is an artist and a writer, and has taught in the Los Angeles City School District for fourteen years. She has also served as art consultant and has been involved with teacher training for UCLA. In her teaching, Miss Lederman has successfully utilized Gestalt Therapy Techniques with the disadvantaged ghetto child and with children who manifest extreme behavior disabilities. She has applied these methods in a regular educational context as well, ranging from first graders to college students. She is author of the forthcoming book Anger and the Rocking Chair.

June 5
COMPRESSED TIME
One-Evening Workshop with STEWART BRAND

Multiply time by 1/12. An hour passes every five minutes. It's meal time every half-hour or so. Night is brief and oddly restful. Altogether it's an unboring, unhurried experience in which more (and different) accomplishment is possible than in normal time. This evening will be paced by clocks, sounds, lights, meals, and social cues to contain the events of a weekend.

$10 per person
5 to 11 p.m., with dinner break, Thursday, June 5

STEWART BRAND has worked on two exhibits (Astronomia, IBM's permanent exhibit on the history of astronomy at the Hayden Planetarium in New York; We Are All 1, USCO's environmental art human be-in at the Riverside Museum, New York in 1966), has made two sound-slide-film shows ("America Needs Indians", "WAR GOD") and has organized two high-energy public events ("Trips Festival" at the Longshoremen's Hall in San Francisco; "Whatever It Is" at San Francisco State College). At present he heads the Whole Earth Truck Store and Catalog Division of Portola Institute in Menlo Park, California.

June 6-8
Weekend Workshop
with LARRY BLOOMBERG and DICK MILLER

In describing this workshop, Drs. Bloomberg and Miller write: "We are excited by our work. Our groups, like our participants, are enjoyable, threatening, hectic, peaceful, humorous, earnest—rarely empty and often satisfying. We believe in growth as a way of life. We use our skill to clear a space where all may experience and experiment. We are tired of writing up blurbs for brochures that may entice you to participate. You are invited to make this workshop an experience with us."

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 6

RICHARD LOUIS MILLER, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and Existential psychotherapist committed to openness, authenticity and intimacy in interpersonal relationships.

LAWRENCE I. BLOOMBERG, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and Gestalt psychotherapist involved in fostering the widest community support for deeply exciting relationships among people.

DICK MILLER and LARRY BLOOMBERG are directors of the Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy, San Francisco, where they are involved in developing innovations in marital, family and group psychotherapy. Multiple therapy refers to the concurrent use of two or more therapists in all therapeutic encounters. They are both Training Therapists and on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute.

June 6-8
SLOWING DOWN AND GIVING ATTENTION
Weekend Workshop
with MIRIAM KLEIN and
ALYSOUN HUNTLY FORD

Seminar participants will explore images, emotions and memories in their bodies by slowing down and attending. They will try to express emotions through voice and movement and will explore personal space, allowing it to flow into the interpersonal and, hopefully, the transpersonal. Techniques developed in body awareness, encounter and Gestalt work will be used.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 6

MIRIAM KLEIN, Ph.D., born and raised in Palestine, has taught psychology in Israel and elsewhere and was a Resident Fellow at Esalen in 1968-69, where she was mainly influenced by the work of Dr. Edward Maupin.

ALYSOUN HUNTLY FORD, an Esalen Resident Fellow in 1967-68, has studied many aspects of physical and emotional growth. She has taught music and drama for many years.

June 6-8
THE TANTRIC WAY TO SELF-REALIZATION
Weekend Workshop
with SHYAM BHATNAGAR

This workshop will explore fundamentals of the psyche and methods of communication with higher levels of consciousness. There will also be discussions of Tantric foods, Tantric sleeping habits and Tantric sex rituals in relation to the individual's energy level. In addition to the seminar, private sessions by appointment are available for determining the individual's energy level and to assign bij mantras.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 6

SHYAM BHATNAGAR began his training under the great Kundalini Yogi "Baba Jee" at age 12. In 1966, he established the Self-Development Institute in Bareilly, India for the practical study of Tantric Yoga. An accomplished tambura player who has worked with Ravi Shankar, he has co-led seminars with Joseph Campbell and Bernard S. Aaronson.

TOUCHSTONES OF REALITY
Weekend Workshop
with MAURICE FRIEDMAN
and MICHAEL MURPHY

No sure ground under his feet, contemporary man seeks above all for touchstones of reality on which to focus his experience, structure his values, guide his life. If he is open to his full potentiality, he finds not one but many touchstones. At times, the iron filings of his life are pulled in different directions by magnets, each of which claims to be the touchstone of reality. One of the most important double pulls experienced by the open man is that between the exploration of inner space through mystic meditation and psychedelics and the call to make real the space between man and man in the life of dialogue. Is "all real living" higher consciousness or "meeting" or both?

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 13

MAURICE FRIEDMAN is Professor of Religion at Temple University, Philadelphia, and a member of the permanent faculty of Pendle Hill, the Quaker Center for Study and Dialogue at Wallingford, Pa. Dr. Friedman taught for many years at Sarah Lawrence College, The New School for Social Research, and the Washington School of Psychiatry and for shorter periods at Manhattanville, Hebrew Union, and Vassar Colleges and at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychology, Psychoanalysis and Psychiatry. Twenty years of work has established him as the world's foremost interpreter of the life and thought of Martin Buber. He is the author of Martin Buber: The Life of Dialogue; Problematic Rebel: An Image of Modern Man; The Worlds of Existentialism: A Critical Reader; To Deny Our Nothingness: Contemporary Images of Man; and the forthcoming critical biography Martin Buber: Encounter on the Narrow Ridge.

MICHAEL MURPHY is President and co-founder of Esalen Institute. He studied for one and one-half years at the Sri Aurobindo Ashram in Pondicherry in India and has been a student of meditation and mysticism for the past fifteen years.

ACHIEVEMENT AND SELF-MOTIVATION
Weekend Workshop
with BILLY SHARP

Dr. Sharp describes his approach as follows: "We focus on the individual's strengths, his personal resources. We strive for individual discovery. Then, with effective group reinforcement, we build on the personal strengths, resources and success experiences of each seminar participant. In essence, Achievement Motivation Seminars are designed to change human behavior by identifying strengths and defining life goals . . . and then conditioning constructive behavior.

"The Achievement Motivation Seminars are divided into five phases. They are: (1) to establish a positive and constructive feeling about self and situation; (2) to identify and to creatively analyze past and present personal successes; (3) to establish life goals within value structures; (4) to resolve conflicts in a creative manner; (5) to reinforce constructive behavior patterns.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN EAST-EUROPEAN PARAPSYCHOLOGY
Weekend Workshop
with MILAN RYZL

Participants will be acquainted with the progress of parapsychology in Communist countries. Scientific and experimental approaches will be emphasized, but philosophical and religious implications of parapsychology will also be examined. Parapsychology in the East and the West will be compared, its perspectives in the light of materialist philosophy discussed, and its integration into the scientific picture of the world attempted. Special attention will be given to recent efforts to bring extrasensory perception under control and to apply it in practice. Some experimental methods will be demonstrated.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 20

MILAN RYZL received his RNDr in natural sciences (physics and chemistry) from Prague University in Czechoslovakia. He specialized in parapsychology and contributed to the research on hypnosis and extrasensory perception. June 23-26
TECHNIQUES OF EMOTIONAL RETRAINING
Couples' 4-Day Workshop
with
BURYL and IANA PAYNE

We seldom receive emotional training in our education; most of us remain emotional infants although we may have college educations in intellectual subjects. When we fall in love and marry, our lack of emotional education can become painfully apparent. Initial love is often eroded away or entirely blocked by petty irritations, annoyances and automatic behavior patterns that arise when people live together.

Participants will be trained in specific constructive techniques of emotional release. They will be given a theoretical basis for the techniques based upon the formulations of Korzybski, Gurdjieff and others. The techniques can be readily taught to children and are an aid in reducing parent-child tensions.

$130 per couple
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 23-26

BURYL PAYNE is a psychologist, Associate Professor in the School of Public Communications at Boston University. He has given many seminars and workshops around the country on various aspects of interpersonal communication and awareness training. IANA PAYNE is completing her M.S. in speech at Emerson College. She has been trained in psychomotor awareness, dance and creative dramatics.

THE HUMAN POTENTIAL:
Does Christ Get in the Way?
Weekend Workshop with
BISHOP JOHN ROBINSON

That there was once a perfect man who was everything a human being could be seems to many today to put a ceiling on the human potential. The sinless Christ of traditional theology presupposes a static view of man. Must Jesus have had everything? Or is it enough that his life was such as to make credible—and livable—a new "passion for the possible"? (William Sloane Coffin) What significance, if any, has the Christ figure for us today?

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 27

BISHOP JOHN ROBINSON is the Bishop of Woolwich. He became world-famous for his book Honest to God, in which he vigorously questioned many of the basic assumptions of contemporary Christian faith. His most recent book, Exploration into God, is a step toward a theology which comprehends the kind of experience and concern with which our series, Theological Reflection on the Human Potential, is dealing.

MAPS OF THE SPIRITUAL PATH
4 Evening Workshops
with RALPH METZNER

Throughout the histories of various civilizations groups of enlightened human beings have devised symbolic languages for the guidance of those pursuing the spiritual path, the way of liberation or self-discovery. Four such symbol systems will be explored and discussed: Astrology, the Tarot, the I Ching and the Tantras. The discussion will be basic, requiring no prior knowledge of the map; and we will attempt to provide the groundwork for the practical/experiential use.

$ 5 per person per evening
$18 per person for the series
8-10:30 p.m., Mondays, June 30, July 7, 14, 21

RALPH METZNER, Ph.D., is Editor of The Psychedelic Review. He is co-author of The Psychedelic Experience with Timothy Leary and Richard Alpert, and is the editor of a collection of descriptions of psychedelic experiences entitled The Ecstatic Adventure, 1968, Macmillan.

RESOLUTION OF PERSONAL CONFLICT
IN LOVE, WORK AND FRIENDSHIP
4-Day Workshop
with STEWART SHAPIRO

In describing this workshop, Dr. Shapiro writes: "We are experiencing the beginning of a human revolution in which the resolution of conflict has become one of the most critical areas for our survival—as individuals and for mankind itself.

"This workshop will concentrate on understanding inner personal conflicts as well as conflicts with important people in our lives—spouse, family, children, superiors or subordinates, colleagues, friends, etc. Through role playing and other exercises, various approaches to handling conflict will be demonstrated.

"Emphasis will be placed on forming explicit and sound 'personal contracts' with other people to minimize destructive conflicts. This enables other people to really know what we expect of them and what they expect of us. How to form and re-negotiate realistic contracts will be demonstrated by 'contract exercises'.

"Subject areas to be covered will include: (1) how to recognize the difference between destructive and constructive conflicts; (2) how to understand the conflict games we play with ourselves and others; (3) role conflicts and value conflicts; (4) competitive win-lose conflicts where there are limited rewards."

$75 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, June 30-July 3

STEWART SHAPIRO, in addition to his exploration of positive experience at Esalen, is known on the West Coast as an expert in Conflict Management. Drawing on his extensive background as a Clinical Psychologist and Human Relations Trainer, Dr. Shapiro has developed innovative approaches in understanding and resolving human conflicts. He has recently conducted laboratories and workshops on conflict at the Institute of Industrial relations of UCLA, The Western Training Laboratory of NTL, and for the California Association of Executives of Child Welfare Institutions.

Dr. Shapiro is an Associate Professor of Education and Director of Counseling and Guidance, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara.

July 3-6
ACTION ENCOUNTER
FOR COUPLES
Extended Weekend Workshop
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A fast-moving, aggressive, body-oriented, intensive, tough-tender encounter group for couples, lovers and partners seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. The many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen will be integrated into an encounter group setting: sensory awakening, body movement, Gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. In particular, methods for enriching two-person relationships will be emphasized and practiced for couples' use after the workshop.

$130 per couple
Begins 8 p.m., Thursday, July 3 and ends 8 p.m., Sunday, July 6
(includes Independence Day)

BENNETT SHAPIRO, 1967-68 Esalen Resident Fellow, is now a staff consultant leading groups for Esalen in the Bay Area and throughout the country. He has studied intensively with a wide variety of teachers and therapists for over three years at Esalen, including training with Dr. William Schutz. Formerly an architect and visiting lecturer at schools of architecture, he now is a full-time encounter group leader.

July 7-10
THE PURSUIT OF MEANING: LOGOTHERAPY APPLIED TO LIFE
4-Day Seminar
with JOSEPH FABRY

Logotherapy (therapy through meaning), developed by Dr. Viktor Frankl, Professor of Psychology at the University of Vienna, has been called the "Third Viennese School of Psychiatry"—after Freud's psychoanalysis and Adler's individual psychology. Logotherapy has been found especially useful to the increasing number of people who suffer from a feeling of meaninglessness, emptiness and frustration; it stresses personal choices and is pragmatic and present- and future-oriented. This seminar will present Frankl's basic concepts of the causes of our "existential vacuum" and his suggested remedies. It will offer each participant the opportunity, through group discussion, to apply Frankl's ideas to his own life.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 7-10

JOSEPH FABRY is a free-lance writer, translator and editor at the University of California, Berkeley. For the past five years he has worked with Dr. Viktor Frankl in preparation of Frankl's book The Pursuit of Meaning—Logotherapy Applied to Life. Mr. Fabry has read all of Frankl's still untranslated works, including fourteen books and numerous journal articles, has translated some of his writings, and has lectured and held seminars on logotherapy. He teaches a course on logotherapy for the University of California Extension.

July 7-10
GROWTH ENCOUNTER

This 4-Day workshop with Esalen Staff members will combine encounter groups, sensory awakening, psychodrama, meditation and other approaches being explored at Esalen.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 7-10

July 11-13
EXPLORING OUR PRIVATE INNER AND OUTER WORLDS
Weekend Workshop
with KATHERINE WHITESIDE TAYLOR

"To be old is a glorious thing when one has not unlearned what it means to begin."
—Martin Buber

Participants will try to learn how to use anxieties, boredoms and crises toward personal growth. They will share insights from psychology, philosophy, religion and their own experience in an effort to become more open, loving and creative. It is recommended that participants prepare themselves for the workshop by reading Martin Buber's Between Man and Man, C.G. Jung's Memories, Dreams and Reflections, and Abraham Maslow's Toward a Psychology of Being. Primarily for people over 40.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 11

KATHERINE WHITESIDE TAYLOR, Ed.E., is a practicing psychotherapist who lectures on self-actualization and Jungian Psychology for the University of California's San Francisco Day-Time Program. She is the author of two books on parent-child interaction and has contributed to textbooks, lay and professional journals. She began a parent-cooperative nursery-school movement in Berkeley while a young mother. She is now a grandmother of six.

July 14-17
EMOTIONAL EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN
4-Day Workshop
with HAROLD BESSELL

Emotional maturation does not occur by chance. The teacher who understands the tasks that comprise the rungs of the ladder of personal growth is in a unique position to present those tasks in the best possible ways to his children. This workshop will include demonstrations with children, presentations of theory and free-wheeling discussions. Hopefully, the participants will gain emotional insight as well as a theoretical grounding in the processes of emotional maturation. Participants will qualify as being certified to use the Human Development Program (see biographical description below), and may obtain and use the written materials, including the daily lesson guides.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 14-17

HAROLD BESSELL, Ph.D., has practiced psychotherapy for the past fifteen years in a child guidance center, university clinics, and in private practice. He is co-author of the Human Development Program for the emotional education of children. Over 1200 teachers have been trained in this approach, which is used to promote awareness, self-confidence and understanding of interactions in young children. This program has won acclaim as a substantial and comprehensive way to foster affective education.

July 16
INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER
Wednesday Evening
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A highly intensive, fast-moving introduction to encountering for those seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. Participants will be divided into small encounter groups, which will integrate the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, Gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. Comfortable clothes are recommended (sports clothes for men; slacks for women).

$5 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Wednesday, July 16

For reservation information, see page 36.

July 18-20
TRADE YOUR BOUQUET OF THORNS FOR A GOLDEN ROSE
Weekend Workshop
with WILLIAM SMITH

William Smith describes his workshop on extreme risk-taking as follows: "Many people spend their lives carrying the 'Burden of Yes' due to the inability to take existential risks in their interpersonal relations. Drawing upon a 'Bill of Rights' for individuals, this weekend will be spent in examining the alternatives by which one may free himself from the 'Burden of Yes.' Participants will explore their feelings and desires about such ideas as 'What you do for yourself in the long run can't hurt anyone else'; 'I have the right to live without regard to rules so long as society isn't injured'; 'Love your neighbor as yourself, but know what the word as means.' Encountering, role playing, and other methods will be used to facilitate the ability to live one's own life and to accept the responsibility for the choices one makes.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 18

WILLIAM SMITH is a former Insurance Executive, U.S. Congressional aide, Labor Consultant, Protestant Evangelist, common laborer, bartender, professional house guest, con man, poet, writer, and is currently Assistant Director, Esalen, San Francisco. He holds degrees in psychology, political science and theology.

July 18-20

ON THE DEVIL
Friday Evening Lecture by CLAUDIO NARANJO

A survey of the mythology of evil and the doctrine of the Fall in East and West, and a commentary upon the relevance of these ideas to psychosis, drug experiences and psychotherapy.

$3 general; $2 student
8 p.m., Friday, July 25

CLAUDIO NARANJO, formerly research psychiatrist, University of Chile, Santiago, is now an Associate with the Institute for Personality Assessment and Research, University of California, Berkeley, and Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute. He has studied the use of hallucinogens by shamans in different parts of South America and has introduced several psychotropic drugs into clinical practice. He is deeply concerned with the relationship between the quests for sanity and enlightenment.

July 25-27
EXPLORATIONS IN HYPNOSIS AND HYPNOTHERAPY
Weekend Workshop
with ABE LEVITSKY

This workshop will emphasize orientations in hypnosis which differ from the ones generally employed in the field. A major consideration will be the principles of Gestalt Therapy and the contributions it can make to greater effectiveness in hypnotic work. Particularly, we will explore the principle of "staying with" experiences and sensations and see how it differs from the more traditional methods of pain-avoidance through suggestions. The phenomena of experimental dissociation and hypno-projection will be explored for their usefulness in personality integration. Experiments will be conducted in the hypnotic facilitation of the creative process.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 25

ABE LEVITSKY, Ph.D., is interested in the exploration of new social structures which allow the fullest development of human potential. He is on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute. Dr. Levitsky has taught at Brooklyn College, the University of Michigan and the Washington University Medical School. He has done extensive research in clinical and experimental hypnosis and is Associate Editor of The American Journal of Clinical Hypnosis.

July 25-27
AWARENESS COMMUNICATIONS CREATIVITY
Weekend Workshop
with SHARI STREET

A workshop to open up communication between people using awareness techniques, nature experiences and the creative urge in each of us. Media will be clay, paint, sound, body movement, drama, sculpture. No previous art experience is necessary for participation in this workshop.

$50 per person, including art supplies
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 25

From an extensive background in the arts and her studies at schools in Canada, the United States and Europe over the past 12 years, SHARI STREET has evolved her own interpretation of art as another form of communications, emphasizing the group aspects of the artistic experience. She has lived in an extended family situation for the past two years and is enthusiastic about new family ideas. She has conducted workshops at Esalen at Stanford; Stiles Hall, Berkeley; Midpeninsula Free University and elsewhere. She is currently teaching at San Francisco Art Institute and is doing graduate work at San Jose State College.

July 28-31
HOMOSEXUAL-HETEROSEXUAL ENCOUNTER
4-Day Workshop
with ROBERT CROMEY and DONALD LUCAS

The human potential of everyone is diminished when some of us are in bondage. The homosexual is discriminated against in our society. Many people are slaves to prejudice and misinformation about homosexuals.

Encounters between the homophile and straight worlds have begun on the legal-reform level. This seminar will engage heterosexuals and homosexuals in dialogue on the personal and social level. There will be opportunity for encounter as well as for gaining knowledge about the problems of homosexuality.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 28-31

ROBERT WARREN CROMEY is an Episcopal Priest, Vicar of St. Aidan's Church in San Francisco. He is one of the founders of the Council on Religion and the Homosexual and is moderator of the North American Conference of Homophile Organizations. He will complete the Esalen Residential Program at Big Sur by July 1, 1969.

DONALD LUCAS has been Executive Secretary of the Mattachine Society in San Francisco and was a founding member and past Chairman of the Council on Religion and the Homosexual. He is now Executive Director of the Central City Multi-Service Center (A War on Poverty Agency). He has lectured on the subject of homosexuality throughout the United States and in Canada and England.

July 28-31
ENCOUNTER TECHNIQUES AND POLITICAL IDEOLOGY
4-Day Workshop
with ABE LEVITSKY

In a general sense, we are well aware that there is an intimate connection between personality characteristics (e.g., emotional conflicts) and belief systems such as political loyalties. This workshop will investigate this problem in detail and in depth. Participants of all shades of the political spectrum are encouraged to come together. We will alternate sessions of political debate with sessions of personal encounter. Do we hear the other person? Do we talk to him or at him? What happens to our concepts of political strategy as we overcome timidity or acquire deeper awareness of aggressive needs? If we achieve greater self-acceptance, does this modify our political outlooks? It is along such lines that we will direct our observations.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, July 28-31

See page 17, July 25-27, for biographical data.

August 1-3
ENERGY, ECSTASY AND EMERGENT GLOBAL MAN
Weekend Workshop
with WILLIS E. ELLIOTT

This seminar will explore man's expanding awareness of his expanding powers, looking toward more responsible-creative action in personal and political living. The five sessions will probe: (1) the interior dialogue between primitive man of the antique past and global man of the impending future (a dialogue to which Life is assigning present man); (2) violence (violent crime, rioting, strategic terrorism, revolution, war) as both threat and promise in the light of the Western religious heritage and of the behavioral sciences; (3) the freeing of human energies for creative and destructive activity toward the welfare of all and the dignity of each; (4) leisure (the increase of disposable hours and expendable dollars); and (5) the experience of the Holy as potentially integrative of man's energies and of his heritages. The sessions will be open style, allowing for group-shaping of the experience and for maximum personal input.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 1

WILLIS E. ELLIOTT is a theologian on the staff of the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries. For two decades—after teaching religion and philosophy in the colleges, and the biblical languages in three seminaries—he has been intimately concerned with the creative interaction of the West's spiritual heritage and the behavioral sciences (his second earned doctorate, at the University of Chicago, being in this interdisciplinary area). His writings include articles on meditation and unity, pamphlets on emergent religion and politics, a book exploring a new approach to group interaction of the West's spiritual heritage and modern man's problems (The Pastoral Letters), and two books in process (Toward a Theology of Leisure and Violence and Availability).

August 1-3
LIFE IS CHANGE
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES BUGENTAL and ELIZABETH KEBER BUGENTAL

The Bugentals describe their workshop as follows: "Life is change, and to be aware of changing and to have some hand in steering it is to be really alive. This seminar-workshop will focus on the subjective experience of being in change. A variety of action techniques, some encountering, and some plain old-fashioned, head-level bull sessions will be used so we can each take a look into our own being-in-process-ness. Probably best for those 35-60, but others may come at their own risks (of being changed)."

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 1

JAMES F. T. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., of Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is a psychotherapist and writer on existential-humanistic psychology. He is for 1968-69 a Research Associate at the Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park, California. He is a past president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and of the California State Psychological Association, and has been on the faculty at UCLA and at Georgia Tech. He is the author of Psychological Interviewing and The Search for Authenticity: An Existential-Analytic Approach to Psychotherapy. In 1967 he edited Challenges of Humanistic Psychology.

ELIZABETH KEBER BUGENTAL, Ph.D., is a counselor and an innovator in multi-media processes for encounter groups, seminars and theater. Formerly Head of the Department of Theater Arts at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles, she has written plays, musicals, and inter-media productions for children and adults, has pioneered in developing audience involvement techniques, and has served on national consultative bodies on the arts in education. She wrote Words of Ugo Betti which was illustrated by Sister Mary Corita.

For reservation information, see page 36.

August 4-7
BEING WITH
4-Day Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

Being with me—being with you—being with the loved, the hated, the feared, the envied, the admired . . . connected, part of yet separate from—simply with. Through such integrated encounter methods as body movement, fantasy, Gestalt technique, psychodrama, meditation, among others, participants will explore and celebrate Withness.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, August 4-7
See page 12, June 9-12, San Francisco, for biographical data.

August 8-10 — A TWO-SEMINAR WEEKEND with CLAUDIO NARANJO and DANE RUDHYAR

SYMBOLS OF SPIRITUAL UNFOLDMENT
Claudio Naranjo and Dane Rudhyar

Friday evening and Saturday morning: A discussion of a variety of literary, pictorial and ritualistic symbols that refer to the notion of a path of individual evolution open to man, to the stages in this development and to its obstacles.

Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 8

THE ILLUMINED ROAD
Dane Rudhyar and Claudio Naranjo

Saturday afternoon and evening, Sunday morning: An outline of the way beyond the Earth-conditioned ego-consciousness and toward identification with the Divine, reformulated in terms of a Space Age cosmic approach.

Begins 3 p.m., Saturday, August 9
$30 per person for one seminar
$50 per person for both seminars

DANE RUDHYAR has done pioneering work in several fields of creative endeavor—as composer, critic, and champion of Oriental music, as philosopher and psychologist. His book Astrology of Personality established a new and deeper approach to astrology thirty years ago and was followed by The Pulse of Life, The Lunation Cycle, The Practice of Astrology and Triptych. Of Vibrancy and Peace recently gathered the best from several books of poems. Fire Out of the Stone reformulated in terms of the new psychology the basic Images of the Christian-European tradition. The Rhythm of Human Fulfillment is a prelude to forthcoming volumes on a holistic philosophy and cosmology.

See page 17, July 25, San Francisco, for biographical data for Claudio Naranjo.

August 8-10
SENSITIVITY TRAINING FOR MARRIED COUPLES
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES V. and FRANCES CLARK

The Clarks have worked for several years in sensitivity training groups for executive and professional married couples; consequently, they have been in the presence of a great many men and women searching for themselves and for a more "growthful" and satisfying community between them. They believe that a marriage is different from the man and woman in it, something that can be bettered by the partners if they are willing and have the courage to spend time and effort to do so. Therefore, this group encounter will focus on reaching new levels of closeness and deepened resolve to make conscious efforts of continued intimacy after the weekend is completed.

$180 per couple
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 8

JAMES V. CLARK, D.B.A., is Vice-chairman of the UCLA Graduate School of Business Administration, Professor of Organizational Development, and a Fellow of the National Training Laboratories. He is an author and practitioner in the field of sensitivity training.

FRANCES CLARK is a private sensitivity training consultant who, in recent years with her husband, has pioneered in developing sensitivity training for executive and professional married couples. Her career includes music, elementary teaching, educational administration and civic leadership.

August 11-14
TRUST, COMPASSION AND SELF-EXPLORATION
4-Day Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

In our rush to expose and express our inner nature we often neglect to fully explore the good, the beautiful and divine in ourselves. This workshop, through a series of increasingly more involving exercises, will begin to train our awareness in some of these areas. We will treat ourselves and each other gently since gentleness promotes both healing and growth.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, August 11-14

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at San Francisco State College and at Brandeis University. He has written a film series for instructional television, is an editor of several journals, writes a column for a medical journal, and is a consultant to industrial and educational institutions.

August 15-17
ACROSS THE GENERATION GAP
Weekend Workshop
with MICHAEL KAHN

This workshop is for upper-teenagers (15-19) and their parents. It will be limited to 15 participants, made up of 5 teenagers, each accompanied by both parents. Encounter group techniques will be used to help each group (teenagers and adults) understand each other's scene more thoroughly and more lovingly and to get them communicating with each other across the generation gap.

$100 per family Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 15

MICHAEL KAHN received his Ph.D. from Harvard University, has taught at Yale and is currently on the faculty of the Department of Psychology at the University of Texas. He has experimented extensively with behavior therapy methods and is an experienced encounter group leader, having been on the staff of the Personal Growth Laboratory at Bethel, Maine.

August 16
JOSEPH CAMPBELL and HUSTON SMITH ON TIBET

A dialogue-discussion of philosophical and mythic components of the Tibetan tradition—its meaning for its people, its place in the spiritual history of mankind. The evening will close with the showing of "Requiem for a Faith," the 1968 NY International Film Festival Bronze Medal documentary on the subject.

$3 general; $2 student 8 p.m., Saturday, August 16

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with A Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer, as well as the five Bollingen volumes of Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks. He has been a member of the Literature Department of Sarah Lawrence College since 1934 and a lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State, Washington, D.C., since 1956.

HUSTON SMITH is Professor of Philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His birth and childhood in China produced a life-long interest in philosophical anthropology, comparative philosophy, and comparative religion, while his present post calls for special attention to the relation between science and the humanities. He is author of The Religions of Man: Condemned to Meaning; and The Purposes of Higher Education.

INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER
Thursday Evening
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A highly intensive, fast-moving introduction to encountering for those seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. Participants will be divided into small encounter groups, which will integrate the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, Gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. Comfortable clothes are recommended (sports clothes for men; slacks for women).

$5 per person 6 to 11 p.m., Thursday, August 21

August 18-21
MARRIAGE MYTHS
Couples' 4-Day Workshop
with MICHAEL KAHN

This workshop will have a double focus; first, an opportunity to deepen the understanding of the covert "marriage myths" which confuse and impede relationships and to deepen the relationship through group techniques; and, second, to develop rituals to be taken home which will keep the group experience vital and growing. Limited to seven couples (married or not) who share an ongoing relationship.

$130 per couple
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, August 18-21

See August 15-17 (above) for biographical data.

August 22-24
CREATIVE INSPIRATION FROM THE TRANCE STATE
Weekend Workshop
with SHEPARD and LOIS GINANDES

The creative impluse springs best from prepared ground—a trained body, mind and spirit. Training the body with yoga, the mind with meditation, and the spirit with relaxation and hypnotic trance states, one can enhance creative improvisation and inspiration. This weekend is open to dancers, actors, writers, visual artists, musicians and serious students. There will be training in self-hypnosis to carry on creative progress after the weekend is over.

$45 per person Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 22

SHEP GINANDES is a psychiatrist, sculptor and musician. He works particularly with young people and directs a training center where young people learn to develop their identities as artists. LOIS GINANDES is a professional modern dancer and teacher of yoga and movement. Dr. and Mrs. Ginandes have worked together with artists, using this particular blend of yoga, meditation, and group hypnosis training to deepen creative awareness.

August 22-24
ENERGY AND ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop
with STEVEN A. STROUD

Thinking . . . Moving . . . Fighting . . . Loving . . . an inexhaustible river of energy for these and other life processes flows through us if we don't inhibit it. Using intensive encounter and body awareness groups to release energy blocks with hypnotic and meditative techniques to discover and tap the energy source within us, participants will explore ways to creatively release this energy into the world.

$45 per person Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 22

STEVEN A. STROUD, a past Resident Fellow at Esalen in Big Sur, is a director of the Esalen Resident Program. He leads groups at Stanford and Santa Cruz Universities, at Esalen, Big Sur, and in the Bay Area. He has special training in hypnosis and altered states of consciousness.

For reservation information, see page 36.

SENSORY AWAKENING IN THE CHURCH
4-Day Workshop
with BERNARD GUNTHER

$55 per person
7 to 10 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, August 25-28
See page 31 for description and biographical data.

August 29-September 1
THE FREE ENCOUNTER GROUP
Weekend Workshop
with JOE FORTIER and SHEILA MODECKE

Dr. Fortier describes this program as follows: "I am asked what I mean by free in an encounter group. I mean that we aim to be free from psychological interpretations of speech and behavior. Free from our little protective alliances which become 'The Group', from all of those exercises in role playing or analysis of game playing. Free to talk from our own language and particular body style. Free to be ridiculous and to start from where you are at and I am at and he is at. To become free enough to know the absurd—to admit 'I am in love' or 'There is a revolution and I am in it' or 'I am at peace and uninvolved'—and to mix with the absurdities and to find that that is really how it is."

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 29

JOE FORTIER, Ph.D., is on the psychology faculty and is Chairman of the Graduate Studies Council of Sonoma State College. He has studied at the Jung Institute in Zurich, Switzerland, directed encounter groups at Mountain Home Ranch near Sonoma, and founded the Liberal Arts Master of Arts (L.A.M.A.) program at San Francisco State College.

SHEILA MODECKE received her early training with the Canadian Mental Health Association and Canadian National Training Laboratories, where she was a staff member in adult workshops. She is now engaged in public health research and is completing her graduate work in psychology.

August 29-September 1
GROWTH ENCOUNTER

This weekend workshop with Esalen Staff members will combine encounter groups, sensory awakening, psychodrama, meditation and other approaches being explored at Esalen.

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 29

September 1-4
EDUCATION IN THE "AFFECTIVE DOMAIN"
4-Day Workshop
with JANET LEDERMAN

A workshop for teachers, administrators and parents, demonstrating and using Gestalt Therapy Techniques, encounter group methods, body movement, and sensory awareness. Participants may explore, experience and possibly uncover ways of integrating the "I" and the "educator". This group will be tailored to meet the participants' personal and professional interests and needs.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 1-4
See page 11, June 2-5, San Francisco, for biographical data.

September 1-4
4-Day
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with STEVEN A. STROUD

This workshop will consist of directed exercises leading to meaningful contact with other people, spiritually, verbally, physically and through emotional expression; followed by spontaneous encounter with small groups.

$65 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 1-4
See page 20, August 22-24, San Francisco, for biographical data.

September 5-7
Weekend Workshop
with DICK MILLER and STAFF

In describing this workshop, Dr. Miller writes: "We are excited by our work. Our groups, like our participants, are enjoyable, threatening, hectic, peaceful, humorous, earnest—rarely empty and often satisfying. We believe in growth as a way of life. We use our skill to clear a space where all may experience and experiment. We are tired of writing up blurbs for brochures that may entice you to participate. You are invited to make this workshop an experience with us."

$45 per person
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 5

RICHARD LOUIS MILLER, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and Existential psychotherapist committed to openness, authenticity and intimacy in interpersonal relationships. He is a Director of the Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy, San Francisco, and is on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute.

September 8-11
EXPLORATIONS IN POSITIVE EXPERIENCE
4-Day Workshop
with STEWART SHAPIRO

Critics of psychotherapy and group dynamics have often complained that these fields lack the light touch, that they involve too much "blood letting". Dr. Shapiro's approach to psychotherapy, however, is a rollicking takeoff from the premise that learning is joy. His approach draws theoretically from Maslow, Rogers, Perls and Berne, and in methodology from basic encounter groups, Gestalt Therapy, Transactional Analysis and other sources. Dr. Shapiro has added techniques of his own such as a method for "inner dialogue" among various sub-selves, the use of "self-drawing" and "mirror-talking".

$75 per person
6 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, September 8-11
See page 15, June 30-July 3, San Francisco, for biographical data.

IN PRAISE OF SMALLNESS

Our Big Sur facility is limited and at times we have been beyond our reasonable capacity. Beginning this June we will hold to a strict upper limit of no more than 65 participants on the property at any one time. We hope this will result in greater comfort for both seminarians and staff.

7-DAY PROGRAMS

During July and August we will experiment with a 7-Day format for the Big Sur workshops. In general there will be the same number of leader hours as in the 5-Day programs, but more time to enjoy Big Sur and to relax when the program is over. Most programs will end by Saturday noon, but participants are free to stay until Sunday noon. (The extra day is covered in the workshop fee.) Without the usual Friday turnover and with the smaller number of participants, we anticipate a more leisurely pace throughout the week.

May 11 - 14
CREATING NEW FORMS OF WORSHIP
3-Day Workshop
with BILL McGAW
and WILSON VAN DUSEN

Today religion is facing a crisis of far-reaching proportions. In many situations a sense of community is almost non-existent, and in many churches there is less and less participation from youth. A possible source of renewal may be the inclusion of encounter and awareness techniques in the Sunday morning worship and other rituals.

Workshop members will be introduced to a dynamic theory of ritual and symbol which is open to creative change. Members will be involved in discussions on the future of religion and will participate in group dynamics sessions applicable to religious services and liturgy building. On the final night of the workshop the participants will conduct a worship service which they have created.

$110 per person

BILL McGAW, Director of Communications at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, possesses a background in mass media and human encounter theory and practice. Working in co-operation with ministers and congregations of every denomination in the San Diego area, Mr. McGaw has first-hand experience with exciting and deeply moving worship services, based on a theology of the Here and Now as opposed to a theology of the Hereafter.

WILSON VAN DUSEN, Chief Psychologist at Mendocino State Hospital and Professor at Sonoma State College, has published on pastoral psychology, psychedelic religious visions, and spirits. He is a scholar of the works of Emanuel Swedenborg. The honor has been accorded him of having his description of satori translated and published in Japanese by Zen Buddhists.

May 11-16
REACHING FOR THE WILD
5-Day Workshop
with GERARD HAIGH

An exploration into the wildness of nature and self, into the primitive emotions of terror and ecstasy, rage, abandon and wonder. Much of this program will take place in the outdoors of the Big Sur country—in the redwood canyons and on the rocky beaches, in sunlight and during the night. The group will create rituals and symbols together for mutual support; it will explore the range of emotions which direct confrontation with nature turns loose.

$180 per person
All participants must bring sleeping bags and flashlights.

GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D., a practicing psychotherapist with Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and is a board member of the Topanga Center for Human Development.

CONTRIBUTING TO THE GROWTH OF OTHERS
Weekend Workshop
with SAMUEL CULBERT

Many of us are looking for new ways to use ourselves more effectively in contributing to the growth and learning of others. This workshop will aim for the participant's greater connection with his personal power as he helps others in their own self-exploration. Focus will be on the variety of interpersonal connections that lead to growth and fuller realization of man's potential. The workshop would be of special interest to those in the helping professions but is open to anyone.

$70 per person

SAMUEL A. CULBERT, Ph.D., is employed in Washington, D.C. by the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science. He divides his time between professional development, direction of the Institute's Intern Programs, and the Organizational Studies Center, where he is consultant to a number of industrial, religious and government organizations.

May 16-18
THE MARRIAGE ART
Weekend Workshop
with RUSSELL LEE, FRIEDA PORAT and STAN MAYERSON

Marriage can be seen as the most complex art form that human beings have created. As in any art form, the creation can degenerate into routine cliches, petty repetitions, stifling boredom, and sterile stalemate—or it can soar into the "turned on" heights of struggle and surrender, explosion and resolution, and ecstasy and calm. Also in marriage, as in any art form, we must deal with the most crucial paradoxes: e.g. (1) conflict and cooperation, (2) rational understanding and emotional reaction, (3) complementarity and individuality, (4) commitment and freedom.

In this workshop for couples and lovers, we use a variety of verbal and non-verbal encounter methods to break the stalemate and replace it with excitement. As in Greek drama, the group will become the vehicle for describing the dilemma, analyzing the communication blocks, getting feedback and struggling toward fuller life.

$70 per person

A. RUSSELL LEE, M.D., a psychiatrist, is a pioneer in Family and Group Therapy. He is co-author of Interpersonal Perception and Director of the Institute for Group and Family Studies, Palo Alto, California.

FRIEDA PORAT is a licensed marriage counselor in private practice, Palo Alto. She conducts marathons regularly, utilizing non-verbal techniques, art and body movement in her encounter groups. She is a member of the Institute for Group and Family Studies, Palo Alto.

STAN MAYERSON has been on the staff of the Counselling Center at Stanford University and is a member of the Institute for Group and Family Studies, Palo Alto.

PRESENT AND FUTURE
5-Day Workshop
with ARTHUR SHEDLIN

An exploratory encounter group structured to examine our personal values, goals and life meaning as we see them at present—with the major objective of planning for the future.

$180 per person

ARTHUR SHEDLIN has been personally and professionally interested in the being and becoming of people for the past thirty years. He has taught, counseled and consulted in universities (University of Chicago and University of California, Los Angeles), in industry and in government. He is now a faculty member of the Behavioral Science area of the Graduate School of Business Administration at UCLA.

May 18-23
A WEEK
with BABA RAM DASS
(formerly Dr. Richard Alpert)

Five days of theory and practice in Ashtanga yoga (eight-limbed yoga) also known as Raja yoga. This eclectic approach to higher consciousness includes methods for purification of the body and mind. These make available from within one's body the energy and discipline necessary to achieve moksha (liberation). There will be extensive consideration of adaptation of methods for Westerners of 1969 . . . both those who have and those who have not had previous transcendental experience. Because Raja yoga includes Jnana, Bhakti, Karma and Hatha yogas, each participant will be assisted in finding that methodological emphasis suitable to him.

$180 per person

Richard Alpert has been on the faculties of Stanford, Harvard and the University of California. His search has led from the academic to the psychedelic to the traditional (but obscured) mystical practices of the East.

In 1967 Dr. Alpert started by Land Rover in Iran in search of men who might still retain the keys to the knowledge of enlightenment. Finally his search found fruit in relationship to a Master of Raja Yoga. He returns to the United States as BABA RAM DASS.

May 23-25
EXPLORING THE SACRED IN THE COMMON
Weekend Workshop with SAM and HEATHER KEEN

Making use of reflection, movement, fantasy and relationship, this workshop will seek to uncover the roots of the sacred in everyday experience. We will work with various moods, feelings and attitudes which have been traditionally connected with religious experience (mystery, wonder, awe, respect, reverence, judgment, succor, validation) to open to the ways in which religious affections can still be native to our experience of our bodies, the world of nature and our interpersonal relationships. Limited to 14 participants.

$70 per person (continued)

SAM KEEN holds graduate degrees in theology and philosophy from Harvard and Princeton Universities. He is the author of Gabriel Marcel and a forthcoming book Apology for Wonder and is presently exploring the outlines of a Dionysian theology in a new book, Libations to a Dancing God. Currently Professor of Philosophy and Christian Faith at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary, he has become increasingly concerned with digging beneath the words of religious and non-religious ideologies to discover the experiences which function to support human dignity and the awareness of the sacredness of life.

HEATHER KEEN has worked in the field of dance for sixteen years as teacher, choreographer and therapist, using dance to encourage people to discover the wonder of themselves, each other, and the world around them. She received her training with Barbara Mettler and has been director of liturgical dance groups associated with Marsh Chapel, Boston University, and with Princeton and Louisville Presbyterian Seminaries. More recently she has become interested in the therapeutic aspects of dance and has worked as a dance therapist at Norton Infirmary and Central State Hospital in Louisville.

CREATIVE, PSYCHOTIC AND ECSTATIC STATES
Weekend Workshop
with ROLAND FISCHER
and JULIAN SILVERMAN

Dr. Fischer describes his seminar as follows: "Normal, creative, schizophrenic, and mystical-ecstatic states are conceived on a continuum of increasingly higher central nervous system arousal. These levels are experienced in terms of increasing data content and increasing rate of data processing, which may result in a creative, hallucinatory, artistic or religious state. Eventually, however, the rate of processing cannot keep step with the ever-increasing data content—'the torrential flood of inner sensation'—and results in the schizophrenic 'jammed computer' state. At the peak of ecstatic states, interpretive activity ceases, or in biocybernetic terminology, there is no data content from without, and, therefore, no rate of data processing from within, the only content of the experience at the height of rapture being the reflection of the mystic in his own 'program'.

"Creative experiences are basically hallucinatory in nature and can be regarded as symbolic interpretations of one's own central nervous system activity. These experiences can be characterized in terms of: (1) increasing sensory to motor ratios which imply a gradual blocking of the intention and ability of the individual to verify his intense sensory experiences through voluntary motor performance; (2) by a transition from Aristotelian to multi-valued (symbolic) logic; and (3) by an increasingly geometric-ornamental or manneristic style which corresponds with the nonconventional representation found in much schizophrenic art."

$70 per person

JULIAN SILVERMAN, Esalen's Research Director, will be available to comment on Dr. Fischer's research in relation to his own in the same areas.

ROLAND FISCHER, Ph.D., initiated research into the staining behavior of cell membranes and biological research on schizophrenia, studying what he termed drug-induced "model psychoses." He is Professor in the Department of Psychiatry, Division of Behavioral and Neurobiological Sciences, and Associate Professor in the Department of Pharmacology, Ohio State University. He has published over 160 research papers in the following areas: cell membrane-and-receptor-models; gustatory chemoreception and pharmacogenetics; biological aspects of normal and pathological behavior; "model psychoses"; psychopharmacological aspects of time and space; and mechanisms and perceptual-behavioral correlates of central nervous system excitation and depression. He represents the U.S. on a Board of the International Society for Psychopathology and Artistic Expression.

ENCOUNTER GAMES
Weekend Workshop
with RICHARD FARSON

This workshop will explore ways in which approaches in the field of simulation and gaming, psychodrama, sociometry, hypnosis, sensory awareness, etc., can be made a part of the basic encounter group to provide a more intensive, enjoyable, productive experience for the participant. Hopefully, the benefits of the group can be more lasting because the participants will have had an opportunity to re-invent their futures, to set new goals, to plan new ways in which they can alter their environments to elicit what they want to see in themselves.

$70 per person

RICHARD FARSON is Co-Founder and Chairman of the Board of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California, which is conducting pioneer research in the dynamics of social change and new educational methods such as non-directed encounter groups and simulation games. He is a social psychologist who has lectured at Harvard University and the University of Chicago. He edited Science and Human Affairs and has written extensively on sensitivity training, small group processes, education and the future.

May 30-June 1
THEATRE OF ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop
with ALEC RUBIN

An encounter group using new theatre techniques, this workshop will include verbal and non-verbal moment to moment confrontation, games and exercises evoking the expression of what's locked inside, body sounds and rhythms, flaying, beating, holding, being still, falling, hiding, "sounding" the body, tearing apart, coming together, being with. Its aims will be to open perception, unify opposite feelings and allow a free-flow of feeling and action.

$70 per person

For reservation information, see page 36.

THEATRE OF ENCOUNTER
(continued)

ALEC RUBIN is a movement therapist, encounter group leader, acting teacher and director. He was trained at the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy and influenced by the methods of gestalt, F. M. Alexander, Stanislavsky, Strasberg, Grotowski, Graham, Gindler, and Reich. He taught theatre and movement at Bennington, Cornell, N.Y.U., the Living Theatre, and the Actors Studio, and leads experiential church services and on-going groups on Long Island, where he is also involved in an Upward Bound program with the black community of Wyandanch. He just returned from Australia, where he introduced workshops in awareness and encounter to therapists and students in universities, clinics, and churches. He is director of Theatre of Encounter, a workshop for actors, playwrights and audiences in New York.

June 1-27
A FOUR-WEEK WORKSHOP
with JOHN HEIDER
and STEVEN STROUD

Participants will receive intensive exposure to many of the most promising growth techniques that have been distilled from the Esalen Institute Resident Programs and from the work of the group led by William C. Schutz which has developed the open-ended encounter group approach used in the "More Joy" workshops.

This approach originally rested on small-group encounter. More recently it has been expanded to include meditation, a wide variety of body and sensory awareness disciplines, and specific training in visual and auditory receptivity and imagery. The goal, as yet unrealized, is to develop an American Tao, or Way, of life-long growth.

This program, unlike most shorter workshops, will emphasize integration of verbal and non-verbal experience through readings and discussion. During the four weeks, members will meet with the leaders for two sessions each week day. Evenings and weekends will be free for reading, bathing, hiking, as you wish. Participants will be encouraged to develop and experiment with their own approaches within the group; training in leading exercises will be provided for those interested.

$800 per person
Non-refundable deposit of $400 due before May 15

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., is a Director of the Esalen Institute Resident Program. He has done research on the effects of meditation on perception. He is particularly interested in the role which Esalen plays as a crossroads for many diverse elements of the Human Potential Movement; and he views himself as a natural philosopher working toward integrations of such practices as dance, meditation, sensory awakening and the adventure of encounter.

STEVEN A. STROUD, a past resident fellow at Esalen in Big Sur, is a Director of the Esalen Institute Resident Program. He leads groups at Stanford and Santa Cruz Universities, Esalen, Big Sur, and in the Bay Area. He has had special training with Dr. Bernard Aaronson in hypnosis and related fields.

June 1-6
PSYCHODRAMA FOR EXPANDING AWARENESS
5-Day Workshop
with CARL HOLLANDER and SUE DODSON

Our potentials are limited by our own blindness to the resources within us. This workshop is based on the belief that expansion of one's awareness of self and world opens life's choices, deepens relationships with self and others, and frees one's potential. The workshop is designed for both couples and individuals. Action techniques—psychodrama, sociometry and body awareness—will be the tools used in this experiential workshop.

$180 per person

CARL HOLLANDER is a director of psychodrama, sociometry and group psychotherapy certified and trained at the Moreno Academy in New York. He is the director of the Evergreen Institute for Human Development and Family Growth, Evergreen, Colorado. He consults and trains in psychodrama throughout the country.

SUE DODSON is a family therapist in practice in Denver, Colorado. She is a residential staff member of the Evergreen Institute, where she leads seminars for couples and families and seminars in psychodrama. She has trained with Virginia Satir and is a psychiatric social worker.

June 1-6
RITUALS OF TRANSFORMATION
with SEYMOUR CARTER
and RON ACCIOLA

Rituals are energy organizing and directing ways for life-stage changes. Rituals of possession by demon or god, purification ceremonies and rites of passage are some of the methods used by primitive cultures to evoke, express and amplify their being. The underlying strata of the psyche contain these archetypal and ritualistic forms.

This workshop will utilize ritual forms as they emerge from the group process and will amplify them for personal transformation. Limited to those who have had some meditation experience.

$180 per person

SEYMOUR CARTER is a staff member of Esalen Institute and claims to be or to have been a drug user, village idiot, thief, madman, carny, masseur and shaman.

RON ACCIOLA is a poet, musician, singer, drummer, mountain mystic and shaman.

June 8-13
I CHING,
a Guide to Oracle Imagery,
and TAI CHI,
a Way of Centering
5-Day Workshop
with GIA-FU FENG
and MARSHALL HO

This workshop will include intensive sessions on several forms of Tai Chi, with discussion of the I Ching (which Gia-fu has retranslated) and its relationship to imagery and the martial arts. Gia-fu describes Tai Chi as "a form of meditation in movement, a way of centering aiming at sensory-motoric awareness and body alignment. It is a bridge between Eastern meditation and Western psychotherapy."

$180 per person

MARSHALL HO is an instructor of Chinese Physical Culture. He studied Tai Chi under the master Choy Hok Pang, who introduced Tai Chi to this country. He was awarded the black belt in Judo from Master T. Hagio, Seventh Dan, Kodokan. He teaches these arts in Los Angeles. (continued)

I CHING and TAI CHI

GIA-FU FENG teaches Tai Chi, Calligraphy and Shiatsutherapy at Esalen and Stillpoint in Los Gatos. With Professor Jerome Kirk of the University of California at Irvine he has retranslated the I Ching (Book of Changes) from the Chinese. He is publishing a book with MacMillan entitled I Ching, A Guide to Oracle Imagery, and Tai Chi, a Way of Centering.

June 8-13
MASSAGE
AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop
with SEYMOUR CARTER

An intensive but relaxing week of learning massage and meditation. There will be early morning (7:30-8:30) and late afternoon (5:30-6:00) periods of meditation, and morning sessions (9:30-12:30) of instruction in the Esalen style of massage. Afternoons (2-5) will be spent in practice sessions. Discussion and encounter (6:00-8:00) will develop the feelings that may arise from meditation and massage. This approach to massage consists of a combination of sensory awakening—involving all the senses—and deeper muscular massage. The attitudes of affirmation and caring and the release of emotions will be emphasized.

Couples are encouraged to attend so they can continue to massage each other at home. All participants should bring alarm clocks in order to awake for early meditation; they should also plan to arrive in time to eat dinner before an 8:00 evening session on Sunday and try to stay through 5:00 p.m. on Friday.

$180 per person

SEYMOUR CARTER is a massage specialist at Esalen, trained by Molly Day Schackman. He is a leader of Esalen's "More Joy" workshops and has extensive experience leading encounter groups in Big Sur, the Bay Area, and New York. He is a former member of Synanon.

REALITY AND ILLUSION:
LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
7-Day Workshop
with GEORGE I.
and JUDITH BROWN

This workshop will be mostly experiential with an emphasis on principles of Gestalt Therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship.

Growth toward maturity is inhibited by fear of change and the unknown. Fantasied catastrophies are created by our "fine minds" at the prospect of moving into the adventure of new experience. And instead of moving into each moment—as Perls says—as a fresh experience, we cling to the status quo, to a cardboard existence; and thus we die long before we cease breathing. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness followed by Gestalt Awareness Training.

7-Day Workshop
with DICK MILLER and LARRY BLOOMBERG

In describing this workshop, Drs. Bloomberg and Miller write: "We are excited by our work. Our groups, like our participants, are enjoyable, threatening, hectic, peaceful, humorous, earnest—rarely empty and often satisfying. We believe in growth as a way of life. We use our skill to clear a space where all may experience and experiment. We are tired of writing up blurbs for brochures that may entice you to participate. You are invited to make this workshop an experience with us."

pist committed to openness, authenticity and intimacy in interpersonal relationships.

LAWRENCE I. BLOOMBERG, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and Gestalt psychotherapist involved in fostering the widest community support for deeply exciting relationships among people.

DICK MILLER and LARRY BLOOMBERG are directors of the Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy, San Francisco, where they are involved in developing innovations in marital, family and group psychotherapy. Multiple therapy refers to the concurrent use of two or more therapists in all therapeutic encounters. They are both Training Therapists and on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute.

I CHING,
a Guide to Oracle Imagery,
and TAI CHI,
a Way of Centering
7-Day Workshop
with GIA-FU FENG

This workshop will include intensive sessions on several forms of Tai Chi, with discussions of the I Ching (which Gia-fu has retranslated) and its relationship to imagery and the martial arts. Gia-fu describes Tai Chi as "a form of meditation in movement, a way of centering aiming at sensory-motoric awareness and body alignment. It is a bridge between Eastern meditation and Western psychotherapy."

$225 per person

GIA-FU FENG teaches Tai Chi, Calligraphy and Shiatsutherapy at Esalen and Stillpoint in Los Gatos. With Professor Jerome Kirk of the University of California at Irvine he has retranslated the I Ching (Book of Changes) from the Chinese. He is publishing a book with MacMillan entitled I Ching, a Guide to Oracle Imagery, and Tai Chi, a Way of Centering.

INSIGHT AND OUTLOOK
7-Day Workshop
with HUSTON and ELEANOR SMITH

Shared reflection on five brief texts—Asian and Western: philosophical, psychological, and religious: Tillich, Kierkegaard, Buber, Rogers, Zen—in an effort to get at the words they speak to each participant at his present life-juncture. Encounter group exercises and "kindergarten Zen" will be used to induce thought to connect, more than it usually does, with feelings and experience.

$225 per person, including books

HUSTON SMITH is Professor of Philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His birth and childhood in China produced a life-long interest in philosophical anthropology, comparative philosophy, and comparative religion, while his present post calls for special attention to the relation between science and the humanities. He is author of The Religions of Man; Condemned to Meaning; and The Purposes of Higher Education. ELEANOR SMITH, his wife, is a psychiatric social worker at the Newton Mental Health Center.

TRAINING WORKSHOP FOR AFFECTIVE LEARNING AND HUMANISTIC EDUCATION
7-Day Workshop
with GEORGE I. BROWN & FORD-ESALEN STAFF

Note: A similar 7-day workshop with the same staff is offered August 24-31.

This workshop will cover the following:

1. Descriptions, theory and practice in the affective domain: (a) nonverbal communication, (b) dyadic interpersonal relationship, (c) group process, (d) group leadership, (e) sensory awakening, (f) existential and humanistic psychology based on the Gestalt Therapy of Fritz Perls.

2. Descriptions, theory and individual planning for the workshop participant in the teaching or leadership role with the material contained in no. 1.

3. The integration of affective learning with cognitive or intellectual dimensions of learning: (a) through personal application to the workshop participant's own teaching level or area, (b) through examination of the text Now: The Human Dimension, (c) through common interest or area group planning in the workshop.

The workshop is appropriate for teachers and instructors at elementary, secondary and university levels, church-affiliated leaders, social workers and others professionally concerned with human relationships.

WORLD MYTHOLOGY AND THE INDIVIDUAL ADVENTURE
7-Day Workshop
with JOSEPH CAMPBELL

A week of formal lectures and informal discussions around the pivotal theme of mythology as a guide to the fashioning of an individual life. The archetypes of traditional mythologies—primitive and developed, Oriental and Occidental—will be systematically presented for unsystematic consideration in relation to the interests of the individuals participating in the workshop. Individual dreams may be explored in relation to creative myth formation. There will probably be two two-hour sessions a day.

$225 per person

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with A Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer, as well as the five Bollingen volumes of Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks. He has been a member of the Literature Department of Sarah Lawrence College since 1934 and a lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State, Washington, D.C., since 1956.

August 10-17
MOVEMENT AND NATURE
7-Day Workshop
with JEAN ERDMAN

Holding the mirror up to nature, we find that the simple act of walking contains in seed state the whole art of the dance. Symmetry arises out of the steady right-left alternation of the feet, and the constant pulse beat of the heart gives rise to the first level of rhythm. From breathing comes a sense of phrase and asymmetrical balance, of emotional rhythm and the importance of the torso. From the natural (animal) stance comes the basic orientation to space, and through the dynamic imagery of rhythmed movement one touches the experience of dance as communication.

The movement sessions of this week will be devoted to discovering and utilizing the seven key control centers of all movement and stillness and to extending the ranges of natural movement toward the expressivity of dance.

The group will probably meet for one long session each day, with sufficient free time for bathing, swimming and the Big Sur sea and mountains. Some of Joseph Campbell's evening lectures will be open to the group. JEAN ERDMAN is Mrs. Joseph Campbell.

ENCOUNTERING IN THE HIGH SIERRAS
7-Day Outdoor Workshop with WALT ANDERSON and DAN HOLLAND

This workshop, which will be held in the High Sierras, is designed to explore the experience of sensory awakening, meditation, psychodrama and group encounter in a spectacular mountain setting. The group will meet at a designated roadhead point early Sunday, hike to the campsite, and return the following Saturday. Mountaineering experience is not required, but applicants should be capable of some moderate hiking. Details will be supplied on application.

$75 per person

WALT ANDERSON is a member of the staff of the California Institute of Psychodrama in Los Angeles and a director of the Topanga Human Development Center. He also teaches part-time at San Fernando Valley State College.

DAN HOLLAND is a Sierra Club outings leader, a San Francisco architect, and a student of sensory awakening techniques.

THE OPEN COUPLE
7-Day Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will employ a variety of encounter techniques developed and refined at Esalen to explore the special relationship between man and woman. Activities will be drawn in part from a new book for couples by William C. Schutz (author of JOY, Grove Press, 1967) and Pamela Portugal.

$450 per couple

BETTY FULLER, a former Resident Fellow, is Director of Esalen's program of on-going encounter groups in San Francisco and Coordinator of the Consulting Service. In addition to her own groups and workshops, she has led couples' groups with Dr. Schutz and has contributed material to his new book.

TRUST, COMPASSION AND SELF-EXPLORATION
7-Day Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

In our rush to expose and express our inner nature we often neglect to fully explore the good, the beautiful and divine in ourselves. This workshop, through a series of increasingly more involving exercises, will begin to train our awareness in some of these areas. We will treat ourselves and each other gently since gentleness promotes both healing and growth.

The workshop will include several days of lectures and exercises designed to establish a higher and more accurate self-concept. Each person will individually explore and redefine his goals and limitations.

$225 per person

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at San Francisco State College and at Brandeis University. He has written a film series for instructional television, is an editor of several journals, writes a column for a medical journal and is a consultant to industrial and educational institutions.

SELF-AWARENESS THROUGH ART
7-Day Workshop
with FRITZ FAISS

Using various creative media to transform a person's inner world into a visual form, Fritz Faiss leads each participant to those images and forms that live within him and influence his daily life. As these are projected to an outer awareness, it is possible to move toward a new harmony and balance within. Using art materials, Mr. Faiss makes use of colors, structures and drawings to develop self-awareness, awaken creativity and promote movement toward a wholeness and the fusion of opposites. He places special emphasis on breathing, meditation and mantras as his founding processes. His approach makes use of Goethe's color theory and the investigations into images of the subconscious as explored by Carl Jung. No previous art experience is necessary to participate; group is limited to 15 to provide individual attention.

$225 per person

FRITZ FAISS studied at the Bauhaus under Klee and Kandinski and with Rudolph Steiner; he was also active for many years at the Evangelische Akadamie in Germany. His works have been shown in most major cities of Europe and may now be found in private collections and museums throughout Europe and America. He has taught at UCLA, the Westland School and the Ottis Art Institute; he is presently teaching at San Fernando State College.

A CRAFT WORKSHOP
7-Day Workshop
with the GUILD OF HANDS

This workshop will consist of individual and group work in a variety of materials and techniques, with emphasis on ways of bringing natural, inherent form to the fullest possible expression. Informal evening discussions will explore the role of simple, creative work as an aid in developing self-reliance (advocated by Gandhi in the Hind Swaraj, or home rule) as a counteraction to the pressures in modern society toward dependency and conformity.

BREAKTHROUGH AND INTEGRATION
5-Day Workshop
with FREDERICK STOLLER

New behavioral trends and new vistas for the self have become demonstrably feasible given the individual's capacity for risk-taking and the appropriate opportunity, such as the intensive group experience. Integrating such breakthroughs into new life directions is much less predictable, depending upon the person's life circumstances and the resources available to him. This workshop is an experimental attempt to broaden and deepen new perspective developed by participants. It will consist of three phases: (1) a marathon involving the use of videotape and photographic techniques; (2) a totally different activity to be devised by the participants; and (3) a shorter intensive group encounter oriented toward integrating the experience.

$225 per person, including marathon

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, currently senior research associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, has been one of the principal pioneers in the development of the marathon group and one of the prime innovators in the use of videotape feedback in the group setting. Leader of a broad range of marathon groups and workshops, Dr. Stoller's written contributions are growing, two of his important papers appearing in Gazda's Innovations to Group Psychotherapy (Thomas). A novel about a marathon group, The Lemon Eaters by Jerry Sohl (Dell), has been based upon his work.

BREATHING AND AWARENESS
5-Day Workshop
with MAGDA PROSKAUER

A workshop involving various breathing techniques and exercises in awareness. Mrs. Proskauer's approach educates awareness of somatic processes which are normally unconscious or semi-conscious. In an extended workshop of this kind, participants can achieve more relaxation and awareness than they are able to in brief sessions.

$180 per person

MAGDA PROSKAUER is a graduate of the University of Munich, Germany, and received a degree in physiotherapy from the University of Munich Medical School. While working in Europe she was influenced by various new schools of psycho-physical therapy. She has a private practice in body awareness and breathing therapy in San Francisco.

GESTALT THERAPY AND AWARENESS TRAINING PROGRAMS

Gestalt Training, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

PROGRAMS IN SENSORY AWAKENING WITH BERNARD GUNTHER

BEING OPEN
Weekend Workshop

There is a feeling energy flow, which gives a glow to the dull verbal mechanical habit that most people call reality. This alive open awareness, which we have been taught to shut off, can be returned-on when we let go of excessive conditioned tension, stop playing certain personality games and become sensitive to the full depth of our being.

In this Sensory Awakening weekend we will use different forms of sensory meditation as well as both verbal and non-verbal communication to discover and unlearn this blockage, so that we can reopen ourselves to fuller being.

SENSORY AWAKENING FOR COUPLES
7-Day Workshop

We often allow our most intimate relationships to become static and routine. Habit replaces contact and we rarely experience the other person or the vast possibilities which might be shared. Fixed concepts and excessive tension are major reasons for such closed-offness. In this sensory awakening workshop for couples (not necessarily married) we will explore relaxation, awareness, massage, and sensory encounter as means for opening to one another.

$450 per couple

August 25-28 – San Francisco
SENSORY AWAKENING IN THE CHURCH
4-Day Workshop

Sensory Awakening is a non-verbal approach to awareness that tends to lessen excessive tension, verbalization, mechanization and alienation, creating an open feeling of warm meditative flow in the here and now. This experimental 4-day workshop will explore the possibilities of using the insights and techniques of this sensory approach in the context of religious experience. In discussing each other's needs, the workshop participants will attempt to create new forms of ritual and worship. They will take part in Mr. Gunther's version of the ancient customs of meditation, the laying on of hands, the washing of feet, the breaking of bread and wholly communion.

This program is intended especially for clergymen, seminarians and laymen interested in religious renewal but is open to everyone.

$55 per person
7 to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday, August 25-28

BERNARD GUNTHER is one of the pioneers in the use of touch, relaxation, body awareness and non-verbal communication in the total growth process. For the past five years he has been a resident staff member of the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, where he has developed his own approach to massage, meditation and mind/body/environment integration known as Sensory Awakening. Many of his innovations are now being used in educational, religious and therapeutic situations through the United States. He is the author of the best-selling book SENSE RELAXATION (MacMillan-Collier, 1968).

7-Day Workshop
with J. STANLEY JOHNSON

In this workshop, Ida Rolf's structural approach to the body will be presented with a changing exploration of body awareness, body organization and the sense of self. Drs. Johnson and Maupin, who have been trained in the Rolf technique, will carry out two sessions of Rolf processing on each participant.

$260 per person

J. STANLEY JOHNSON, physician, Big Sur and Los Angeles, has been trained in Structural Integration by Dr. Ida P. Rolf.

EDWARD MAUPIN, Ph.D., is an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, and is a Director of the Esalen Resident Program. He was formerly at the Neuropsychiatric Institute, UCLA. In his work he draws upon a wide variety of approaches to body awareness, including methods derived from Wilhelm Reich, Alexander Lowen, Ida Rolf, Mary Whitehouse and the psycho-physical disciplines of various religious and esoteric traditions, such as Tantric Yoga and Christian Mysticism.

PROGRAMS WITH CLAUDIO NARANJO

TRADITIONAL SADHANAS IN A CONTEMPORARY PERSPECTIVE

Sadhana is a Sanskrit term for a liberating discipline that is pursued for the sake of the individual's spiritual goal. This may be an art, a form of meditation, a style of life—practically anything: for it is the nature of the quest that defines it rather than the form of a given activity. The lack of an adequate equivalent for this term in our language indicates the loss in our culture of such liberating disciplines. The word is useful for designating what Esalen stands for in its attempt to bring together disciplines that show promise of forming a contemporary education for transcendence.

Dr. Naranjo believes that there is an essential unity among religions and a common psychological experience underlying apparently contradictory schools and techniques of psychotherapy. He believes that psychotherapy, the spiritual disciplines and education are basically concerned with a single process of human development—or else they are fossilized remnants of that process.

In recent publications ("The Way and Goals of Human Transformation" and "A Phenomenological Approach to Underlying Processes in Psychotherapy and Spiritual Disciplines") Claudio Naranjo has put forward the claim of a hidden identity among the numerous "ways of growth," old and new, physical and psychological, religious and secular. In his programs at Esalen he is attempting to complement such theoretical formulation with a panorama of experiences, hopefully leading to greater awareness of that essence from which all these approaches—as well as our daily actions—derive meaning.

One of the functions of these workshops is to offer each person the opportunity to explore a wide range of experience which may help him determine which approach holds greater promise for his individual nature, his specific difficulties, abilities and needs. All the Big Sur programs involve a combination of Gestalt Awareness Training—itself a highly synthetic product of contemporary psychotherapy—with practices derived from traditional spiritual disciplines.

SELF-AWARENESS THROUGH MEDITATION, PSYCHOTHERAPY AND DAILY LIFE
7-Day Workshop

Most forms of meditation constitute an exercise of awareness in stillness and isolation. Psychotherapy, and especially the Gestalt approach, calls for awareness directed at an interpersonal situation. Other practices involve an attempt at sustained awareness throughout the activities of the day, so that each movement and every event may become an occasion for self-discovery and development. All three approaches will be combined in this workshop.

WORKSHOPS WITH WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

These workshops will continue to explore and develop the ideas presented in Dr. Schutz's book JOY. Of emerging special interest are multiple approaches to the body and the integration of body and feelings at all levels. Another direction of interest is the application of the JOY methods to social problems and political behavior; for example, running a political campaign based on openness and honesty and using encounter techniques to elicit votes and/or feedback from the electorate and to explore the ongoing workings of the government. Each presentation will focus on one issue and will usually involve participation as well as discussion and demonstration.

MORE JOY WORKSHOPS

These workshops, which originated with William C. Schutz, are designed, in part, to help each participant expand the limits of his self-concept, more fully realize his potential, and in so doing, to experience joy. Group leaders integrate a wide variety of approaches developed or refined at Esalen to help participants be more aware of what is real for them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. These approaches include non-verbal, fantasy, dramatic and gestalt methods; meditation; yoga; massage and creativity techniques. Each workshop may include a group especially for couples.

Leadership of these workshops rotates among leaders especially selected, trained and supervised by William C. Schutz. In addition to carrying on the basic orientation of the More Joy workshops, this group leads workshops at Esalen and elsewhere in the country.

WORKSHOP LEADERS

SEYMOUR CARTER, a former member of Synanon, is director of Esalen's Massage and Meditation workshops.

BETTY FULLER, Resident Fellow 1967-68, has a Master's degree in dramatic arts and professional experience in stage and TV direction and acting. She is Coordinator of the Consulting Service and Esalen's program of on-going Encounter Groups in the San Francisco Bay Area.

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., co-director of the Esalen Resident Program, holds a Doctorate in Psychology. He is conducting research into meditation and other Eastern methods. He also was a Resident Fellow in 1967-68.

SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER, Associate in Residence, holds her Master's degree in Special Education and is experienced as a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and adults.

STUART MILLER, Ph.D., who holds his Doctorate in Comparative Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. Dr. Miller is Esalen's Director of Development and a former Resident Fellow.

STEVEN STROUD, a former Resident Fellow, is an Associate in Residence and co-leader of Esalen's Resident Programs. He was a Peace Corps member, serving in India. Steven has special training in hypnosis and altered states of consciousness, especially as applied to encounter.

SPECIAL ASSISTANTS

ANNE HEIDER is a specialist in Moving Meditation and Tai Chi Chuan. A former Resident Fellow and Woodrow Wilson scholar, she holds a Master's degree in Musicology.

PAMELA PORTUGAL, specialist in Yoga, is also a former Resident Fellow. She served with the Peace Corps in Nepal. She is co-author with Dr. Schutz of a forthcoming book on encounter experiences for couples.

PROGRAMS AT STANFORD: Programs similar to those described in this brochure are being held in the Stanford University-Palo Alto area under the sponsorship of a group of Stanford students and faculty. Non-students and non-faculty members may attend these programs. They usually cost $15 or $17.50 per weekend. For further information contact: Martine Boot, 57 Homer Lane, Menlo Park 94025, telephone (415) 854-5681.

RESIDENT PROGRAM: Plans for the 1969-70 Esalen Resident Program were not finalized at the time of this brochure's publication. Applications and information on dates, costs, format, etc., may be obtained by writing: RESIDENT PROGRAM, Esalen Institute, Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE: Esalen is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups, and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops.

We have designed programs and provided experienced leaders for various community, governmental, religious, industrial and educational groups. Our work with educational institutions has been especially active; Esalen-type weekends now involve hundreds of students in on-going programs at Stanford University and elsewhere.

If you are interested, write Betty Fuller, Esalen Consulting Service, Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors.

ALDOUS HUXLEY RECORD SERIES: The original addresses by Aldous Huxley which described the human potential and inspired the founding of Esalen Institute are now obtainable. Produced from live recordings of his lecture hall talks, LP records of this first series of ALDOUS HUXLEY on "The Human Situation" include such titles as Human Potentialities, Visionary Experience, etc. For further details of titles and cost, inquire through: Big Sur Recordings, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921.

TAPE RECORDINGS FROM ESALEN INSTITUTE: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are now available. This is not a service in lieu of attendance, but is for individuals and organizations to whom recordings of significant past lectures and seminars, and training tapes of workshop techniques and methods, are of particular value. This applies to professional and non-professional organizations, departments in educational institutions, libraries, religious bodies, and individuals with private tape collections.

The recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from which a complete list may be secured by writing to the address opposite.

RECENT ADDITIONS TO RECORDINGS FROM ESALEN INSTITUTE:

JOSEPH CAMPBELL: Imagery of Vision in the Novels of James Joyce. Dr. Campbell reads and discusses James Joyce in relation to Oriental mythology, Greek mythology, Freud, Jung, Irish mythology, Dante, the Old Testament, schizophrenia, etc.—ten or twelve interwoven levels (8 hours-Stereo or Mono).

FRANCIS STORY: The Scientific Study of Reincarnation. Children who remember minute details of previous lives are shaking the Western conviction that "reincarnation is only an Oriental myth" (4 hours-Mono only).

VIRGINIA SATIR: Conjoint Family Therapy. A fast-flowing series of psychodrama approaches to help people become aware of and outgrow destructive "games" played by families: Didactic lectures and discussion (5 hours - Stereo or Mono); Experiential demonstration of methods (9 hours - Stereo or Mono).

ABRAHAM MASLOW: Development of the Eupsychian Community. Discussions with Abe Maslow on how to carry the peak experiences and the "high" of the encounter group into everyday life (6 hours - Stereo or Mono).

RALPH METZNER: from the "Ecological Awareness" Lecture Series: Ecology in Biological Evolution (2 hours - Mono only); Insights from Gurdjieff (2 hours - Mono only); Wilhelm Reich and Orgone Energies (2 hours - Mono only).

BISHOP JAMES A. PIKE: A New Look at Christian Origins. Since the Dead Sea Scrolls, more discoveries and research lead to new interpretation of events surrounding the birth of Christianity—reassessing the historical Jesus, influence of the Essenes, Jesus' role in the resistance movement, role of his brother and immediate family, and Paul's influence (8 hours - Stereo or Mono).

ALAN WATTS: Whose is the Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory? Does it belong to God, to mankind as a species, to you—does it exist? Temporal power and spiritual authority; and the idea that there is someone who really knows what should be done! (4 hours - Mono only).

BABA RAM DASS (RICHARD ALPERT): The Transformation of Man. The self-told history of a young college professor at Harvard who traveled through the psychedelic revolution and continued on a literal "Journey to the East" in search of evidence of the lasting experience of illumination (3 hours - Mono only).

The cost of tape recordings is $7.50 per hour (California residents add 5% sales tax). Please state preference for stereo or mono. Check must accompany order. Write check to and mail your order to: BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921. A complete list of currently available recordings will be sent to you with your order.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

SAN FRANCISCO LECTURES: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Exact time and location of lectures will be printed on the tickets. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. (Any event may be cancelled if advance sales indicate insufficient interest).

SAN FRANCISCO SEMINARS AND WORKSHOPS:

RESERVATIONS: Advance registration is required for seminars and workshops; reservation deadline is one week prior to date of event. To register, send a $10 per person deposit with reservation form or letter to: Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. You will receive confirmation of registration by return mail. Balance of seminar fee is payable at the first meeting.

LOCATIONS: San Francisco seminars and workshops are held at local meeting places. These include the new facilities of the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco; St. Aidan's Church, 101 Goldmine Drive, San Francisco; and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic, Berkeley. If not specified in the brochure, participants will be informed of workshop location at the time of registration and confirmation.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. They are generally composed of one Friday evening session, two or three Saturday sessions, and one Sunday morning or afternoon session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Esalen Institute has no lodging facilities in San Francisco. Each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels and motels. Unless otherwise stated, meals are not provided at seminars and workshops.

MEMBER RATES: Contributing Members, $10 discount on all seminars and workshops, on-going encounter groups and racial confrontation marathons.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes, for men.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

Grounds are closed except by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. 7-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30 and end on the following Sunday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Pets, alas, are not welcome at all.

MEMBER RATES: Contributing Members, $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, $70 for 7-day workshops, all non-refundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks are able to furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds which will be acceptable.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—431-8771—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

SPECIAL INFORMATION: Contributions to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops.

Listener-sponsored radio station KPFA-FM in Berkeley broadcasts portions of Esalen seminars and lectures and provides a program guide. San Francisco television station KQED, Channel 9, has "Experiments With Esalen". Other radio stations broadcasting all or portions of Esalen events are: KFRC ("Perspectives" on Sunday evenings 10:00 to midnight), KPEN-FM ("University Seminars" Sunday evenings at 11:00 p.m.), and KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific, Stockton). A series of Esalen programs was broadcast over 40 educational radio stations under the title "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio, and several other series are in preparation under the title "Esalen Institute Presents"

Tape recordings of many seminars and lectures are available (see announcement on previous page).

Videotapes and 16 mm films of Dr. Perl's approach to Gestalt Therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis. For information write: MEDIASYNC, P. O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014.

Libraries and institutions with microfilm equipment may secure records of Esalen history, brochures and publications through: MICROBIZ, 590 Howard, San Francisco 94105.

SPECIAL NOTE: Esalen Brochures are published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a non-profit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy is available free upon request from the San Francisco office.

ESALEN INSTITUTE RESERVATION AND TICKET ORDER FORM

This form is for your convenience in preparing attendance at Esalen seminars, workshops and lectures. You may use it for either Big Sur or San Francisco area programs, although it is suggested that you make reservations independently at each location rather than place a "mixed" order. You will receive a new order form with your tickets or confirmation of reservations. Please do make reservations early; some seminars are booked to capacity months in advance.

Theological Reflection on The Human Potential

Co-sponsored with
The Division of Christian Life and Mission
NATIONAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES

In this series of workshops theologians and philosophers will participate in experiential sessions involving encounter groups, sensory awakening, gestalt awareness training and related disciplines and will then reflect upon their experience from a theological perspective. In the light of the workshop experience they will reflect upon such issues as the nature of God and man, liberation, redemption, God's will, creation and the good life.

The participating theologians and philosophers all share in the contemporary effort to ground theology and philosophy in human experience. For this reason the revelatory and growth-promoting experiences which such workshops facilitate are significant for their theological-philosophical inquiry. Conversely, the increasing experimentation with human potential may benefit greatly from theological reflection upon crucial experiences of change and growth.

Seven workshops in this series were run during the January-through-June period. The theologians participating in them were Sam Keen, Harvey Cox, Michael Novak, Bishop James Pike, Gordon Kaufman, John Cobb, William Hamilton, Richard Rubenstein, Brother Antoninus, Maurice Friedman and Bishop John A.T. Robinson. More workshops will be held during 1970 and will be described in the next Esalen Program. As the series go on, we will begin to include as leaders people who are not theologians in a formal sense but who are committed to the kind of religious inquiry which this series represents.

Workshops begin at dinner on Sunday and end after lunch on Friday, and will be held on Esalen premises, Big Sur. Robert Cromey, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions.

September 28-October 3: JOHN MAGUIRE and THE REVEREND ANDREW YOUNG
Registration: $180 per person

November 2-7: GERALD J. JUD and PHILIP A. ANDERSON
Registration: $180 per person

PHILIP A. ANDERSON, Ph.D., is Professor of Pastoral Theology at The Chicago Theological Seminary. He has been concerned for some years with helping the Church live up to its promise of transformation power for individuals and communities. His book, Church Meetings That Matter, relates group dynamic learnings and theology to the life of the local church. The renewal of the Church through the authentic encounter of persons has been a persistent theme of his teaching and of his work with ministers, churches and denominations.

GERALD J. JUD, Ph.D., is a General Secretary of the United Church of Christ, Board for Homeland Ministries and is concerned especially with updating the message and style of the local congregation. His books, Strengthening the Bonds, The Shape of Crisis and Tragedy, and Pilgrim's Process, are concerned with this updating imperative. He believes that the human potential movement has vast implications for the local church and makes extensive use of its methods in training conferences for clergy and lay leaders.

JOHN D. MAGUIRE is Associate Professor of Religion at Wesleyan University and Vice Chairman, Board of Directors, Martin Luther King Memorial Center in Atlanta. While teaching theology and history of religious thought, he also offers courses in the relationships of contemporary theology to modern literature and behavioral sciences. The relations between dogmatics and historical criticism have been of special interest to him. For 18 months, until June, 1968, Dr. Maguire was Associate Provost of Wesleyan and Director of the University's Study of Educational Policies and Programs, which resulted in a variety of educational innovations and a major reorganization of the University. An original "freedom rider", he was imprisoned briefly in May, 1961 in Montgomery for challenging segregated terminal facilities. A long-time friend of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., he was asked by Mrs. King, directly following the assassination to take the initiative in organizing a living memorial. He is a member of the Editorial Board and Board of Directors of the journal Christianity and Crisis and author of The Dance of the Pilgrim.

THE REVEREND ANDREW J. YOUNG, early in his career, was associated with the National Council of Churches' Youth Department. He was invited by the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., to become the Executive Director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Thus began a long and intimate association in which Mr. Young served as chief executive, principal architect and a prime participant in all of Dr. King's major campaigns. (With the exception of the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, Andrew Young was Dr. King's closest associate). He continues as SCLC's Executive Director and Vice President. Currently, he is at work on a volume critically evaluating the King years, especially assessing the method of direct nonviolent action.

ROBERT CROMEY, Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, will moderate the workshop discussions. He is working to combine the kinds of human potential approaches being developed by Esalen into programs at St. Aidan's and elsewhere in the religious community and into the institutions of society. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Sacred Theology from the General Theological Seminary in New York City.

THEOLOGICAL RESIDENCE PROGRAM

The Theological Residence Program has grown out of the Esalen Interdisciplinary Series on Religion. This more extended program is designed to give religious professionals an opportunity to sample a wide variety of growth-facilitating experiences and to reflect upon their theological significance. The methodology of this experiment will involve a continual interplay between experiential exploration and reflection. Some areas of exploration will be: body awareness and the sense of being, meditation disciplines, fantasy, the mythical foundations of individual and corporate identity, storytelling and the creation of personal history, remaining in the here and now, sexuality and identity, new forms of celebration, the art of surrender, discovering the sacred in I, Thou, It and We.

The program will be directed by Sam Keen, Ph.D. Dr. Keen holds graduate degrees in theology and philosophy from Harvard and Princeton. He is the author of Gabriel Marcel and Apology for Wonder (Harper & Row) and is currently exploring the outlines of a Dionysian theology in a new book Libations to a Dancing God. He has previously been associated with Esalen's Interdisciplinary Series on Religion and has been professor of philosophy and Christian faith at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. Dr. Keen is currently a post-doctoral fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in La Jolla.

The program will be staffed by Richard McKenna, Th.D., Edward Maupin, Ph.D., Heather Keen, Robert Gerard, Ph.D. and Michael Murphy, and possibly other Esalen associates.

The program will be held at the Big Sur facilities of Esalen Institute beginning Sunday, January 4 and ending Friday, January 30, 1970. Enrollment is limited to a total of ten theologians and other religious professionals; early registration is encouraged to assure a place. For application and further information write to: Theological Residence Program, Esalen Institute, P. O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

I.
Searching for the Ox.

The illustrations for this program feature Zen's famous Ten Ox-Herding Pictures. A master of the Sung, Kaku-an, first painted the series of ten which, with accompanying texts and poems, demonstrate his teachings on the progress toward enlightenment. Many versions exist, often gathered into books. Those used here are by Shubun, XV Century Zen priest . . . . The heading on page 6 is a detail from a hand scroll by K'un-t'an, dated 1664. That on page 15, also a hand scroll detail, is attributed to Mu-chi, mid-XIII Century. Both front and back covers are famous portrayals of Bodhidharma, who introduced Zen Buddhism to China in the late V Century. So unswerving was his devotion to his practice, legend has it he cut off his eyelids so as not to sleep during meditation. Hence, his gaze is not a baleful one, but full of his spiritual power.

STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP POLICY

In order to make more readily available the many programs offered by Esalen/San Francisco, a policy has been adopted whereby students may attend seminars and workshops in the San Francisco area on a stand-by basis at a reduced fee. Please call the San Francisco office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, (415) 431-8771. This policy does not apply to Big Sur Programs.

ESALEN ENCOUNTER GROUPS

Encounter Group series meetings are held in the San Francisco Bay Area as a part of the regular program schedule throughout the year. Under general supervision of William C. Schutz, Ph.D., group leaders use the eclectic approach which has arisen out of seminar and resident programs of Esalen Institute.

Each 5-week series includes a weekly 4-hour meeting plus a 12 to 15-hour marathon. Groups are held in San Francisco, Marin County, the East Bay and Peninsula areas. Two series are scheduled for Fall: September 22-October 24, and November 10-December 12. Cost per series is $75; $15 is required with registration, the balance being payable at or before the second group meeting. When sending registration, please be sure to indicate which series and location are desired; consult registration form at back of Program.

For further information phone or write Esalen Encounter Groups at the San Francisco office.

September 19-21
CREATIVE MEETING: A WORKSHOP FOR UNMARRIEDS
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD W. SMITH

This is an experience for those who are concerned with ending traditional "dating games" and moving more creatively into relationships. Dr. Smith will use movement and sensory awakening techniques, communication exercises, encounter groups and various gestalt approaches to help participants increase their self-awareness and honest communication with others.

Workshop participants will be chosen so as to assure a balance of age and sex. Please state age on application. This workshop is intended for unattached singles. Limited to 40 persons.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 19.

September 19-21
EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP
Weekend Workshop
with ESALEN STAFF

This weekend workshop will offer a synthesis of various approaches to the development of the human potential being explored at Esalen. Among the experiences which may be included are encounter, psychodrama, body movement, sense awareness, meditation, fantasy, gestalt awareness and creativity techniques. Activities depend, in part, on group size and individual need. Group leaders are drawn from Esalen's consulting staff as well as the residential fellow training programs.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 19.

September 24
A SENSORY CELEBRATION
An Evening
with BERNARD GUNTHER

A two-hour participation demonstration which will consist largely of experiments in awareness, relaxation and nonverbal communication for individuals, couples and groups. A series of joyous sensory explorations designed to let you climb out of your verbal mind and into the open energy flow of your feeling body.
$3 per person. 8 to 10 p.m., Wednesday, September 24.
McCabe Hall, San Jose Municipal Auditorium, San Jose.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 28-31.

September 26-28
A MOVEMENT WORKSHOP TO EXPLORE BLACK-WHITE RELATIONS
Weekend Workshop
with ANN HALPRIN

This workshop will dramatize feeling through the creation of primarily nonverbal rituals. The ultimate object—the creation of a work of dance and dramatic art—entails the development of new interpersonal awareness among participants. (For further information on Miss Halprin's approach, please refer to the June 1969 issue of Drama Review.)
Ann Halprin, artistic director of the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco, has appeared in and directed underground movies and TV programs; has taught and produced happenings in universities and colleges. Her company has appeared at international festivals in Europe. Since September Mrs. Halprin with the Dancers' Workshops has been collaborating with a black group with Studio Watts Workshop. They gave a performance at the Mark Taper Forum called "Ceremony of Us", and a TV program called "Right On", and is continuing to perform with students on campuses in the West Coast area.
Background information on this workshop will be sent upon registration. Some scholarships are available; please call the San Francisco office for information.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 26.

September 26-27
POST MORTEM
Weekend Seminar
with WILLIAM SMITH

This seminar is open only to those who have participated in one or more Esalen programs. (On registration, please indicate previous programs attended). During the seminar participants will explore the present value of past group experiences and their attempt to integrate those experiences into everyday life. This integration will be dealt with in depth.
$45 per person. Registration will be limited. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 26.

September 29
INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER
Monday Evening
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A highly intensive, fast-moving introduction to encountering for those seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. Participants will be divided into small encounter groups, which will integrate the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. Comfortable clothes recommended; bring pillow to sit on.
$5 general, $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday, September 29.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

September 30
ESALEN REVIEWED: FEEDBACK AND NEW PROPOSALS
Tuesday Evening Seminar with MICHAEL MURPHY, STUART MILLER & ESALEN STAFF

As it develops, Esalen generates more interest, more projects and more criticism. This seminar will give a chance for Esalen, its friends and critics to discuss the functions, problems and future of the Institute.
No charge; preregistration necessary. 7 to 11 p.m., Tuesday, September 30.

October 3-5
COMMUNICATION GAMES
Weekend Workshop
with ART HOUGH

In describing his workshop, Art Hough writes: "In fifteen hours we will play over twenty-five communication games, lasting from one minute to three hours each. The games will take you out into the city and back into your own darkness—some interpersonal and some multi-media—to improve listening, empathy, feedback, spontaneity and categorical abstractions, and to loosen the deeper communication blocks of hidden dogmatism, rigidity, certainty and risk-refusal.
"This is not a frontal approach; it is for those who are drawn to communication improvement, but who are not 'instant plungers, shedders and revealers'. There are communication games to teach your friends, children and students, ranging from nonthreatening interaction to moments of peaceful isolation. Each game has a purpose; each purpose is discussed."
$46 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 3.

October 3, 10, 17, 24, 31
SELF DISCOVERY THROUGH MUSIC
5 Friday Evenings
with FREDERICK WELLS

Mr. Wells describes this program as follows: "Participants will receive training in new methods of becoming totally absorbed in the experience of sound. We will listen to great music and through it experience trips into the inner self. You may go through hell, and be resurrected. You may suffer pain, sadness, fright. You may cry uncried tears. You may feel joy, peace, love, laughter—and you may dance. You may discover the rhythms of your body, create tensions and releases, journey through time and space."
After each listening session a group encounter will take place to reflect and communicate the experience. Wear loose clothing and be prepared to spend a great deal of time on the floor. If the group chooses, several field trips to live concerts may take place.
$50 per person. 8 p.m., Friday evenings, October 3, 10, 17, 24, 31.

For Reservation Information, see page 36.

October 6
AIKIDO:
THE WAY OF MIND
Monday Evening Workshop
with ROBERT FRAGER
and ROBERT NADEAU

A film, lecture, demonstration and introductory lesson in Aikido. Aikido has been called "spiritual self-defense". Through physical discipline derived from old samurai arts, one develops spiritually, mentally and physically. (See page 9 for further description.)
$3 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, October 6.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 10-12
THE ART OF EMOTIONAL NOURISHMENT
Weekend Workshop with
with JERRY GREENWALD
and JANETTE RAINWATER

Using the here-and-now focus of gestalt encounter groups, the workshop will attempt to increase each person's awareness of how he is nourishing or toxic to others as well as how he is nourished or poisoned by others. Individual attention will also be given to each participant to help him see how he allows self-induced toxic patterns to hamper his potential growth.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 10.

October 10-12
THE PROBLEM OF WOMAN: ITS BEARING ON THE GOAL OF 'SELFHOOD'
Weekend Workshop
with DAN SULLIVAN

Dr. Sullivan describes his program as follows: "Full self-awareness is grounded as much in a positive thrust toward a 'beyond' as in the immediate joy of self-being. But if dynamic self-love depends on this quest for something more, this quest itself depends on each of us enjoying an horizon of challengingly uncertain goals and values. Yet, women are widely thought to be exempt from this integrative self-dissatisfaction. Her destiny is alleged to be mere 'being': 'Man does, Woman is.' This imprinted passivity insures self-ignorance and self-hate and a human asymmetry in sexual love. Man's subsequent experience of orgasm as more physical than mental accounts for much of his ironic spirit, his detachment from self and from the hope of lasting intimacy with the Other, and for therapies whose aim is really the heart's autonomy."
This workshop will combine on-going discussions of the themes described above with gestalt therapy sessions which are open to, but not channelled toward, woman's "collusion with her exploiters" and Man's repression of the desire for lasting intimacy and love. This workshop is open to men and women attending either as individuals or as couples. Recommended reading: R.D. Laing, Politics of Experience; Dan Sullivan, Introduction to Anthropology of Sex, by A. Jeanniere.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 10.

October 13
A Monday Evening
with VIKTOR FRANKL

EXISTENTIAL VACUUM:
A CHALLENGE TO PSYCHIATRY

Viktor E. Frankl, M.D., Ph.D., is professor of psychiatry and neurology at the University of Vienna, head of the Department of Neurology at the Poliklinik Hospital in Vienna and president of the Austrian Medical Society of Psychotherapy. He is the originator of a school of psychotherapy known as logotherapy or existential analysis. In 1924 he published his first article in the International Journal of Psychoanalysis at the invitation of Freud; since that time he has written 16 books, translated in ten different languages. His books include Man's Search for Meaning, Psychotherapy and Existentialism, The Doctor and the Soul, and The Will to Meaning.
$3 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, October 13.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 17-19
AWARENESS WORKSHOP FOR DENTAL PROFESSIONALS
Weekend Workshop with
JACK ROSENBERG, D.D.S.

Many of the problems related to the helping profession of dentistry come from a sense of unfulfilled needs and desires for accomplishment. This workshop is designed to provide the opportunity for those in the dental professional family (dentists, assistants, hygienists and technicians) to pool their resources to stimulate a more rewarding approach to their work and their lives. Specific problems that typically arise in the dental office will be dealt with. Encounter, gestalt and body awareness techniques will be used to help improve communication skills which are so vital in dealing with patients and co-workers.
Participants must be in fields related to dentistry: dentist, dental assistant, dental hygienist, dental technician.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 17.

October 17-19
AIKIDO: THE WAY OF MIND
Weekend Workshop
with ROBERT FRAGER
and ROBERT NADEAU

Aikido is many things at once. It is a way of harmony—with others, with nature, and with oneself. Aikido is also a superb Japanese method of self-defense. Aikido training is based on the use of ki, or life energy. Strong ki is developed through calmness and concentration. Ki exercises will include training in calmness, efficiency, memory, concentration, ESP, will power, love and ki healing.
Certain of these disciplines were available only to the Japanese military, political and economic elite until recently. Some techniques have never before been taught outside of Japan.
The workshop will be held at Mr. Nadeau's Aikido school in Mountain View. Participants may sleep over if they wish. (Bring sleeping bags).
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 17.

October 17-19
HUMAN RELATIONS IN HIGHER EDUCATION
Weekend Workshop
with STEWART SHAPIRO

This workshop will apply the methods of encounter, problem-solving, conflict resolution and personal growth to the current college scene. It will be an intensive laboratory in problems and potentials in higher education. Campus teams of faculty, students and administrators are encouraged to participate in order to better apply the learnings on their campuses.
Teams (more than one person per campus) will be given first preference for admission to this workshop. Single individuals (parents, students, educators) will be admitted if openings remain.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 17.

October 20-23
HOW DOES YOUR BODY SPEAK
4-Day Workshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

Miss Roth describes her workshop as follows: "This workshop will explore body language as expressed in motion and touch. The combination of movement and massage involves each of us with our unique sense of physical expression. If we can see and feel our own movement, we can see and feel the rhythm of our lives."
$60 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, October 20-23.

October 22
THE ORTEGA EXPERIENCE
Wednesday Evening
Workshop with
J. RICHARD SUCHMAN

Current remedies for a sagging educational system are generally restricted to new curriculum and teaching methods. But the needed "education explosion" can occur only within the individual educator as he becomes freer, more in touch with himself and his students, and able to inquire into ways of creating optimal learning conditions for others. The Ortega Park Teachers Laboratory is a new institute for people who want to engage in such an inquiry. Workshops, seminars and laboratories bring teachers together with children to enhance communication and to find ways to free children to learn and to encourage educators to assume theoretical and philosophical orientations to teaching.
This workshop will provide a sampling of the Ortega experience, including "tuning in" and "mapping and inquiry". Participants will experiment with creating learning conditions and there will be discussions on the theory and process of a teacher's laboratory. The entire program will be relevant to parents-teachers.
$5 per person. 6 to 11 p.m., Wednesday, October 22.

October 23: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER – Thursday Evening with BENNETT SHAPIRO
$5 general, $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday, October 23. First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.
See page 7 for description.

October 24-26
INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE FOR COUPLES
Weekend Workshop with
FREDERICK STOLLER

Exploring the present realities and possibilities as an intimate couple requires a different set and stance than it does for the individual. This workshop, through intensive encounter as well as appropriate exercises, will attempt to move couples into a new appreciation of their realities and potentials. (Open to married or unmarried couples).
$90 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 24.

For Reservation Information, see page 36.

October 24-26 and
November 14-16
DISCOVERY OF
THE POSSIBLE
Education Workshop in Two Parts
with JAMES EAGEN

This workshop is designed for teachers and educators and is divided into two sections on separate weekends. The first section (October 24-26) will include experiments with a variety of Esalen-style education methods; encounter, sensory awareness, breathing-relaxation exercises and fantasy. The period following this section will allow participants to apply to their classroom those experiences which were valuable to them during the experiential weekend. In the second section (November 14-16) group members will share classroom discoveries, discuss improvements and review experiential techniques.
There will be no fee for this program; however, participants will be asked to submit a statement of their reaction to the workshop and their observations of affective changes in their students.
No charge (limited to 14 persons). Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 24.

October 25 and October 26
NUDE PSYCHOTHERAPY
Two Seminars
with PAUL BINDRIM

A lecture-discussion concerning Mr. Bindrim's first fifty nude marathons, illustrated with tapes, slides and a documentary filmed by the Canadian Broadcasting Company. This seminar will provide an opportunity for laymen as well as professionals to broaden their orientation by exploring a new viewpoint. The role of nudity in group therapy will be considered to be an integral part of the trend towards intimacy and authenticity that marked the first departures from the medical model and the classical Freudian approach. Nude marathons will be discussed in terms of theory, research and practice. The ethical, legal and professional problems that they engendered will be explored. Implications for current areas of social concern such as sexual freedom, alienation and race relations will be considered.
$25 per person, each seminar. 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. each day (with lunch break);
Saturday, October 25 and Sunday, October 26.

October 28-30
GESTALT WORKSHOP:
LISTENING TO,
CONNECTING WITH CHILDREN
3-Day Workshop
with JANET LEDERMAN

A workshop for harassed mothers of 3-6 year olds (and their child).
Janet Lederman, B.A., M.A., is teacher, artist, writer, actress. She has successfully utilized gestalt awareness techniques with children who manifest extreme stress. She is author of the forthcoming book Anger and the Rocking Chair.
$45 for mother plus one child. 7-10 p.m., Tuesday, October 28 (mothers only);
10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Wednesday, October 29 (mother and child);
10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday, October 30 (mother and child).

October 28-29
Two Lectures
by RICHARD BAKER

October 28: THE ORIENTAL MIND AND LOOKING FOR BUDDHISM IN JAPAN
October 29: BUDDHISM AND JAPAN AND ZEN
$3 general, $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m. each evening
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco
See page 19 for further description and background.

October 31-November 2
BEYOND ENCOUNTER GROUPS
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

Sometimes we forget that we are basically healthy, loving beings. Mere acting out is no substitute for understanding and restoring self.
In this workshop techniques for increasing trust and compassion will be developed. Methods for continuing self-exploration without leaders and beyond groups will be stressed. Special attention will be paid to integrating intense beneficial or peak experiences into daily life. Suggested for those with no encounter experience and those who have had enough encounter experience, especially as it has involved hitting, kicking and yelling.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 31.

October 31-November 2
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with BETTY FULLER

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully and vibrantly themselves. In the supportive context of openness and honesty, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter. As need arises such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, and gestalt techniques will be used.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 31.

October 31-November 2
UNDOING THE ABSURD
Weekend Workshop
with GERARD and
LILYAN HAIGH

The aim of this workshop will be to release the child locked up in each of us. Seminar participants will try to rediscover playfulness, joy and wonder in a basic encounter group and using techniques of fantasy, body movement, art media, games, etc., specifically designed for the task. Being the child with mother may shed light on one's approaches to loving, love-making and love-seeking. Paradoxically, making contact with childish helplessness releases surges of power and contacting childish tears opens the channels for expression of joy.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 31.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 28-31.

TWO LECTURES BY STANISLAV GROF

November 5
THE NATURE OF MAN AS REVEALED IN LSD PSYCHOTHERAPY

The clinical use of LSD and other hallucinogenic drugs, as well as illicit nonmedical self-experimenting, has revealed many phenomena which do not fit any of the existing contemporary psychological models of Man. Dr. Grof will describe his research of the use of LSD for treatment of psychiatric disorders and for personality growth. He will try to demonstrate the limitations of the present psychotherapeutic systems in understanding and conceptualizing the observations during this research. The Freudian model of Man will be questioned in the light of new clinical data.

November 6
DEVIL AND GOD IN MAN: LSD EXPERIENCES AND THE GREAT RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD

The mystical and religious experiences represent the most interesting category of experiences encountered in the LSD sessions. Using the material from "psycholytic" psychotherapy with LSD (repeated administrations of LSD in psychiatric patients within a psychotherapeutic framework), Dr. Grof will describe the experiences of this "instant" or "chemical" mysticism and compare them with instances of "spontaneous mysticism" and experiences described in holy scriptures of various great religions of the world (HInduism, Buddhism, Taoism, Christianity, mystery religions of Greece and Egypt, etc.) He will discuss the dangers connected with inducing these experiences, their relationship to mystical-religious experiences of schizophrenic patients and the authenticity of "chemical mysticism".

$3 per person per evening. 8 to 10:30 p.m., November 5, 6.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

(It will take both lectures for Dr. Grof to elaborate certain themes. It is recommended that participants attend both evenings.)

November 6-7
WORKSHOP FOR PROFESSIONALS
with WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

An exposition, together with some demonstrations, of the latest methods being explored and developed by Dr. Schutz, including new fantasy methods, energy and inner rhythm, nonverbal methods, Sufi, Kundalini and other Eastern notions, techniques for getting through blocks, body methods and others as they develop. There will also be an exchange of ideas about methods and beginnings of theory.
For persons experienced in running encounter or therapy groups. Please include a resume of experience with registration. (Limited to 20 professionals).
$80 per person. 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. (with lunch and dinner breaks), November 6;
9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (with lunch break), November 7.

November 7-9
NON-DRUG APPROACHES TO PSYCHEDELIC EXPERIENCE
Weekend Workshop with
BERNARD AARONSON, BART KNAPP and STEVEN STROUD

Psychedelic experience can be produced without drugs by methods involving the creation of hypnoidal states. Through the use of visualization and other procedures, including music, readings, and techniques for enhancing perception, participants will experience and try to understand the nature of psychedelic experience.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 7.

November 7-9
BEHAVIOR MODIFICATION
Weekend Workshop with
SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER

The weekend will include a micro-lab of encounter technique, the application of these techniques to reading and the use of behavior modification in the classroom. The approach will be experiential and will include didactic discussion and explanation.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 7.

November 14-16
BIO-ENERGETIC ANALYSIS
Weekend Workshop
with ALEXANDER LOWEN and JOHN PIERRAKOS

This workshop is designed for persons who are interested in understanding the language of the body and in learning how to work with the body to resolve emotional problems. Dr. Lowen's approach is grounded in basic psychoanalytic thinking and presents an in-depth technique for handling deep personality disturbances.
The workshop is professionally oriented and restricted to psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, therapists and those in related fields. (Limited to 35 participants). Participants should come prepared with trunks or leotards in order to experience the work directly. Recommended reading list will be sent at time of registration.
$75 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 14.

For Reservation Information, see page 36.

November 18-19
Two Lectures on Astrology
by DANE RUDHYAR

November 18: HUMANISTIC ASTROLOGY: A modern person-centered approach to an ancient art. A way to individual fulfillment. The esthetical vs. the ethical approach to life.

November 19: IN RESONANCE TO THE UNIVERSE: A dynamic concept of attunement to the great rhythms of the cosmic order. The transition to a new level of consciousness.

Dane Rudhyar started his career in Paris, France, as a progressive composer and a writer on music and the arts. His basic concern has always been the development of a philosophy of individual existence based on a holistic approach to all aspects of the personal and social life—a philosophy oriented toward the New Age which his study of historical and astrological cycles made him see as impending.

$3 general, $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m. each evening.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

CLOSE YET FREE
Couples Weekend with GERALD
and LINDA SMITH

To have closeness or intimacy and yet have room to personally grow . . . this is a basic dilemma in marriage. The dilemma can be coped with either creatively or destructively. Our purpose will be to experience a number of ways of creatively coping with the dilemma of being "close yet free" within marriage. We will use aspects of family and gestalt therapy and numerous nonverbal and movement approaches.
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 21.

November 21-23
STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS: AN OVERVIEW
Weekend Workshop
with CHARLES TART

The mind of man is capable of functioning in a variety of discrete ways, each of which has particular qualities which may be useful in appropriate circumstances. These various patterns of organization are states of consciousness. This seminar will have brief experiential introductions to and discussions of such states as awakeness (in the Gurdjieffian sense), the hypnagogic state (between waking and sleeping), hypnosis and meditation. Further idscussions will deal with brain wave feedback states, active control of dreaming, some Jungian concepts of consciousness and psychedelic drug states. Dr. Tart will also outline a theory he is developing which attempts to make sense out of the kaleidoscopic variety of states of consciousness. Background reading before the seminar in Dr. Tart's recent book, Altered States of Consciousness, would be helpful.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 21.

November 24: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER — Monday Evening with BENNETT SHAPIRO
$5 general, $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday, November 24. First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Streets, San Francisco.

ACTION ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES AND SINGLES
5-Day Workshop
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A fast moving, body-oriented, intensive, tough-tender encounter group for couples and singles seeking relief from politeness, indifference and verbosity. Many of the methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen will be integrated into an encounter group setting: sensory awakening, body movements, gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. In particular, methods for enriching two person relationships will be emphasized and practiced for use after the work-

AUTHENTICITY REVISITED: A WORKSHOP FOR THE OVERGROUPED
Weekend Workshop
with BETTY BERZON

In describing her workshop, Miss Berzon writes: "One of the issues that increasingly concerns many professionals who work with personal growth groups is the overacculturation of people who attend such groups repeatedly. The encounter group culture offers opportunities for interpersonal promiscuity much as the cocktail bar does. When one attends either too often there is the danger of deceiving oneself into believing that this imitation of life is the real thing. The lingo, the rituals and the role behaviors of the encounter group culture are easily learned and too often become an acceptable substitute for freer and more authentic involvement.
"This workshop is for overexposed group goers who are willing to look at the behavioral cliches they have developed and move beyond them to being as fully present as possible in the group, and in their own lives."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, November 28.

November 28-29
BEYOND GAMES: ENCOUNTER FOR COMMUNICATORS
24-Hour Marathon
with RICHARD MARSH

Whether you are a professional communicator or not, you must communicate to live. Communication is a basic human and cosmic process, and encounter—with the self, with others, with the more-than-other—is its goal. This marathon encounter group will alternate between periods of unstructured spontaneity and periods of structured sensory, self and social games. Purpose of the games: to lead beyond themselves to the ecstasy of unself-conscious communication. Bring your defensive armor, but be prepared to shed it.
$55 per person, including meals. 8 p.m. Friday through 8 p.m. Saturday at the Burlingame home of Dr. Marsh.

December 5-7
COUPLES WORKSHOP
Weekend with
DAVID BAAR, MARLENE SUTTON, SEV and PEGGY PETERSON

This workshop will explore those conditions which allow couples to create and maintain an open, growing bond amidst the complex demands of our society. There is a certain attitude, way of living which includes openness, selective absorption and perseverance which enables and nurtures growth—this is what the seminar will focus on, drawing upon the experience of a few couples who would like to share their insights and questions with others involved in the same process. Limited to six couples; intended for couples together for a year or more, married or not.
No charge. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, December 5.

December 12-14
INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE
Weekend Workshop
with FREDERICK STOLLER

This workshop will consist of small group encounter designed to challenge the conventional stance of the participants and to enhance the exploration of potential through mutual search for alternatives. Videotape feedback and photography will be among the approaches utilized. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, December 12.

December 12-14
THE TRANSFORMATIONS OF HUMAN CULTURE AND THE EVOLUTION OF THE SELF
Weekend Workshop
with WILLIAM IRWIN THOMPSON

Everyone knows that something is happening and that the vehicle for that something is not the Nineteenth Century solitary self but the human group. In our art and politics we are groping towards the next step in human cultural evolution—the discovery and articulation of meta-personal forms of consciousness in the culture of a planetary civilization. At the edge of history in California, the future is blowing wildly in our faces: sometimes brightening the air and sometimes blinding us. To get a sense of just where we are and where we are going, the seminar will focus on the four critical transformations of history, the neolithic, urban, industrial and technological revolutions and how these affected man's sexuality, art and religion.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, December 12.

December 15-18
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with BETTY FULLER

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully and vibrantly themselves. In the supportive context of openness and honesty, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter. As need arises such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, and gestalt techniques will be used.
$60 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday thru Thursday, December 15-18.

December 17: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER – Wednesday Evening with BENNETT SHAPIRO

December 28-January 3
SKI ENCOUNTER
7-Day Workshop
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

This workshop for couples and singles will combine seven days of skiing and encountering in a private lodge in the Squaw-Alpine ski area. Skiing will occur in mornings and early afternoons and group encountering in late afternoons and evenings. The encountering will be fast moving and body oriented, incorporating the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, theatre games, meditation. Exact location and other details will be supplied upon application.
$160 per person (includes lodging and meals but not ski equipment or tow tickets).
Begins 11 a.m., Sunday, December 28 and ends 4 p.m., Saturday, January 3.

TOWARDS EXPANDED CONSCIOUSNESS
Weekend Workshop
with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS

In describing her work, Miss Selver writes, "Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles and interweavings of consciousness which we are, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, emotional problems or habit. But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy or self-disciplines in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us."

EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP
Weekend Workshop
with ESALEN STAFF

This weekend workshop will offer a synthesis of various approaches to the development of the human potential being explored at Esalen. Among the experiences which may be included are encounter, psychodrama, body movement, sense awareness, meditation, fantasy, gestalt awareness and creativity techniques. Activities depend, in part, on group size and individual need. Group leaders are drawn from Esalen's consulting staff as well as the residential fellow training programs.

CELEBRATION OF THE LIFE FORCE
5-Day Workshop
with STEVEN STROUD, JEFFREY STUART and RON ACCIOLA

This workhsop will explore those capacities within us for experiencing life's cycles and rhythms, especially those capacities for storing energy and recharging the body, bringing about the overflow of effortless life. Breathing, movement, dance, conga drums, massage, fasting, meditation, ritual, sparkling springs, mountains and the ocean's roar: all of these, with a few surprises, will be included in the workshop. Bring outdoor clothing and come prepared to celebrate the fact of your existence.

MORES, MYSTICISM AND MADNESS
Weekend Seminar
with JOHN PERRY and JULIAN SILVERMAN

The values and the meanings by which a culture lives are periodically in need of renewal. Persons of a sensitive nature seeking deeply into the spiritual life may find there the inner foundations of these cultural forms.

Throughout history certain individuals in the course of their mystical journeys have discovered fountainheads of these cultural forms and have reinvigorated or transformed the mores of society. These individuals have had the gift to order their experiences in such a way as to communicate them to their communities. On the other hand, many similarly inclined individuals lacking in the analytic and communication skills required to organize their experience in depth have found themselves overwhelmed and shattered and have been drawn into delusional perspectives of great depth. This seminar is concerned with the historical and psychological study of similarities and differences between mystical and psychotic states and their substantive relationship to problems of everyday life.

September 26-28
SOCIAL ARCHITECTURE
Weekend Workshop
with RICHARD FARSON, CRAIG HODGETTS and PETER PEARCE

As the possibility for designing environment increases with developing technology, designers and behavioral scientists are exploring various ways to fit environments more sensibly to the needs of people. A new alliance is forming between designers, planners and architects on the one hand, and behavioral scientists and social philosophers on the other. As an example, the leaders of this seminar—a psychologist, an architect and an industrial designer—have recently been appointed to head the School of Design at the new California Institute for the Arts.

In this seminar they will discuss the problems and possibilities involved in the marriage of these disciplines and will explore ways in which this joining of design and human understanding can be incorporated into the lives and professional concerns of the participants. Special consideration will be given to the designing of environments which remain open to novelty and renewal.

Richard Farson is Vice President of Ecological Affairs and Dean of the School of Design, California Institute for the Arts. He is co-founder and Chairman of the Board of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla. Craig Hodgetts has a B.A. in sculpture and is a graduate of the Yale School of Architecture; he won Progressive Architecture's First Design Award in 1968. Peter Pearce is a graduate of Institute of Design, Illinois Institute of Technology and has worked with Charles Eames and Buckminster Fuller and was a Graham Foundation Fellow in 1965. He has recently completed a book entitled Structure in Nature as a Strategy for Design.

GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING FOR DENTISTS
5-Day Workshop with
ROBERT HALL, M.D. and JACK ROSENBERG, D.D.S.

The manner in which the dentist approaches his patients and practice is, in general, a reflection of the way he approaches life. This seminar is designed to allow the participant to explore both aspects of a professional man's life—his practice and his inner life—in hopes of developing a deeper significance and awareness of both. He will also have the opportunity to become familiar with gestalt awareness techniques as they can be applied to dealing with patients. The application of gestalt awareness techniques to patient management will be covered by Dr. Rosenberg, while Dr. Hall will center on the "journey inward".

ECLECTIC ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN HEIDER

A wide variety of growth techniques and disciplines are taught at Esalen. Eclectic encounter is a loose amalgam of the most fruitful of these integrated into the encounter group format. Participants will be exposed to massage, meditation, sensory awakening and other forms of verbal and nonverbal encounter.
To foster the intensity of this workshop, registration will be limited to 12 participants.

MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop
with SEYMOUR CARTER

The Esalen approach to massage is an attempt to quiet the mind so that the participant can sensitively make contact, without technique. Contacting "the other" is also contacting oneself, hence the value of meditation. Therefore, learn to center . . . and learn to concentrate on the moment of your touching as it unfolds. Couples are encouraged to attend so they may continue to massage each other in their home.
Joel Kramer, a Hatha yogi and teacher of yoga at Esalen, will assist Seymour Carter.

ON BEING RICH
5-Day Workshop
with STUART and SARA MILLER
and Two Anonymous
Millionaires

The rich are often thought to be a separate species. The longer the family has been wealthy, the more unique its behavior becomes. More and more American families are evolving into this strange state and as they do, they develop a set of problems distinctly their own—special forms of paranoia, odd pleasures, horrendous secrets, untrusting loves.
This workshop will attempt to deal with these problems. It is open to millionaires, recently made or of long standing.

YOGA: STUDIES
AND APPLICATIONS
5-Day Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

An intensive program exploring the realms of yoga through conceptual inquiry and actual practice. The seminar is suitable for the interested novice as well as the serious student of yoga. Emphasis will be placed on the daily practice of yogic techniques such as Hatha yoga and pranayama (breathing), and meditation in the light of yogic structures both classical and modern. There will be inquiry into the ever-recurring problems of man such as time, mind, death, freedom, choice, sorrow, desire, competition, sexuality.
A special menu of yogic (pure) foods will be offered. The program will aim at giving the participants a feel for an ancient path to freedom in modern terms.

October 10-12
DEVELOPMENT OF VIOLENCE AND PLEASURE IN MAN
Weekend Seminar with JAMES W. PRESCOTT and WILLIAM H. RICKLES, JR.

Extensive studies on the effects of maternal-social deprivation and early isolation-rearing experiences in mammals has produced a body of evidence that links these early experiences to autistic-depressive, hyperreactive and violent-aggressive behaviors in the maturing and adult organism. Recent theoretical developments have interpreted the above relationships as a consequence of sensory deprivation of the somatosensory system during the early formative periods of development and that these experiences result in the abnormal development of specific brain structures.
The objectives of this workshop are to review the existing scientific evidence that relates measures of brain function to the quality of early sensory experiences, specifically, maternal-social deprivation and isolation rearing experiences.
Participants of the workshop will be drawn from the multidisciplinary sciences of neuropsychology, neuropsychiatry, psychophysiology, developmental behavioral biology, social anthropology and psychoanalysis. All applicants must send resumé of their interest and recent work experience.

FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY
Two Couples' Weekends with GEORGE I. and JUDITH BROWN

A workshop for couples who feel they have a relatively healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationships even more real, exciting and substantial. The focus of the program will move through misleading and confusing preconceptions of oneself and one's marriage partner to increasing perception and authentic response to a real person in a real world. The Browns will use approaches to gestalt awareness training that once learned in the workshops can continue to be used by the couple in their home setting.
The initial workshop, October 10-12, will be combined with a follow-up workshop on November 21-23. All participants must commit themselves to both workshops.
$280 per couple for both weekends
Nonrefundable deposit of $140 per couple is required.

October 12-17
OVERVIEW OF ENCOUNTER TECHNIQUE
5-Day Workshop with JOHN HEIDER

This workshop is designed primarily for those who lead groups or do similar work: therapists, teachers, ministers, etc. Participants will be exposed to massage, meditation, sensory awakening and other forms of verbal and nonverbal encounter. Emphasis will be placed on teaching how to use, adapt or invent tools for application in other contexts. Experiential and didactic sessions will be combined.
$180 per person

October 12-17
MASSAGE, MOVEMENT AND YOGA
5-Day Workshop with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her program, Miss Roth writes: "Yoga will center us in our breathing and motion. Movement will explore our body language, in rhythmic phrases. If we can see and feel our own body movement, we can see and feel the movement and rhythm of our lives. Massage will begin the flow outward from our own bodies into the bodies of others."

October 12-17
THE PROBLEM OF WOMAN: ITS BEARING ON THE GOAL OF 'SELFHOOD'
5-Day Workshop with DAN SULLIVAN

Dr. Sullivan describes his program as follows: "Full self-awareness is grounded as much in a positive thrust toward a 'beyond' as in the immediate joy of self-being. But if dynamic self-love depends on this quest for something more, this quest itself depends on each of us enjoying an horizon of challengingly uncertain goals and values. Yet, women are widely thought to be exempt from this integrative self-dissatisfaction. Her destiny is alleged to be mere 'being': 'Man does, Woman is'. This imprinted passivity insures self-ignorance and self-hate and a human asymmetry in sexual love. Man's subsequent experience of orgasm as more physical than mental accounts for much of his ironic spirit, his detachment from self and from the hope of lasting intimacy with the Other, and for therapies whose aim is really the heart's autonomy."
This workshop will combine on-going discussions of the themes described above with gestalt therapy sessions which are open to, but not channelled toward, woman's "collusion with her exploiters" and Man's repression of the desire for lasting intimacy and love.

I CHING,
a Guide to Oracle Imagery,
and TAI CHI,
a Way of Centering
Weekend Workshop
with GIA-FU FENG

This workshop will include intensive sessions on several forms of Tai Chi, with discussions of the I Ching (which Gia-fu has retranslated) and its relationship to imagery and the martial arts. Gia-fu describes Tai Chi as "a form of meditation in movement, a way of centering aiming at sensory-motoric awareness and body alignment. It is a bridge between Eastern meditation and Western psychotherapy."

A WEEKEND WITH
WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

This will be an experimental weekend exploring new approaches focused on particular areas of concern. Past weekends have focused on such areas as the Hero in all of us (using Joseph Campbell's Hero of a Thousand Faces as the theme to bring out our heroic qualities), on the Sufis, an Islamic mystic sect which emphasizes the importance of the balance between knowing the self and relating to others. Other special themes will be chosen for each weekend and participants will have ample opportunity to deal with these issues in small groups as well as working in a large group. (Limit: 55 persons)

AN EXPERIENCE
OF ESALEN
5-Day Living Experience
with the ESALEN STAFF

"Let us turn you on to our place", writes Ben Weaver, Big Sur Director, in describing this workshop. "Join us for a week to explore as many fronts as emerge from our unique mix of people. Our resources are available to you—baths, massage, scenery and the far-ranging talents of our staff (group leaders, artists, craftsmen, musicians, poets and students of arcane lore).
"Or, if you like, you may simply retreat from the world for a week. Whatever Esalen means to you, this is an opportunity to explore that meaning further at your own pace and with whatever support and assistance we can give you. This week is an opportunity to ruminate and to interact with people of widely different points of view. We will be here doing our thing. Come and join us."

October 24-26
THE JAPANESE MIND,
BUDDHISM AND ZEN
Weekend Seminar
with RICHARD BAKER

Richard Baker describes his program as follows: "Japan and China and the West have developed subtly different ways of realizing the human, social and individual potential. Both have their own limits, maybe upper limits, and emphases. All their ways, customs, habits, ways of cooperating, ways of being separate, ways of finding the divine and mundane, ways of acknowledging the space and time of society and individual existence, all add up to the aid which each individual receives from his society to realize his own potential and continuity, as well as to the way the society preserves itself. Language and society are gifts, the accumulation and boiled down essence of the thought and experience of your 'tribe'. Without these gifts the realms of thought and experience and the frontier or membrane to the realms of nonthought and the beyond-experience would be different indeed. A kind of example: the higher reaches of Western mathematics would be impossible without the Arabic number system—Roman numerals and the Chinese and Japanese system don't make it. And perhaps in a somewhat similar way, the higher reaches of nondual reality are primarily accessible through the practice and metaphysics of Hinduism, Buddhism and Taoism. Buddhism particularly, and Chinese and Japanese societies partly under its tutelage, have produced a particular Mind which everyone in these societies lives in, more rather than less. Buddhism suggests faith that we all share the same Big Mind and Buddha Nature, but still to understand fully the social and individual access to this experience it is necessary to know the culture and mind in which it has developed and flourished. Japan is a particular racial, social and geographic location that has preserved and developed ways of locating the locationless void, the sea of the really so where the deepest inner and outer reality merge.
"These lectures, sesshin and seminar will be about what is, and how to look for, the cultural and spiritual vocabulary of this world, in what ways its vocabulary can be and is ours, and how the practice of zazen meditation is wedded to and transcends any cultural vocabulary. What will be interesting to find out in your own experience and in the protoplasm which will come after you is: What is the human potential when West and East have a common location, when the spells of all known societal and racial vocabularies have been understood, incorporated, broken and transcended."

COUPLES' WEEKEND
WITH
WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ
Co-led with
PAMELA PORTUGAL

In this workshop, participating couples (married or not) should be prepared to reveal all the secrets they have withheld from each other, no matter how dangerous it may appear to reveal them. They will then explore hurts, fantasies, desires for others, hate, competition, fear, jealousy, love, longing, need, dependence and other feelings as they actually exist. The aim of the weekend is to help members of the couple become clear and unconflicted as to how they want to proceed with each other. This may mean breaking up, or working more, usually on a much sounder, more open, more exhilarating basis, to make the relation more satisfying. (Limit: 6 couples)
$210 per couple

BEYOND ENCOUNTER GROUPS
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

Sometimes we forget that we are basically healthy, loving beings. Mere acting out is no substitute for understanding and restoring self.
In this workshop techniques for increasing trust and compassion will be developed. Methods for continuing self-exploration without leaders and beyond groups will be stressed. Special attention will be paid to integrating intense beneficial or peak experiences into daily life. Suggested for those with no encounter experience and those who have had enough encounter experience, especially as it has involved hitting, kicking and yelling.
$70 per person

October 24-26
RITUALS OF HUMAN AND ANIMAL BEHAVIOR
Weekend Workshop
with STEVEN STROUD
and JOHN BLEIBTREU

Mating rituals, aggression rituals, social rituals of all kinds will be explored. Included will be some acting out of ritual, both human/animal and animal.

October 26-31
INTRODUCTORY PILOTING AND NAVIGATION IN PERSONAL INNER SPACE
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN LILLY

Dr. Lilly describes his workshop as follows: "Utilizing the knowledge gained from dolphin-human encounters, from human communication techniques (verbal and nonverbal), from solitude and isolation studies (sensory deprivation), and from combinations of these with LSD research, it is possible for an individual to move forward in his own self-development. From where one is now, one can move into new inner spaces, learn to turn on (and off) his positive and negative systems and experience new ways of navigation and piloting in his inner universes. The techniques used resemble hypnosis, meditation (mantras), interpersonal encounter, group sharing and bio-computer programs. These techniques are flexible and adaptable to the individual's current needs."
John Lilly is widely known for his research with dolphins and sensory deprivation. He is author of Man and Dolphin, The Mind of a Dolphin and Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer.

ON BEING JEWISH AGAIN
Weekend Workshop with
SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER

This weekend workshop will explore the fun you once thought that it might be to be Jewish. Together, through "tradition", we will meet our pogroms and Messiahs. Chicken soup will be provided.
Sara Miller, educator, creator of the store front schools in New York City, expert in operant conditioning techniques and behavior modification, spirited facilitator of encounter groups and wife extraordinary, is also a Jew who has survived.

EXPERIENCES FOR THE MIND'S EYE
Weekend Workshop
with ROBERT MCKIM

Capacity for visual imagery, important to many forms of creative behavior, is allowed to atrophy (or is even actively repressed) by contemporary education. This workshop is based on an integrated series of exercises which Professor McKim has collected and developed to restore vitality to the visual imagination. Participants will begin with "mind's eye-openers"; relaxation, sensory awakening, and massage. They will then build self-confidence in their imaging ability with after-images and group fantasy. Meditation techniques and tachistoscopic (flashing) images will develop concentration: experiences with synasthesia (combining sense modes) will intensify imagery. Finally, the mind's eye will be exercised by creative action. Wear old clothes (we'll use art materials).

November 2-7
ALTERED PERCEPTION OF TIME AND SPACE
5-Day Workshop with
BERNARD AARONSON,
BART KNAPP
and STEVEN STROUD

Although we usually conceive of the arrangement of time and space as part of our environment, it is to a large extent an order we impose on the environment and is different for each one of us. In order to try to understand how our perceptions affect the way we think, feel and act, participants will be taught methods for going into hypnoidal states in which various altered states of perception can be experienced.

November 2-7
MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop
with RICHARD HORAN

A week of relaxation through learning massage. There will be a study of yoga each morning from 7:30-8:30. Late mornings and afternoons will be devoted to developing a repertoire of massage techniques, to seeing signs of inner body awareness and responding to them. In the evenings there will be sessions of movement, breathing and meditation.
$180 per person

November 7-9
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with BETTY FULLER

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully and vibrantly themselves. In the supportive context of openness and honesty, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter. As need arises such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, and gestalt techniques will be used.

THE POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE POTENTIAL OF MAN AS REVEALED BY LSD RESEARCH
Weekend Seminar
with STANISLAV GROF

The phenomena observed during systematic research of the therapeutic use of LSD in psychiatric patients as well as those connected with illicit self-experimentation transcend the existing psychological models of Man and suggest the necessity of a new understanding of the human nature. Dr. Grof will describe his European research with LSD and sketch an alternative model of Man which proved to be useful in understanding most of the phenomena encountered during this work. On the basis of his observations of the reliving of traumatic experiences in the LSD sessions, he will discuss in detail which elements of the human and nonhuman environment in various periods of life (infancy, childhood, adolescence, adulthood) seem to foster mental health, feelings of happiness and personality growth and which of them are conducive to development of psychopathology, suffering and stagnation.

LIFE PLANNING
Weekend Workshop
with ARTHUR SHEDLIN

This weekend laboratory provides a unique opportunity for a limited number of persons who are concerned with determining and implementing meaningful career and other life goals for themselves. The process of establishing and attaining creative and self-fulfilling life goals involves both self-awareness and the use of a definite planning strategy. This structured group experience utilizes a variety of training methods to assist participants in highlighting strengths, weaknesses, peak-experiences and life values pertinent to: (1) an inventory of previous life experiences; (2) an inventory of present life values; (3) establishment of a goal or goals to be attained five to seven years from now; (4) developing projects and action steps related to attaining these goals.

November 9-14
THE OPEN COUPLE
5-Day Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will employ a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen to explore the special relationship of man and woman. Activities will be based in part on a forthcoming book for couples by William C. Schutz and Pamela Portugal. The intent of the workshop is to clear lines of communication and to establish openness and honesty as a base for strengthening and enriching relationships. Couples will be trained to use the book and their workshop experience to continue in leaderless groups of their own composition if they choose. Follow-up may also be arranged with Esalen facilitators.

5-Day Workshop with JANET LEDERMAN $180 per person See page 10 for description

November 9-14
AWAKENING THE SERPENT
5-Day Workshop
with SEYMOUR CARTER

The title of this workshop comes from Kundalini yoga, which is one means of unleashing the "serpent" of energy potential all of us have. Drawing from this and many other sources, William Schutz's Esalen staff developed an integral form of encounter. This workshop is designed to focus on the peak experiences that evolve an appreciation for each participant's aliveness, rather than on solving complicated personality problems.

I CHING,
a Guide to Oracle Imagery,
and TAI CHI,
a Way of Centering
Weekend Workshop
with GIA-FU FENG

This workshop will include intensive sessions on several forms of Tai Chi, with discussions of the I Ching (which Gia-fu has retranslated) and its relationship to imagery and the martial arts. Gia-fu describes Tai Chi as "a form of meditation in movement, a way of centering aiming at sensory-motoric awareness and body alignment. It is a bridge between Eastern meditation and Western psychotherapy."

November 14-16
A WEEKEND WITH WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

This will be an experimental weekend exploring new approaches focused on particular areas of concern. Past weekends have focused on such areas as the Hero in all of us (using Joseph Campbell's Hero of a Thousand Faces as the theme to bring out our heroic qualities), on the Sufis, an Islamic mystic sect which emphasizes the importance of the balance between knowing the self and relating to others. Other special themes will be chosen for each weekend and participants will have ample opportunity to deal with these issues in small groups as well as working in a large group. (Limit: 55 persons)

MASSAGE, MOVEMENT AND YOGA
5-Day Workshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her program, Miss Roth writes: "Yoga will center us in our breathing and motion. Movement will explore our body language, in rhythmic phrases. If we can see and feel our own body movement, we can see and feel the movement and rhythm of our lives. Massage will begin the flow outward from our own bodies into the bodies of others."

THE PHILOSOPHY BEHIND ASTROLOGY: Man in the Fullness of Existence
Weekend Seminar
with DANE RUDHYAR

This seminar will explore the following themes: a practical philosophy of operative wholeness (how to be wholly man in a universe of interrelated wholes); a holistic astrological approach to the problems of individual existence; "the transpersonal way"; at the threshhold of a global humanity—the "geomorphic" approach to social organization.
Dane Rudhyar started his career in Paris, France, as a progressive composer and a writer on music and the arts. His basic concern has always been the development of a philosophy of individual existence based on a holistic approach to all aspects of the personal and social life—a philosophy oriented toward the New Age which his study of historical and astrological cycles made him see as impending.

BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING
Weekend Workshop
with EDWARD MAUPIN

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches—sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions—are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination.

November 23-28
MOVEMENT, MEDITATION AND ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with STEVEN STROUD and KEN CHASE

An exploration of body energy through Tai Chi Chuan, a Chinese moving meditation. Emphasis will be on balance, slow motion, breathing and creative movement. The motion and energy of Tai Chi will be extended into an encounter group in which other methods of exploring ourselves and others will be focused upon.
$180 per person

November 23-28
ECLECTIC ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN HEIDER

A wide variety of growth techniques and disciplines are taught at Esalen. Eclectic encounter is a loose amalgam of the most fruitful of these integrated into the encounter group format. Participants will be exposed to massage, meditation, sensory awakening and other forms of verbal and nonverbal encounter.
To foster workshop intensity, registration will be limited to twelve participants.
$180 per person

November 23-28
YOGA: STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS
5-Day Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

An intensive program exploring the realms of yoga through conceptual inquiry and actual practice. The seminar is suitable for the interested novice as well as the serious student of yoga. Emphasis will be placed on the daily practice of yogic techniques such as Hatha yoga and pranayama (breathing), and meditation in the light of yogic structures both classical and modern. There will be inquiry into the ever-recurring problems of man such as time, mind, death, freedom, choice, sorrow, desire, competition, sexuality.
A special menu of yogic (pure) foods will be offered. The program will aim at giving the participants a feel for an ancient path to freedom in modern terms.

DREAMS, ESP AND ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS
Weekend Workshop with STANLEY KRIPPNER, Ph.D.

Dr. Krippner will summarize the much publicized and possibly history-making studies of telepathy and dreams which he is conducting at Maimonides Medical Center in New York. In these studies attempts are made to convey impressions telepathically to people who are dreaming.
Members of this workshop will attempt to identify, through extrasensory perception (ESP), the contents of sealed envelopes. They will make these attempts upon emerging from a number of altered conscious states which will be induced by hypnosis, meditation, breathing, massage, sensory bombardment and body movement. Members of the workshop will be given a chance to assess their own ESP ability as well as receive instruction in a number of ways to "turn on" without drugs. The relationships between ESP, creativity, and altered conscious states will be discussed and demonstrated, as will the importance of these phenomena for personal growth and development.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF HUMANISTIC EDUCATION
Weekend Workshop with AARON HILLMAN

Humanistic education is a merging of cognitive and affective experiences. It is based on the idea that when the subject matter (cognitive) is divorced from the self (affective) the outcomes are irrelevant. Only a merging of the two results in effective learning. While this approach will be demonstrated and discussed, the primary emphasis will be on experiencing and relating what is experienced to the educational scene. The workshop is designed primarily for teachers (at all levels) but is open to anyone working in the educational field.

November 30-December 5
MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop with SEYMOUR CARTER

The Esalen approach to massage is an attempt to quiet the mind so that the participant can sensitively make contact, without technique. Contacting "the other" is also contacting oneself, hence the value of meditation. Therefore, learn to center . . . and learn to concentrate on the moment of your touching as it unfolds. Couples are encouraged to attend so they may continue to massage each other in their home.
Joel Kramer, a Hatha yogi and teacher of yoga at Esalen, will assist Seymour Carter.

INTIMACY: ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES
5-Day Workshop with JOHN and ANNE HEIDER

This workshop is designed for couples who wish to learn basic skills of verbal and nonverbal encounter. Emphasis will be placed on sensory/sensual sensitivity, upon the accurate reception and transmission of thought, emotion, intuition and touch. Group will be limited to six couples, thus insuring intensive work for all participants.
$180 per person

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 28-31.

DEVELOPING A HUMANISTIC ETHIC FOR PERSONAL GROWTH PROGRAMS
5-Day Workshop
with VIRGINIA SATIR

There is increasing concern among both professionals and laymen about certain ethical issues involved in encounter groups, new forms of therapy and other approaches to personal growth; for example, coercion vs. autonomy in groups, the physical expression of anger, limits on sexual behavior, problems of intimacy, the issue of follow-up and commitment by group members after the program is over.
This experimental workshop will include communication exercises and other approaches Virginia Satir has developed from her practice of family therapy; discussions of the ethical issues named above will be related to these problems as they emerge in the natural course of the workshop.

GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING
Weekend Workshop
with GEORGE I. and JUDITH BROWN

Based on principles of gestalt therapy, awareness training as practiced by the Browns involves two phases: (1) readiness techniques such as nonverbal communication games, sensory awakening, encounter and the conscious use of fantasy; (2) gestalt awareness training with the intent of helping workshop members get in touch with themselves, to become more aware of each other, to move through fantasy, illusion and preconception to "who" and "what" is really there. Appropriate for individuals and couples.

SENSORY AWAKENING FOR COUPLES
Weekend Workshop
with BERNARD GUNTHER

We often allow our most intimate relationships to become static and routine. Habit replaces contact and we rarely experience the other person or the vast possibilities which might be shared. Fixed concepts and excessive tension are major reasons for such closed-offness. In this sensory awakening workshop for couples (not necessarily married) we will explore relaxation, awareness, massage, and sensory encounter as means for opening to one another.

THE HOME-MADE GROUP
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD GOODMAN

In describing his program, The Home-Made Group: A Workshop on the Process and Problems of Intimacy in Small Groups Without Professional Leaders, Dr. Goodman writes: "People in 'home-made' therapy or encounter groups (the grass-roots groupers) often view traditional therapy approaches as outmoded, and turn toward technique-ridden methods as solutions to their problems with establishing intimacy within their projects. On the other hand, many professionals are worried about the 'reckless' nonprofessionals, who are naive about the damage they might do in their fervent search for awareness, expansion, intimacy or relief from emotional problems. Since I'm one of those professionals enmeshed in the nonprofessional scene, the debate rings in my ears. But despite the debate, the movement of nonprofessionals into traditionally professional psychological activities is occurring rapidly and massively.

"With only a smattering of research on home-made groups it is difficult to enhance their operation with confidence. Nevertheless, there are a few standard clinical principles and some research findings that can help. During the past six years I've talked with many people from deteriorating or becalmed home-made groups who were unaware of some elementary conditions required for effective small group interaction. So, I'd like to meet with those who are attempting to create their own groups—or those who have tried and failed.
"The format will include an exchange of ideas, a demonstration of methods, the presentation of a rationale for nonpro group operation and a 'clinic' for working on group problems that people bring to the seminar."

THE INDIVIDUAL
VS. THE GROUP
5-Day Workshop
with CLARK MOUSTAKAS

The aim of this seminar is to create a climate in which ultimately both the individual and the group may flourish and grow. The opposition of individual and group rights must be examined, struggled with and eventually resolved. In such a struggle each person must be encouraged to experience his own individuality, freely and openly, and stay with personal perceptions, concerns and ways, regardless of group feedback, sanctions and directions. But, eventually, if a full life with other human beings is to occur, each person must also develop a sense of trust and caring, must at points transcend private, self-centered interests and reach out to others, must feel a basic regard for each individual in the group and contribute to the development of a real community through empathy, compassion and a willingness to steep oneself in the world of others.
Dr. Moustakas describes this workshop further: "Increasingly, I have felt myself opposed to meeting with people who are strangers to one another who come together with the explicit intention of being sensitive or angry or intimate, but who have no roots in one another's lives, no real share in one another's destinies, no stake in the health or welfare of one another. More and more I have felt the importance of depth, continuity and real concern, involvement and commitment that does not end when the weekend or week is over. I have also been very much concerned over the difference between technology and drama and real life. I have felt intensely the importance of staying with what is real, faith in the mystery of human experience when it unfolds uniquely, unpredictably in original ways, when a pattern or process is created which fits authentically. I have felt, too, the struggle and pull of individual values and ways versus group values and ways, the opposition of self-centered concerns and the altruism of a real community of persons. Further, I am strongly against hostility which aims at defeating and destroying individual integrity, indifference that kills human decency and any kind of physical violence."

AN EXPERIENCE
OF ESALEN
5-Day Living Experience
with the ESALEN STAFF

"Let us turn you on to our place", writes Ben Weaver, Big Sur Director, in describing this workshop. "Join us for a week to explore as many fronts as emerge from our unique mix of people. Our resources are available to you—baths, massage, scenery and the far-ranging talents of our staff (group leaders, artists, craftsmen, musicians, poets and students of arcane lore).
"Or, if you like, you may simply retreat from the world for a week. Whatever Esalen means to you, this is an opportunity to explore that meaning further at your own pace and with whatever support and assistance we can give you. This week is an opportunity to ruminate and to interact with people of widely different points of view. We will be here doing our thing. Come and join us."

COUPLES' WEEKEND WITH
WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ
Co-led with
PAMELA PORTUGAL

In this workshop, participating couples (married or not) should be prepared to reveal all the secrets they have withheld from each other, no matter how dangerous it may appear to reveal them. They will then explore hurts, fantasies, desires for others, hate, competition, fear, jealousy, love, longing, need, dependence and other feelings as they actually exist. The aim of the weekend is to help members of the couple become clear and unconflicted as to how they want to proceed with each other. This may mean breaking up, or working more, usually on a much sounder, more open, more exhilarating basis, to make the relation more satisfying. (Limit: 6 couples)

REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
5-Day Workshop
with GEORGE I.
and JUDITH BROWN

This workshop will be mostly experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship. Growth toward maturity is inhibited by fear of change and the unknown. Fantasied catastrophies are created by our "fine minds" at the prospect of moving into the adventure of new experience. And instead of moving into each moment—as Perls says—as a fresh experience, we cling to the status quo, to a cardboard existence; and thus we die long before we cease breathing. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness followed by gestalt awareness training.

LEADERS' BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

BERNARD S. AARONSON, Ph.D., heads the experimental psychology section of the New Jersey Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychistry. He is interested in many techniques to promote human growth including hypnosis, elements of occult traditions, meditation, and operant conditioning. He has sixty publications to his credit, has been professor at several universities and is also engaged in the private practice of psychotherapy. With Humphrey Osmond he is editor of Psychedelics: Their Uses and Implications to be published by Doubleday.

RON ACCIOLA is a poet, singer, musician and shaman.

RICHARD BAKER is a Zen Buddhist priest, past president of San Francisco Zen Center and one of the persons instrumental in the establishment of the Zen Mountain Center at Tassajara. He has been studying and meditating in Japan during the past year. Although he is not a highly experienced or finished Zen teacher, he has had enough experience, we feel, to lead the kind of introductory programs we are presenting.

BETTY BERZON is Director, Group Program Development at the Human Development Institute, a Bell & Howell subsidiary. For nine years she was on the staff of Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, where she conducted the research on self-directed groups out of which Bell & Howell's ENCOUNTERTAPES for Personal Growth Groups were developed. Her particular interest is in innovative uses of small groups for personal growth learning. She is author of a number of articles and is co-editor of a forthcoming book, The Encounter Group: Issues and Innovations. She lives and works in Los Angeles.

PAUL BINDRIM of Los Angeles, California, is a pioneer and leader in nude sensitivity training. He has conducted fifty nude encounter sessions since the first one in June of 1967. His forthcoming book on nude marathons is being published by Macmillan and a sound-slide seminar on the subject will soon be released by McGraw-Hill. The Canadian Broadcasting Company has produced a documentary on his work. It has also been reported in Psychotherapy (September 1968), Time (February 23, 1968), Life (July 12, 1968), American Psychologist (April 1969), Psychology Today (June 1969). His earlier work includes research in ESP (Journal of Parapsychology) and the development of procedures for cultivating peak experiences (Ways of Growth, Grossman 1968).

JOHN BLEIBTREU was born and raised in New York City, served in the United States Navy in World War II, worked on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, lived with a troop of baboons outside Nairobi, Kenya, published two books, and now lives in Big Sur, California.

GEORGE I. BROWN teaches courses in group interaction, creativity, awareness and sensitivity training as a professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. With his wife he has given workshops and seminars for many diverse groups in the United States and Canada. Dr. Brown is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, brings much experience in group awareness training. Her approach is based on principles of gestalt therapy as founded by Dr. Frederick Perls, with whom she has worked as a co-therapist.

SEYMOUR CARTER is a former resident of Synanon, a leader of the Esalen "More Joy" workshops and a massage specialist. In his work he draws upon a wide variety of approaches to body awareness and to liberating human potential which are being explored at Esalen, including Reichian therapy, gestalt therapy, Zen Buddhism, structural integration and sensory awareness.

KEN CHASE is resident instructor of Tai Chi Chuan at Esalen Institute. He has studied with Master Choy in San Francisco and divides his teaching time between Esalen and Santa Cruz.

JOSEPH J. DOWNING is a psychiatrist in private practice, President of San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute, and formerly superintendent of Mental Health Services, San Mateo County, Department of Public Health and Welfare. He is also a member of Esalen's Advisory Committee.

JAMES EAGEN is a former primary school teacher. He has taught ghetto school children in Harlem, the Lower East Side and Hunter's Point. His interest is the application of increased mind-body awareness to primary classroom teaching. In addition to teaching and educational research, he has training in theatre, encounter, gestalt and sensory awareness and meditation. He holds degrees from Antioch College and City University of New York and is presently a doctoral candidate at the University of California, Berkeley and a staff member at Esalen, San Francisco.

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at San Francisco State and Brandeis University. He is an editor of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology and the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology. Presently he is a consultant with Snowden, Sullivan & Goodwin, working with educational and industrial institutions.

ROBERT FRAGER, Ph.D., teaches psychology at Berkeley. He studied Aikido at the International Headquarters, Tokyo and holds the rank of second degree black belt.

BETTY FULLER, 1967-68 Resident Fellow, is Esalen's Director of Consulting Services and coordinator of the encounter group leadership training program. She is one of a group of encounter leaders selected and trained by William C. Schutz. In addition to her work with groups around the country, Betty's background includes teaching in the public schools of Michigan and California and several years in radio, TV and the theatre as producer-writer-actress-director.

GIA-FU FENG teaches Tai Chi, Calligraphy and Shiatsu-therapy at Esalen and Stillpoint in Los Gatos. With Professor Jerome Kirk of the University of California at Irvine he has retranslated the I Ching (Book of Changes) from the Chinese. His book entitled I Ching, a Guide to Oracle Imagery, and Tai Chi, a Way of Centering, will be published by Macmillan in October 1969.

GERALD GOODMAN, Ph.D., is a clinical-community psychologist with a special interest in non-professionals as therapeutic agents. He is currently working on a book (An Experiment with Companionship Therapy) which is the account of a five-year study of structured companionships between troubled boys and college students in Berkeley. He has studied the process of self-disclosure in two-person therapy and the post-therapy period at the University of Chicago. Dr. Goodman has been associated with Esalen for six years as occasional seminar leader, internal critic and Advisory Committee member. Presently, he is professor of psychology at UCLA.

JERRY A. GREENWALD, Ph.D., is a gestalt psychotherapist in private practice in Beverly Hills. He developed the concepts of nourishing ("N") people and toxic ("T") people and is developing further applications of these ideas to the interaction in human relationships.

BERNARD GUNTHER is one of the pioneers in the use of touch, relaxation, body awareness and non-verbal communication in the total growth process. For the past five years he has been a resident staff member of the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, where he has developed his own approach to massage, meditation and mind/body/environment integration known as sensory awakening. Many of his innovations are now being used in educational, religious and therapeutic situations throughout the United States. He is the author of the best-selling book Sense Relaxation (Macmillan-Collier, 1968); his book of poems Love View will be published by Macmillan this fall.

GERARD V. HAIGH, Ph.D., a practicing psychotherapist with Psychological Service Associates, Los Angeles, is experimenting with new kinds of basic encounter groups. He studied with Gardner Murphy at City College of New York and Carl Rogers at the University of Chicago, has been on the Menninger Clinic staff and taught at the University of Chicago, Arizona State University and the University of California, Los Angeles. He is President of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and is a board member of the Topanga Center for Human Development.

LILYAN HAIGH is a graduate student in Early Childhood Education and a pre-school teacher. She is also a group leader for the Topanga Human Development Center.

ROBERT HALL is a psychiatrist in private practice in Mill Valley, California. Dr. Hall has acted as assistant to Fritz Perls and was, until recently, an Associate in Residence at Esalen, Big Sur.

ANNE HEIDER holds a Master's degree in musicology from New York University. She has been a Resident Fellow, a special assistant to Dr. William C. Schutz and co-leader of many encounter groups with her husband John.

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., is an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute. He has done research on the effects of meditation on perception. He is particularly interested in the role which Esalen plays as a crossroads for many diverse elements of the Human Potential Movement; and he views himself as a natural philosopher working toward integrations of such practices as dance, meditation, sensory awakening and the adventure of encounter.

RICHARD HORAN is an artist and currently co-director of the massage program at Esalen Institute, Big Sur.

ARTHUR S. HOUGH, Ph.D., studied general semantics under Irving J. Lee at Northwestern, and communication theory on every educational level from high schools to universities and has conducted workshops for industrial, military, government and cultural organizations for 19 years. He is on the Broadcast Communication Arts faculty of San Francisco State College, teaching communication theory and mass media. As an independent television and film producer, Dr. Hough has produced several historical documentary series, two television series on communication and created the panel game Oh My Word for ABC-TV. He is an author and is presently Mass Communication Editor for Houghton Mifflin Publishing Company.

BARTON W. KNAPP, Ph.D., is a research psychologist at the New Jersey Bureau of Research in Neurology and Psychiatry, Princeton, New Jersey, where he is actively engaged in the alteration of perception by hypnosis and in the application and effects of Esalen-type massage on interpersonal realtionships, body perception and relaxation. He leads groups in Philadelphia and New York, and he is a member of the board of directors of the Center for the Whole Person in Philadelphia.

JOEL KRAMER was Yogi in Residence at Esalen Institute during the 1968-69 period and is currently an Associate in Residence. He completed undergraduate work in philosophy at the University of Florida and did graduate work in philosophy and psychology at Columbia, New York University and University of Florida.

STANLEY KRIPPNER is the Director of the William C. Menninger Dream Laboratory, Maimonides Medical Center, Brooklyn, N.Y. He is also Director of Research for the New York Institute for the Achievement of Human Potential, Special Education Consultant at the Staten Island Mental Health Clinic, and Lecturer in the graduate school of Wagner College, New York City. The author of over 90 articles in psychology and education, Dr. Krippner is a contributor to Psychedelic Art by Masters & Houston and to Altered States of Consciousness by Tart. Dr. Krippner is a Fellow in the American Society of Clinical Hypnosis and a member of over 30 professional organizations, including the American Psychological Association and the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion. He is vice president of the National Association for Gifted Children and in 1969 received the Service to Youth Award, the YMCA's highest honor to a layman.

JANET LEDERMAN is an artist and a writer, and has taught in the Los Angeles City School District for fourteen years. She has also served as art consultant and has been involved with teacher training for UCLA. In her teaching, Miss Lederman has successfully utilized gestalt therapy techniques with the disadvantaged ghetto child and with children who manifest extreme behavior disabilities. She has applied these methods in a regular educational context as well, ranging from first graders to college students. She is author of the forthcoming book Anger and the Rocking Chair.

JOHN LILLY is currently an Associate in Residence at Esalen, Big Sur. Formerly, Dr. Lilly was Director of Neurological Research at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore and Director of the Communication Research Institute, Miami. His primary research interest has been the relation of the mind to the brain. He has training in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology, psychology, physics, electronic engineering and interspecies communication. He has carried out research on animals (cats, monkeys, dolphins) and on human subjects (including himself). He is author of Man and Dolphin, The Mind of the Dolphin (A Non-human Intelligence) and Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer.

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm and The Betrayal of the Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

THEODORA LYON was for two years Fritz Perls' secretary and apprentice at Esalen and works now as a co-leader of groups at his Institute in Canada.

EDWARD MAUPIN, Ph.D., is an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, and is a Director of the Esalen Resident Program. He was formerly at the Neuropsychiatric Institute, UCLA. In his work he draws upon a wide variety of approaches to body awareness, including methods derived from Wilhelm Reich, Alexander Lowen, Ida Rolf, Mary Whitehouse and the psycho-physical disciplines of various religious and esoteric traditions, such as Tantric Yoga and Christian Mysticism.

ROBERT MCKIM, associate professor of design at Stanford, founded and directs a unique engineering-and-art design program and Esalen-at-Stanford, Esalen's most active university outpost. Long interested in the psychology of creativity, his research into the effects of psychedelic agents upon the creative process alerted him to the importance of visual imagery to creativity. His forthcoming book, Experiences in Visual Training, is illustrated by the "idea-sketches" of physicists, architects, geneticists, engineers, sculptors, and designers, and includes over 100 exercises directed toward the development and expression of visual thinking.

RICHARD P. MARSH, Ph.D., plays several games: he is Professor of Creative Arts and Broadcast Communication Arts at San Francisco State College as well as Professor of Semantics and Communication at the California Institute of Asian Studies. He has pioneered in leading encounter groups in an academic setting, co-produced (with Dr. Arthur Hough) the television series Communication Is, and published internationally on the psychedelics. He is an Esalen Advisor and author of the Esalen publication Beyond Games: Achieving the Third Human Nature.

LEADERS' BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER holds her Master's degree in Special Education and is experienced as a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and young adults. She is experienced in conditioning techniques and is interested in the relationship between these techniques and the encounter.

STUART MILLER, Ph.D., who holds his Doctorate in Comparative Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. Dr. Miller is a former Resident Fellow and a member of the "Flying Circus", the staff of six encounter group leaders trained by William Schutz. He is Esalen's Director of Development.

CLARK MOUSTAKAS has put the principles he has eloquently preached into practice at Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit, where he trains teachers and graduate students in creative, person-centered approaches to education. He is the author of Loneliness; Individuality and Encounter, editor of The Self and one of the sponsors of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

ROBERT NADEAU, who holds a second degree black belt, teaches Aikido and meditation throughout the San Francisco Bay Area. He is a personal student of Master Morihei Ueshiba, the founder of Aikido, and is the only full-time Aikido instructor in California.

JOHN PERRY is a Jungian analyst in San Francisco and is Director of Studies of the C.G. Jung Institute. During World War II he lived in China; he is well versed in Oriental culture and philosophy. His work during the past several years has centered around the potentially reconstitutive and mythic aspects of the schizophrenic process. His publications include The Self in Psychotic Process and Lord of the Four Quarters.

PEGGY PETERSON is a sixth grade teacher. She and her husband, Severin, were Resident Fellows in the 1966-67 Esalen Resident Program. They live in a small 57-year old house in Fairfax, California.

SEVERIN PETERSON is a research associate at Esalen. He has worked as a landscape architect and is currently writing a book on ways of growing.

JOHN PIERRAKOS, M.D., is Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and a co-worker with Dr. Alexander Lowen. He is a practicing psychiatrist.

JAMES W. PRESCOTT, Ph.D., is Health Scientist Administrator, Growth and Development Branch, Developmental Behavioral Biology Program, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. Previously he was assistant head, Physiological Psychology Branch, Office of Naval Research. Dr. Prescott's special interest is the biological mechanisms of behavior during development.

JANETTE RAINWATER, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Beverly Hills in association with James S. Simkin, Ph.D. She specializes in leading continuing groups and encounter workshops, using gestalt techniques and sensory awareness methods. She was formerly in private practice in Berkeley and on the staff at the Counseling Center, San Francisco State College.

WILLIAM RICKLES, M.D., is an assistant professor in residence at the Neuropsychiatric Institute and Department of Psychiatry in the UCLA School of Medicine. His interests and experience range from research in basic neurophysiology to the problems of people living with people and with themselves. His research has been concerned with sleep physiology, autonomic components of the orienting response in psychiatric and drug induced states, and EEG abnormalities in the chronic schizophrenic syndrome. He is a practicing, eclectic psychotherapist and a cnadidate in the Los Angeles Psychoanalytic Institute.

JACK L. ROSENBERG, D.D.S., M.A., a practicing dentist in San Rafael, California, has a Master's degree in psychology and has been working in the field of psychology related to dentistry for the past ten years. Formerly Director of Counseling at University of Pacific School of Dentistry, he is now with the post-graduate department of that school and has taught courses in Psychology Applied to Dentistry, Dental Auxiliary Utilization, Work Simplification and Practice Management. He is a trainee at the Gestalt Therapy Institute and has had wide experience in both group encounter and body awareness and utilizes these approaches frequently in his courses.

GABRIELLE ROTH is currently co-directing the massage program at Esalen, Big Sur, where she also leads movement seminars. She has been studying and teaching creative dance forms for the past ten years and has successfully integrated this experience in her work as a massage specialist. Her approach is to provide experiences and techniques through which we can discover and express ourselves nonverbally.

DANE RUDHYAR started his career in Paris, France, as a progressive composer and a writer on music and the arts. His basic concern has always been the development of a philosophy of individual existence based on a holistic approach to all aspects of the personal and social life—a philosophy oriented toward the New Age which his study of historical and astrological cycles made him see as impending. His study of Oriental philosophy and esotericism led him to astrology and since 1932 he has published a number of books and hundreds of articles in an attempt to reformulate and renew the basic concepts and symbols of this much-abused art. He recently originated an International Committee for Humanistic Astrology. Dane Rudhyar has written various books on astrology (The Astrology of Personality, The Pulse of Life, The Practice of Astrology, Birth Patterns for a New Humanity) and on general culture and world-renewal (Art as Release of Power, Modern Man's Conflicts, The Rhythm of Human Fulfillment, etc.).

VIRGINIA SATIR is a Director of the Esalen Institute. She was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada, and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and has helped to establish "well family" clinics in various parts of the United States. She is the author of Conjoint Family Therapy.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is a teacher, researcher, theorist and practitioner in the fields of interpersonal behavior and research design. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Berkeley and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was the research director of a state-wide study of school administration in California and the national research coordinator of the Cooperative Program for Educational Development (COPED) of the U.S. Office of Education. His book on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior (The Interpersonal Underworld) was published in 1966. He is also author of JOY (Grove Press, 1967), a work concerned with encounter group techniques and theory. Currently, Dr. Schutz is an Associate in Residence and Director of Esalen's Resident Program.

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS hold regular classes in New York and conduct seminars and study groups throughout the United States and in Mexico in their field, which is Sensory Awareness, Perception and Nonverbal Communication. Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, Sensory Awareness has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration. Miss Selver's pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for much of the work with sensory awareness, sensory awakening and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Since 1956 she has held joint seminars with Alan Watts, and for the past three years she and Charles Brooks have held joint seminars with Shunryu Suzuki Roshi. Charles Brooks has assisted Miss Selver since 1963 and has conducted his own workshops in Santiago, Chile, Berkeley, Tassajara and Monhegan, Maine. They were in residence last spring at Esalen, Big Sur.

BENNETT SHAPIRO, 1967-68 Esalen Resident Fellow, leads groups privately and for Esalen in the Bay Area and throughout the country. He has studied intensively with a wide variety of therapists and teachers for over three years at Esalen, including training with William Schutz. Formerly an architect and visiting lecturer at schools of architecture, he now is a full-time encounter group leader.

STEWART SHAPIRO, in addition to his workshops in conflict resolution and positive experience, is currently engaged in human relations workshops in higher education. Recognizing the powerful potential of T-Groups, positive experience and conflict resolution for the critical situation on many campuses today, Dr. Shapiro believes that communication skills of the highest order need to be applied to interracial problems and the faculty-administration-students dialogue. He is on the staffs of NTL and the UCLA Institute of Industrial Relations in both management and labor programs. Dr. Shapiro is the Director of Counseling and Guidance and Coordinator of the Office of Human Relations, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara.

JULIAN SILVERMAN, Research Director of Esalen Institute, holds the position of Research Specialist with the California Department of Mental Hygiene. Before accepting this appointment, he was for several years with the National Institute of Mental Health where in 1967 he became chief of the section on Perceptual and Cognitive Studies of the Adult Psychiatry branch of NIMH. A considerable portion of his research has been devoted to studies of the psychology and physiology of various altered states of consciousness. The major concerns of his current research program are with the study of psychophysiological functioning in relation to subjective experience and behavior change. He is on the editorial boards of the Journal of Schizophrenia and the Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease.

JAMES S. SIMKIN, who trained at the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy in 1952-55, has been a co-leader of professional training groups with Dr. Perls for five years. He has been developing innovations in gestalt therapy and contributing to its literature since the early sixties. He has recently completed and produced the first training film on the individual application of gestalt therapy, "In The Now". In addition to leading workshops at Esalen and other growth centers, he is training over 20 psychotherapists in the Los Angeles area. Dr. Simkin is a clinical psychologist in Beverly Hills and a Fellow of the American Psychological Association.

GERALD SMITH, Ed.D., is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

WILLIAM SMITH is, or has been, an insurance executive, U.S. Congressional aide, labor consultant, Protestant evangelist, common laborer, bartender, professional house guest, poet, writer, and is currently Research Associate, Esalen, San Francisco. He holds degrees in psychology, political science and theology.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, currently senior research associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, has been one of the principal pioneers in the development of the marathon group and one of the prime innovators in the use of videotape feedback in the group setting. Leader of a broad range of marathon groups and workshops, Dr. Stoller's written contributions are growing, two of his important papers appearing in Gazda's Innovations to Group Psychotherapy (Thomas). A novel about a marathon group, The Lemon Eaters by Jerry Sohl (Dell), has been based upon his work.

STEVEN STROUD, a former Esalen Resident Fellow, is now one of the Directors of the Resident program. He has been trained by William C. Schutz in encounter group leadership, by Bernard Aaronson in hypnosis. He is especially interested in altered states of consciousness and their relevance to encounter groups.

JEFFREY STUART is a poet, musician, visionary and a long-time resident of Big Sur.

J. RICHARD SUCHMAN, founder and director of Ortega Park, is an "at-large-teacher" and teaches at home, or on the road. He conducts laboratory-seminars with groups of educators, helping them inquire into the process of education and the ways people can help other people learn. Formerly, he was Professor of Education at the University of Illinois and research director for the U.S. Office of Education and author-consultant for Science Research Associates. He is probably best known for his work on the inquiry process and development of inquiry in children. He is author of Inquiry Development Program, published in 1966 and 1968 by Science Research Associates.

DAN SULLIVAN trained two years with Ronald Laing in London in therapy, and is now Director of the Princeton Sensitivity and Gestalt Workshop Center in Princeton, New Jersey. He is also completing a dissertation for the "Doctorat d'Etat" at the Sorbonne in philosophy on Eros and Freedom: A Critique of the Ironic Vision. He has published and lectured widely on the complex relations between woman, romance, self-mockery and ideology.

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of California at Davis. He has also taught at Stanford and the University of Virginia Medical School and has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, and ESP. He is currently conducting studies funded by the National Institute of Mental Health on the possibilities of deliberately altering and controlling dream consciousness, the effects of brain wave feedback, and the nature of marijuana intoxication. He is the editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings (John Wiley & Sons, 1969) and the author of more than fifty scientific articles and papers.

WILLIAM IRWIN THOMPSON, author of The Imagination of an Insurrection: Dublin, Easter 1916, is Associate Professor of Humanities at Toronto's York University. He is presently at work on At the Edge of History: Essays on Post-Industrial Culture, parts of which have begun to appear in The Antioch Review.

FREDERICK WELLS is a musician, educator, journalist, theologian and self-styled mystic. He has degrees in music and performs professionally in both classics and rock. His studies in psychology and religion with Hans Hofmann and Paul Tillich included an internship at Metropolitan State Hospital, Norwalk, California. Recently he has been leading encounter groups, producing multi-media happenings and teaching his own experiential method of music listening. He is the founder of the Fellowship of New Being, a modern religious community.

RESIDENCE AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

THEOLOGICAL RESIDENCE PROGRAM

See pages 4-5 for description and details.

SPRING RESIDENT PROGRAM

Esalen's fifth Resident Program will be offered in the Winter/Spring of 1970, beginning in February. The program will be directed by William C. Schutz and will be limited to ten or twelve persons. Applications and information on exact dates, costs, format, etc. may be obtained by writing: Resident Program, Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

ENCOUNTER GROUP LEADERSHIP TRAINING PROGRAM

Esalen Institute will offer a 12-week training program in encounter group leadership for twelve trainees October 1-December 21, 1969, in the San Francisco Bay Area. Director of the program is William C. Schutz who will teach, conduct workshops, co-lead and consult with trainees. Betty Fuller will be overall coordinator of the program and facilitate group meetings during the period. Among other Esalen staff members who will work with trainees are John Heider, Steven Stroud and Seymour Carter.

The training program is designed to facilitate the trainee's personal and professional growth through intensive group experiences both as participants in workshops and as co-leaders with fellow trainees and with program directors. In addition, trainees will have didactic sessions on group process and consulting hours with directors of the program. Training sessions will employ videotape feedback among other instructional tools.

The Esalen training program is neither a degree nor certificate program. It is intended to enrich and extend the range of persons presently engaged in encounter group work. Preference will be given professionals in the field (psychologists, teachers, ministers, social workers, counselors, etc.); however, lay people whose training, talents and life experiences particularly suit them to work with groups will be considered.

Preliminary screening of candidates for the training program will be handled through study of application data. The remaining promising cnadidates will attend a weekend encounter workshop with the program directors for the final selection process.

Selection weekend is August 15-17. Candidates will be notified of the exact schedule and location. Cost of the weekend is $75 including board, room and fees. Dress is informal.

Please address requests for further information and application forms to: Esalen Training Program, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

PROFESSIONAL GESTALT WORKSHOP IN EDUCATION

A professional gestalt workshop for educators and administrators will be held at The Gestalt Training Institute of Canada, Lake Cowichan, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, starting January 5 and ending February 13, 1970. Janet Lederman, an associate of Frederick S. Perls, M.D., Ph.D., will be the program leader.

The workshop will focus on: (1) the learner as he presents himself; (2) the integration of the affective and cognitive domain; (3) a linguistic approach to behavior and learning; (4) the use of the environment as a background for discovery; (5) the gathering of information through multiple sources; (6) audio and visual perception; (7) the development of the aesthetic sense through fantasy and reality; (8) the selection of meaningful experiences; (9) getting through the impass and transcending the status quo.

Janet Lederman is an educator, writer and artist. She taught within a public school situation for fourteen years. She served as an art consultant and was involved with teacher training at UCLA. In her teaching, she has successfully utilized the gestalt educating process with the ghetto child and with children who manifest extreme stress. She has applied these methods in a regular educational context as well, ranging from pre-school children to college students and faculties. She is author of the forthcoming book, Anger and the Rocking Chair, to be published as an Esalen Book by McGraw-Hill this fall.

Tuition for the six-week program is $600 per registered participant; there is no fee for nonparticipating family members. Singles, couples and families may apply; children will participate in an experimental school. Camper-trailer space, shared cabins and family accommodations are available (prices sent upon request). Participants will provide and prepare their own food and be involved in many communal activities. For further information write to Professional Gestalt Workshop in Education, Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 28-31.

GESTALT THERAPY AND AWARENESS TRAINING PROGRAMS

Gestalt training, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is nonanalytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through noninterpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, founder of gestalt therapy, Associate in Residence at Esalen/Big Sur.
JAMES S. SIMKIN, clinical psychologist, Beverly Hills, co-leader of professional training groups with Dr. Perls for five years.
JOSEPH J. DOWNING, psychiatrist, Menlo Park, California.
JANET LEDERMAN, an associate of Dr. Perls, author and teacher.
ROBERT HALL, psychiatrist, Mill Valley, California.
JOHN B. ENRIGHT, psychiatrist, Corte Madera, California.
THEODORA LYON, co-leader of groups at The Gestalt Training Institute of Canada.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are now available. This is not a service in lieu of attendance, but is for individuals and organizations to whom recordings of significant lectures and seminars, and training tapes of techniques and methods, are of particular value. This applies to professional and nonprofessional organizations, departments in educational institutions, libraries, religious bodies and individuals with tape collections.
Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from which a complete list may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $7.50 per tape-hour, stereo or mono. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 6633, Carmel, California 93921.

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to R. Gerald Thatcher, Esalen Books, Big Sur, California 93920.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36).

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

RADIO STATIONS KPFA-FM and KIOI-FM broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures, as does KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific) on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides. A series of Esalen programs was broadcast over 40 educational stations under the title "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio, and other series are in preparation from time to time.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16MM FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' approach to gestalt therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis from MEDIASYNC, P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

A journal of theory, research and application of the humanistic orientation in psychology (values, autonomy, being, self, love, creativity, identity, growth, psychological health, organism, self-actualization, basic need-gratification and related concepts). The Spring 1969 issue featured "Psychological Theory of Education" (Alfred Alschuler); "Toward a Psychological Theory of Education" (Robert E. Mogar); "Humanistic Methodology in Psychological Research" (George A. Kelly); "Self-Actualization Values of Felons" (Gary Fisher and A.B. Silverstein); "PEER: An Audiotape Program for Self-Directed Small Groups" (Betty Berzon, Jerome Reisel, David P. Davis and others). (For subscription blank, see reverse side.)

For Reservation Information, see page 36.

SAN FRANCISCO INFORMATION

LECTURES AND SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Exact time and location of lectures will be printed on the tickets. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. (Any event may be cancelled if advance sales indicate insufficient interest.)

SAN FRANCISCO SEMINARS AND WORKSHOPS:

RESERVATIONS: Advance registration is required for seminars and workshops; reservation deadline is one week prior to date of event. To register, send a $10 per person deposit with reservation form or letter to: Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. You will receive confirmation of registration by return mail. Balance of seminar fee is payable at the first meeting.

LOCATIONS: San Francisco seminars and workshops are held at local meeting places. These include the new facilities of the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco, and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic, Berkeley. If not specified in the brochure, participants will be informed of workshop location at the time of registration and confirmation.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. They are generally composed of one Friday evening session, two or three Saturday sessions, and one Sunday morning or afternoon session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Esalen Institute has no lodging facilities in San Francisco. Each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels and motels. Unless otherwise stated, meals are not provided at seminars and workshops.

MEMBER RATES: $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes, for men.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

Grounds are closed except by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. 7-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30 and end on the following Sunday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Pets, alas, are not welcome at all.

MEMBER RATES: $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, $70 for 7-day workshops, all nonrefundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks are able to furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds which will be acceptable.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute–Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number–431-8771–and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

Returning to the Origin, Back to the Source.

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars—but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

SERVICES

ESALEN CONSULTING SERVICE is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops. Programs and leaders have thus far been provided to various community, governmental, religious, industrial and education groups.
Direct inquiries to Betty Fuller, Director, Esalen Consulting Service, San Francisco office.

ENCOUNTER GROUP LEADERSHIP TRAINING PROGRAM for a limited number of professionally oriented trainees is offered for the first time. Program schedule will cover twelve weeks in the San Francisco Bay Area under the directorship of William C. Schutz. See page 32 for further information.

ESALEN RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM – The fifth series will be offered at Big Sur in Spring 1970, under general direction of William Schutz, limited to 10 or 12 persons. See page 32 for further information.

A THEOLOGICAL RESIDENCE PROGRAM is offered at Big Sur for the first time during January, 1970, under the direction of Sam Keen, Ph.D. An outgrowth of the Interdisciplinary Series on Religion, this extended program is intended to give religious professionals opportunity to experience and reflect upon a number of growth-facilitating disciplines. See page 5 for further information.

A PROFESSIONAL RESIDENTIAL GESTALT WORKSHOP FOR EDUCATORS and administrators will be held in British Columbia during the first six weeks of 1970 under the direction of Janet Lederman, focusing on integration of affective and cognitive domains in education. For further information see page 35.

Richard Baker is alive and well in Kyoto. Richard Price is alive and well in Big Sur.

RESEARCH AT ESALEN

In recent years, new research techniques in the fields of neurophysiology, biochemistry and computer technology have led to some major advances in the study of human behavior. Electronic procedures for recording and analyzing brain waves, cardiovascular activity and other physiological responses have been used to investigate personality and perceptual functioning. Experimental studies have suggested systematic relationships between biological factors and measurable aspects of personal experience. A number of the new research techniques are being employed in studies originated at Esalen Institute. In one study, just completed, members of the Esalen Residence Program were examined before and after completion of the four-month program. Preliminary data analyses have yielded extremely interesting results. An elaborate study also is being carried out on the effects of Structural Integration, a technique developed by Dr. Ida Rolf. Pilot studies of this technique have suggested specific biochemical changes associated with the favorable subjective effects of Dr. Rolf's technique. Other studies will begin in the near future. Reports on these projects will be printed in future Esalen Newsletters.

These researches are being carried out in collaboration with scientists from a number of institutions, including the California Department of Mental Hygiene, Stanford Research Institute, the University of California at Los Angeles and the National Institute of Mental Health. Dr. Julian Silverman is co-ordinating and supervising Esalen's research program.

Esalen Institute recognizes the importance of scientific studies of the kinds of experiential programs with which it has been associated. It also fully recognizes the value of the unique settings that certain of these experiential programs provide for studying marked behavioral change. Finally, it continues to recognize its responsibility to support, in whatever ways appropriate, basic and applied research in human behavior and human potential.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

THE PRACTICE OF MEDITATION

First Series: January 15-February 26 (every Thursday), 8 to 10 p.m.
Second Series: March 4-April 15 (every Wednesday), 8 to 10 p.m.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

These fourteen meetings will provide participants with an extended opportunity to practice meditation. It is offered by a cooperative arrangement with the Zen Center of San Francisco, which will provide instruction.

No charge is placed on this series, but participants are requested to consider a $1,00 per evening door contribution to cover costs. This is an open series, and it is possible to attend one or all of the individual meetings. (Bring a pillow for sitting.)

STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP POLICY

In order to make more readily available the many programs offered by Esalen/San Francisco, a policy has been adopted whereby students may attend seminars and workshops in the San Francisco area on a stand-by basis at a reduced fee. Please call the San Francisco office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, (415) 431-8771. This policy does not apply to Big Sur Programs.

Saturday, January 10; 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
Sunday, January 11; 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
$55 per person; limited to 60 participants.
(Seminar participants will receive a complimentary lecture ticket.)

Carl Rogers started work as a clinical psychologist in 1927. He is noted as the founder of client-centered therapy and his impact on therapeutic practice and work with groups has been considerable. He is the author of Client-centered Therapy (1951); On Becoming a Person (1961); and Freedom to Learn: A View of What Education Might Become (1969) and many other articles and books.

Dr. Rogers is the only American psychologist who has ever been awarded both of the major awards of the American Psychological Association, The Award for Scientific Contribution and The Award for Professional Achievement. He has taught at Ohio State University, The University of Chicago, The University of Wisconsin, as well as shorter teaching stints at Harvard, Occidental and other colleges. He is presently a Resident Fellow at the Center for Studies of the Person, La Jolla.

In spite of the fact that he has been and still is active professionally, this does not mark the limit of Dr. Rogers' interests. As a dedicated photographer, he has taken pictures in many parts of the world, especially in the Caribbean. He and his wife love to go to secluded islands where the snorkeling is good. Currently his major hobby is gardening and at the time of this writing he says, "My tuberous begonias are gorgeous, many of them with blooms eight inches across." He and his wife live in a contemporary home overlooking the ocean, the new University of California at San Diego and the mountain ranges to the east. They get particular pleasure out of entertaining their younger colleagues at the Center.

January 9-11: GESTALT OPEN WORKSHOP with JOSEPH J. DOWNING See page 38 for description.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

January 10-11
THEATRE OF ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop
with ALEC RUBIN

An encounter group using new theatre techniques, body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy, relaxation and breathing; verbal and nonverbal moment-to-moment confrontations with one's self and others; games and exercises to evoke the fullest expression of what is locked inside; body sounds and rhythms, being quiet, falling, holding, beating, "sounding" the body, pulling apart, coming together, being with; opening new perceptions, unifying opposite feelings, allowing a free flow of spontaneous feeling and action.
$45 per person. 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, January 10-11.

January 12
INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER
Monday Evening
with ESALEN STAFF

Participants will be divided into two groups for the evening session — those with previous encounter experience and those who have had little or none.
Group I: A fast moving introduction to encountering under general direction of Bennett Shapiro. Participants will be divided into small encounter groups which will integrate the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, communication games. Group II: An intensive follow-up encounter experience, using techniques learned previously.
Comfortable clothes recommended (slacks for women); bring pillow to sit on.
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday, January 12.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 16-18
TECHNIQUES AND INSTRUMENTS FOR CONTROLLING AND ALLOWING Weekend Workshop
with BURYL PAYNE

Life may be viewed as a balance between willful self-control and spontaneous allowing. This seminar will explore both of these dimensions. On the controlling side, participants will be given several sessions on an EEG machine to help them learn to control brain alpha waves. Individual and group sessions with an Audible Psychogalvanometer will help them control their sympathetic nervous systems, and another instrument will give them feedback on muscle tensions. On the allowing side, participants will be involved in free movement, techniques of emotional release and a session of creativity enhancement.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 16.

January 19-22
TIME AWARENESS
4-Evening Workshop
with ALAN LAKEIN

What does time mean to you? This seminar will explore some of the dimensions of time, including: decision time, action time, thinking time, emotional time, using time, escape time, creative time, estimating time, relaxing time, wasted time, more time, hurry time, quiet time, social time, and being on time. Particular attention will be paid to Lakein's Law: "There is always enough time for the important things" and Lakein's corollary: "You always do what at the time you consider the most important thing." Participants may attend one or more of the sessions as their time permits; sessions will be experiential, so comfortable clothing is recommended.
Monday, January 19: Past Time — Reliving your past the way you would like it to be, to develop a happier future.
Tuesday, January 20: Present Time — Seeing the "here and now" as an illusion in which present time does not exist.
Wednesday, January 21: Future Time — Creating happy endings by moving the potential of the future into your present.
Thursday, January 22: Life Time — Exploring lifetime goals as they relate to your current thoughts, feelings and action.
$3 general; $2 student per person per evening. 8 to 10:30 p.m. each evening.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 23-25
CREATIVE INSPIRATION FROM THE TRANCE STATE
Weekend Workshop
with SHEPARD
and LOIS GINANDES

The creative impulse springs best from prepared ground — a trained body, mind and spirit. Training the body with yoga, the mind with meditation, and the spirit with relaxation and hypnotic trance states, one can enhance creative improvisation and inspiration. This weekend is open to dancers, actors, writers, visual artists, musicians and serious students. There will be training in self-hypnosis to carry on creative progress after the weekend is over.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 23.

January 23-25
ON BEING JEWISH
Weekend Workshop with
SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER

This weekend workshop will explore the fun you once thought that it might be to be Jewish. Together, through "tradition", we will meet our pogroms and Messiahs. Chicken soup will be provided.
Sara Miller, educator, creator of store front schools in New York City, expert in operant conditioning techniques and behavior modification, spirited facilitator of encounter groups and wife extraordinary, is also a Jew who has survived.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 23.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

January 26-30
MASSAGE
AND MEDITATION
5-Evening Workshop
with
MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN

In describing her workshop, Molly Schackman writes: "A week in which we will focus on becoming centered and quiet, learning to move from our center, and allowing the inner power we have achieved to flow naturally and caringly through our hands to the bodies of others, awakening their senses. The release of any emotions which may arise from touching or being touched, or from our meditations, will be encouraged. There will be time at the end of the evening for exploring these and for being together verbally or nonverbally. Periods of instruction in massage will be preceded and followed by meditation."
Couples are encouraged to attend so they can continue to massage each other at home.
$75 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, January 26-30.

January 28
TRANCE-CURING WITH
THE KALAHARI BUSHMEN
An Evening
with RICHARD KATZ

The Kalahari Bushmen are a preliterate hunting and gathering tribe, living for the most part in the Stone Age. Often the Bushmen community gathers to dance throughout the night to send some of its members into a trance-curing state. The community thrives because its members enter this altered state of consciousness and the trancers are able to integrate this state into their daily lives.
The lecture will be accompanied by slides, film and tapes of trance dances.
$3 general, $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, January 28.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 30-February 1: GESTALT PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with JAMES S. SIMKIN See page 38 for description.

January 30-February 1
HUMANISTIC EDUCATION, OR,
"EDUCATION DOESN'T HAVE TO TASTE BAD"
Weekend Workshop
with AARON HILLMAN

"Confluent education" is the term currently being used by the Ford-Esalen project group to signify a merging of the cognitive and affective domains in education. This workshop will explore the process of "confluent education", utilizing the approaches which were developed during the Ford-Esalen research project. While designed primarily for teachers at all levels, the workshop is open to anyone in the education field. Gestalt awareness training for teachers and students will be an integral part of the program.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 30.

January 30-February 1
CREATING AN EDUCATION: AN EXPERIENTIAL WORKSHOP
Weekend Workshop
with RICHARD KATZ

This workshop deals with humanistic education and considers education as personal growth, a journey of transformation. There will be a series of experiential exercises focusing on themes such as encountering, transpersonal creating, nonverbal experiencing and moving from evaluation to accurate self-assessment. The exercises will stress each person's capacity to educate himself, keeping the role of the "expert" to a minimum. Throughout, a central issue will be to go beyond transitory expressiveness toward cumulating awareness in everyday life.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 30.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

TWO EVENTS WITH ROLLO MAY

LECTURE
February 6

THE STRUCTURE OF SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE
8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, February 6
$3 general; $2 student. Nourse Auditorium, Franklin & Hayes, San Francisco

SEMINAR
February 7, 8

THE STRUCTURE OF SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE
There will be four two-hour sessions during the seminar, Saturday morning and afternoon and Sunday morning and afternoon. All seminar participants will receive a complimentary ticket to the Friday night lecture. $55 per person; limited to 60 participants.

Session I: "One Man's Odyssey". Dr. May will talk about himself and his own spiritual transformations and will encourage participants to discuss the events of their spiritual lives.

Session II: "Myths of America and Spiritual Experience". A discussion of the American notions of sinlessness and utopianism, and the American restlessness which leads to despair and faith in technology.

Session III: "Meditation and the Courage to Come to One's Self".

Session IV: "Communion of Consciousness". A discussion of caring and love as part of spiritual structure.

ROLLO MAY is Training and Supervisory Analyst at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis and Psychology. He has served as visiting professor at Harvard and at Princeton. Among his books are The Meaning of Anxiety; Man's Search for Himself; Psychology and the Human Dilemma; and Love and Will.

February 6-8
WEEKEND WORKSHOP FOR COUPLES with BILL and AUDREY McGAW

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in encounter group sessions over the workshop period. Limited to eight couples.
$110 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 6.

February 6-8
EMOTIONAL EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN
Extended Weekend Workshop
with HAROLD BESSELL

Emotional maturation does not occur by chance. The teacher who understands the tasks that comprise the rungs of the ladder of personal growth is in a unique position to present those tasks in the best possible ways to his children. This workshop will include demonstrations with children, presentations of theory and free-wheeling discussions. Hopefully, the participants will gain emotional insight as well as a theoretical grounding in the processes of emotional maturation.
Participants will qualify as being certified to use the Human Development Program (see Dr. Bessell's biographical sketch). Participants will also receive by mail a complete set of written matierals of the program approximately three weeks in advance of the workshop. The cost of these materials is covered in the seminar fee.
$86 per person. 7-11 p.m. Friday, February 6; 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, February 7 and 8 (with breaks for lunch).

February 8, 22,
March 8, 22,
April 5
MAPS OF CONSCIOUSNESS
5 Evenings with
RALPH METZNER

Throughout the histories of various civilizations groups of enlightened human beings have devised symbolic languages for the guidance of those pursuing the spiritual path, the way of liberation or self-realization. Five such symbol-systems will be explored and discussed: Astrology, I Ching, the Tantras, the Tarot and Alchemy. The discussion will be basic, requiring no prior knowledge of the map. Each evening workshop will consist of two parts: a theoretical, historical introduction to the system; and an experiential session to provide a sense of the practical use of the map.
$4 general, $2 student per evening; $18 for the series. 8-11 p.m., Sundays, February 8, 22, March 8, 22, April 5.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36

February 11: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER – An Evening with the ESALEN STAFF
$5 general, $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday, February 11. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco. See page 6 for description.

February 13
THE EXPERIENCE OF LEAVING THE PHYSICAL BODY
An Evening with
CHARLES T. TART

Dr. Tart is now engaged in a scientific study of "out-of-the-body" experiences in addition to his studies on nocturnal dreaming, hypnosis, operant control of the human alpha rhythm, and the state of consciousness produced by marihuana. He is also preparing a major theoretical monograph, tentatively entitled "The Variety of Human Consciousness", concerning the function and the potential usefulness of various states of consciousness. Specific projects include such things as the establishment of two-way communication with dreaming subjects, the use of hypnosis to influence various aspects of noctural dreaming, in stage-one dreaming, explorations of exceptionally deep hypnotic states, the effects of hypnosis on the learning of operant control of human brain wave rhythms and the relationship of marihuana intoxication to other states of consciousness.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, February 13.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

February 13-15
A WEEKEND OF MOVEMENT
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop, Gabrielle Roth writes: "As we are, so we move: spontaneous or tense, flowing or restricted. This workshop is designed so that each individual may discover the language of movement, become familiar with his own physical vocabulary and learn to use it as a means for personal growth and communication with others." Music, dreams, imagery and sensory perception are some of the stimuli Miss Roth uses to initiate the movement process.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 13.

February 13-15
OVERVIEW OF ENCOUNTER TECHNIQUE
Weekend Workshop
with JOHN HEIDER

This workshop is designed primarily for those who lead groups or do similar work: therapists, teachers, ministers, etc. Participants will be exposed to massage, meditation, sensory awakening and other forms of verbal and nonverbal encounter. Emphasis will be placed on teaching how to use, adapt or invent tools for application in other contexts. Experiential and didactic sessions will be combined.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 13.

February 13-15 and March 13-15
DISCOVERY OF THE POSSIBLE
Education Workshop in Two Parts
with JAMES EAGEN

This workshop is designed for teachers and educators and is divided into two sections on separate weekends. The first section (February 13-15) will involve each participant with a variety of Esalen-style educational methods: encounter, sensory awareness and movement, breathing-fantasy exercises, and the "here and now" of gestalt awareness training. During the time period between the first and second sections, participants will apply some part of their workshop experience to their work with students or others. Participants will be asked to maintain a record of their experiences and discoveries. During the second session (March 13-15), group members will share these experiences and discoveries, plan improvements and review experiential techniques. Limited to 14 persons.
$60 per person (total fee for both weekends). Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 13.

February 16
INNOVATIONS IN FAMILY THERAPY
Monday Workshop
with GERALD SMITH

An all-day workshop for professionals. Demonstrations will include: modification of structured interview for marriage counseling, application of Gestalt Therapy to families, art expressions with couples and family, role-playing applications, a structure for first three family therapy sessions, family communication check-up – a preventative experience for families.
$50 per person. 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday, February 16.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

February 20-22
BECOMING MORE
ALIVE THROUGH PLAY
Weekend Workshop with
MARIAN SALTMAN
and the ESALEN STAFF

To play is to be creative; to live more freely and to be more expressive. The setting of this workshop will feature play materials and an environment in which to act out and recollect the joys of play. Here is an opportunity to change the level of consciousness by actual play, which can bring one closer to the spontaneous free-creative expression of the long-forgotten child within. There will be group discussion or encounter depending on the mood of the group.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 20.

February 20-22
THE SECOND MARRIAGE
Weekend Workshop
with DENIS O'DONOVAN

An encounter for those who have married again, for those considering remarriage and even for those to whom the thought is incredible. Professionals working with such clients are welcome, and a special warm place is reserved for neophytes contemplating marriage to veterans. Experiences will grow from the individuals involved. Hopefully, some problems can be unburied and even more buried. The leader will attempt to share insights gained from Fritz Perls, Virginia Satir, George and Peggy Bach, but especially from his first and second wives.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 20.

February 20-22
EXCITEMENT, EXPERIENCING
AND EXPERIMENTING
Weekend Workshop with
RICHARD MILLER and Staff

Dr. Miller describes his program as follows: "I am excited by my work. My groups are like their participants, enjoyable, hectic, threatening, peaceful, humorous, earnest — rarely empty and often satisfying. I believe in maximum growth as a way of life, rather than getting along or mere functioning. I use my skill to clear a space where all may experience and experiment. You are invited to experience and experiment with me."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 20.

February 20-24
SKI ENCOUNTER
4-Day Workshop
with BENNET SHAPIRO

This workshop for couples and singles will combine four days of skiing and encountering in a private lodge in the Squaw-Alpine ski area. Participants are free to ski in the mornings and early afternoons; group sessions will be held in the late afternoons and evenings. The encountering will be fast moving, body oriented and intensive, incorporating the many methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen, particularly gestalt awareness and bio-energetic techniques. Exact location and other details will be supplied upon application.
$125 per person (including lodging and meals but not ski equipment or tow tickets).
Begins 9 p.m. Friday, February 20 and ends 6 p.m. Tuesday, February 24. A nonrefundable deposit of $50 is required upon registration.

February 22: MAPS OF CONSCIOUSNESS: The I Ching, with RALPH METZNER See page 8 for description.

February 23-26
THE OPEN COUPLE
4-Day Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication, and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$130 per couple; 7 to 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday, February 23-26.

February 25,
March 4, 11, 18
A MOVEMENT CLASS
FOR WOMEN
4-Morning Workshop
with PAT MURPHY

This class will be keyed to the needs of women from 35-65 and will include exercise, breathing, relaxation and free movement to music. The class will be small in order to explore more fully each member's potentials and limitations. If there is sufficient interest among the participants, the class will continue for several additional sessions.
$12 for the series. 10 a.m. to 12 Noon, Wednesdays, February 25, March 4, 11, 18.

February 27-March 1: HUMANISTIC EDUCATION, OR, "EDUCATION DOESN'T HAVE TO TASTE BAD".
Weekend Workshop with AARON HILLMAN. See description on page 7.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

February 27-March 1
A WORKSHOP FOR CHANGE AGENTS
Weekend Workshop
with STEWART SHAPIRO

In today's increasingly complex and interdependent world more and more of our time is spent in organizational life. It is through the humanistic viability of our organizations and institutions that our society will succeed or fail in the crucial tests that lie ahead. This workshop will be oriented toward tasks, goals and personal growth of those who wish to be active in organizational change (leaders and potential leaders, consultants, change agents and students of change). There will be discussions and demonstrations of strategies and models for change in various systems including individuals, small groups, organizations and communities. Techniques such as problem census, T-Groups, "the personal road map", conflict resolution, strength training by positive experience and the inner dialogue will be experientially demonstrated by participants. Change agents for this workshop can be individuals or teams in business management, colleges, public schools, government, social agencies, volunteer organizations, churches or other community organizations.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 27.

March 6-8
LOVE AND PASSION, SEX AND CELIBACY
Weekend Seminar
with FATHER
WILLIAM McNAMARA

In describing his seminar, Father Will writes: "We will discuss the pitch and pinnacle of love which no one knows anything about except the saints, including such varied versions as St. Exupéry, Ghandi, and Zorba the Greek, as well as Joan of Arc, John of the Cross and Francis of Assisi.
"Contemplation is the only way to this peak human experience. But modern man finds contemplation very difficult. One reason is his tendency toward psychiolatry: a solipsistic introspection into the psyche with no further exploration into reality.
"Human passion empowers man to break through toward the peak. Sometimes passion is stifled in marriage and liberated in celibacy. The human adventure is ultimately one love affair – with God."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 6.

March 6-8
CHANGE-ABILITY: A PROBLEM OF LIFE AND DEATH
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES and
ELIZABETH BUGENTAL

Life is change, and to be aware of changing and to have some hand in steering it is to be really alive. This seminar-workshop will focus on the subjective experience of being in change. The mystery and reality of physical death and the possibility of psychic death in the midst of physical life will provide the backdrop against which we seek to know and experience our change-ability. A variety of action techniques, some encountering, and some plain old-fashion bull sessions will be used so we can each take a look into our own being in-processness.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 6.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

March 6-8
STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION
Weekend Seminar
with IDA P. ROLF

During this seminar, Dr. Rolf will present her method of Structural Integration. The program will include lectures, a discussion and demonstration of early hours of Structural Integration on a previously unprocessed model, and group and individual exercises to permit individuals to evaluate their own alignment. There will also be a general discussion and question-and-answer period. Limited to thirty participants.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 6.

March 8: MAPS OF CONSCIOUSNESS: The Tantras, with RALPH METZNER See page 8 for description.

March 9-13: MASSAGE AND MEDITATION – 5-Evening Workshop with MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday. See page 7 for workshop description.

March 13-15
THE OPEN COUPLE
Weekend Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication, and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$90 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 13.

March 13-15
TOWARD INTIMACY: A WORKSHOP FOR SINGLES
Weekend Workshop with FREDERICK STOLLER
and WILLIAM SMITH

Intimacy is a particular scarcity in the world of the unattached, not only because of the absence of many long-term relationships but because the dating game is especially fraught with maneuvering, distancing, distrustfulness, fear of risk, with trying to "make" someone or "score" or "play it cool". This workshop is to help singles discover what is possible in approaching others and being approached, what is available within themselves and within the situation which can increase genuine satisfaction and meaningful personal development. It will utilize a variety of techniques such as simulation games, group exercises, nonverbal exploration, videotape and Polaroid feedback.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 13.

March 13-15: UNFOLDING – Weekend Workshop with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS
See page 41 for description.

March 18
ECOLOGICAL CONSCIOUSNESS
An Evening
with IRA EINHORN

Ira Einhorn describes his lecture as follows: "Cybernetics and evolution are merging to bring about an ecological revolution that will transform the entire human species. The lecture will attempt to outline this transformation from two points of view: technology and the development of consciousness, using information theory as a means of integrating the interaction of these two convergent forces."
$2 general; $1.50 students. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 18.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 19: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER – An Evening with the ESALEN STAFF
$5 general, $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday. See page 6 for description.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

March 20-22
CLOSE YET FREE
Couples' Weekend with
GERALD and
LINDA SMITH

To have closeness or intimacy and yet have room to personally grow . . . this is a basic dilemma in marriage. The dilemma can be coped with either creatively or destructively. Our purpose will be to experience a number of ways of creatively coping with the dilemma of being "close yet free" within marriage. We will use aspects of family and gestalt therapy and numerous nonverbal and movement approaches.
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 20.

March 20-22
THE MARRIAGE OF FAUST AND SHIVA
Weekend Seminar
with IRA EINHORN

In describing his seminar, Mr. Einhorn writes: "Stress is information that the body can't handle. Pollution is information that the environment can't handle. Both are hallmarks of our present age. The seminar will deal with all types of food/information that enter both systems with the idea of quickly becoming conscious of the energy available to the eco-system as a whole.
"It will explore those disease states (cancer, schizophrenia, catatonia) that indicate an inability to handle energy/information, but will focus on those states of mind that indicate that the species is undergoing a transformation in consciousness that will totally change the nature of man." Participants in this seminar are urged also to attend Mr. Einhorn's lecture (Wednesday, March 18), which will serve as a broad introduction to those concepts which will be explored in more detail in the seminar.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 20.

March 20-22
GESTALT WORKSHOP: "50 POSITIONS FROM WHICH TO EXPERIENCE LIVING"

THE MAN-WOMAN RELATIONSHIP
Weekend Seminar
with VIRGINIA SATIR

An intensive experiential seminar exploring the dynamics of communication and interaction between men and women on sensory, emotional and intellectual levels. Experiential sessions will be complemented by reflection and discussion of personal and group experiences. Co-led by William Smith.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 27.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

March 27-29
DANTE'S WAY
TO THE STARS
Weekend Seminar
with CLAUDIO NARANJO

"Midway in our life's journey I went astray from the straight road and woke to find myself alone in a dark wood." These are the first lines of the work wherein Dante shows – not the "direct way", for this he regards incompatible with the "present state of humanity" – but another way, long and contemplative, which may lead man to his full spiritual goal after knowledge of Hell and the effortful climbing to Purgatory.
The seminar will attempt to show the relevance of Dante's ideas to contemporary man and the relevance of his developmental conception to that of present trends in psychiatry.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 27.

March 30-April 2
MOVEMENT
AND MASSAGE
4-Day Sorkshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop Miss Roth writes: "As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed."
$60 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, March 30-April 2.

March 31
CREATIVE PSYCHOTIC, ECSTATIC AND MEDITATIVE STATES
Tuesday Evening Lecture
by ROLAND FISCHER

Dr. Fischer describes his lecture as follows: "Normal, creative, schizophrenic, and mystical-ecstatic states are conceived on a continuum of increasingly higher central nervous system arousal. These levels are experienced in terms of increasing data content and increasing rate of data processing, which may result in a creative, hallucinatory, artistic or religious state. Eventually, however, the rate of processing cannot keep step with the ever-increasing data content – 'the torrential flood of inner sensation' – and results in the schizophrenic 'jammed computer' state. At the peak of ecstatic states, interpretive activity ceases, or in biocybernetic terminology, there is no data content from without, and, therefore, no rate of data processing from within, the only content of the experience at the height of rapture being the reflection of the mystic in his own 'program'.

"On the other hand, the meditative states satori and samadhi are on the other end of the continuum of decreasing levels of arousal. The yogin's peak experience represents pure self-reference without a 'program'. So we can visualize in the 'normal' center of the continuum a Kommissar, flanked at a distance by the ecstatic St. Teresa of Avila on the one side, and by a (noncommercialized) meditating yogin on the other."
$3 general; $2 student. 8-10:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 31.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

April 4-5
ENLIGHTENMENT
Weekend Workshop
with SHYAM BHATNAGAR

This workshop will explore various methods for reaching enlightened states of consciousness. Mr. Bhatnagar has devised some of these methods from the ancient philosophies of Vedanta, Raja Yoga, Bhakti Yoga, Karma Yoga and Tantra. "Each individual according to his energy level is to follow one method that is most suited to him", comments Mr. Bhatnagar.
Food and herbs appropriate to meditative practice, mantra chanting and problems of disciplined meditation sitting will be discussed. Private sessions for determining each person's energy level and how to work with chakras to raise the kundalini can be arranged after the seminar.
$30 per person. Begins 10 a.m., Saturday, April 4.

April 5: MAPS OF CONSCIOUSNESS: Alchemy, with RALPH METZNER See page 8 for description.

April 10-12
A WORKSHOP FOR UNATTACHED SINGLES
with BETTY FULLER

The intent of this workshop for unattached singles is to bypass the superficial level of acquaintance by moving through a series of encounter experiences to the beginnings of authentic relating of persons. The goal is openness and honesty in encounter. Such methods as fantasy, psychodrama, theatre games, body movement and sense awareness exercises may be used. Participants will be selected to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state sex and age on registration. Dress informally. Limited to 32 persons.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 10.

April 10-12
EDUCATION IN THE
"AFFECTIVE DOMAIN"
Weekend Workshop
with JANET LEDERMAN

A workshop for teachers, administrators and parents, demonstrating and using Gestalt Therapy techniques, encounter group methods, body movement and sensory awareness. Participants may explore, experience and possibly uncover ways of integrating the "I" and the "educator". This group will be tailored to meet the participants' personal and professional interests and needs.

WEEKEND WORKSHOP
with
FREDERICK STOLLER

This workshop will consist of a small group encounter designed to challenge the conventional stance of the participants and to enhance the exploration of potential through mutual search for alternatives. Videotape feedback and photography will be among the approaches utilized.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 24.

May 1-3
WEEKEND WORKSHOP FOR COUPLES
with BILL
and AUDREY McGAW

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in encounter group sessions over the workshop period. Limited to eight couples.
$110 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 1.

May 1-3
MANDALA: THE ART
OF NUCLEAR YOGA
Weekend Workshop
with JOSE
and MIRIAM ARGUELLES

Mandala is a consciousness-integrating principle utilizing visualization. Beginning with an exploration of the process of vision, the weekend will include various psychovisual exercises for increasing powers of inner and outer visualization with the aim of coordinating bodily centers and faculties: vision, breath, sound, movements, etc. These exercises will emphasize the realization of universal coordinates within the organism and the creation of cosmo-mythic imagery through immediate group meditation and interaction.
Participants may be notified of inexpensive drawing materials to bring to the workshop.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 1.

May 8-10
THE BODY OF GOD:
The Biological Roots of Spiritual Experience
Weekend Workshop with
STANLEY KELEMAN and
RICHARD RUBENSTEIN

Stanley Keleman writes, "We are our bodies: our understanding of the universe innately involves our biological existence." Richard Rubenstein writes, "We do not have bodies; we are our bodies."
In this workshop, we will explore the relationship between our own bodily experience and our religious insight. Utilizing the bio-energetic approach, Dr. Keleman will work with eight participants selected from the group. Their physical-emotional experiences will be the starting point for our new evaluation of our own spiritual depth and the teachings of Judaism and Christianity. Limited to twenty participants.
$85 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 8.

May 8-10
STRENGTHENING
THE FAMILY OF MAN
Weekend Workshop
with CORRIE HOLLOWAY

This interracial encounter weekend will focus on the exchange of feelings and life experiences of individuals from varying ethnic backgrounds. Participants will be encouraged to expose their games, to reveal and deal with their blocks and barriers to personal realization and interpersonal interaction. A variety of verbal and nonverbal methods, including role reversal, will be integrated within the basic encounter format.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 8.

May 8-10
LSD AND THE HUMAN ENCOUNTER WITH DEATH
Weekend Seminar with
WALTER PAHNKE, M.D.

Open discussion of a more human approach to death is probably one of the most fearful and tabu subjects in our society today. There is much dishonesty and deception even concerning the medical treatment of persons with terminal illnesses — especially cancer. This seminar will attempt to discuss these issues in the light of Dr. Pahnke's research experience with psychedelic psychotherapy (utilizing LSD) for terminal cancer patients. Participants should come prepared to share their own experiences and attitudes concerning death in our culture, both on an individual and societal level.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 8.

May 12
PSYCHEDELIC DRUGS
AND MYSTICAL EXPERIENCE
Lecture by
WALTER PAHNKE, M.D.

This lecture will present evidence from research experiments concerning the relationship between psychedelic drugs and mystical experience. The similarities and differences between psychedelic drug-facilitated and spontaneous mystical experiences will be examined. The implications of this whole area for psychiatry, technology and religion will be discussed, including possible future directions. The controversial evidence regarding the dangers of psychedelic drugs, including possible genetic damage, will also be reviewed.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 12.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN

Beginning in January, there will be a new kind of program at Esalen, Big Sur. Ben Weaver, Esalen's Big Sur Director, describes it as follows:

"The realized teachers all tell us that there is a big difference between knowledge and being. Knowledge we have—projections of the increase in total world information over the next decade are staggering; being we are just beginning to learn, or to relearn. If Esalen has a uniqueness as an educational institution, it is as a new kind of secular (or at least multi-denominational) school where the subject matter is being, consciousness and creativity (broadly defined), rather than information and theories. That there is a felt need for such institutions in today's world has been demonstrated by the continuing success of Esalen's programs and the appearance of some ninety similar centers.

"This first 1970 brochure marks the innovation of a new, experimental format in Big Sur programming. Running parallel to our traditional workshop offerings during many weeks of this brochure, we are introducing a new series called simply 'An Experience of Esalen'. In these workshops a group of Esalen staff members will join workshop participants in an experience of each other surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not as he wishes, and the range of individual choices might swing from intense encounter to a week of silence and meditation. Subject to some variation due to staff members' personal schedules, the following resources will be available to persons participating in these programs: encounter, meditation, massage, yoga, instructions in arts and crafts, Rolf treatments, movement, organic gardening and cooking, natural childbirth, being with children, astrology, tarot (symbols and divination), mysticism, tai chi chuan, music, life as meditation. [Italics indicates specialties available in private sessions by appointment, usually at extra cost. Inquire about costs and availability at time of making reservations.]

"These programs will be totally heuristic, totally experimental. There is an assumption that people attending the programs are willing to be open and talk straight, would just as soon transcend the games level insofar as that is possible, and are willing to spend a week tuned in to their own being and consciousness. If it is possible to enhance one's being without a master, simply by pooling and sharing the wisdom of which we all have a part, these experiences might be the place where it can happen."

THEATRE OF ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with ALEC RUBIN

An encounter group using new theatre techniques, body movement, sensory awareness, fantasy, relaxation and breathing; verbal and nonverbal moment-to-moment confrontations with one's self and others; games and exercises to evoke the fullest expression of what is locked inside; body sounds and rhythms, being quiet, falling, holding, beating, "sounding" the body, pulling apart, coming together, being with; opening new perceptions, unifying opposite feelings, allowing a free flow of spontaneous feeling and action.
$180 per person

January 9-11
INTELLIGENT MINDLESSNESS
Weekend Seminar
with ALAN WATTS

This seminar will provide instruction and practice in basic meditation, the Friday evening session being devoted to explanation and discussion of its theoretical background. Please bring cushions and wear loose and comfortable clothes, since the practice will involve variations upon zazen and yoga, adapted for Western use.
$70 per person.

January 9-11
EXPERIENCING THE TIBETAN BUDDHIST TRADITION
Weekend Seminar with
LAMA TARTHANG TULKU

The Nyingmapa is the oldest and original sect of Tibetan Buddhism founded nearly two thousand years ago by the Guru Padmasambhava. In this seminar, the Lama hopes to bring the serious student of Buddhism, as well as the interested layman, into direct contact with the Nyingma tradition. Practice and theory will be stressed equally.
$70 per person.

January 9-11
THE AID OF HYPNOSIS IN SELF-EVALUATION AND PROGRAMMING
Weekend Workshop with
PETER H. C. MUTKE, M.D.

Workshop participants will be given the opportunity to experience the actual application of hypnosis for self-evaluation and increased awareness, observing and experiencing for themselves how increased receptiveness toward suggestion in hypnosis makes it a most valuable tool in personal planning and programming and in changing negative personality patterns. The use of self-hypnosis and image rehearsal will be demonstrated by Dr. Mutke, who has intensively studied the use of hypnosis in medicine.
$70 per person.

January 11-16
THE OPEN COUPLE
5-Day Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to learn lines of communication, and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$360 per couple.

January 11-16: GESTALT 5-Day OPEN WORKSHOP with JOSEPH J. DOWNING See page 38 for description.

January 11-16
PERSONAL GROWTH, AWARENESS AND EMOTIONAL EDUCATION
5-Day Workshop
with BURYL PAYNE, Ph.D.

This workshop is geared to persons (such as teachers, graduate students in education, camp counselors, psychologists and others in the helping professions) who want to learn techniques of group work. It will include methods of emotional release with special emphasis on husband-wife and parent-child interactions; ways of bringing out and dealing with habitual patterns of self-criticism; body awareness and movement; and the use of feedback training devices. Participants will be given several sessions on an EEG machine to help them learn to control brain alpha waves. Individual and group sessions with an Audible Psychogalvanometer will help them control their sympathetic nervous systems, and another instrument will give them feedback on muscle tensions.
$180 per person.

January 16-18
GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING
Weekend Workshop
with GEORGE I.
and JUDITH BROWN

Based on principles of gestalt therapy, awareness training as practiced by the Browns involves two phases: (1) readiness techniques such as nonverbal communication games, sensory awakening, encounter and the conscious use of fantasy; (2) gestalt awareness training with the intent of helping workshop members get in touch with themselves, to become more aware of each other, to move through fantasy, illusion and preconception to "who" and "what" is really there. Appropriate for individuals and couples.
$70 per person.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

January 16-18
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with BETTY FULLER

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully and vibrantly themselves. In the supportive context of openness and honesty, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter. As need arises such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, and gestalt techniques will be used.
$70 per person.

January 18-23: GESTALT 5-Day OPEN WORKSHOP with JAMES S. SIMKIN See page 38 for description.

January 18-23
YOGA: STUDIES
AND APPLICATIONS
5-Day Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

An intensive program exploring the realms of yoga through conceptual inquiry and actual practice. The seminar is suitable for the interested novice as well as the serious student of yoga. Emphasis will be placed on the daily practice of yogic techniques such as Hatha yoga and pranayama (breathing), and meditation in the light of yogic structures both classical and modern. There will be inquiry into the ever-recurring problems of man such as time, mind, death, freedom, choice, sorrow, desire, competition, sexuality.
A special menu of yogic (pure) foods will be offered. The program will aim at giving the participants a feel for an ancient path ot freedom in modern terms.
$180 per person.

January 18-23
INTIMACY: ENCOUNTER
FOR COUPLES
5-Day Workshop with
JOHN and ANNE HEIDER

This workshop is designed for couples who wish to learn basic skills of verbal and nonverbal encounter. Emphasis will be placed on sensory/sensual sensitivity, upon the accurate reception and transmission of thought, emotion, intuition and touch. Group will be limited to six couples, thus insuring intensive work for all participants.
$360 per couple.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

January 23-25
FESTIVITY, FANTASY AND RELIGION
Weekend Workshop
with HARVEY COX

In describing his workshop, Dr. Cox writes: "Our era is crippled by an incapacity for real festivity, revelry and ritual celebration. It also suffers from a constricted and timid fantasy life. But both festivity and fantasy are staging comebacks today, and religion is playing a role in the renaissance. This weekend will include experiments in new forms of festivity and ritual, explorations of fantasy in its relation to religious symbols, and discussions of the themes explored in Dr. Cox's new book, The Feast of Fools.
$70 per person.

January 23-25
MAN AND WOMAN: PERSONAL FREEDOM IN AN INTIMATE RELATIONSHIP
Weekend Workshop with WILLIAM ZIELONKA and AUDREY ALBIN

Dr. Zielonka describes his workshop as follows: "In your self-development and growth, your own changes can bring enhancement as well as challenges to your intimate relationship with your mate. Areas of the relationship often affected are the values of possessiveness both psychological and body; personal ownership of the other; authority position of one in relation to the other vs. feelings of autonomy.
"Those who are working on being free within an intimate relationship are invited to be in the group. We would like to share and enhance the development of the couple, as the individuals work on their honest growth. Encountering, both verbal and nonverbal, and the living present will be our medium for work."
$140 per couple.

January 23-25
MAKE MUSIC WITH US
A Weekend with
the Big Sur Musicians
and the Esalen Staff

Join the musicians and instrument makers of Big Sur for a weekend devoted to celebrating the richness of life through music. There will be impromptu jamming throughout the weekend, opportunities to share outlooks and insights on the new music, and to partake of the wonder of what may be man's highest communication. In addition, there will be a big dance on Saturday night and, between times all weekend, the music of the surf and the gurgle of the hot sulphur baths.
$70 per person.

January 25-30: OPEN ENCOUNTER with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

A REVIEW OF ESALEN'S THEOLOGICAL PROGRAMS
Weekend Seminar
with SAM KEEN

This program will review the insights, experiences and results of the preceding 4-week Theological Residence Program conducted at Esalen, Big Sur, for those who were unable to attend it. Sam Keen will review the theological reflections which took place during the residence program and the possible application of the psycho-physical disciplines being explored at Esalen to contemporary religious institutions, contemporary theology and personal religious exploration. In addition, an attempt will be made to review the whole Esalen series entitled Theological Reflection on the Human Potential.
$70 per person.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

January 30-February 1: OPEN ENCOUNTER WEEKEND with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

February 1-6: GESTALT AND MOVEMENT. 5-Day OPEN WORKSHOP with THOMAS MUNSON and JUDY ASTON. See page 38 for description.

February 1-6
ECLECTIC ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN HEIDER

A wide variety of growth techniques and disciplines are taught at Esalen. Eclectic encounter is a loose amalgam of the most fruitful of these integrated into the encounter group format. Participants will be exposed to massage, meditation, sensory awakening and other forms of verbal and nonverbal encounter.
To foster the intensity of this workshop, registration will be limited to 12 participants.
$190 per person.

February 1-6
BEING ONE'S SELF
5-Day Workshop
with CLAUDIO NARANJO

This workshop will consist of a series of experiences — physical, social and artistic — that constitute a challenge in terms of authenticity and spontaneity, and can help to develop these qualities.
$180 per person.

February 13-15
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with BETTY FULLER

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully and vibrantly themselves. In the supportive context of openness and honesty, group members will give each other feedback, encourage acceptance of what is and the taking of appropriate risks to be who and what they want. The basic format will be encounter. As need arises such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sense awareness exercises and body movement, fantasy, and gestalt techniques will be used.

February 13-15
POSITIVE
SELF-EXPLORATION
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

In describing his workshop, Jim Fadiman writes: "Our natural state is one of loving awareness. We sometimes forget this and become less than we are. Exercises which will reawaken and strengthen our tendencies toward the good, the beautiful and the divine within ourselves will form the basic structure of the workshop." Suggested for those who wish to go beyond the limitation of traditional encounter groups.
$70 per person.

February 13-15
THE TAROT
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD THATCHER
and JACK HURLEY

The Tarot is the 78-card deck from which modern playing cards derive. It dates from the late 1300's. Best known as gypsy fortune telling cards, the Tarot in fact pictures occult symbols making up an underground library of Western knowledge in religion, mysticism, philosophy, alchemy, astrology and occult sciences.
This seminar will open a brief view into the past, the present and the future as interpreted through the Tarot symbols — from reading cards to concepts of symbolic perception in the contemporary environment. An attempt will be made, through meditation and psychic projection using the Tarot, to enable the participant to formulate a symbolic image of his own personality, towards the end of establishing a creative life style.
Mr. Hurley will present his own Tarot, which he is redesigning through a reinterpretation and modernization of the ancient symbols.
$70 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

February 15-20: GESTALT 5-Day OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with JAMES S. SIMKIN.
See page 38 for description.

February 15-20
THE ROLF METHOD OF STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION
5-Day Workshop
with EDWARD MAUPIN and STANLEY JOHNSON

In this workshop the structural approach of Dr. Ida Rolf will be presented. Drs. Johnson and Maupin, who have been trained in the Rolf technique, will carry out two sessions of Rolf processing on each participant. This approach to the body involves direct physical manipulation in individual sessions. Some group sessions will also be scheduled to explore the relevance of this work to body awareness and the sense of self.
$190 per person.

February 15-20: THE OPEN COUPLE. 5-Day Workshop with BETTY FULLER. See page 18 for workshop description.

February 20-22
STAYING TURNED ON
Weekend Workshop
with BERNARD GUNTHER

Poet Bernard Gunther writes: "There are many ways to turn on, the problem is now to stay that way; how to be life, a dance play, every all day. This is the direction we will explore. In this nonverbal weekend we will do many new sensory experiments that in your daily life situations can flow you through your excessive tensions-verbalizations into staying with your original nature which is bliss being: turned on."
$70 per person.

February 20-22
YOGA: STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS
5-Day Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

An intensive program exploring the realms of yoga through conceptual inquiry and actual practice. The seminar is suitable for the interested novice as well as the serious student of yoga. Emphasis will be placed on the daily practice of yogic techniques such as Hatha yoga and pranayama (breathing), and meditation in the light of yogic structures both classical and modern. There will be inquiry into the ever-recurring problems of man such as time, mind, death, freedom, choice, sorrow, desire, competition, sexuality.
A special menu of yogic (pure) foods will be offered. The program will aim at giving the participants a feel for an ancient path to freedom in modern terms.
$70 per person.

February 20-22
PARANORMAL PHENOMENA
Weekend Workshop
with LAWRENCE LeSHAN

In the past, it has not been possible to deal with paranormal phenomena, or even to discuss them in any except a purely descriptive way, due to the lack of any theory that could meaningfully include them. There are many known 'facts' about psi phenomena, but "without a theory, facts are a mob, not an army." For this reason, both the students of the subject and those who have had paranormal experiences have had severe difficulties in knowing what to do with their knowledge of the existence of the paranormal.
In this workshop, Dr. LeShan will discuss a comprehensive theory of psi phenomena. Based on an intensive analysis of how the clairvoyant and the mystic relate to reality, it demonstrates the crucial similarities between them, and that their perception of how-the-world-works is the same as that of the Einsteinian physicist. The implications of this understanding of the paranormal for training and control of psi ability, for man's relation to man and to the universe, and for the relationship between Eastern and Western metaphysics will be discussed at length.
$70 per person.

February 27-March 1
LOVE AND PASSION, SEX AND CELIBACY
Weekend Seminar
with FATHER WILLIAM McNAMARA

In describing his seminar, Father Will writes: "We will discuss the pitch and pinnacle of love which no one knows anything about except the saints, including such varied versions as St. Exupéry, Ghandi, and Zorba the Greek, as well as Joan of Arc, John of the Cross and Francis of Assisi.
"Contemplation is the only way to this peak human experience. But modern man finds contemplation very difficult. One reason is his tendency toward psychiolatry: a solipsistic introspection into the psyche with no further exploration into reality.
"Human passion empowers man to break through toward the peak. Sometimes passion is stifled in marriage and liberated in celibacy. The human adventure is ultimately one love affair – with God."
$70 per person.

February 27-March 1
LIVE ON THE EDGE OF THE SWORD
Weekend Workshop
with WILLIAM SMITH

William Smith describes his workshop on the existential enjoyment of life as follows: "Many of us spend most of our lives living under the 'Burden of No' due to our self-imposed inability to reach out and take hold of the opportunities that life offers each of us. Based upon an existential theory for freeing one's self from the 'Burden of No', this weekend will be spent examining alternatives to the No's we place in our path while seeking a fuller and more meaningful life."
$70 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

March 1-6
ON BECOMING A DOLPHIN
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN LILLY

Dr. Lilly describes his workshop as follows: "If you are interested in dolphins this workshop is designed to put you close to the dolphins inside you. Dolphins love one another, totally depend on one another, wear no clothes, have no hostility. They have no sexual hangups. They have free communication of feeling-being-love. They rub-touch-play with boundless joy. When we go on their trip, they love us, play with us, save us in the sea.
"Utilizing the knowledge gained from dolphin-human encounters, from human communication techniques (verbal and nonverbal), from solitude and isolation studies (sensory deprivation), and from combinations of these with LSD research, it is possible for an individual to move forward in his own self-development. From where one is now, one can move into new inner spaces, learn to turn on (and off) his positive and negative systems and experience new ways of navigation and piloting in his inner universes. The techniques used resemble hypnosis, meditation (mantras), interpersonal encounter, group sharing and bio-computer programs. These techniques are flexible and adaptable to the individual's current needs."
$180 per person.

March 1-6
SELF-AWARENESS
IN MEDITATION
AND IN PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS
5-Day Workshop
with CLAUDIO NARANJO

In describing his workshop, Dr. Naranjo writes: "Meditation, the traditional discipline in self-awareness, is intrapersonal, while psychotherapeutic procedures are interpersonal. The purpose of this workshop will be to work on both ends of the gamut that ranges from contact to withdrawal, demonstrating a variety of psychological exercises that can be of use in either situation."
$180 per person.

March 1-6
BODY EXPRESSION:
IN STILLNESS
AND IN MOTION
5-Day Workshop
with JUDY ASTON

A workshop for beginners to the dance-movement field (if you are 38, then you have had 38+ years' experience in moving and/or not moving). The week will include exercises to increase body awareness and to explore the range of movement possibilities, and the time to attend to your body's ways of expression. The workshop will conclude with the artistic creation of movement events taken from the previous sessions: for example, moments of encountering, contacting, sharing, dancing.
$180 per person.

March 6-8
A WEEKEND OF PSYCHODRAMA
with LEWIS YABLONSKY
and WALT ANDERSON

Psychodrama, one of the most effective and exciting of group interaction techniques, brings the group together in spontaneous enactments of personal and social situations. In this intensive weekend of psychodrama, each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand.
$70 per person.

March 13-15
A WEEKEND
OF MOVEMENT
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop, Gabrielle Roth writes: "As we are, so we move: spontaneous or tense, flowing or restricted. This workshop is designed so that each individual may discover the language of movement, become familiar with his own physical vocabulary and learn to use it as a means for personal growth and communication with others." Music, dreams, imagery and sensory perception are some of the stimuli Miss Roth uses to initiate the movement process.
$70 per person.

March 13-15: GESTALT OPEN WORKSHOP with ROBERT RESNICK. See pages 38-39 for description.

March 13-15
STAYING WITH IT
Weekend Workshop
with CLAUDIO NARANJO
and AL SCHWARTZ

Our ordinary condition is one in which our mind constantly flits from one object or thought to another, so that we do not even realize to what extent we do not give ourselves completely to anything; our feelings remain half-felt and our thoughts half-thoughts. This weekend will be an attempt to explore the depth of experience that may be possible by merely dwelling upon things wholeheartedly. This will be done in a variety of exercises and meditation teachings involving continuity of attention, insistence and repetition.
$70 per person.

March 15-20: GESTALT 5-Day OPEN WORKSHOP with JAMES S. SIMKIN. See pages 38-39 for description.

March 15-20: YOGA: STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS. 5-Day Workshop with Joel Kramer. See page 19 for description.

March 15-20
5-Day WORKSHOP
FOR COUPLES
with BILL
and AUDREY McGAW

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate and deeper, more meaningful communication.
$380 per couple.

March 15-20
AWARENESS TRAINING
FOR DENTAL PROFESSIONALS
5-Day Workshop with
JACK ROSENBERG, D.D.S.
and
GEORGE BROLASKI, M.D.

The manner in which the dentist approaches his patients and practice is, in general, a reflection of the way he approaches life. This workshop is designed to allow the participant to explore both aspects of a professional man's life — his practice and his inner life — in hopes of developing a deeper significance and awareness of both. Encounter, gestalt and body awareness techniques as well as videotape feedback, will be used during the workshop. The application of some techniques in dealing with patients will be covered by Dr. Rosenberg. Dr. Brolaski will center on the "Journey Inward". Participants must be in fields related to dentistry: dentist, dental assistant, dental hygienist, dental technician.
$200 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

March 20-22: OPEN ENCOUNTER WEEKEND with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

March 20-22
MOVING ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop
with HEATHER KEEN
and LOUIS PAUL

This workshop will make use of both movement and language as media for relating to others, with experiences in movement and nonverbal communication forming the basis for verbal encounter. Individual exercises will focus on opening pathways to a deeper understanding of the self; group experiments will center on touch and sensitivity to the movement of others. Wear leotards or loose clothing in which you can move freely. Limited to 25.
$70 per person.

March 20-22
ORACLE IMAGERY AND CENTERING
Weekend Workshop
with GIA-FU FENG

There will be intensive sessions in oracle reading and dream interpretation, as well as t'ai chi chuan. Gia-fu is especially gifted in reading oracles, partly because one Chinese character can mean ten different things under ten different circumstances. He is the author of I Ching, A Guide to Oracle Imagery, and Tai Chi, a Way of Centering (Macmillan, 1969).
$70 per person.

March 22-27
HUMANISTIC EDUCATION, OR, "EDUCATION DOESN'T HAVE TO TASTE BAD"
5-Day Workshop
with AARON HILLMAN

"Confluent education" is the term currently being used by the Ford-Esalen project group to signify a merging of the cognitive and affective domains in education. This workshop will explore the process of "confluent education", utilizing the approaches which were developed during the Ford-Esalen research project. While designed primarily for teachers at all levels, the workshop is open to anyone in the education field. Gestalt awareness training for teachers and students will be an integral part of the program.
$180 per person.

March 22-27
GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING
5-Day Workshop
with GEORGE I.
and JUDITH BROWN

Based on principles of gestalt therapy, awareness training as practiced by the Browns involves two phases: (1) readiness techniques such as nonverbal communication games, sensory awakening, encounter and the conscious use of fantasy; (2) gestalt awareness training with the intent of helping workshop members get in touch with themselves, to become more aware of each other, to move through fantasy, illusion and preconception to "who" and "what" is really there. Appropriate for individuals and couples.
$180 per person.

March 27-29
SENSORY AWAKENING: REBIRTH
Weekend Workshop
with BERNARD GUNTHER

Bernard Gunther, poet, describes his workshop as follows: "A series of ritual experiments designed to take you out of your ego mind and in joy find a more flowing kind of awareness being: continuously reborn. In this weekend workshop we will use massage meditation, sensory relaxation and nonverbal communication to trans/end frustration and through sensory initiation: child like become again."
$70 per person.

For Leaders' Biographical Information, see pages 32-36.

March 27-29
ESALEN EASTER CELEBRATION
Weekend Program
with BOBBY and TENNEY KIMMEL and THE NEW COUNTRY CHURCH

The New Country Church is representative of the new grass roots movement in religion emphasizing direct personal participation in the religious experience. This weekend will be a joyous celebration of rebirth, taking in the entire Esalen and Big Sur communities. Workshop members will have the opportunity to construct and participate in their own celebration of Easter with the Esalen Staff and the resident New Country Church Gospel Choir. The Choir is composed of Esalen staff members and Big Sur residents They sing new songs of spiritual awakening.
Possible activities include group meditation, sensory awakening sessions, a celebration meal, gospel choir singing and other things planned by the workshop members.
$70 per person.

March 27-29
ON TWO VARIETIES OF HALLUCINATORY EXPERIENCE: THE ARTISTIC AND THE RELIGIOUS
Weekend Seminar
with ROLAND FISCHER

This seminar will explore recent research into the relationship between artistic creativity, mystical experience and neurophysiological functioning which has been studied by Dr. Fischer. Julian Silverman, Esalen's Research Director, will be available to comment on Dr. Fischer's research in relation to his own in the same area.
For further description of this seminar, write to Esalen/San Francisco.
$70 per person.

March 29-April 3
ENLIGHTENMENT THROUGH TANTRA
5-Day Workshop
with SHYAM BHATNAGAR

This workshop will explore Tantric foods, sex, sleep, dreams and a general idea of how we create and are created through sound and rhythm. There will be chanting of mantras, practice of physical and mental exercises and special meditation techniques tailored for each participant with the seed (bija) mantra to release vital dormant psychic strength from each chakra. There will be special emphasis on Tantric practices for couples.
$180 per person.

March 29-April 3
SEX, LOVE AND MARRIAGE IN THE YEAR 2000
5-Day Program with
ROBERT & ERMA RIMMER and the Esalen Staff

Bob Rimmer is the author of The Harrad Experiment, Proposition 31 and other novels. Basic themes in his work are the creations of new patterns of sexual and family relationships in our culture and the building of a new psychological sophistication which will free people for more intense enjoyment of life. In this workshop, the Rimmers will discuss some of these unconventional themes, and participants can share their own ideas and experiences. We may also experiment with Esalen activities, like micro-labs, group fantasy and encounter techniques for everyday living, with the goal of adding substance to the utopian possibilities of our ideas.
$180 per person.

April 3-5: THE DELIGHT OF IMMEDIACY. Weekend Workshop with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS
See page 41 for description.

April 3-5
CONTRIBUTING TO THE GROWTH OF OTHERS
Weekend Workshop
with SAMUEL CULBERT

Many of us are looking for new ways to use ourselves more effectively in contributing to the growth and learning of others. This workshop will aim for the participant's greater connection with his personal power as he helps others in their own self-exploration. Focus will be on the variety of interpersonal connections that lead to growth and fuller realization of man's potential. The workshop would be of special interest to those in the helping professions but is open to anyone.
$70 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

April 5-9
PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP IN BIO-ENERGETICS ANALYSIS
4-Day Workshop with
ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D.
& JOHN PIERRAKOS, M.D.

This workshop is designed for persons who are interested in understanding the language of the body and in learning how to work with the body to resolve emotional problems. Dr. Lowen's approach is grounded in basic psychoanalytic thinking and presents an in-depth technique for handling deep personality disturbances.
The workshop is professionally oriented and restricted to psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, therapists and those in related fields. Participants should come prepared with trunks or leotards in order to experience the work directly. Recommended reading list will be sent at time of registration. (Limited to 35).
$200 per person.

April 5-10
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING
5-Day Workshop
with ED MAUPIN

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches — sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions — are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination.
$190 per person.

April 10-12: OPEN ENCOUNTER WEEKEND with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

April 12-17
A WORKSHOP FOR FINDING YOU YOURSELF
5-Day Workshop
with JOHN LILLY
and STEVEN STROUD

Our trip in this workshop is your trip. Who are you? Where did you start? Where are you now: in your body, in relation to me? Games you play, with yourself/with us, are they necessary? Who are you in crisis? Do you get what you want or do you compromise? Where next? We will focus on these and other questions using various awareness techniques.
$180 per person.

April 12-17
MOTIONS THROUGH INNER SPACE
5-Day Workshop
with KEN CHASE
and STEVE GENARDINI

This workshop will be an intensive exploration of inner space and body movement. An introduction to Tai Chi Chuan, the ancient Chinese moving meditation, will be combined with sensory awareness and music. The emphasis will be on slow motion, breathing techniques and perfected balance. The music will be presented by the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society each evening to accompany the Tai Chi Chuan. A dance concert in new time signatures will be followed by Cuban and Brazilian spiritual rhythms.
$180 per person.

April 19-24
MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop with
MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN

Molly Schackman describes her workshop as "a week in which we will focus on becoming centered and quiet, learning to move from our center and allowing the inner power we have achieved to flow naturally and caringly through our hands to the bodies of others, awakening their senses. The release of any emotions which may arise from touching or being touched, or from our meditations, will be encouraged. There will be time at the end of the day for exploring these and for being together verbally and nonverbally. Periods of instruction and practice in massage will be preceded by early morning meditation and followed by sunset meditation. There will be no late evening meetings (except Sunday night) so we can be refreshed for our early morning meditation."
Couples are encouraged to attend so they can continue to massage each other at home. Participants should plan to arrive in time to eat dinner before an 8:00 p.m. evening session on Sunday and try to stay through 5:00 p.m. Friday.
$180 per person.

April 24-26
THEATRE AS A SOURCE OF AWARENESS
Weekend Workshop
with JAMES WOODS

Although most theatres remain an elite area separated from the popular audiences of television and film, the dramatic experience has nevertheless become democratized, even though most often in a nonartistic form. Theatre, or more accurately, dramatic experience, is happening everywhere, not only in the formal setting of the university and the commercial stage. Examples are middle-class encounter groups, agitprop and guerilla theatre used by youth and political movements. The theatre program of Studio Watts Workshop is a part of this democratization of art in society. By generating plays of high artistic value from ghetto experience, the Studio may be creating the only kind of communication which is possible between increasingly closed groups.
This weekend will be an experiential exploration of this technique through which participants (including six members of Studio Watts Workshop) will develop a play around a theme chosen by the participants. The participants will use the group theatre experience as a tool for widened awareness and change. The production, by objectifying isolated and personal experience, becomes a kind of vehicle for participants' own movement and change in an increased number of directions.
$70 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

April 24-26
A MULTI-RACIAL WORKSHOP TO EXPLORE FEELINGS THROUGH MOVEMENT
Weekend Workshop
with ANN HALPRIN

This workshop will dramatize feeling through the use of movement. The ultimate object – the creation of a work of dance and dramatic art – entails the development of new interpersonal awareness among participants. (For further information on this approach, please refer to the June 1969 issue of Drama Review.)
Ann Halprin, artistic director of the Dancers' Workshop of San Francisco, has appeared in and directed underground movies and TV programs; has taught and produced happenings in universities and colleges. Her company has appeared at international festivals in Europe. Since September Ann Halprin, with the Dancers' Workshop, has been collaborating with a black group with Studio Watts Workshop. They gave a performance at the Mark Taper Forum called "Ceremony of Us", and a TV program called "Right On", and is continuing to perform with students on campuses in the West Coast area.
$70 per person.

April 24-26
INFORMAL MASSAGE WEEKEND
with RICHARD HORAN

A workshop designed to help tune participants into their bodies through methods of relaxation and to learn informal massage suited for the home. The technique does not require special equipment and is adapted to any comfortable position. Emphasis will be placed on developing expressions of love, caring, trust, rhythm and breathing.
$70 per person.

April 24-26
FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY
Weekend Workshop
with GEORGE I. and JUDITH BROWN

A workshop for couples who feel they have a relatively healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationships even more real, exciting and substantial. The focus of the program will move through misleading and confusing preconceptions of oneself and one's marriage partner to increasing perception and authentic response to a real person in a real world. The Browns will use approaches to gestalt awareness training that once learned in the workshops can continue to be used by the couple in their home setting.
$140 per couple.

April 26-May 1: OPEN ENCOUNTER with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

April 26-May 1
OPENING UP AND LETTING GO
5-Day Workshop
with CLAUDIO NARANJO

In this experience, exercises will be used stemming from many places, times and religions – esotericism, psychotherapy, religion and art – directed to the underlying challenge of letting-go; in fantasy, thought, speech, movement, feeling, action and interpersonal contact. This work will lead to self-knowledge and aid in overcoming stifling control and hidden fears which impoverish life and personality.
$180 per person.

May 1-3: HUMANISTIC EDUCATION, OR, "EDUCATION DOESN'T HAVE TO TASTE BAD" – Weekend Workshop with AARON HILLMAN $70 per person See page 26 for description.

May 1-3
DREAM APPRECIATION
Weekend Workshop
with
MONTAGUE ULLMAN, M.D.

Too little attention has been paid to the task of establishing a sense of rapport and understanding with our own dream consciousness. This is all the more surprising in the light of the current interest in developing techniques for enhancing self-awareness. This workshop will include: a presentation of a point of view about dreaming as metaphor in motion; exercises using manifest content to explore the potential range of thought and feeling embedded in the metaphor; the metaphor of the dream examined in specific life context.
$70 per person.

May 1-3: TOWARDS EXPANDED CONSCIOUSNESS: Weekend Workshop with CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES BROOKS. See page 41 for description.

May 3-8
MOUNTAIN ENCOUNTER
5-Day Workshop
with STEVEN STROUD
and JACKIE KRENKEL

Encounter, as developed by William Schutz, will be the format of the workshop. Participants will hike with a pack train to a camp site in the mountains of Big Sur on Monday and will camp there until Friday. The week will be spent in an encounter group and in exploring the mountains, streams and woods.
$190 per person.

May 3-8
A CRAFT WORKSHOP
5-Day Workshop with
the GUILD OF HANDS

Beginning with the basic assumption that within each individual lies all he needs to begin an approach toward creative fulfillment, this workshop will explore ways in which people can "do". Leaders of the workshop are people who "do". Some of the tools used in this exploration will be:

Pottery	Jewelry
Graphics	Baking
Batik	Leatherwork
Weaving	Photography

Emphasis will be on process, rather than completed work. The general tone of the workshop can best be described in the phrase "structured spontaneity".
$180 per person.

May 3-8
MOVEMENT
AND MASSAGE
5-day Workshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

Miss Roth describes this program as follows: "As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed."
$180 per person.

May 3-8
VISUAL IMPROVEMENT:
AN APPLICATION OF GESTALT
PSYCHOTHERAPY AND
THE BATES' METHODS
5-Day Workshop
with MARILYN
ROSANES-BERRETT, Ph.D.

This workshop will include lectures and discussions on Gestalt Therapy as advanced by Frederick S. Perls and as applied to common visual refractory and fusion difficulties. Techniques from variations of Bates' work which can be utilized to improve vision will be demonstrated and applied. This method was made famous by Aldous Huxley's book, The Art of Seeing. Such methods lead to awareness of visual functioning which is a major facet of the functioning of the whole person. This program is not suitable for myopics wearing over maximum six-diopters lenses.
$200 per person.

May 8-10: OPEN ENCOUNTER WEEKEND with ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF. See page 39 for description.

May 8-10
ESALEN'S
EIGHTH BIRTHDAY
A Weekend Celebration
in Big Sur

Esalen is eight years old this month, and like any healthy eight-year-old, it dearly loves a party. Participants are invited to join Mike Murphy, Ben Weaver, the Esalen staff and as many Esalen old-timers as we can round up, in celebrating our survival through good times and bad, and sharing in our wonder and awe at the strange evolution of this place from a seedy and run-down resort (which, in some ways, it still is) to an institute with projects ranging from neuro-physiological research to theological reflection. On the lighter side, there will be an abundance of music with the Big Sur musicians, and all kinds of celebratory dance, including Greek dancing led by Jim and Virginia Hrisikos and Israeli and other ethnic dancing led by Al Drucker and Jill Harris.
$70 per person.

For Reservation Information, see page 43.

LEADERS' BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

WALT ANDERSON has studied psychodrama for several years under Dr. Lewis Yablonsky, and is Executive Director of the California Institute of Psychodrama. He has also worked with meditation and encounter techniques, and is a member of the board of the Topanga Center for Human Development in Los Angeles. He teaches political science part-time at San Fernando Valley State College and his most recent book, Politics and Environment, will be published this Spring by Goodyear (Prentice-Hall).

JOSÉ ARGÜELLES, Ph.D., has researched and written on visual psychophysics, evolution of consciousness and the I Ching. He has taught at Princeton University and is currently Assistant Professor of Art History at the University of California, Davis. As a painter he has exhibited with his wife, Miriam, on both the East and West coasts. As co-leaders they have led workshops on the Mandala and I Ching, and together they have done extensive work on the theory and practice of the Mandala.

JUDITH ASTON has an M.A. in dance from UCLA, and has been directing the Dance Theatre at Long Beach City College for six years. This group of dancers, actors, musicians, painters, housewives, etc., works to create new forms of artistic expression. In 1966 Miss Aston directed "Rituals", a theatre piece for sixty-five movers, and in 1968 directed the dance in Festival of Performing Arts with Studio Watts. She has co-led many workshops at Kairos and is on the staff of the San Diego Gestalt Therapy Institute. Miss Aston has been trained in Structural Integration by Ida Rolf and specializes in this work with children.

BETTY BERZON has been Director, Group Program Development at the Human Development Institute, a Bell & Howell subsidiary, since April, 1968. For nine years before that she was on the staff of the Western Behavioral Sciences Institute, La Jolla, California, where she conducted the research on self-directed groups out of which Bell & Howell's ENCOUNTERTAPES Series was developed. She is a psychologist, a training consultant, author of a number of papers and co-editor of a forthcoming book, The Encounter Group: Issues and Applications.

HAROLD BESSELL, Ph.D., has practiced psychotherapy for the past fifteen years in a child guidance center, university clinics, and in private practice. He is co-author of the Human Development Program for the emotional education of children. Over 1200 teachers have been trained in this approach, which is used to promote awareness, self-confidence and understanding of interactions in young children. This program has won acclaim as a substantial and comprehensive way to foster affective education.

SHYAM BHATNAGAR, teacher and psychic therapist, began his training under the great Kundalini Yogi "Baba Jee" at age 12. In 1966, he established the Self-Development Institute in Bareilly, India for the practical study of Tantric Yoga. An accomplished tambura player who has worked with Ravi Shankar, he has co-led seminars with Joseph Campbell and Bernard S. Aaronson.

GEORGE BROLASKI, M.D., is a practicing psychiatrist and director of The La Jolla Institute. His education has been in Mexico, Hawaii and California and he has wide experience in individual, family and group therapy.

GEORGE I. BROWN teaches courses in group interaction, creativity, awareness and sensitivity training as a professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. With his wife he has given workshops and seminars for many diverse groups in the United States and Canada. Dr. Brown is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, brings much experience in group awareness training. Her approach is based on principles of gestalt therapy as founded by Dr. Frederick Perls, with whom she has worked as a co-therapist.

ELIZABETH K. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., is a counselor and group consultant and works with her husband in conducting individual and group psychotherapy. She has served as Head of the Department of Theatre Arts at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles and as a counselor at the University of California, Santa Barbara. Her unique contribution is bringing the insights of the theatre to bear on the human experiences of encounter groups, counseling and psychotherapy. She has a long experience with multimedia methods, and she has written plays, musicals and pageants for children and adults. In 1965 she published Words of Ugo Betti, and she is currently working on a new book.

JAMES F.T. BUGENTAL, Ph.D., is a psychologist and writer on topics in existential-humanistic psychology. Currently serving principally as a consultant to the Educational Policy Research Center at Stanford Research Institute, he is on leave from his partnership in Psychological Service Associates in Los Angeles. In the past he has been on the psychology faculties at UCLA and Georgia Tech. He is a past president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and of the California State Psychological Association. He is author of Psychological Interviewing and The Search for Authenticity.

JOSEPH CAMPBELL is author of The Hero with A Thousand Faces and The Masks of God, co-author of A Skeleton Key to Finnegan's Wake and editor of the posthumous works of Heinrich Zimmer, as well as the five Bollingen volumes of Papers from the Eranos Yearbooks. He has been a member of the Literature Department of Sarah Lawrence College since 1934 and a lecturer at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State, Washington, D.C., since 1956.

KEN CHASE was resident instructor of Tai Chi Chuan at Esalen Institute. He has studied with Master Choy in San Francisco and divides his teaching time between Esalen and Santa Cruz.

HARVEY COX is Associate Professor of Church and Society in the School of Divinity, Harvard University. He is author of The Secular City, On Not Leaving it to the Snake and numerous articles which have opened up new perspectives on secularization and the religion of modern man. He has been active in civil rights work, was a "fraternal worker" in Berlin maintaining contact with churches and universities in East Germany and attended the New Delhi Conference of the World Conference of Churches in 1962. Most recently his interest has turned to a theology of hope and encouragement of dialogue between Christian and Marxist.

ROBERT W. CROMEY is an Episcopal priest who has completed the Esalen Residential Program of 1969. His interest is in encounter groups, the experiential and sensory dimensions of ritual, ceremony and Western religious practice. He is Vicar of St. Aidan's Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

SAMUEL A. CULBERT, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Behavioral Science in the Graduate School of Business Administration, UCLA. Formerly, he was employed in Washington, D.C., by the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Science.

JOSEPH J. DOWNING is a psychiatrist in private practice, President of San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute, and formerly superintendent of Mental Health Services, San Mateo County, Department of Public Health and Welfare.

JACQUELINE LARCOMBE DOYLE, former Esalen Resident Fellow, holds her Master's Degree in Psychology. She leads encounter groups privately and for Esalen in the Bay Area and throughout the country. She was formerly sensitivity trainer in psychiatry, University of New Mexico Medical School. She has traveled widely, lived in Europe and done University lecturing there.

JAMES EAGEN is a former primary school teacher. He has taught ghetto school children in Harlem, the Lower East Side and Hunter's Point. His interest is the application of increased mind-body awareness to classroom teaching. In addition to teaching and educational research, he has training in theatre, encounter, gestalt and sensory awareness and meditation. He holds degrees from Antioch College and City University of New York and is presently a doctoral candidate at the University of California, Berkeley and a staff member at Esalen, San Francisco.

IRA EINHORN, a resident of Philadelphia, has taught at Temple University and at the Free University of the University of Pennsylvania (including courses in the novel, drugs, McLuhan and ecology); directed a school for black slum children; run two be-ins involving 10,000 people; and participated in many radio and TV programs and lectured widely. He is presently writing a book entitled The Marriage of Faust and Shiva, an attempt to integrate Western technological control of the outer environment and Eastern psycho-physical control of the inner environment. He is also setting up an ecological action/information center to coordinate those involved in the conspiracy to make planet Earth livable.

JAMES FADIMAN, Ph.D., has taught psychology at San Francisco State and Brandeis University. He is an editor of the Journal of Humanistic Psychology and the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology. Presently he is a consultant with Snowden, Sullivan & Goodwin, working with educational and industrial institutions.

ROLAND FISCHER, Ph.D., initiated research into the staining behavior of cell membranes and biological research on schizophrenia, studying what he termed drug-induced "model psychoses". He is Professor in the Department of Psychiatry, Division of Behavioral and Neurobiological Sciences, and Associate Professor in the Department of Pharmacology, Ohio State University. He has published over 180 research papers in the following areas: cell membrane-and-receptor-models; biological aspects of normal and pathological behavior; "model psychoses"; psychopharmacological aspects of time and space; and mechanisms and perceptual-behavioral correlates of central nervous system excitation and depression. He represents the U.S. on a Board of the International Society for Psychopathology and Artistic Expression, and is a member of the editorial board of Agents and Actions, a Swiss Journal of Pharmacology.

ARTHUR M. FOX has worked and trained with William C. Schutz, including many groups and the 1969 Residents Program. His background is in psychology and education and he has taught in ghetto and private schools.

JANICA FOX, together with her husband, worked and trained with William C. Schutz during the 1969 Residents Program and in group leadership training. Previously she spent five years doing research on groups in the Social Relations Department at Harvard University.

BETTY FULLER, 1967-68 Resident Fellow, is Esalen's Director of Consulting Services and an Associate in Residence. She is one of a group of encounter leaders selected and trained by William C. Schutz. In addition to her work with groups around the country, Betty's background includes teaching in the public schools of Michigan and California and several years in radio, TV and the theatre as producer-writer-actress-director.

STEVE GENARDINI is musical director of the Big Sur Primitive Jazz Society. He has been a professional musician-dancer for over twenty years and was formerly a percussionist with the Stan Kenton Orchestra.

GIA-FU FENG teaches Tai Chi, Calligraphy and Shiatsu-therapy at Esalen and Stillpoint in Los Gatos. With Professor Jerome Kirk of the University of California at Irvine he has retranslated the I Ching (Book of Changes) from the Chinese. His book entitled I Ching, a Guide to Oracle Imagery, and Tai Chi, a Way of Centering, was published recently by Macmillan.

SHEP GINANDES is a psychiatrist, sculptor and musician. He works particularly with young people and directs a training center where young people learn to develop their identities as artists. LOIS GINANDES is a professional modern dancer and teacher of yoga and movement. Dr. and Mrs. Ginandes have worked together with artists, using this particular blend of yoga, meditation and group hypnosis training to deepen creative awareness.

BERNARD GUNTHER is one of the pioneers in the use of touch, relaxation, body awareness and non-verbal communication in the total growth process. For the past five years he has been a resident staff member of the Esalen Institute, Big Sur, where he has developed his own approach to massage, meditation and mind/body/environment integration known as sensory awakening. Many of his innovations are now being used in educational, religious and therapeutic situations throughout the United States. He is the author of the best-selling book Sense Relaxation (Macmillan-Collier, 1968); his book of poems Love View was recently published by Macmillan.

ANNE HEIDER holds a Master's degree in musicology from New York University. She has been a Resident Fellow, a special assistant to Dr. William C. Schutz and co-leader of many encounter groups with her husband John.

JOHN HEIDER, Ph.D., is an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute. He has done research on the effects of meditation on perception. He is particularly interested in the role which Esalen plays as a crossroads for many diverse elements of the Human Potential Movement; and he views himself as a natural philosopher working toward integrations of such practices as dance, meditation, sensory awakening and the adventure of encounter.

AARON HILLMAN, teacher and poet, has trained and worked with Dr. George I. Brown, has given workshops and seminars for various groups, and was one of the original members of the Ford-Esalen Research Project. He is author of "A View Through the Chalk Dust" in Now: The Human Dimension.

CORRIE HOLLOWAY is a member of the Board of Directors, the Advisory Staff for the training program and coordinator of interracial encounters for Topanga Center for Human Development in Los Angeles. A graduate of Sinclair College in Ohio, he is a free lance environmental consultant in addition to his work with encounter groups.

RICHARD HORAN is an American artist, practicing yogi and masseur. He is currently director of the Esalen massage program.

JACK HURLEY has been a resident staff member and student at Esalen for the past four years, where he has developed his own approach to the Tarot involving a humanistic and gestalt orientation to Western mysticism, symbology and occult traditions.

J. STANLEY JOHNSON, physician, Big Sur and Los Angeles, has been trained in Structural Integration by Dr. Ida P. Rolf.

RICHARD KATZ, formerly a lecturer in Education and Social Relations at Harvard, is now in the Psychology Department at Brandeis. His research focuses on personal growth environments, new models of education, altered states of consciousness (e.g., in the psychedelic and religious contexts) and nonverbal media. He is preparing two books for publication, one dealing with humanistic education and the other with contemporary techniques for personal growth. He is a consultant for Outward Bound Schools and the Peace Corps and has recently returned from field work in the Kalahari Desert studying Bushman trance-curing.

HEATHER KEEN has been working in the field of dance for 16 years as teacher, choreographer, and therapist. She received her dance training with Barbara Mettler. In 1954 she became involved in the liturgical dance movement and has directed dance choirs associated with Boston University, Louisville and Princeton Presbyterian Seminaries. She has worked as a dance therapist at Norton Infirmary and Central State Hospital in Louisville and is presently on the staff at Kairos in Rancho Santa Fe.

SAM KEEN, Ph.D., holds graduate degrees in theology and philosophy from Harvard and Princeton. He is the author of Gabriel Marcel and Apology for Wonder (Harper & Row) and is currently exploring the outlines of a Dionysian theology in a new book Libations to a Dancing God. He has previously been associated with Esalen's Interdisciplinary Series on Religion and has been professor of philosophy and Christian faith at Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. Dr. Keen is currently a post-doctoral fellow at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute in La Jolla.

STANLEY KELEMAN is an innovative practitioner of the bio-energetics approach developed initially by Alexander Lowen. He has studied with Dr. Ola Raknes and Graf Durchheim at the Center for Religious Studies (on whose Board he serves), as well as at the Alfred Adler Institute for Individual Psychotherapy and the Dasien Analytical School of Psychotherapy, Zurich.

BOBBY KIMMEL is a singer/song-writer and former popular recording artist who now incorporates the spiritual quest into the modern media. He is the director of the New Country Church and the founder/director of the New Country Church Gospel Choir.

TENNEY KIMMEL is an artist, musician, poetess, seamstress, organic cook and mother.

JOEL KRAMER was Yogi in Residence at Esalen Institute during the 1968-69 period and is currently an Associate in Residence. He completed undergraduate work in philosophy at the University of Florida and did graduate work in philosophy and psychology at Columbia, New York University and University of Florida.

JACKIE KRENKEL, and her family, are long-time residents of Big Sur. She knows and loves animals and Big Sur country.

ALAN LAKEIN is a time consultant and president of Alan Lakein & Co., San Francisco. As a consultant, Mr. Lakein is a time planner to presidents and executives of some of the largest corporations in the United States. He has an MBA from the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration and has emphasized the application of human relations and mechanized techniques to the improvement of effectiveness in management. The relationship of corporation management to individual management has led Mr. Lakein to develop Time Awareness Programs.

JANET LEDERMAN, artist, teacher, writer, author of Anger in the Rocking Chair, has developed and utilized the Gestalt learning process with disadvantaged ghetto children and with children who manifest extreme behavior difficulties. She has applied these methods in a regular educational context as well, ranging from pre-school children to college students and faculties. She is currently leading Gestalt groups throughout the United States and Canada.

LAWRENCE LeSHAN is a research and clinical psychologist who received his Ph.D. from Chicago in 1954. He has worked on the psychosomatic aspects of cancer and on the problem of psychotherapy with patients with a fatal illness. For the past seven years, he has been on a full-time research grant from Frederick Ayer II on the nature of paranormal phenomena. In this he has worked closely with Eileen Garrett and other sensitives and has recently published a monograph "Towards a General Theory of the Paranormal" (Parapsychology Foundation, Inc., N.Y. 1969)

JOHN LILLY is currently an Associate in Residence at Esalen, Big Sur. Formerly, Dr. Lilly was Director of Neurological Research at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center, Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore and Director of the Communication Research Institute, Miami. His primary research interest has been the relation of the mind to the brain. He has training in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology, psychology, physics, electronic engineering and interspecies communication. He has carried out research on animals (cats, monkeys, dolphins) and on human subjects (including himself). He is author of Man and Dolphin, The Mind of the Dolphin (A Non-human Intelligence) and Programming and Metaprogramming in the Human Biocomputer.

ALEXANDER LOWEN, M.D., is Executive Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and author of Physical Dynamics of Character Structure, Love and Orgasm and The Betrayal of the Body. Dr. Lowen is a practicing psychiatrist and is, perhaps, the foremost exponent of the use of the body in analytic therapy.

WILLIAM McGAW is Director of Communications at Western Behavioral Sciences Institute as well as director of the Institute's Experiential Worship Service Project. Through the incorporation of learnings from the behavioral sciences, he hopes to design ways to make services more personal, joyful and meaningful. He was recently invited to present his work to the Fourth General Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Uppsala, Sweden. The McGaws are involved with WBSI's couples group program for the Conciliation Court of San Diego and are conducting numerous couple and family groups throughout the United States.

FATHER WILLIAM McNAMARA is a Carmelite contemplative. With a mandate from Pope John, he founded and directs the Spiritual Life Institute of America in Sedona, Arizona, an ecumenical institute to encourage contemplation among laymen and religious persons. He is also involved in the up-dating of Christian theology and prayer-life.

EDWARD MAUPIN, Ph.D., is an Associate in Residence at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, and is a Director of the Esalen Resident Program. He was formerly at the Neuropsychiatric Institute, UCLA. In his work he draws upon a wide variety of approaches to body awareness, including methods derived from Wilhelm Reich, Alexander Lowen, Ida Rolf, Mary Whitehouse and the psycho-physical disciplines of various religious and esoteric traditions, such as Tantric Yoga and Christian Mysticism.

RALPH METZNER, Ph.D., was editor of Psychedelic Review for six years, and has studied various Eastern and Western methods for expanding awareness, including yoga, meditation, visualization, mantras and psychedelics. He is editor of a collection of psychedelic experiences entitled The Ecstatic Adventure, 1968 (Macmillan) and is currently with the Counseling and Testing Center, Stanford University.

RICHARD LOUIS MILLER, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist and existential-gestalt psychotherapist. Presently on leave from the psychology faculty of the University of Michigan, he is co-director of the Institute for Multiple Psychotherapy, San Francisco, and on the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute. He is a training therapist at both institutions and is involved in innovations in marital and group therapy.

SARA UNOBSKEY MILLER holds her Master's degree in Special Education and is experienced as a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and young adults. She is experienced in conditioning techniques and is interested in the relationship between these techniques and the encounter.

THOMAS MUNSON, M.D., is a psychoanalyst interested in existentialism and Buddhism (which he studied in Japan). He is now a psychiatrist in private practice in La Jolla and is President of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of San Diego. He is also a staff advisor to Kairos.

PAT MURPHY has taught dance and movement classes at University of California, Davis, university extension courses and church programs. She has been influenced by Magda Proskauer, Ann Halprin and Laura Huxley.

PETER MUTKE, M.D., is a graduate of the University of Heidelberg School of Medicine. He is presently in private practice in Carmel, California, specializing in hypnotherapy. He has lectured widely in hypnotherapy and is the author of several research papers.

DENIS O'DONOVAN, Ph.D., associate professor of psychology at Florida Atlantic University, is a diplomate in clinical psychology, ABEPP. He is the president-elect of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology and the editor of The Philosophical Psychologist. He is completing a book entitled The Wish Not to be Human.

WALTER PAHNKE, M.D., Ph.D., in addition to his work with dying patients, has done research with psychedelic drugs for the past seven years, involving experiments with theologians and other groups of professionals, as well as work with alcoholic and neurotic patients in the LSD research at the Spring Grove State Hospital, Baltimore, Md. Dr. Pahnke is currently Director of Clinical Studies at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center. In addition to his medical and psychiatric training, he also has a graduate degree in Theology and a Ph.D. in the Psychology of Religion. Part of his research training was in Europe where he studied the use of LSD in psychotherapy at various research centers. In June 1968, Dr. Pahnke was asked to give the annual Ingersoll Lecture on Human Immortality at Harvard University.

LOUIS PAUL, M.D., is a psychiatrist, psychoanalyst and sensitivity trainer in Beverly Hills and a teaching consultant in crisis intervention and experiential-analytic psychotherapy. He has led encounter groups at Esalen, Kairos, Topanga, Stanford, Antioch and ECCE (Eureka, California).

BURYL PAYNE obtained his Ph.D. in Psychology from the University of Washington in 1962. He also holds an M.S. in physics and worked seven years in industry before turning to the field of psychology. He was on the faculty of Goddard College in Vermont for four years, was Director of Research and Training for Synectics, Inc., in Cambridge for a year, and is now directing a program in science communication at Boston University in the School of Public Communications. Dr. Payne is also the owner of Psycho-Physics Labs, a small company which manufactures instruments for psychologists and educators in the areas of perception and physiological measurements.

FREDERICK S. PERLS, M.D., Ph.D., was born in 1893 in Berlin and left Germany when Hitler came to power. He founded the South African Institute for Psychoanalysis in Johannesburg. After the death of Jan Smuts and the advent of apartheid in South Africa, Dr. Perls emigrated to the United States. He is founder of the gestalt school of psychotherapy; he is co-author of Gestalt Therapy and author of Ego, Hunger and Aggression, Gestalt Verbatim and other books. Formerly an Associate in Residence at Esalen, Big Sur, he is now head of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Canada.

JOHN PIERRAKOS, M.D., is Director of The Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis and a co-worker with Dr. Alexander Lowen. He is a practicing psychiatrist.

ROBERT W. RESNICK, Ph.D., is a gestalt therapist in private practice in Beverly Hills. He has trained with Drs. James S. Simkin and Frederick Perls and has been in practice with Dr. Simkin for the past several years. Dr. Resnick is Chairman of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Southern California and is the author of Chicken Soup is Poison.

IDA P. ROLF, Ph.D., is developer of the Rolf Method of Structural Integration. Structural Integration is a system of deep myo-fascial organization which releases excessive tension and realigns body structure, thereby establishing more efficient functioning. Dr. Rolf has taught Structural Integration in New York, London, Big Sur and Los Angeles for the past several years, and is currently teaching and working on projects connected with the Esalen Institute.

MARILYN ROSANES-BERRETT, Ph.D., was trained by the American Association for Eye Training in 1949 and subsequently practiced eye training in New York City as an Instructor at this Association. She initiated and conducted a research program on the improvement of vision at the Granada Psychiatric Clinic in Miami, Florida, under the supervision of Drs. T. E. Moore and F. S. Perls. This experience led to further studies in Psychology and Perception culminating in her doctoral dissertation at Yeshiva University entitled: "Psychological Coorelated to Myopia compared to Hyperopia and Emmetropia".

JACK L. ROSENBERG, D.D.S., M.A., a practicing dentist in San Rafael, California, has a Master's degree in psychology and has been working in the field of psychology related to dentistry for the past ten years. Formerly Director of Counseling at University of Pacific School of Dentistry, he is now with the post-graduate department of that school and has taught courses in Psychology Applied to Dentistry, Dental Auxiliary Utilization, Work Simplification and Practice Management. He is a trainee at the Gestalt Therapy Institute and has had wide experience in both group encounter and body awareness and utilizes these approaches frequently in his courses.

GABRIELLE ROTH is movement specialist-in-residence at Esalen, Big Sur, where she formerly co-directed the massage program. She has studied and taught creative dance forms for the past ten years and has integrated this experience in her work as a massage specialist. During the past year she has been leading movement in conjunction with gestalt therapy groups as well as with her own groups. Mary Whitehouse has been a major influence in the development of Miss Roth's work.

RICHARD RUBENSTEIN is the best known Jewish radical theologian. He is author of After Auschwitz, The Religious Imagination and Morality and Eros, to be published by McGraw-Hill during February 1970. He is University Chaplain to Jewish students and Adjunct Professor in the Humanities at University of Pittsburgh. He has interpreted traditional and modern Judaism in the light of psychoanalytic thought and has sought to restore the depth and wisdom of the tragic vision of life. In his work he has attempted to define the theological problem of how we might be religious in a time of the death of God.

ALEC RUBIN is a movement therapist, encounter group leader, acting teacher and director. He was trained at the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy and influenced by the methods of gestalt, F. M. Alexander, Stanislavsky, Strasberg, Grotowski, Graham, Gindler and Reich. He has taught theatre and movement at Bennington, Cornell, NYU, the Living Theatre and the Actors Studio, and has led experiential church services and on-going groups on Long Island, where he has been involved in an Upward Bound program with the black community of Wyandanch. He introduced workshops in awareness and encounter to therapists and students in clinics, universities and churches in Australia. He is director of Theatre of Encounter, a workshop for actors, playwrights and audiences in New York.

VIRGINIA SATIR was formerly Director of Training for the Family Project, Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. She is also a consultant to family research projects and training programs throughout the United States. Mrs. Satir has introduced approaches derived from her own experience as a family therapist and from research at the Mental Research Institute to workshops and clinics in the United States, Canada, and Europe. She has become increasingly interested in the positive aspects of family health and has helped to establish "well family" clinics in various parts of the United States. She is the author of Conjoint Family Therapy.

MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN gave massages, taught massage and organized and directed the massage program at Esalen from November 1965 to January 1969. She trained the present directors of the program and the staff of masseuses and masseurs who were at Esalen during those years. She is a devoted student of meditation and feels that its practice, along with that of exercise or Yoga and body movement, are essential for giving massage.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ is a teacher, researcher, theorist and practitioner in the fields of interpersonal behavior and research design. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Chicago, the University of California, Berkeley and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. He was the research director of a state-wide study of school administration in California and the national research coordinator of the Cooperative Program for Educational Development (COPED) of the U.S. Office of Education. His book on the FIRO theory of interpersonal behavior (The Interpersonal Underworld) was published in 1966. He is also author of JOY (Grove Press, 1967), a work concerned with encounter group techniques and theory. Currently, Dr. Schutz is an Associate in Residence and Director of Esalen's Resident Program.

AL SCHWARTZ is a writer and editor who has worked extensively with Claudio Naranjo.

LEADERS' BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

BENNETT SHAPIRO, 1967-68 Esalen Resident Fellow, in addition to leading groups locally and throughout the country, also directs a nine-month training program in the Bay Area for encounter group leaders. He has studied with a wide variety of therapists and teachers for over three years and trained for a year at the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute. He is at present integrating gestalt awareness and bio-energetic techniques into encounter group settings. Formerly an architect and visiting lecturer at schools of architecture, he is now a full-time encounter group leader.

STEWART SHAPIRO, Ph.D., in addition to his workshops in conflict resolution and positive experience, is currently engaged in human relations workshops in higher education. Recognizing the powerful potential of T-Groups, positive experience and conflict resolution for the critical situation on many campuses today, Dr. Shapiro believes that communication skills of the highest order need to be applied to interracial problems and the faculty-administration-students dialogue. He is on the staffs of NTL and the UCLA Institute of Industrial Relations in both management and labor programs. Dr. Shapiro is the Director of Counseling and Guidance and Coordinator of the Office of Human Relations, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara.

JULIAN SILVERMAN, Research Director of Esalen Institute, holds the position of Research Specialist with the California Department of Mental Hygiene. Before accepting this appointment, he was for several years with the National Institute of Mental Health where in 1967 he became chief of the section on Perceptual and Cognitive Studies of the Adult Psychiatry branch of NIMH. A considerable portion of his research has been devoted to studies of the psychology and physiology of various altered states of consciousness. The major concerns of his current research program are with the study of psychophysiological functioning in relation to subjective experience and behavior change. He is on the editorial boards of the Journal of Schizophrenia and the Journal of Nervous and Mental Disease.

JAMES S. SIMKIN, Ph.D., has been co-leader with Dr. Frederick S. Perls of gestalt therapy training workshops for professional psychotherapists at the Esalen Institute over the past six years. His doctorate is in clinical psychology awarded by the University of Michigan in 1951. His post-doctoral training in gestalt therapy was at the New York Institute of Gestalt Therapy, 1952-55. He has taught at the University of Michigan, Rutgers University—University College, California State College at Los Angeles and UCLA Extension. He is a Diplomate in Clinical Psychology of the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology and is licensed as a psychologist in the State of California. He has been engaged in the private practice of psychotherapy for the past fourteen years and, in addition to several articles on gestalt therapy, has produced a gestalt therapy training film, "In the Now".

HARRY SLOAN, D.M.D., is a dentist who was an Esalen Resident Fellow under William C. Schutz. He plans ultimately to introduce methods of encounter into medical and dental curriculum.

GERALD SMITH, Ed.D., is a family therapist and marriage counselor in San Mateo, California. He received his doctorate from the Division of Family Study, Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania Medical School. His family therapy training was at the Mental Research Institute, Palo Alto. Recently he developed a "Family Communications Check-Up" program through the Family Service of San Mateo County. He is also a consultant with San Mateo County Mental Health Services.

WILLIAM SMITH is a former insurance executive, labor consultant, U.S. Congressional aide, professional house guest, and is currently a Research Associate with Esalen Institute. He holds degrees in psychology, political science and theology.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, currently senior research associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, has been one of the principal pioneers in the development of the marathon group and one of the prime innovators in the use of videotape feedback in the group setting. Leader of a broad range of marathon groups and workshops, Dr. Stoller's written contributions are growing, two of his important papers appearing in Gazda's Innovations to Group Psychotherapy (Thomas). A novel about a marathon group, The Lemon Eaters by Jerry Sohl (Dell), has been based upon his work.

STEVEN STROUD, Associate in Residence, Big Sur: "By training I am an encounter group leader, by inclination an evangelist. You are God, I am God, and there is a common ground where we are one. I seek this common ground."

CHARLES T. TART, Ph.D., is Assistant Professor of Psychology at the University of California at Davis. He has also taught at Stanford and the University of Virginia Medical School and has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, and ESP. He is currently conducting studies funded by the National Institute of Mental Health on the possibilities of deliberately altering and controlling dream consciousness, the effects of brain wave feedback, and the nature of marijuana intoxication. He is the editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings (John Wiley & Sons, 1969) and the author of more than fifty scientific articles and papers.

GERALD THATCHER has been an Esalen staff member for the past five and a half years. An author, musician and lately an amateur astrologer, he holds a M.A. in Symbolic Linguistics. He has pursued independent studies in Jungian psychology and alchemy and has a wide and varied knowledge of literary and religious symbolism.

TARTHANG TULKU is an Incarnate Lama of the Nyingmapa school of Tibetan Buddhism and former head of Tarthang Monastery in Eastern Tibet. He is the spiritual head of The Tibetan Nyingmapa Meditation Center, recently established in the San Francisco Bay Area.

MONTAGUE ULLMAN, M.D., is currently Professor of Psychiatry at the State University of New York, Downstate Medical Center, and Director of the Community Mental Health Center of the Maimonides Medical Center. In addition to community psychiatry, his major interests have been in the physiology and psychology of dreaming and he is responsible for the first dream laboratory to investigate extrasensory effects in dreaming.

ALAN WATTS, author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; The Book: on the Taboo Against Knowing Who You Are; and many other writings, has been—with D.T. Suzuki—the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States. In recent years Dr. Watts has worked to unify science, philosophy and religion into a totally modern view.

JAMES M. WOODS is founder/president of Studio Watts Workshop, an experiment in alternative education for low-income youth that is five years old now, and doing well. He has been the director of the drama department there for two years and has presented several plays. Mr. Woods has participated in conferences this year in London, Detroit, San Francisco and Los Angeles as a result of the growth of Studio Watts Workshop and the fresh approaches that are growing out of this experiment.

LEWIS YABLONSKY, Ph.D., is President of the California Institute of Psychodrama, a center for practice and training in psychodrama located in Los Angeles. He is also a professor of sociology at San Fernando Valley State College and the author of several books, including Synanon: The Tunnel Back and The Hippie Trip. He is past president of the American Society of Group Psychotherapy and Psychodrama, and has been closely associated for over twenty years with Dr. J. L. Moreno, creator of psychodrama.

WILLIAM ZIELONKA, Ph.D., is a psychotherapist with Psychological Service Associates in Los Angeles. He has psychoanalytic training and is especially interested in the body's role in personal functioning. AUDREY ALBIN co-leads groups with Dr. Zielonka and is in the training program at the Topanga Center for Human Development.

RESIDENCE AND TRAINING PROGRAMS

SPRING RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Esalen's fifth Residence Program will be offered at Big Sur in the Winter/Spring of 1970, beginning February 15 and ending June 19. The program will be under the direction of Steven Stroud, with William C. Schutz acting as consultant, and will be limited to ten or twelve persons. Applicants should plan to attend the residential selection weekend, November 28-30, at Esalen, Big Sur. For further information on costs, format, etc., please write: Residence Program, Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

THE ESALEN SEALAB

The Esalen Sealab Program will take place March 1-June 31, 1970, aboard the 90 ft. barkentine "Pride", sailing into the Caribbean and perhaps beyond. Meeting rooms and living quarters will be the vessel, the sea and the islands. John Heider and Seymour Carter, directors of the Esalen Sealab, will be responsible for selecting participants. There are no formal qualifications for acceptance.

In early weeks of the Sealab, the directors will provide "basic training in awareness". This training will include meditation, encounter work, body and energetics disciplines, sensitivity and sensory awakening and mental exercises: the eclectic program of a More Joy Workshop. As the trip progresses, the leaders wish to work with meditation and communication under the sea using scuba gear; to take advantage of the pressures of the community in relative isolation; to explore the Caribbean culture, witch doctors, Voodoo, music; and to take advantage of the ship's mobility. The exact course, spiritually or geographically, is not known and only the demands of nature and group consensus will determine the set of sail and rudder.

The program costs $4000 per person. Some scholarship funds are available. Interested persons should write to us about themselves, c/o Sara Miller, Esalen Sealab, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco, California 94131.

A TRAINING WORKSHOP COMBINING ENCOUNTER WORK AND GESTALT THERAPY

An experiential training workshop for educators, psychologists, psychiatrists, ministers, social workers and others in helping professions to explore that vast reach between the mandible and the ground. The workshop will be engaged with

What is–
The prose of PAST,
The poetry of NOW,
The fantasy of FUTURE.

Betty Fuller, Associate of William C. Schutz.
Janet Lederman, Associate of Frederick S. Perls.

This month-long program will be held at Esalen Institute, Big Sur, between August 2 and August 28, 1970. Cost of the program is $825, including room, board and fees. Limited to 20 persons. Nonrefundable deposit of $400 due upon application.

OPEN ENCOUNTER WORKSHOPS with the ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF

These workshops are an extension of the More Joy Workshops which originated with William C. Schutz. They are designed, in part, to help each participant expand the limits of his self concept and to more fully realize his potential. The work is grounded in openness and honesty, with encounter as the basic format. Group leaders integrate a wide variety of approaches developed or refined at Esalen to help participants be more aware of what is real for them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. These approaches include nonverbal, fantasy, dramatic and gestalt methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques. If a sufficient number of couples register, each workshop may include a group especially for couples.

Leaders will be drawn from a group trained by and associated with William C. Schutz and Esalen Resident Fellows who have completed a program directed by Dr. Schutz. These include: Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacquelyn Doyle, Al Drucker, Arthur Fox, Janica Fox, Betty Fuller, Sara Unobskey Miller, Harry Sloan and Steven Stroud.

PROGRAMS WITH CHARLOTTE SELVER AND CHARLES BROOKS

In describing her work, Miss Selver writes, "Much as we may wish to live in the present, we are often preoccupied with images and ideas of how it ought to be. Instead of responding to the situation at hand with the innumerable nerves, muscles and interweavings of consciousness which we are, much of us is immobilized by early conditioning, emotional problems or habit. But children and sages have a different way of functioning. For them the world flows into consciousness as the air into their lungs, and their responses are organismic and direct, bypassing the evaluation center which is the educated mind of the adult. It is our lack of immediacy which is usually felt as tedium and which necessitates ever stronger stimuli in the search for joy or self-disciplines in the search for peace. By giving up these preconceptions and gradually coming to follow our sense of reality, we begin to respond not to what should be but to what is, and the world catches fire for us.

"These workshops will explore direct experience, which as it becomes clearer and stronger will slowly burn away the screen of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living."

The 4- and 5-day workshops will take this approach in more depth and intensity than the weekend programs. In describing these longer programs, Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks write: "As our innate perceptive faculties are reawakened through successive experiences to which we learn to devote ever greater attention, consciousness expands to wider and deeper realms, the regenerative and integrative functions of the organism begin to flower again as they did in childhood, and a new approach to every facet of living becomes a real possibility."

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V.W. BROOKS are Associates in Residence at Esalen Big Sur on leave from the Faculty of the New School for Social Research, New York. Their field is Sensory Awareness, Perception and Nonverbal Communication. They hold regular classes in New York and conduct seminars and study groups throughout the United States and in Mexico.

Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, Sensory Awareness has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration. Miss Selver's pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for most of the work with Sensory Awareness and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Since 1956 she has held joint seminars with Alan Watts, and for the past three years she and Charles Brooks have held joint seminars with Shunryu Suzuki Roshi, Zen Master, Abbot of Zen Mountain Center, Tassajara. Charles Brooks has worked in conjunction with Miss Selver since 1963 and has conducted his own workshops in Santiago, Chile, Berkeley, Tassajara and Monhegan, Maine.

TRADITIONAL SADHANAS IN A CONTEMPORARY PERSPECTIVE

Sadhana is a Sanskrit term for a liberating discipline that is pursued for the sake of the individual's spiritual goal. This may be an art, a form of meditation, a style of life—practically anything: for it is the nature of the quest that defines it rather than the form of a given activity. The lack of an adequate equivalent for this term in our language indicates the loss in our culture of such liberating disciplines. The word is useful for designating what Esalen stands for in its attempt to bring together disciplines that show promise of forming a contemporary education for transcendence.

Dr. Naranjo believes that there is an essential unity among religions and a common psychological experience underlying apparently contradictory schools and techniques of psychotherapy. He believes that psychotherapy, the spiritual disciplines and education are basically concerned with a single process of human development—or else they are fossilized remnants of that process.

In a recent publication "The Unfolding of Man", Claudio Naranjo has put forward the claim of a hidden identity among the numerous "ways of growth", old and new, physical and psychological, religious and secular. In his programs at Esalen he is attempting to complement such theoretical formulation with a panorama of experiences, hopefully leading to greater awareness of that essence from which all these approaches—as well as our daily actions—derive meaning. The Big Sur programs involve a combination of gestalt awareness training—itself a highly synthetic product of contemporary psychotherapy—with practices derived from traditional spiritual disciplines.

SAN FRANCISCO INFORMATION

LECTURES AND SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Exact time and location of lectures will be printed on the tickets. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. (Any event may be cancelled if advance sales indicate insufficient interest.)

SAN FRANCISCO SEMINARS AND WORKSHOPS:
RESERVATIONS: Advance registration is required for seminars and workshops; reservation deadline is one week prior to date of event. To register, send a $10 per person deposit with reservation form or letter to: Esalen Institute, P.O. Box 31389, San Francisco 94131. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur. You will receive confirmation of registration by return mail. Balance of seminar fee is payable at the first meeting.

LOCATIONS: San Francisco seminars and workshops are held at local meeting places. These include the new facilities of the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco, and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic, Berkeley. If not specified in the brochure, participants will be informed of workshop location at the time of registration and confirmation.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. Usually, however, workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays. Schedules are not rigid and specific meeting times are established at the group's first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Esalen Institute has no lodging facilities in San Francisco. Each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels and motels. Unless otherwise stated, meals are not provided at seminars and workshops.

MEMBER RATES: $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes, for men.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

Grounds are closed except by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. 7-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30 and end on the following Sunday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

OWN ACCOMMODATIONS: Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property—in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms—is strictly prohibited.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Pets, alas, are not welcome at all.

MEMBER RATES: $10 discount on all seminars and workshops.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, $70 for 7-day workshops, all nonrefundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks are able to furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds which will be acceptable.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—431-8771—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

MEMBER SEMINAR-DISCUSSIONS in the San Francisco Area this Fall will include the following persons as guests. Please consult your Membership newsletters for further details.

STEWART SHAPIRO – Thursday, February 26, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

March – to be announced.

ESALEN EXECUTIVE STAFF – Tuesday, April 21, 8 to 10 p.m.

JOSEPH DOWNING, M.D. – Monday, May 18, 8 to 10 p.m.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are now available. This is not a service in lieu of attendance, but is for individuals and organizations to whom recordings of significant lectures and seminars, and training tapes of techniques and methods, are of particular value. This applies to professional and nonprofessional organizations, departments in educational institutions, libraries, religious bodies and individuals with tape collections.

Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from which a complete list may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $7.50 per tape-hour, stereo or mono. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 303, Mill Valley, California 94941.

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to R. Gerald Thatcher, Esalen Books, Big Sur, California 93920.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36.)

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

FM RADIO STATIONS KPFA, KIOI, KSAN and KQED broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures, as do KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific) and KUNM-FM (Albuquerque, N.M.) on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides. A series of Esalen programs was broadcast over 40 educational stations under the title "Seminar: Big Sur" distributed by National Educational Radio, and other series are in preparation from time to time.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16MM FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' approach to gestalt therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis from MEDIASYNC, P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

The drawings in this brochure were created in Big Sur by artists associated with Esalen and the Guild of Hands, the alliance of artists and craftsmen which operates the sales outlet at the Hot Springs lodge and produces several Esalen craft workshops during the year. Drawings on front & back cover and pp. 5, 9, 23, 25, 30, 38, 39, 41, 45, 48 by Karl Lee; those on pp. 11, 17 by Bob Martin; on pp. 4, 13, 14, 19, 26, 28, 42 by John Horler; The Tarot cards on pp. 7, 20 a joint venture by John Horler and Jack Hurley. ESALEN INSTITUTE · MEMBERSHIPS

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars—but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

ESALEN INSTITUTE is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this brochure, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

In past brochures this space has carried a listing of Esalen Advisors. Over the years this list has tended to get out-of-date; we have not been in touch with some of its members for three years or more. We are now contacting all those listed to get their advice about programs, research and other matters, and to see whether they still wish to be formally listed as an Advisor. An up-to-date list will be published in future brochures.

George Leonard and Dr. Price Cobbs resigned from the Institute in April as Vice President and Advisor, respectively. We are sad to lose them. George Leonard has been one of the creative influences in the development of Esalen. His Education and Ecstasy provides the best perspective available on the relationship between our work and the larger field of education. With Price Cobbs he initiated our racial confrontation groups. He urged us to begin programs in San Francisco which are now growing into a major undertaking. And he has been watchdog, guardian angel, counselor and loving critic to anyone in the Institute who would come to him.

Through the racial confrontations which he led or supervised, Price Cobbs has introduced many of us to the possibilities and realities of the joining of the races. The resigning of these two leaders is a loss to the Institute.

SERVICES

Esalen Consulting Service is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops. Programs and leaders have thus far been provided to various community, governmental, religious, industrial and education groups.

Esalen Residence Program: The fifth series will be offered at Big Sur in Spring 1970, under the direction of Steven Stroud, with William C. Schutz acting as consultant. Limited to 10 or 12 persons. See page 37 for further information.

Long Term Programs

Beginning with this brochure period, Esalen is initiating more long-term programs. In Big Sur there will be at least two such programs running at all times (see Big Sur listings below), and in San Francisco there will be a three-month arts of living series and the first of a projected annual series on the integration of affective and cognitive domains in education (see San Francisco listings, page 21). These programs will be designed to provide training of various kinds, to consolidate and refine further the work done at Esalen so far, and to integrate the ways of growth which our usual programs explore into institutional settings and everyday life. To accomplish these ends longer term workshops are necessary.

During our first seven and a half years we have established a forum for the exploration of experimental approaches in education, religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences. We will continue this open-ended exploration. At the same time, we will increasingly emphasize programs which build upon the insights and methods we find promising.

Big Sur Programs

ESALEN FOUR-WEEK WORKSHOPS

May 17-June 13	Gestalt Open Professional
June 7-July 4	Experience of Esalen
June 21-July 18	Body Awareness
July 5-August 1	Gestalt Open Professional
July 19-August 15	Experience of Esalen
August 2-29	Encounter and Gestalt Training
August 16-September 11	Energy and Encounter
October 4-31	Gestalt Open Professional

Projected Development of Esalen, Big Sur: The program emphasis will go from introductory and short-term workshops to long-term programs for training, healing and growth. All four-week programs will include a work relationship to the Institute of about sixteen hours a week. In this we hope to develop a community experience much on the model of the Gestalt Institute of Canada or Zen Mountain Center. The expected activity will relate to the real needs of the Institute in kitchen, garden and grounds. Those interested in programs without this involvement are advised to apply for five- and seven-day workshops.

Costs: All four-week workshops will cost $825. To reserve space a $400 nonrefundable deposit will be required three weeks before the starting date of a workshop.

Housing: All occupancy is shared (two to a room). We regret there is no room for children. Please do not bring pets.

May 17-June 13
July 5-August 1
October 4-31
GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOPS with FREDERICK PERLS, JACK DOWNING, RICHARD PRICE and Staff

Functions of the program: (1) Pre-training for those wanting admission to the Gestalt Institute of Canada; (2) a gestalt-focused community experience for professionals not intending to apply to the GIC; (3) gestalt leadership experience; (4) a work relationship for the day-to-day needs of Esalen based on the model of the GIC.

The May-June workshop will be co-led by Jack Downing and Richard Price. One of the two final weeks and the selection will be led by Fritz Perls. Members of the Esalen staff and members of the gestalt institutes of Canada and the United States will also be drawn upon as needed for leadership in this and ensuing workshops.

At this time Dr. Perls does not promise his participation in the July or October workshops. Selection for the GIC will be done by the staff. Hopefully, the value of the experience will not be dependent on acceptance for further training. Participants are reminded that Dr. Perls can take only a limited number of people for advanced training. Admission to Esalen programs does not guarantee admission to the GIC.

Opportunities for other activities such as movement, yoga and massage will be available. Ida Rolf's practice of structural integration has an important relationship to gestalt therapy and Rolf practitioners will be in residence at Esalen.

As Dr. Perls is training "gestalt therapists", "gestaltists" and "gestalt art therapists", the word "professional" is widely defined to include such persons as teachers, artists, ministers and mental health workers in addition to psychiatrists, clinical psychologists and psychiatric social workers, although preference may be given to people in the latter categories. It is our concern that what has come to be known as gestalt therapy not be restricted to use as a system of concepts and techniques for clinical work only.

The work of Dr. Perls has deep meaning for any field concerned with human relationship whether the focus is healing, growth or learning. His work has increasing relevance to many such fields, especially education and ecology. Therefore a wider range of professional backgrounds will be considered. Efficacy in gestalt work arises primarily out of one's reality as a person. Any given academic background may or may not have contributed to that reality.

June 7-July 4
July 19-August 15
EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN
with the ESALEN STAFF

In these workshops a group of Esalen staff members join workshop participants in an experience of each other and of the Institute, surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not, as he wishes; individual choices can go from intense encounter to silent meditation.

No two Experience of Esalen workshops are alike, since the mix of staff resource availabilities and interests of group members varies with each workshop. Among the more popular offerings have been encounter, gestalt dream work and massage instruction. Experience of Esalen workshops for this summer will offer these three plus meditation, yoga, instruction in arts and crafts, Rolf treatments, body awareness and movement, organic gardening and cooking, astrology, tarot, mysticism, music, life as meditation. (Italics indicate specialties available in private sessions by appointment, usually at extra cost. Inquire about costs and availability at time of making reservations).

In common with many other Esalen workshops in this brochure, there is a requirement that workshop participants share in the physical work of the place—meal preparation and serving, gardening or whatever needs to be done. There is also an assumption that people attending these programs are willing to be open and talk straight and are willing to spend the length of the program tuned in to their own being and consciousness.

Applicants for Fall Residence Programs may satisfy the staff interview requirement by participation in Experience of Esalen workshops. Such persons should identify themselves as prospective applicants in their first reservation correspondence.

There will be Experience of Esalen workshops also on May 24-31, July 5-12 and September 6-11. See program listings for price information.

June 21-July 18
BODY AWARENESS
with BERNARD GUNTHER, RICHARD PRICE, GABRIELLE ROTH, DICK HORAN and Staff

There are a growing number of related approaches aimed at healing the dis-ease producing conceptual split between body and mind. Body is mind; mind is body. Some of these ways will be experienced in this four-week workshop.
The first week will be in sensory awakening with Bernard Gunther; the second will center on body-oriented gestalt work with Richard Price; the third and fourth on massage, movement and meditation with Gabrielle Roth and Dick Horan. Other members of the Esalen staff will also be available to the program, including Peter Melchior, who will demonstrate the Rolf method of structural integration.

August 2-29
ENCOUNTER AND GESTALT AWARENESS TRAINING with BETTY FULLER and JANET LEDERMAN

An experiential training workshop in encounter and gestalt awareness training for educators, psychologists, psychiatrists, ministers, social workers and others in helping professions to explore that vast reach between the mandible and the ground. The workshop will be engaged with

What is—
The prose of PAST,
The poetry of NOW,
The fantasy of FUTURE.

This workshop can also function as qualifying pre-training for possible admission into the Gestalt Institute of Canada.

August 16-September 11
ENERGY AND ENCOUNTER
with SEYMOUR CARTER and THEODORA LYON

Americans grow up in a culture that allows an enormous amount of interference with natural, self-regulatory processes. Children are continually forced to deny their authentic experience and to pretend to feel and be other than they are. The end result is that much energy is tied up in maintaining pretenses, defenses and rigid, repetitive life patterns.
This workshop is for persons who want to work on freeing this bound energy and to get more in touch with their authentic selves. The workshop leaders will use gestalt awareness and encounter methods, sensory awareness and work with energy movement throughout the body.

FALL 1970 RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

The program will run from September 20, 1970 to January 23, 1971. Costs will be $1500 for the first two months and $600 per month for the last two months (total cost $2700). Scholarship funds may be available to a limited number of persons.

Functionally, there will be two areas:

Group I: Oriented toward the body: structural integration, as practiced by Ida Rolf, movement, hatha yoga, tai chi chuan, massage, meditation, the study of anatomy and healing, bio-energetics.

Group II: Oriented toward the psyche: gestalt therapy, encounter, meditation, hypnosis and fantasy healing.
These disciplines represent our thinking at this time. Some may be deleted from the program, while others may be included. The purpose of the program is not to limit the participants to one specific type of work. It is an attempt to provide relevance to individuals and their needs. All resident fellows will receive ten treatments in the Rolf process of structural integration.

The program will be scheduled for four months. All participants, however, will not stay the entire length of time. There will be a two, three and four month program. Candidates will be initially accepted only for the first two months; participation in the third and fourth months is at the discretion of the program director.

Two-Month Program: All fellows will stay for at least two months. The two months will be scheduled and the direction of the program will be largely determined by the Institute staff.

Three-Month Program: Particularly for those wishing professional training, but also open to people who need more work in specific areas. During the month, all residents will be responsible for designing their own program to fit their own needs.

Four-Month Program: Limited to those people desiring professional training. These people will work with the Institute staff in designing a one-month workshop and will co-direct the month with the staff. There will be further training sessions during this month for the benefit of residents only.

Esalen is not licensed to issue and does not intend to issue certification of any kind. Some institutions may give credit for training received at Esalen, but this is at the discretion of the institution concerned. Training is primarily intended for people already engaged in this work or in related fields (teachers, doctors, ministers, psychologists, etc.). All persons accepted to the Residence Program will be responsible for working sixteen hours per week at tasks assigned by the Institute.
The month-long workshops are recommended for those people who wish to explore the type of work the Residence Program will be engaged in and to help determine whether a longer program would be relevant to their needs. People in these workshops who wish to apply for the Residence Program will be selected or rejected during the month they are in attendance.
For those persons applying for the Residence Program who do not attend a month-long workshop, there will be a Selection Weekend on August 7-9. The cost of this weekend is $40. Sleeping will be dormitory style, so bring a sleeping bag. No program other than the selection process will be offered.
For further information and for registration in the Selection Weekend, please write: Residence Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920.

May 17-22
YOGA: STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS
5-Day Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

An intensive program exploring the realms of yoga through conceptual inquiry and practice. The seminar is suitable for the interested novice as well as the serious student of yoga. Emphasis will be placed on the daily practice of yogic techniques such as Hatha yoga and pranayama (breathing), and meditation in the light of yogic structures both classical and modern. There will be inquiry into the ever-recurring problems of man such as time, mind, death, freedom, choice, sorrow, desire, competition, sexuality.
A special menu of yogic (pure) foods will be offered. The program will aim at giving the participants a feel for an ancient path to freedom in modern terms.
$190 per person.

May 17-22: GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with JAMES S. SIMKIN.
See pages 32-33 for description.

May 22-24
NEW AGE RELIGION
Weekend Workshop with JACK HURLEY
and R. GERALD THATCHER

The Aquarian Age is anticipated by many as an era of universal brotherhood and planetary unity. This seminar will examine some of the trends at work today leading to 2000 A.D. and the views of the major spokesmen of the future, including St. John of Patmos (the Divine), Nostradamus, Edgar Cayce, Carl Jung and Sri Aurobindo. African and Eastern sources will also be examined, as well as Bahai and the work of Gurdjieff.
The role of humanistic psychology will also be included in our survey, with the more experiential techniques from meditation to rhythm and movement.
$75 per person.

May 22-24
OPEN ENCOUNTER
Weekend Workshop with
the ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF

This workshop will be grounded in openness and honesty, with encounter as the basic format. Group leaders will integrate a wide variety of approaches developed or refined at Esalen to help participants be more aware of what is real for them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them. These approaches include nonverbal, fantasy, dramatic and gestalt methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques. Leaders will be drawn from a group trained by and associated with William C. Schutz. These include: Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Al Drucker, Arthur and Janica Fox, Betty Fuller, John Heider, Sara Miller and Steven Stroud.
$75 per person.

May 24-31
MASSAGE, MEDITATION, YOGA
7-Day Workshop
with RICHARD HORAN

To find your center by turning the mind into the body. This workshop will include a repertoire of massage techniques designed to develop expressions of love, caring, rhythm and breathing and an introduction to yoga and the practice of daily meditations. A vegetarian menu will be offered.
$240 per person.

May 24-31: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN with the ESALEN STAFF.
See page 6 for description. $240 per person.

May 31-June 5: WORDS, FEELING AND THE BODY with BERNARD GUNTHER.
See page 31 for description.

May 31-June 5: OPEN ENCOUNTER with the ESALEN ENCOUNTER STAFF.
See above for description. $190 per person.

June 5-7: GESTALT OPEN WORKSHOP FOR COUPLES with TOM and NATALIE EDNIE.
See pages 32-33 for description.

June 5-7
YOGA: ADVANCED STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS
Weekend Workshop
with JOEL KRAMER

A continuation of Mr. Kramer's introductory workshops on yoga, this seminar is designed for the serious student who wishes to explore the realms of yoga more deeply. The format of the workshop will be open and will depend on the levels of sophistication and interests of the participants.
$75 per person.

June 7-14
INNER PERSONAL SPACE PROBLEMS
7-Day Workshop
with JOHN LILLY

Each person defines his own inner spaces; what one believes to be true either is true or becomes true within limits found experientially. These limits are beliefs to be transcended. This workshop is devoted to each person's finding his/her limits and finding ways to move beyond them.
$240 per person.

June 14-21: GESTALT OPEN WORKSHOP with RICHARD PRICE and Staff.
See pages 32-33 for description.

June 14-21
MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
7-Day Workshop
with SEYMOUR CARTER

The Esalen approach to massage is an attempt to quiet the mind so that the participant can sensitively make contact, without technique. Contacting the other is also contacting oneself, hence the value of meditation. Therefore, learn to center. . .and learn to concentrate on the moment of your touching as it unfolds. Couples are encouraged to attend so they may continue to massage each other in their home.
Joel Kramer, a hatha yogi and teacher of yoga at Esalen, will assist Seymour Carter.
$240 per person.

June 21-26
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING
5-Day Workshop
with ED MAUPIN

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches – sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions – are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination.
$210 per person.

June 21-26: YOGA: STUDIES AND APPLICATIONS with JOEL KRAMER. See page 8 for description.

June 26-28
EXPLORING MADNESS
Weekend Workshop
with JULIAN SILVERMAN, M.D.

What sense is contained in psychotic phenomena? What possibilities for growth exist in "losing one's mind"? The value of becoming aware of one's own personal style of madness is explored in this seminar. Gestalt awareness techniques and active imagination are utilized to probe personal and empirical meanings of emotional dis-ease.
$75 per person.

June 26-28
WHEELS OF FIRE: ASTROLOGY AND THE BODY
Weekend Workshop
with R. GERALD THATCHER

This seminar will be devoted to a study of cycles: The cycles of the planets, of human growth and of the function of the organism. Sunspot cycles and their effect upon us and the cycles of the moon and its relation to sexual cycles will be examined. The rest of the planets will be taken in their turn as an index for human functioning, as a means of determining our relationship with the cosmic environment.
$75 per person.

June 28-July 5
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE
7-Day Workshop
with GEORGE I. and JUDITH BROWN and Staff

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship. Growth toward maturity is often inhibited by fear of change and the unknown. Fantasied catastrophies are created by our "fine minds" at the prospect of moving into the adventure of new experience. And instead of moving into each moment – as Perls says – as fresh experience, we cling to the status quo, to a cardboard existence; and thus we die long before we cease breathing. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness followed by gestalt awareness training. The Browns will lead the first five days of the program; the remaining two days will be staff-led.
$240 per person.

July 5-12
A CRAFT WORKSHOP
7-Day Workshop
with the GUILD OF HANDS

Beginning with the basic assumption that within each individual lies all he needs to begin an approach toward creative fulfillment, this workshop will explore ways in which people can "do". Leaders of the workshop are people who "do". Some of the tools used in this exploration will be from among:

Pottery	Batik	Jewelry	Leatherwork
Graphics	Weaving	Baking	Photography

Emphasis will be on process, rather than completed work. The general tone of the workshop can best be described in the phrase "structured spontaneity".
$190 per person.

July 5-12: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN with the ESALEN STAFF.
See page 6 for description. $240 per person.

July 12-19
INNER PERSONAL SPACE PROBLEMS
7-Day Workshop
with JOHN LILLY

Each person defines his own inner spaces; what one believes to be true either is true or becomes true within limits found experientially. These limits are beliefs to be transcended. This workshop is devoted to each person's finding his/her limits and finding ways to move beyond them.
$240 per person.

July 12-19
7-Day WORKSHOP
with SEYMOUR CARTER

This workshop is based on the realization that our personal growth is often blocked because we do not see ourselves clearly. The objectives of this group are to guide the participants to become aware of why both they and others behave as they do. By creating a supportive atmosphere, participants can experience themselves at a deeper level than daily life provides and, from this point, initiate growth. Techniques used will be those being explored at Esalen, including encounter, gestalt awareness and sensory awakening.
$240 per person.

July 12-19
MAGIC IN THE WOODS
7-Day Workshop with
R. GERALD THATCHER,
JACK HURLEY
and STEVE GENARDINI

The program leaders describe their workshop as follows: "Visitors at Esalen often speak of the enchantment and magic they experience in Big Sur. Sometimes we are inclined to take our environment for granted; sometimes we are caught up and awed by the force and presence of this beauty. In this workshop, we wish to explore those forces in nature of which we are a part. We will camp in the mountains and seek to discover the forces around us. As we begin to do so, we can evoke from within ourselves the forces which will complement and enhance our environment, each other, water, wind, sun, moon.
Bring sleeping bag and clothing for a week's camping in the mountains. For additional information, write Jack Hurley, Esalen, Big Sur.
$240 per person.

July 19-24
BREATHING AND AWARENESS
5-Day Workshop
with MAGDA PROSKAUER

A workshop involving various breathing techniques and exercises in awareness. Mrs. Proskauer's approach educates awareness of somatic processes which are normally unconscious or semi-conscious. In an extended workshop of this kind, participants can achieve more relaxation and awareness than they are able to in brief sessions.
$190 per person.

July 19-24
MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE
5-Day Workshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

Miss Roth describes this program as follows: "As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed."
$190 per person.

July 24-26 and
August 21-23
FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY
Two Couples' Weekends
with GEORGE I.
and JUDITH BROWN

A workshop for couples who feel they have a relatively healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationships even more real, exciting and substantial. The focus of the program will move through misleading and confusing preconceptions of oneself and one's marriage partner to increasing perception and authentic response to a real person in a real world. The Browns will use approaches to gestalt awareness training that once learned in the workshops can continue to be used by the couple in their home setting.
The initial workshop, July 24-26, will be combined with a follow-up workshop on August 21-23. All participants must commit themselves to both workshops.
$300 per couple for both weekends.
Nonrefundable deposit of $150 per couple is required.

July 26-31
BODYMIND
5-Day Workshop
with WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ

Recent developments in techniques have made the philosophical issue of the mind-body problem amenable to experiential exploration. This workshop explores the unity of the mind and the body through combining three methods that Will Schutz has found extraordinarily effective. Participants will receive one session of the Rolf method of structural integration, followed by a fantasy designed to elaborate and work through the feelings elicited by the Rolfing. Each Rolf-fantasy session will be observed by the total group and encountering will follow. The group will explore the most advantageous ways of integrating body (Rolfing), intra-psychic (fantasy) and interpersonal (encounter) phenomena. Limited to 8 persons.
$280 per person.

July 26-August 2
TRANSCENDENCE
7-Day Workshop
with HUSTON and
KENDRA SMITH

Review of individual and group attempts to exceed man's present condition and evolutionary prospects for doing so as a species. Morning meditation sessions and evening encounter groups to participate in the endeavor.
$240 per person.

HUMANISTIC EDUCATION:
LEARNING IS NEVER WHAT
ONE EXPECTS
7-Day Workshop
with AARON HILLMAN

Learning is never quite what one expects but what one expects nearly always interferes with learning. With this in mind, the workshop will explore the process that the Ford/Esalen project group calls "confluent education", or the merging of cognitive and affective experiences. While designed primarily for teachers at all levels, the workshop is open to any interested person. Gestalt awareness training for workshop participants, as well as its application to the schoolroom, will be an integral part of the program. Bring pencil and paper.
$240 per person.

In this workshop, a variety of approaches – sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions – are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination.
$210 per person.

August 30-September 4: GESTALT OPEN WORKSHOP with the ESALEN STAFF. See pages 32-33.

September 4-6: STAYING AWAKE with BERNARD GUNTHER. See page 31 for description.

September 6-11
L'CHAYIM – TO LIFE
5-Day Workshop
with AL DRUCKER
and the ESALEN STAFF

Mr. Drucker describes his workshop as follows: "This workshop will begin with encounter and gestalt sessions. Here we will meet and deal with the dybbuks and dark spirits that keep us from feeling like well, healthy animals. Then we'll toast to life however and wherever our spirit takes us – play, work in the garden, folk dancing, massage, painting, storytelling, drums, a walk in the woods, a picnic at the beach."
$190 per person.

September 6-11: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN with the ESALEN STAFF.
See page 6 for description. $190 per person.

San Francisco Programs

Residential Programs in the San Francisco Bay Area

Summer 1970 marks the inception of residential seminars in the San Francisco Bay Area. Three conference centers are being utilized for these workshops, which will benefit from the opportunities of "living in." Exact locations will be included with registration confirmation. Workshops will begin at 8 p.m. Friday evening (without supper) and will conclude with Sunday lunch. Most Bay Area seminars will continue to be nonresidential, i.e., without meals or room provided.
The following is our summer schedule of residential workshops:

June 26-28	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff
July 17-19	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff Bio-Energetics, with Stanley Keleman, John Bellis, Alan Clarke
August 14-16	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff Life Planning, with Arthur Shedlin
August 21-23	Open Gestalt Workshop, with John Enright, Lois Brien, Elaine Kepner
September 4-6	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff
September 4-7	Couples' Workshop, with Betty Fuller

STUDENT SCHOLARSHIP POLICY

In order to make more readily available the many programs offered by Esalen/San Francisco, a policy has been adopted whereby students may attend seminars and workshops in the San Francisco area on a stand-by basis at a reduced fee. Please call the San Francisco office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, (415) 771-1710. This policy does not apply to Big Sur Programs.

July 8-September 23
THE ARTS OF LIVING

Much of the enriching experience and personal growth which occurs in Esalen workshops is lost when one returns to his ordinary routines. One reason for this loss is that the person's ordinary habits, life style and environment work against the kind of insight, emotion and adventuresomeness which workshops often help to bring about. In this program participants will explore new options in the design of their lives which might better facilitate personal growth.

Small groups (limited to 15) will meet during a three-month period for one night a week and one weekend a month, plus other special occasions, with leaders and invited specialists in various areas of living: inner and outer environments, food, dress, money, time, leisure, family structure, entertainment, etc. Group facilitators, using gestalt awareness, encounter, sensory awareness, meditation and other approaches, will help to consolidate any new insights and techniques into ongoing patterns in the participants' lives. By observing their own ways of adjusting to the rush of urban life, participants may gain some distance from it, a space in which the basic self may possibly emerge more fully. "Homework" will be essential. The options presented by the program leaders, e.g., with one's clothes, work habits, family structure, will be explored between meetings. The sharing of these self-directed, at-home experiences will help to guide the program. There will also be exposure to a variety of life styles and to the endless suggestiveness of the city.

Participants may expect to skip some aspects of the program and to delve deeply into others. In such an intensely personal situation, the right of occasional absence will be taken for granted. However, the calendar span is designed to cut across usual vacation schedules; we hope most participants will experiment with getting away from it all right in the midst of it all.

Some of the leaders are Neill Smith, architect and planner; Sim Van der Ryn, architect; Peter Bailey, dealing with clothing and food as social/individual expression; Alan Lakein, specialist in time management; Joan McIntyre, environment and ecology. Peter Bailey is coordinator of the overall program.

$375 per person.

May 15-17
50 POSITIONS FROM WHICH TO EXPERIENCE LIVING
Weekend Workshop
with JANET LEDERMAN

This will be a gestalt-oriented workshop and is open to professionals and nonprofessionals. Gestalt training, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way of living and enhancing one's experience. It is nonanalytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through noninterpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

$55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 15.

May 15-17
FUNCTION OF PHILOSOPHY IN PSYCHOLOGICAL EXPERIENCE
Weekend Seminar
with GORDON CLOUGH

A seminar focused on the proposition that every psychological experience is radically affected by the fundamentals of one's religio-philosophical beliefs. Such beliefs may become in this sense an integral part of that which we call experiential. This largely unexamined field of interaction will be explored in part by reference to the uniquely limitless horizons of Eastern religio-philosophy through use of the Upanishads, Bhagavad-Gita, Dhammapada and Tao te King, by discussion of unusual communities (Synanon, Communitarians, etc.) as living laboratories for study of philosophical influence, and by discussion of both in relation to the relevant writings of Joseph Campbell, Viktor Frankl, A. H. Maslow and Herbert Fingarette.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 15.

TWO EVENTS WITH O. HOBART MOWRER

Lecture
May 15

INTEGRITY GROUPS: PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICES
8 to 10:30 p.m.; $3 general; $2 student
First Unitarian Church, Franklin & Geary Sts., San Francisco

Seminar
May 16, 17

Much personality disorder is the result of poor interpersonal relations, and it is assumed that good interpersonal relations presuppose honesty, responsibility and involvement. Together, these traits add up to personal integrity or integration. It has been found that persons who have left their family of origin can often learn the cardinal character traits in small "artificial" groups.
The seminar will elaborate the ideas presented in Friday night's lecture. Dr. Mowrer's wife, Willie Mae Mowrer, and Leon and Judy Jakobovits will act as co-leaders during the weekend; they will speak from their own experiences of pain, change and growth in integrity groups. There will be four two-hour sessions: Saturday morning and afternoon and Sunday morning and afternoon. Seminar participants will receive a complimentary ticket to the lecture. $50 per person; limited to 60 participants.

May 16
POLICE AND REVOLUTIONARIES
Saturday Workshop with JOEL FORT, M.D.

Confrontation and Dialogue between police, prosecutors, judges, jailers and radicals, militants, extremists, reactionaries.
Two special kinds of minority groups, each with strong views of themselves and each other ("pigs" and "commies", for example) will be given the opportunity to make contact with themselves and each other and find alternative ways of reacting and behaving. The individual's capacity for growth, change, tolerance and for channeling anger and aggression will be emphasized in an atmosphere of openness, honesty, spontaneity and hope for social progress. The style of the workshop will be eclectic, individualistic and innovative.
$10 per person. Begins 10 a.m., May 16, continuing into the night.

May 19
INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER
Tuesday Evening
with ESALEN STAFF

A single-evening introduction to encountering with staff trained by and associated with William C. Schutz and Esalen Resident Fellows. Participants will be divided into small groups which will integrate many methods for personal growth and development being explored at Esalen: sensory awakening, body movement, gestalt and Lowen techniques, psychodrama, fantasy, communication games. Comfortable clothes recommended (slacks for women); bring pillow to sit on.
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Tuesday, May 19.
International House, 2299 Piedmont Avenue, Berkeley.

May 22-24
ENCOUNTER WEEKEND
with ART and JANICA FOX

With encounter as the basic format, this workshop will integrate many of the methods being explored at Esalen, such as psychodrama, meditation, fantasy, gestalt and Lowen techniques. Trust, supportiveness, openness and honesty will be emphasized. There will also be an attempt to relate this experience to worlds which are not always receptive to it.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 22.

TWO EVENTS WITH ROLLO MAY

LECTURE
May 22

THE STRUCTURE OF SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE
8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, May 22
$3 general; $2 student. Nourse Auditorium, Franklin & Hayes, S.F.

SEMINAR
May 23, 24

THE STRUCTURE OF SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE
There will be four two-hour sessions during the seminar, Saturday morning and afternoon and Sunday morning and afternoon. Seminar participants will receive a complimentary ticket to Friday's lecture. $55 per person; limited to 60 participants.

Session I: "One Man's Odyssey". Dr. May will talk about himself and his spiritual transformations and will encourage participants to discuss events of their spiritual lives.

Session II: "Myths of America and Spiritual Experience". Discussing the American notions of sinlessness and utopianism, and the American restlessness which leads to despair and turns to faith in technology.

Session III: "Meditation and the Courage to Come to One's Self".

Session IV: "Communion of Consciousness". A discussion of caring and love as part of spiritual structure.

May 22-24
A WORKSHOP with the ESALEN RESIDENT FELLOWS

This workshop will focus on a variety of methods being explored in the Esalen Residence Program. The residents are working with gestalt, encounter, movement, massage, meditation and other approaches. Participants can expect to be exposed to a number of different disciplines, which will be determined by the experiential content of the current Residence Program. The workshop will be coordinated by Steven Stroud.
$35 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 22.

May 23
THE TECHNOCRATIC TRAP
One-day Seminar with THEODORE ROSZAK

In describing this seminar, Dr. Roszak writes: "If I understand Esalen correctly, the purpose of its therapeutic work is largely to demonstrate the curative value of not talking about what can't be talked about in the first place. And that's a sensible way to clear away the cerebral debris that often lies heavy on the private psychic wounds we have all suffered at the hands of the official reality principle: best stop the busy cogitating and let the dust settle. But the quest for liberation, though it may begin with the person, is more than a personal affair; it possesses a social and cultural dimension that yields to intellectual understanding. The aim of this session will be to work up a good conversation about all those things that can be talked about: how the technocratic society came into existence, how it holds together, how it defends its interests, how its traps are baited, where its vulnerabilities lie, etc. The talk will have much to do with science and technology, with Romantic poetry and shamanism, with industrialism and ecology, with the prerequisites of freedom."
$12 general; $8 student. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, May 23.

May 28-31
ACTION ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES
Extended Weekend Workshop
with BENNETT SHAPIRO

A fast moving, body-oriented and intensive encounter group for couples seeking relief from indifference, dishonesty and withdrawal. Many of the methods for personal confrontation and human development being explored at Esalen will be integrated into an encounter setting, particularly gestalt awareness and bio-energetics techniques. In addition, methods for enriching two-person relationships will be emphasized and practiced for couples' use after the workshop.
The program will be held at a private lodge in the Bay Area countryside where meals and lodging will be provided; however, participants should bring their own sleeping bags. Details will be supplied upon registration.
$170 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Thursday, May 28 and ends 6 p.m., Sunday, May 31. (includes Memorial Day).

May 29-31
CREATIVE MEETING: A WORKSHOP FOR UNMARRIEDS
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD SMITH and BETTY BERZON

This is an experience for those who are concerned with ending traditional "dating games" and moving more creatively into relationships. Movement and sensory awakening techniques, communication exercises, encounter groups and various gestalt approaches will be used to help participants increase their self-awareness and honest communication with others.
Workshop participants will be chosen so as to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state age on application. This workshop is intended for unattached singles. Limited to 40 persons.
$55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 29.

June 5-7
BEING A MAN
Weekend Workshop
with DON CLARK

Males are told how they should feel and behave as son, brother, husband, father, friend or lover. Most of us have grown up accepting these definitions of "man" and trying to fit into them the best we can. There is little opportunity to establish satisfying self-made definitions that permit you to be your own man. As a result, masculine affection is stereotyped in expression and most men are dissatisfied with their ability to establish fully satisfying relationships with others – particularly other men. This workshop will use nonverbal communication, fantasy, body contact and unforced sharing of emotions to encourage the search for self-definition and expression of tenderness as a man. Limited to 15 men.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 5.

June 5-7
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE
Couples' Workshop
with GERALD and LINDA SMITH

If a couple can be both close to each other and also free to grow as separate individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. To be close, a couple should be able to talk clearly and openly; to be free, they should be able to experience "creative conflict". Focus will be on prevention and growth – the here and now – rather than on problems of the past. Family therapy communications approaches, encounter, group techniques, gestalt applications, nonverbal and sensory experiences and videotape feedback will be used.
$110 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 5.

June 5-7: A WORKSHOP with the ESALEN RESIDENT FELLOWS and STEVEN STROUD
See description above. $35 per person.

June 8
AN OVERVIEW OF GROWTH CENTERS AND HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGY
An Evening with DON CLARK

Dr. Donald Clark has recently completed a study of humanistic psychology, growth centers and related activities under a grant from the Carnegie Corporation. His study is unique in its range and insight. In this lecture Dr. Clark will discuss what he learned about the varied projects throughout the United States to explore the human potential, their problems and failings, their possibilities and promise.
$2 per person. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, June 8.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 11
BUDDHISM AND MEDITATION
An Evening with CHOGYAM TRUNGPA

Chogyam Trungpa is spiritual head of the Samye-Ling Tibetan Centre in Eskdalemuir, Scotland. Previously he was supreme abbot of the Surmang Group of monastaries in Tibet. After the Communist invasion of Tibet, he traveled for some years in India and then went to Great Britain to study at Oxford University and to found his own center for the study of Buddhism and meditation. Two of his books are available in the United States, Born in Tibet (Harcourt) and Meditation in Action.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, June 11.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

June 12-14
BEING AND BECOMING AT MIDSTREAM
Weekend Workshop with WILLIAM GOLDEN, JR. and JUDITH LOUBET

This encounter group is for those over 35 – for those who have reached certain goals and who at midstream are asking: "Where am I?" "Is it too late to change?" "How do I get moving again?" "What's left in life for me?"
This workshop will use a wide variety of encounter methods to help participants focus on the subjective experience of being "middle-aged". It will be an opportunity for those over 35 to reflect on where they have been, to share peak experiences and blocks to growing, and to relight a spark for living. The weekend will endeavor to help all participants become more aware of their potential for new ventures and personal growth. Specific structured group experiences will be used to highlight "life-goal" planning and action steps related to attaining the goals.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 12.

June 12-14
THE FORM OF INTERNAL SIGNIFICANCE
Weekend Workshop with TOM ALLEN

Growth techniques, such as encounter, body awareness, inner imagery, fantasy and psychodrama, will be used in conjunction with a variety of art processes as a way of letting go and coming into contact with a deeper, more expressive self.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 12.

June 19-21
GESTALT THERAPY AND HYPNOSIS
Weekend Workshop with ABE LEVITSKY

Dr. Levitsky writes: "I have been discovering that the methods of gestalt therapy can serve as exciting adjuncts and facilitators in the art of hypnosis. In this workshop we will avoid the traditional methods of prestige suggestion and instead emphasize the gestalt principles of 'staying with it' and of acceptance of phenomena as they occur. Experiments will be made in the very new technique of mutual hypnosis and in the hypnotic facilitation of the creative process.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 19.

June 19-21
ASTROLOGY: PATH TO SELF-REALIZATION
Weekend Workshop with HARRIET MOHR

In describing her workshop, Harriet Mohr writes: "Through astrology man learns to identify his consciousness and will with the celestial patterns and rhythms." During this program, dialogue, poetry, fantasy, brush painting, music and meditation will be used to initiate understanding of astrology.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 19.

June 25: INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER with the ESALEN STAFF
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday, June 25.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco. See page 15 for description.

June 26-28
INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
Residential Weekend with BETTY FULLER and the ESALEN STAFF

This workshop is specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen programs. It will offer an opportunity for each participant to expand self-concepts and more fully realize his potential in a format emphasizing honesty, openness and spontaneity. Group leaders will integrate a wide variety of approaches to help participants be more aware of feelings, both their own and those of others. These approaches include nonverbal, fantasy, dramatic and gestalt methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques.
Leaders will be drawn from a group trained by and associated with William C. Schutz and Esalen Resident Fellows who have completed a program directed by Dr. Schutz. These include: Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Al Drucker, Arthur and Janica Fox, John Heider, Sara Miller and Steven Stroud.
$65 per person, including room and meals. ($20 deposit required).

June 26-28
EXPLORING THE BODY AS A MEDIUM OF COMMUNICATION
Weekend Workshop
with DENIS WALSH

In describing his workshop, Mr. Walsh writes: "Marshall McLuhan has made us aware that the medium is the message. This insight reaches a point of immense significance in the area of human communications, where the body is the medium. Since the unconscious is so much written into the perceptions, actions and lines of the body, my own body constitutes a most inclusive message. Others read that message vividly. But do I know my own messages? What perceptions do I allow myself? What image do I project to others? What level of sensory awareness do I enrich myself with and limit myself to? What body language do I use in communicating with others?
"These are the areas of exploration which will occupy the weekend. There will be several sessions directed toward experiences in sensory awareness, personal perceptions and a study of body language."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, June 26.

June 29-July 2
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with ART and JANICA FOX

With encounter as the basic format, this workshop will integrate many of the methods being explored at Esalen, such as psychodrama, meditation, fantasy, gestalt and Lowen techniques. Trust, supportiveness, openness and honesty will be emphasized. There will also be an attempt to relate this experience to worlds which are not always receptive to it.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, June 29-July 2.

July 1
SRI AUROBINDO
An Evening with
HADIRAS CHAUDHURI, RICHARD MARSH and MICHAEL MURPHY

A discussion of the late great Indian philosopher, Sri Aurobindo, his life, philosophy and yoga. There will be a special emphasis in the discussion upon the relevance of his vision of evolving human consciousness to current developments in humanistic psychology, growth centers and the work of Esalen Institute.
$3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 11:00 p.m., Wednesday, July 1.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

July 1, 8, 15, 22, 29
SELF DISCOVERY THROUGH MUSIC
5 Wednesday Evenings
with FREDERICK WELLS

Mr. Wells describes this program as follows: "Participants will receive training in new methods of becoming totally absorbed in the experience of sound. We will listen to great music and through it experience trips into the inner self. You may go through hell, and be resurrected. You may suffer pain, sadness, fright. You may cry uncried tears. You may feel joy, peace, love, laughter – and you may dance. You may discover the rhythms of your body, create tensions and releases, journey through time and space."
After each listening session a group encounter will take place to reflect and communicate the experience. Wear loose clothing and be prepared to spend a great deal of time on the floor. If the group chooses, several field trips to live concerts may take place.
$50 per person. 8 p.m., Wednesday evenings, July 1, 8, 15, 22, 29.

July 3-5
WEEKEND WORKSHOP
with SEYMOUR CARTER

This workshop is based on the realization that our personal growth is often blocked because we do not see ourselves clearly. The objectives of this group are to guide the participants to become aware of why both they and others behave as they do. By creating a supportive atmosphere, participants can experience themselves at a deeper level than daily life provides and, from this point, initiate growth. Techniques used will be those being explored at Esalen, including encounter, gestalt awareness and sensory awakening.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 3.

July 3-5
COUPLES' WEEKEND WORKSHOP with LARRY and PAULA BLOOMBERG

This workshop for couples will employ gestalt and encounter techniques to increase communication between intimate partners and to enrich and define the special relationship between man and woman. Limited to ten couples.
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 3.

July 3-5
MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE
Weekend Workshop
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop, Miss Roth writes: "As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 3.

July 6-9
BEYOND ENCOUNTER GROUPS
4-Day Workshop
with JAMES FADIMAN

In describing his workshop, Dr. Fadiman writes: "Our natural state is one of loving awareness. We sometimes forget this and become less than we are. Exercises which will reawaken and strengthen our tendencies toward the good, the beautiful and the divine within ourselves will form the basic structure of the workshop." Suggested for those who wish to go beyond the limitation of traditional encounter groups.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, July 6-9.

July 8
TO BUILD A BETTER BRAIN
An Evening with
ELEANOR CRISWELL

An introduction to the Optokinetic Perceptual Learning Device (OKPLD) for the stimulation of sensory awareness and learning. The OKPLD provides a visual stimulation/meditation experience which alters level of arousal and perceptual awareness. Optokinetic training enhances awareness in all sensory modes – vision, hearing, touch, as well as perceptual speed. The OKPLD is either quite new or quite ancient, an up-dated version of the Tibetan prayer wheel.
A theoretical framework, demonstration and experience of the OKPLD will be provided. Other ways of enhancing cognitive and perceptual functioning will also be discussed, e.g., yoga and EEG feedback training.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, July 8.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

July 8-Sept 23: ARTS OF LIVING Three-month Workshop with PETER BAILEY and other leaders. See page 14.

July 10-12
THE WHAT-IT'S-LIKE-TO-BE-ME GAME
Weekend Workshop
with ABE LEVITSKY

This is a recent innovation in psychotherapeutic approach by Dr. Levitsky. It is surprisingly painless and moves with unusual speed to the deeper layers of the personality. It touches on dimensions of experience which are rarely shared and provides an opportunity for experiencing others from the inside. The approach lends itself well to integration with the methods of gestalt therapy.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 10.

July 10-12
INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE
Weekend Workshop with
FREDERICK STOLLER

This workshop will consist of small group encounter designed to challenge the conventional stance of the participants and to enhance the exploration of potential through mutual search for alternatives. Video-tape feedback and photography will be among the approaches utilized.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 10.

July 10-12
THE ART OF EMOTIONAL NOURISHMENT
Weekend Workshop
with JERRY GREENWALD
and JANETTE RAINWATER

Using the here-and-now approach of gestalt therapy, the workshop will focus on developing awareness of the nourishing and toxic attitudes and behavior patterns of each participant as these are directed inwardly towards himself and outwardly in his relating to others. The workshop will also include dreamwork, sensory and body awakening experiences, psychodrama and bio-energetics techniques, depending on the interests of the group as these unfold during the weekend. The aim of the workshop is to provide a growth experience for each participant . . . melting psychic impasses, emotional blocks and "unfinished business" . . . letting go of obsolete relationships . . . diminishing phobic attitudes and other behavior patterns which hamper a person in realizing his potentials in his present life.
This will be an intensive weekend; special hours for the workshop are: 7-12 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m.-11 p.m. Saturday; and 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday. (Breaks for meals included).
$60 per person. Begins 7 p.m., Friday, July 10.

July 13-16
THE PROBLEM OF WOMAN
4-Day Workshop
with DAN SULLIVAN

The contradiction for woman of finding her real self, in a world where her real self is defined as being-for-the-other, is unacknowledged by most therapists. Through gestalt techniques, this workshop will explore woman's situation of being exploited, of having her "world" cut out for her in advance, and the corresponding self-alienation of the male in his top-dog role. The early, learned process of adopting a sex role will be discussed and the group will employ various techniques to un-learn sex stereotyping and to appreciate the perspective of the opposite sex. Since human sex life is inevitably mutilated if one of the sexual partners is radically ungrounded in himself, the workshop will also focus on self-alienation in sex and the possibility of wholly human sexual intimacy, when the partners themselves have become equal.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, July 13-16.

July 17-19: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN Residential Weekend with BETTY FULLER and Esalen Staff
See page 17 for description.

July 17-19
BIO-ENERGETICS ANALYSIS
Residential Professional
Weekend with STANLEY
KELEMAN, JOHN BELLIS and ALAN CLARKE

Presented through the Western Institute for Bio-Energetic Analysis, this workshop will demonstrate bio-energetic analytic technique through both theoretical and participative sessions. Intended for practicing professionals in psychiatry, psychology and related fields. Limited to 24 working participants and six observers.
$110 per person, including room and meals. ($30 deposit required).

July 17-19
MAN AS ENERGY
Weekend Workshop
with ROBERT and
DONNA GERARD

The Gerards describe their workshop as follows: "We will explore a variety of energy techniques to bridge cleavages within and between ourselves, moving toward a more alive, integrated, inclusive consciousness. In order to experience more fully and express more constructively the sensory, emotional, mental and spiritual energies which constitute our total organism, we will practice a graduated series of techniques based on the concentration, alignment, infusion, intensification, transmutation and radiation of these energies, thus transforming the quality of our lives."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 17.

July 20-23
ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS &
THE SELF
4-Day Workshop
with BERNARD AARONSON

This workshop will help people experience altered states of consciousness and teach them to produce them for themselves. States resulting from Zen and yogic meditation, tantric chanting, fantasy and autohypnosis will be experienced and compared. Techniques for developing mystical experience and for self-hypnosis will be presented.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, July 20-23.

Workshops For Educators

This is the first in a projected series of annual workshops in "confluent" education. The term confluent education was coined by the Ford/Esalen research group in "affective" or "humanistic" education; it is meant to emphasize the integration of affective and cognitive elements in the learning process. This month may be attended in part or in its entirety. It is a first attempt to provide a farily comprehensive overview of current projects in confluent education, a "report from the front" by leading workers in the field.

All programs in the series will be held at the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction, 1820 Scenic, Berkeley. Accommodations are available at the Berkeley Center for participants who wish to reside there. Residential tuition includes lodging plus breakfast and lunch on days that a workshop is being held. Accommodations are limited so please register early and state whether single or shared room is preferred. The residential fee for the entire series, July 20 through August 7, is $490; the nonresidential fee for the series is $360, and includes lunch on workshop days.

July 20-24
APPROACHES FROM THE FORD/ESALEN PROJECT ON CONFLUENT EDUCATION
5-Day Workshop
with AARON HILLMAN

This workshop is based upon the work done in the Ford/Esalen project in confluent education. Various approaches, including gestalt awareness training and both experiential and theoretical sessions will be presented. Designed primarily for teachers at all levels, this work shop is also open to other interested persons.
$95 per person (nonresidential); $130 per person (residential).
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, July 20-24.

July 27-31
SELF-ESTEEM
5-Day Workshop
with
STANLEY COOPERSMITH

This program will consider and employ a variety of methods for developing and raising self-esteem. Among these methods are self exploration of favorable capacities and bases of esteem, role-taking, modeling, desensitization, challenge and defense. There will be occasions for examining and expanding personal limits by risk-taking, decision making and long-term commitments. The goal throughout will be on increasing feelings of personal worthiness which eventuate in more effective performance and attainment of personal goals and satisfactions. There will be consideration of both the theory and practices involved in establishing self-esteem and the implications of esteem in the school, home and personal evaluation.
$95 per person (nonresidential); $130 per person (residential).
10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, July 27-31.

July 31-August 2
PRIVATE EXPERIENCE, PUBLIC KNOWLEDGE AND PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Weekend Workshop
with TERRY BORTON and NORM NEWBERG

This workshop will explore the approach to education which has evolved over the past five years at the Philadelphia School Board's Office of Affective Development. Sessions will explore the theoretical basis for using a process approach to join a student's private experience to the public world of subject matter; will train participants in techniques for making that connection – fantasy, role-play, physicalization, meditation, group processing, etc.; and will discuss the practical complications of conducting such program in a large urban school system.
$55 per person (nonresidential); $70 per person (residential).
8 to 11 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday;
10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sunday.

August 3-7
GESTALT LEARNING THEORY
5-Day Workshop
with GEORGE and JUDITH BROWN

An experiential workshop in gestalt awareness training based on principles of gestalt therapy. There will be discussions of the application of the work to classroom situations. Participants will be encouraged to develop their own approaches with the assistance of the leaders and other members of the group. July 24-26
A WEEKEND OF MOVEMENT
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop, Gabrielle Roth writes: "As we are, so we move: spontaneous or tense, flowing or restricted. This workshop is designed so that each individual may discover the language of movement, become familiar with his own physical vocabulary and learn to use it as a means for personal growth and communication with others." Music, dreams, imagery and sensory perception are some of the stimuli Miss Roth uses to initiate the movement process.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 24.

July 24-26
ENCOUNTER FOR UNMARRIED COUPLES
Weekend Workshop with JACKIE DOYLE

This weekend for couples going together, living together or planning marriage is designed to lead from the fragility of romantic illusion to a broader, clearer and stronger loving based on knowing yourself and your partner in new ways. Encounter, incorporating techniques based on gestalt therapy, psychodrama and fantasy, will be used.
$90 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 24.

July 24-26
THE TAROT
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD THATCHER
and JACK HURLEY

The Tarot is the 78-card deck from which modern playing cards derive. It dates from the late 1300's. Best known as gypsy fortune telling cards, the Tarot in fact pictures occult symbols making up an underground library of Western knowledge in religion, mysticism, philosophy, alchemy, astrology and occult sciences.
This seminar will open a brief view into the past, the present and the future as interpreted through the Tarot, to enable the participant to formulate a symbolic image of his own personality, towards the end of establishing a creative life style.
Mr. Hurley will present his own Tarot, which he is redesigning through a reinterpretation and modernization of the ancient symbols.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, July 24.

July 27-31
MASSAGE AND MEDITATION
5-Day Workshop with
MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN

In describing her workshop, Molly Schackman writes: "A week in which we will focus on becoming centered and quiet, learning to move from our center, and allowing the inner power we have achieved to flow naturally and caringly through our hands to the bodies of others, awakening their senses. The release of any emotions which may arise from touching or being touched, or from our meditations, will be encouraged. There will be time at the end of the evening for exploring these and for being together verbally or nonverbally. Periods of instruction in massage will be preceded and followed by meditation."
$80 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, July 27-31.

INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE FOR COUPLES
Weekend Workshop with FREDERICK STOLLER

Exploring the present realities and possibilities as an intimate couple requires a different set and stance than it does for the individual. This workshop, through intensive encounter as well as appropriate exercises, will attempt to move couples into a new appreciation of their realities and potentials. (Open to married or unmarried couples).
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 7.

August 7-9
A WEEKEND OF PSYCHODRAMA with WALT ANDERSON and IRA GREENBERG

Psychodrama, one of the most effective and exciting of group interaction techniques, brings the group together in spontaneous enactments of personal and social situations. In this intensive weekend of psychodrama, each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 7.

August 8-9
WEEKEND WORKSHOP
with ROBERT HALL, M.D.

This will be a gestalt-oriented workshop; it is open to anyone who hopes to explore his world in a group setting. The program will be held at Dr. Hall's home in Marin County. Exact location will be provided upon registration.

August 14
THE ENIGMA OF LSD
A Lecture by STANISLAV GROF, M.D.

During the last 14 years, Dr. Grof has been involved in an intense research trying to understand this controversial drug. On the basis of his experiences he will describe the invariant pharmacological effects of LSD and the significance of the extrapharmacological factors for the LSD sessions (personality of the experiencer and of the sitter, their relationship, set and setting, etc.). He will try to evaluate the possible benefits and dangers of LSD and describe the conditions that minimize the risks. It will be demonstrated to what extent the observations from LSD research represent a serious challenge not only to psychiatry and psychology, but to the contemporary scientific thinking in biology and medicine.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, August 14.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 15-16
BEYOND PSYCHOANALYSIS
Weekend Seminar with STANISLAV GROF, M.D.

Dr. Grof will describe and discuss phenomena from advanced stages of LSD psychotherapy that transcend the psychoanalytic framework: religious and mystical experiences of an ecstatic as well as demonic nature (with special emphasis on death-rebirth); embryonic, ancestral and phylogenetic memories, elements of racial and collective unconscious, archetypal experiences, "past incarnation" memories, "spiritistic" experiences, extra-sensory perception, "traveling clairvoyance", etc. He will compare these phenomena with various aspects of the human culture and emphasize the necessity of a revision of our contemporary models of man. Seminar participants will receive a complimentary ticket to Dr. Grof's lecture on August 14.
$50 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (with lunch breaks), Saturday and Sunday, August 15-16.

August 14-16
LIFE PLANNING
Residential Weekend
with ARTHUR SHEDLIN
and STANLEY STANDAL

This program provides a unique opportunity for a limited number of persons who are concerned with determining and implementing meaningful career and other life goals for themselves.
The process of establishing and attaining creative self-fulfilling life goals involves both self-awareness and the use of a definite planning strategy. This structured group experience utilizes a varity of training methods to assist participants in highlighting strengths, weaknesses, peak-experiences and life values pertinent to: a selective inventory of previous life experiences . . . an inventory of present life values . . . establishment of a goal or goals to be attained five to six years from now . . . listing of projects and current action steps related to attaining these goals.
$65 per person, including room and meals. ($20 deposit required).

August 17-20
GESTALT OPEN
PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with JOHN ENRIGHT

An experiential, theoretical and practical presentation of the here and now point of view of gestalt therapy. Though this point of view can only be learned through the direct experience of participation, time will also be allowed for each participant to practice the application of gestalt therapy.

August 20
PHYSIOLOGICAL FEEDBACK
TRAINING AND RESEARCH
An Evening with JOE KAMIYA and
ROBERT ORNSTEIN

"A new conception of our capabilities is being formed within science," writes Dr. Ornstein. "The traditional disciplines of meditation which 'have not forgotten' this knowledge give us a glimpse of the limits of our self-regulation. Within science distinctions which we have made since Plato between the mind and body are being dissolved as we find that the "automation", the body, is capable of learning to alter its own functions. We would like to discuss some of our own work and that of our colleagues and the implications of physiological feedback training for science, for our conception of human nature and for our education."
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, August 20.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

August 21-23
FROM LONELINESS
TO INTIMACY
A Videotape Workshop
with
STEPHEN LAWRENCE

An ever-mounting number of individuals are experiencing the pain of loneliness, isolation, lack of involvement and helplessness that occurs as we pass through the impersonal institutions of our age. The appalling sense of estrangement and the superficiality we often experience with neighbors, co-workers, and even within the family, have become the hallmarks of our times. In a supportive atmosphere of patience and trust, workshop participants will develop methods of gaining meaningful intimacy with others. Advanced experimental encounter group techniques will be utilized and videotape recordings of participants interacting with each other will be available for viewing and in-depth discussions.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 21.

August 21-23
OPEN GESTALT WORKSHOP
Residential Weekend with
JOHN ENRIGHT, ELAINE KEPNER and LOIS BRIEN

This workshop will utilize small groups, divided among the three gestalt leaders, to explore gestalt training, emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world. Gestalt awareness is a nonanalytic, integrative way of living fully in the here-and-now, attempting to enhance effective personal functioning.
$65 per person, including room and meals. ($20 deposit required).

August 24-27
THE PURSUIT OF MEANING: LOGOTHERAPY APPLIED TO LIFE
4-Day Seminar
with JOSEPH FABRY

Logotherapy (therapy through meaning), developed by Dr. Viktor Frankl, Professor of Psychology at the University of Vienna, has been called the "Third Viennese School of Psychiatry" – after Freud's psychoanalysis and Adler's individual psychology. Logotherapy has been found especially useful to the increasing number of people who suffer from a feeling of meaninglessness, emptiness and frustration; it stresses personal choices and is pragmatic and present- and future-oriented. This seminar will present Frankl's basic concepts of the causes of our "existential vacuum" and his suggested remedies. It will offer each participant the opportunity, through group discussion, to apply Frankl's ideas to his own life.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, August 24-27.

August 28-30
EASTERN PATHS TO AWARENESS
Weekend Workshop
with SHYAM BHATNAGAR

This workshop will explore various methods for reaching "enlightened" states of consciousness. Mr. Bhatnagar has devised some of these methods from the ancient philosophies of Vedanta, Raja Yoga, Bhakti Yoga, Karma Yoga and Tantra. "Each individual according to his energy level is to follow one method that is most suited to him," comments Mr. Bhatnagar.
Food and herbs appropriate to meditative practice, mantra chanting and problems of disciplined meditation sitting will be discussed. Private sessions for determining each person's energy level and how to work with chakras to raise the kundalini can be arranged after the seminar.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 28.

August 28-30
THE FORM OF INTERNAL SIGNIFICANCE
Weekend Workshop
with TOM ALLEN

Growth techniques, such as encounter, body awareness, inner imagery, fantasy and psychodrama will be used in conjunction with a variety of art processes as a way of letting go and coming into contact with a deeper, more expressive self.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 28.

August 28-30
BEYOND GAMES: ENCOUNTER FOR COMMUNICATORS
Weekend Marathon
with RICHARD MARSH

Whether you are a professional communicator or not, you must communicate to live. Communication is a basic human and cosmic process, and encounter – with the self, with others, with the more-than-other – is its goal. This marathon encounter group will alternate between periods of unstructured spontaneity and periods of structured sensory, self and social games. Purpose of the games: to lead beyond themselves to the ecstasy of unselfconscious communication. Bring your defensive armor, but be prepared to shed it. Bring, also, a sleeping bag for rest periods during the course of the marathon.
$75 per person, including meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, August 28 and continues for 45 hours, or longer.

August 31-September 3
ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP
with JACKIE DOYLE

In this open workshop participants will explore their self-concepts and define the imagined limits they set to being most fully themselves. The basic format will be encounter; as need arises, such methods as psychodrama, meditation, sensory awareness, body movement, fantasy and gestalt techniques will be used.
$65 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday, August 31-September 3.

September 4-6: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN Residential Weekend with the ESALEN STAFF.
See page 17 for description.

September 4-7
THE OPEN COUPLE
3-Day Residential Workshop
with BETTY FULLER

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication, and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$200 per couple, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 4 and ends at noon, Monday, September 7. ($50 deposit per couple required).

September 4-6
A WEEKEND OF MOVEMENT
with GABRIELLE ROTH

In describing her workshop, Gabrielle Roth writes: "As we are, so we move: spontaneous or tense, flowing or restricted. This workshop is designed so that each individual may discover the language of movement, become familiar with his own physical vocabulary and learn to use it as a means for personal growth and communication with others." Music, dreams, imagery and sensory perception are some of the stimuli Miss Roth uses to initiate the movement process.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 4.

7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday. See page 22 for description.

TWO EVENTS WITH ROLLO MAY

Lecture
September 11

VIOLENCE AND THE DAIMONIC
8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, September 11
$3 general; $2 student.

Dr. May will inquire into the sources of violence and aggression and apply to these problems the theory of the daimonic. This means that the question must be raised of how far aggression and violence can be used for constructive, as well as destructive, purposes.

Seminar
September 12

VIOLENCE IN AMERICAN LIFE
Dr. May will cover the following topics during the course of the seminar: "Violence and the Problem of Power in America": Violence is increasing because the power of the individual is decreasing.

"Myths of Violence in America": Our country presents the paradox of being a pacifist nation which leads the Western world in violence.

"The Omnipresence of the Daimonic": We cannot rid ourselves of devils by mere willing.

"The Daimonic and Ethics": Does the theory of the daimonic rationalize evil?

$30 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, September 12.
Limited to 60 persons.

September 11-13
CREATIVE MEETING: A WORKSHOP FOR UNMARRIEDS
Weekend Workshop
with GERALD SMITH
and BETTY BERZON

This is an experience for those who are concerned with ending traditional "dating games" and moving more creatively into relationships. Movement and sensory awakening techniques, communication exercises, encounter groups and various gestalt approaches will be used to help participants increase their self-awareness and honest communication with others.
Workshop participants will be chosen so as to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state age on application. This workshop is intended for unattached singles. Limited to 40 persons.
$55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, May 29.

September 11-13
UPWARD GAMES FOR FREEING COMMUNICATION
Weekend Workshop
with ART HOUGH

Dr. Hough describes his program as follows: "This weekend will be my first workshop following a half year sabbatical of concentration on recent innovations in freeing communication potentials: getting inside self and meaning; resolving conflict through confrontation with dogmatism and dissolving barriers to human union through direct encounter. "We will incorporate useful games in perception, listening, feedback, sensory focusing, risk taking, conflict resolution, interaction and basic encounter. This is no Dionysian plunge; it is part head trip and part gut. The problem in this workshop, as it seems to be everywhere else, is to get the two together."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 11.

September 14 INTRODUCTION TO ENCOUNTER An Evening with the ESALEN STAFF
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday, September 14.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco. See page 15 for description.

ROBERT MARTIN, D.S.W., a gestalt therapist in Hermosa Beach, has integrated his work with art, psychodrama and massage.

EDWARD MAUPIN draws upon a variety of approaches to body awareness, including those of Reich, Lowen and Ida Rolf. He also relates to the various psycho-physical disciplines of Eastern and Western mysticism.

ROLLO MAY is Training and Supervisory Analyst at the William Alanson White Institute of Psychiatry, Psychoanalysis and Psychology. He has served as visiting professor at Harvard and at Princeton. Among his books are The Meaning of Anxiety; Man's Search for Himself; Psychology and the Human Dilemma; and Love and Will.

PETER MELCHIOR is director of Esalen's structural integration program.

SARA MILLER holds her Master's degree in Special Education and is experienced as a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and young adults. She is experienced in conditioning techniques and is interested in the relationship between these techniques and the encounter.

STUART MILLER, Ph.D., who holds his doctorate in Comparative Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. He is Esalen's director of development and a former resident fellow.

HARRIET MOHR is an astrologer, teacher, artist and writer. She is a member of the International Committee for a Humanistic Astrology and The American Federation of Astrologers.

O. HOBART MOWRER, Ph.D., formerly director of the Psychoeducational Clinic at Harvard, is a research psychologist at the University of Illinois. A past president of the American Psychological Association, he is the author of many books, among them The Crisis in Psychiatry and Religion and The New Group Therapy.

WILLIE MAE MOWRER, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Family Relationships at the University of Illinois.

Leaders' Biographical Information

NORMAN NEWBERG has taught at high school and college levels. He has designed and implemented teacher training programs for school systems and colleges. For the last three years he has served as a curriculum specialist in affective learning for the Philadelphia Board of Education.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN, Ph.D., teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute. He is author of the book On the Experience of Time.

FREDERICK S. PERLS was born in 1893 and left Germany when Hitler came to power. He founded the South African Institute for Psychoanalysis and is the founder of gestalt therapy. An associate in residence for five years in Big Sur, he now heads the Gestalt Institute of Canada.

RICHARD PRICE, a student of Fritz Perls, is a founder and director of Esalen Institute.

MAGDA PROSKAUER is a graduate of the University of Munich, Germany, and received a degree in physiotherapy from the University of Munich Medical School. While working in Europe she was influenced by various new schools of psycho-physical therapy. She has a private practice in body awareness and breathing therapy in San Francisco.

JANETTE RAINWATER, Ph.D., is a clinical psychologist in private practice in Beverly Hills in association with James S. Simkin and the Gestalt Therapy Associates. She specializes in leading continuing groups and encounter workshops, using gestalt techniques and sensory awareness methods.

ROBERT RESNICK is a gestalt therapist in private practice in Beverly Hills who has trained with Drs. Simkin and Perls. He is chairman of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Southern California.

THEODORE ROSZAK, Ph.D., is a member of the History Department at California State College, Hayward and is the author of The Making of a Counter Culture: Reflections on the Technocratic Society and its Youthful Opposition (Doubleday 1969).

GABRIELLE ROTH is movement specialist in residence at Esalen, Big Sur. She has studied and taught creative dance forms for the past ten years.

MOLLY DAY SCHACKMAN organized and directed the massage program at Esalen from November 1965 to January 1969. She is a devoted student of meditation and feels that its practice, along with that of exercise or yoga and body movement, are essential for giving massage.

BILL SCHUTZ lives in Big Sur where he does carpentry.

BENNETT SHAPIRO, former architect and Esalen resident fellow, is now a full-time encounter group leader. He has studied with a wide variety of therapists and trained for a year at the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute.

STEWART SHAPIRO, Ph.D., is the Director of Counseling and Guidance and Coordinator of the Office of Human Relation, Department of Education, University of California at Santa Barbara. He is also on the staffs of NTL and the UCLA Institute of Industrial Relations in both management and labor programs.

ARTHUR SHEDLIN is on the faculty of Behavioral Science Area, Graduate School of Business Administration, University of California at Los Angeles.

JULIAN SILVERMAN, research director at Esalen, holds the position of research specialist with the California Department of Mental Hygiene. His major research concerns are with the study of psychophysical functioning in relation to subjective experience and behavior change.

JAMES S. SIMKIN, Ph.D., has been co-leader with Fritz Perls at professional gestalt therapy workshops at Esalen for six years. He has been engaged in the private practice of psychotherapy for fifteen years and has produced a gestalt therapy training film, "In the Now".

GERALD SMITH, Ed.D., is a family therapist in San Mateo, California. He has taught his approaches at numerous agencies and recently completed a book entitled Encounter for Two.

HUSTON SMITH is Professor of Philosophy at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His birth and childhood in China produced a life-long interest in philosophical anthropology, comparative philosophy and comparative religion. He is author of The Religions of Man; Condemned to Meaning; and The Purposes of Higher Education. Kendra Smith, his wife, is a psychiatric social worker at the Newton Mental Health Center.

STANLEY STANDAL is a psychologist at the Utah Clinic for Counseling and Psychotherapy.

FREDERICK H. STOLLER, currently senior research associate at the Youth Studies Center, University of Southern California, has been one of the principal pioneers in the development of the marathon group and one of the prime innovators in the use of videotape feedback in the group setting.

STEVEN STROUD, an Esalen encounter leader, is now the coordinating director of Esalen Residence Programs.

DAN SULLIVAN trained two years with Ronald Laing in London in therapy, and is now director of the Princeton Sensitivity and Gestalt Workshop Center in Princeton, New Jersey. He is also completing a dissertation for the "Doctorat d'Etat" at the Sorbonne in philosophy on Eros and Freedom: A Critique of the Ironic Vision. He has published and lectured widely on the complex relations between woman, romance, self-mockery and ideology.

R. GERALD THATCHER, an Esalen staff member for six years, is an author, musician and amateur astrologer.

DENIS WALSH is studying for his doctorate in Languages and Communications at New York University. He recently completed a year's research fellowship with Marshall McLuhan with whom he worked, taught and explored nonverbal forms of communication.

ALAN WATTS is author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; and many other writings. He has been, with D.T. Suzuki, the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States.

FREDERICK WELLS is a musician, educator, journalist, theologian and self-styled mystic. He has degrees in music and performs professionally in both classics and rock. Recently he has been leading encounter groups, producing multi-media happenings and teaching his own experiential method of music listening. He is the founder of the Fellowship of New Being, a modern religious community.

For reservations, see p. 34.

Programs in Sensory Awakening with Bernard Gunther

For children life is intense experience play most adults lose their way caught in a hurry worry world of excessive thoughts tension and goals they lose contact with themselves nature and others

(from Come to Your Senses:
A Prana-Mendelson Production filmed at Esalen Institute)

May 31-June 5 - Big Sur
WORDS, FEELINGS AND THE BODY
5-Day Workshop

This experiential workshop will include new approaches to awareness, nonverbal communication, sensory and verbal encounter, body role-playing, meditation, massage and the hot mineral baths as methods for increasing energy, decreasing the illusory split between mind and body, words and feeling.
$190 per person.

August 23-30-Big Sur
TRAINING IN SENSORY AWARENESS RETRAINING
7-Day Workshop

An intense relaxing seven-day training workshop for those who wish to apply and adopt sensory awakening innovations in educational, religious and therapeutic situations as well as their own lives. (A statement which includes biographical information and intent must accompany each deposit).
$260 per person.

September 4-6-Big Sur
STAYING AWAKE
Weekend Workshop

There are many ways to open up and stay awake, the problem now is how to stay that way. In this experimental weekend sensory explorations, ritual celebrations and active meditations will be used in seeking to discover, from everyday activity and one another, ways to stay turned on.
$75 per person.

Gestalt Workshops

GESTALT THERAPY WORKSHOPS WITH JAMES S. SIMKIN

Gestalt therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.
Gestalt therapists believe that people can change their behavior only if they are aware (responsible) of what and how they do what they do. The Aristotelian why-because "game" is rejected as another avoidance technique (phobic behavior).

May 17-22

5-DAY OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with DR. SIMKIN
Limited to 16 participants. Each person will have an opportunity to experience two individual sessions with Dr. Simkin, as well as participate in gestalt therapy exercises within the group setting.
$210 per person.

7th ANNUAL PROFESSIONAL PSYCHOTHERAPIST TRAINING PROGRAM IN GESTALT THERAPY

August 2-7

5-DAY INTRODUCTORY PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with DRS. SIMKIN and MARTIN
Open to professional psychotherapists in individual or group practice with no previous gestalt experience.
$270 per person.

August 9-14

5-DAY ADVANCED PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with DRS. SIMKIN and RESNICK
Open to professional psychotherapists with previous experience in gestalt therapy.
$270 per person.

August 16-21

5-DAY ADVANCED PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP with DRS. SIMKIN and KEPNER
Open to professional psychotherapists with previous experience in gestalt therapy.
$270 per person.

These professional workshops will provide theoretical as well as practical training in the application of the existential and phenomenological method for individual, group and self-treatment. The participants will have an opportunity for artistic self-expression and for facing and coping with their own personal problems. Attention will be primarily focused on phenomenology through the use of non-interpretive techniques. In all workshops these techniques will be extended to a working through of dreams.
The August 2-7 workshop will serve as an introduction and background in gestalt and existential therapy. Those attending will qualify for the advanced workshops.
The workshops are limited to not more than 24 qualified professional psychotherapists. Applicants should apply well in advance and should state qualifications. Envelopes should be marked: "Attention of Gestalt Professional Workshop".

For biographies, see pp. 27-30; for reservations, see p. 34.

Gestalt Workshops

BIG SUR OPEN GESTALT WORKSHOPS

Gestalt training is an integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. The assumption will be made that participants are not "patients", but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

June 5-7	Tom and Natalie Ednie	$75 per person.
June 14-21	Richard Price & Staff	$240 per person.
August 14-16	Esalen Staff	$75 per person.
Aug 30-Sept 4	Esalen Staff	$190 per person.

Interested persons are also referred to Gestalt Open Professional month-long workshops at Big Sur. See page 5 for program description.

San Francisco Information

LECTURES AND SYMPOSIA: Tickets may be purchased by mail from Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco 94123. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Exact time and location of lectures will be printed on the tickets. When not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. (Any event may be cancelled if advance sales indicate insufficient interest.)

SAN FRANCISCO SEMINARS AND WORKSHOPS:
RESERVATIONS: Advance registration is required ten days prior to start of program. A non-refundable deposit of $10 per person ($20 for residential workshops) must accompany reservation form or letter sent to: Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco 94123. Balance of fee is payable at first session of program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur.

LOCATIONS: San Francisco programs are held at several facilities in the Bay Area, including First Unitarian Church center in San Francisco and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction. Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. Usually, however, workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays. Schedules are not rigid and specific meeting times are established at the group's first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Residential seminars include meals and lodging. For other programs, each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes, for men.

Big Sur Information

Grounds are closed except by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: Weekend seminars begin with dinner at 7:30 on Friday evening and end with lunch on Sunday. 5-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30, ending on Friday after lunch. 7-day workshops begin on Sunday with dinner at 7:30 and end on the following Sunday after lunch. The first session of each workshop begins at 9:00 on the first evening.

COSTS: The rooms on Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and seminar and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. The amount covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths, and the scheduled periods of Tai Chi Chuan. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

OWN ACCOMMODATIONS: Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property—in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms—is strictly prohibited.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week before the first day of the seminar or workshop. Accompanying the reservation a $20 deposit for weekend seminars, $50 for 5-day workshops, $70 for 7-day workshops, all non-refundable, is required (unless another amount is specified). Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks are able to furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds which will be acceptable.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute—Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service counter for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number—771-1710—and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

Special Information

MEMBER SEMINAR-DISCUSSIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area this spring and summer will include the following persons as guests. Please consult your Membership newsletters for further details.

ESALEN EXECUTIVE STAFF – Tuesday, April 21, 8 to 10 p.m.

JOSEPH DOWNING, M.D. – Monday, May 18, 8 to 10 p.m.

MEMBERS' RESIDENTIAL WEEKEND with the Esalen Staff – July 31-August 2, $31 per person.

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This is not a service in lieu of attendance, but is for individuals and organizations to whom recordings of significant lectures and seminars, and training tapes of techniques and methods, are of particular value. This applies to professional and nonprofessional organizations, departments in educational institutions, libraries, religious bodies and individuals with tape collections.
Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from which a complete list may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10.00 per tape-hour, stereo or mono. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 303, Mill Valley, California 94941.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16MM FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' approach to gestalt therapy are now available for professional use on a rental basis from MEDIASYNC, P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014.

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36.)

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to R. Gerald Thatcher, Esalen Books, Big Sur, California 93920.

FM RADIO STATIONS KPFA, KIOI, KSAN and KQED broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures, as do KUOP-FM (University of the Pacific) and KUNM-FM (Albuquerque, N.M.) on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides. A new series of twelve 1-hour programs titled "Esalen Institute Presents: The Scope of Human Potential" is available through National Educational Radio for broadcast by affiliated educational radio stations across the United States.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME
Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

PROGRAMS WITH PRAN NATH and SHYAM BHATNAGAR

Pran Nath and Shyam Bhatnagar will be residing in the San Francisco Bay Area for five weeks this summer, beginning August 17. During this time they will be offering under their own auspices an extended study program on ragas, mantras and spiritual contentment for a limited number of advanced and beginning students of meditation and Indian music. They will also be available for individual appointments and consultations. For further information, please contact the Esalen/San Francisco office.
Pran Nath, a member of the Faculty of Music and Fine Arts of the University of Delhi is a noted vocalist of traditional Hindu yogic chants and a teacher in classical nadha (cosmic sounds) music; Shyam Bhatnagar is an accomplished chanter and tamboura player and a teacher of kundalini and nadha yoga.

THE JOURNAL OF TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY

A journal for theoretical and applied research in peak experience, self-transcendence, ultimate values, ecstasy, wonder, B-values, transcendental phenomena and related concepts, experiences and activities. The second issue will feature articles by Lawrence LeShan ("physicists and Mystics: Similarities in World View"); Willis Harman ("The New Copernican Revolution"); Abraham H. Maslow ("Theory Z"); Kenneth Wapnick ("Mysticism and Schizophrenia"); Anthony J. Sutich ("The American Transpersonal Association"); and others.

Esalen Book Series

ANNOUNCING THE ESALEN BOOK SERIES by McGraw-Hill

General Editor, Stuart Miller, Ph.D.

Esalen Institute announces the publication of a series of books covering a broad range of work in education, religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences focusing on humanities and potentialities.
The books range from a manual of sensory awareness exercises to a scientific report of experiments on altered states of consciousness; from a novel about the adventures of one Esalen resident fellow to a treatise exploring the unity of education, religion and medicine. The books are unified by a concern with the developing human potentialities and a sense that the fully functioning person will have interests as wide as these.

NOW AVAILABLE

Anger and the Rocking Chair: Gestalt Awareness with Children, by Janet Lederman with photographs by Lillian R. Cutler. This is a dramatic, visual account of gestalt methods with so-called "difficult" or "disturbed" children in elementary school. Rather than suppressing pupils' rebellion and anger, Miss Lederman helps her pupils to transform these powerful impulses into constructive attitudes and behavior.

Now: Toward Humanness. Introducing Confluent Education, by Dr. George I. Brown. So often people write Esalen asking if personal growth techniques are being used in schools, how do they work? This book is the best answer so far to such questions. It is a comprehensive account of the Ford/Esalen Foundation project in education. The project showed that methods for personal growth used at Esalen Institute can be successfully incorporated into already existing curriculums of public schools.

Esalen Institute
Memberships

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars—but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

Esalen Institute

ESALEN INSTITUTE is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this brochure, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

Esalen Advisors

In past brochures this space has carried a listing of Esalen Advisors. Over the years this list has tended to get out-of-date; we have not been in touch with some of its members for three years or more. We are now contacting all those listed to get their advice about programs, research and other matters, and to see whether they still wish to be formally listed as an Advisor. An up-to-date list will be published in future brochures.

Special Services and Programs

Esalen Consulting Service is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops. Programs and leaders have thus far been provided to various community, governmental, religious, industrial and education groups.

Esalen Residence Program: The sixth series will be offered at Big Sur in Fall 1970.

FRITZ PERLS AND ESALEN

At the time of his death, Fritz Perls was becoming something of a contemporary folk hero. In these times of confusion and violence, he spoke with special relevance in a voice only beginning to be heard. The West once had greater confidence in its social structure and theoretical systems of supposed truth. With the decline of that confidence, great need has arisen to find personal inner resources. There no longer exists an external reality commanding conformity, whether it be that of a Luther, a Freud or a Marx.

On this point Fritz was at greatest variance with such thinkers. To him the organism is fundamentally self-balancing, knowing its own best interests in a way beyond the "good" and "evil" of external dictates. Freud's dictum, "What Id is shall Ego be", is envisaged as an effort to control what is basically mistrusted and feared. Freud is concerned with the struggle between ego and consciousness (the good), on the one hand, and the id and unconsciousness (a seething caldron) on the other. Solution is in the victory, however improbable, of the former. With Fritz there is a dynamic gestalt of emerging and receding processes. The solution, far from becoming increasingly controlling, is revealed in quite the opposite direction – that is, by lessening control, by getting out of one's own way and in trusting that organism that is oneself.

Here the relation to Taoism and some forms of Buddhism becomes apparent. Religion or therapy becomes not theoretical ideas and orders, or the correcting of pathology, but a sadhana, a way of realization or growth. We used to joke about gestalt therapy being Jewish Buddhism or Zen Judaism.

In this Fritz has his most significant and, hopefully, most enduring relationship to the initial idea of Esalen. Esalen began out of the founders' mutual involvement in Asian studies, coupled with Western social and psychological thought. If out of a chaos of events and programs Esalen strives for anything, it is in the development of a sadhana appropriate for the West. Beyond esotericism and "turning on", Fritz's work has its greatest importance in allowing growth rather than manipulating achievement, based as it is on organism-environment instead of the techniques, tricks and gimmicks which he so abhorred.

Gestalt therapy places the same emphasis on individual responsibility as does Buddhism. One is responsible for oneself rather than projecting that responsibility onto others, be they gods, parents, society or the unconscious. The ideas of no-self (anatta) and no-permanence (anicca) are also at home in the gestalt frame of reference. Dukkha, usually translated as suffering, might be better read as out of balance, an unfinished gestalt.

Buddhism, Taoism and the Ch'an (Zen), which was their marriage, all aim at a yoga of awareness rather than ceaseless doing. In the later Vajrayana, especially, there develops a balance of being/doing, arising out of such awareness and not out of ideas about the Nature of Things. Again, gestalt is at home in a way that few Western psychotherapies can be.

Such a development needs a context and Esalen provided something for Fritz which he had previously been unable to find. During the last six years of his life, he utilized that context to grow considerably, both as a person and as a therapist. He also served as an astute critic, pinpointing inadequacies in Esalen as a community. His attempt to start his own community was in itself a response to those insights.

His vision has influenced the direction of Esalen's program at Big Sur. Staff has been reduced from 85 to fewer than 35. Participants in long-term workshops are sharing in the work of the place and plans are proceeding to attract more persons working professionally with people. Program is being developed for substance in healing, growth and training.

In his last years, Fritz's productivity rose to a peak – an old Faust draining mental swamplands. In those years he produced new books, tapes and films, a considerable legacy for the rising tide of interest in the man and his work.

The wise old man is gone. Much remains.

NEW DIRECTIONS

Starting with this issue, Esalen Programs will include news articles, reports and announcements as well as the program schedules for Esalen Institute in Big Sur and San Francisco. Previously such information was published in annual Esalen newsletters, which had a limited circulation. Also, beginning January 1971, Esalen Programs will be issued quarterly instead of three times annually.

Many persons are not aware that Esalen is involved in special research, training and study projects in addition to its regular schedule of workshops, seminars and lectures. This new publication format provides us with an opportunity to describe in some detail these projects and the full range of our scope of interests, and to cover those events and research projects happening elsewhere that relate significantly to our work. We will, as well, use these pages to make announcements and to report on changing emphases in our programs, new insights, emerging disciplines and future plans.

THE AGNEWS PROJECT

A number of important and exciting things have been happening since the schizophrenia research project at Agnews State Hospital in San Jose, California, began a year ago. Co-sponsored by the California Department of Mental Hygiene, the National Institute of Mental Health and Esalen Institute, the project has three main objectives.

First is the development of neurophysiological laboratory techniques for identifying individuals who go through psychotic experience and emerge better integrated personalities than they were before their psychoses. Recent research has indicated that traditional psychiatric treatments, such as tranquilizing medication, may interfere with, rather than aid in, successful personality integration. It has been suggested that at least for certain kinds of individuals there is value to the psychotic experience. At Agnews an elaborate study of this possibility is being carried out. The plan of the study requires that half of the patients not be given anti-psychotic medication and the other half be medicated according to conventional psychiatric criteria.

In order for the ward to function under conditions in which a number of very disturbed patients do not receive any anti-psychotic medication, a unique therapeutic environment and staff have been developed. This is a second major focus of the program. Staff members have been selected on the basis of personality characteristics rather than strictly professional background. For example, on psychological tests our staff members score high on such traits as: insight, idealism, psychological-mindedness, intuition and feeling. Staff training goes on continually. Nurses, attendants and doctors are discovering how to appreciate the depth of the regressive states of acute schizophrenic reactions and to open up to their own fears and fantasies about madness. Weekly gestalt and encounter group sessions focus on the awareness of personal feelings and on appreciation of the feelings of others. Emphasis is placed upon the importance of being able to "let each patient be" and establish relationships only when a staff member and a patient mutually agree.

Staff members are learning to tolerate even the most bizarre and violent reactions and to stay with an individual psychologically as well as physically as he goes through a disintegrative crisis. Then comes the job of relating to him as he reintegrates. To support this effort weekly didactic seminars are held which are concerned with various aspects of psychotic process. In these seminars, staff members are reminded routinely of the limitations of our present understanding of psychotic process and of the importance of appreciating patients' behavior and psychological state. The net result of these training sessions is that staff members, while puzzled for several months as to what was expected of them, are now beginning to appreciate the awe-fullness of madness and are becoming confident of their ability to relate to it.

Some very good things have happened to a number of our patients. Morale is high and the feeling and atmosphere among the patient and staff community is remarkably warm and vital. The project has recently been moved into one of the very nice buildings in the hospital and has been granted the autonomy and self-direction that it needs.

This is a good place to express publicly our appreciation to G. Lee Sandritter, the medical director of the hospital, and his senior staff for their support. If the kind of work we are doing is ever to find a widespread acceptance in psychiatry, it must be done in a conventional hospital environment. We are currently planning an extension of this study with scientists at the University of California at Los Angeles, which will enable us to evaluate the overall effects of the special ward environment.

A remaining focus of the project is upon the development of a more accurate conception of acute schizophrenic reactions. This will consider their potentially positive, integrative, problem-solving features as well as their more ominous ones. A paper summarizing this conception is being published in the September 1970 issue of Psychology Today. Actually, the theoretical effort was given a major impetus two years ago at Esalen Institute with a summer series of workshops and seminars entitled The Value of Psychotic Experience. Much was gained from this series of meetings. Not only did an integration and extension of the theories of John Perry, Ronald Laing, Kazimierz Dabrowski and others take place, but a profound appreciation emerged about the limitations of conventional psychiatric treatment.

The work of Fritz Perls clarified this appreciation and provided one of the fundamental tenets of the Agnews ward philosophy which affects every aspect of our treatment program: The effective professional staff person is one who is in touch with himself and his feelings in relation to others. He knows he cannot validate another person's experience by any therapeutic activity. He can only validate himself and be there.

ESALEN NEW YORK BENEFIT

Several thousand persons attended an Introduction to Esalen held April 17-19 at the Hotel Diplomat in New York. The purpose of the weekend was to raise money for scholarship, research and development funds, and to present East Coast residents with a total picture of Esalen's activities. Many people associate Esalen only with encounter groups and sensory awareness. In addition to these disciplines, the Benefit program included demonstrations in gestalt therapy and structural integration, reports on Esalen's research projects and involvements with educational systems, and Eastern philosophy and meditation.

During the weekend program leaders demonstrated that experiential techniques could be effectively used with groups as large as a thousand. Those attending the Benefit got a real taste — if only a taste — of several disciplines for personal growth.

Since so many enjoyed the weekend and seemed to find it worthwhile, it will be repeated in 1971, at the Hotel Diplomat, April 16 through 18. Further details will be outlined in the next brochure.

ESALEN SCHOLARSHIPS

This Fall, for the first time, scholarship and loan funds will be available in limited amounts both at Big Sur and San Francisco. The bulk of funds contributed to Esalen through the New York Benefit has been set aside under the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund; applications for grants are being reviewed periodically by the Scholarship Committee.

In Big Sur, preference for grants generally will go to those who have attended a week-long (or longer) workshop and who have been interviewed by a member of the Committee. It is anticipated at this time that grants will be given to cover from one-fourth to one-half of the total costs of a given program. Direct inquiries to Scholarship Committee, Esalen Institute, Big Sur.

In San Francisco, the established policy of tuition reduction to students will continue. Students may attend most seminars for half the stated fee on a space available basis. Please call the San Francisco office three days prior to start of a workshop. Amounts granted or loaned from the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund will extend aid to individuals, and possibly groups, who cannot meet tuitions or who have opportunity to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts. Direct inquiries to the Director, San Francisco.

APPROACHES TO PERSONAL GROWTH: SOME DESCRIPTIONS

Because so many of Esalen's programs are experiential, we have been asked by many people who are new to Esalen to differentiate among a number of approaches that seem, at first glance, so similar. The various disciplines being practiced at Esalen have influenced one another so that the task of producing an encounter group totally free from gestalt techniques, for example, is impossible. Furthermore, different practitioners of various disciplines stress different aspects. What follows is, therefore, not a scientific statement but rather a first attempt at making some rough distinctions among a number of approaches. (And we welcome suggestions for improved descriptions).

Encounter Groups: The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing in their statements and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. Generally, in Esalen encounter groups, participants are encouraged and helped to express their feelings about themselves and other members of the group through nonverbal as well as verbal means. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontation between participants; the point is to allow participants to explore and work through such emotions rather than retreat from them. The focus of encounter groups is on exploring interpersonal relations, and the expression and exploration of self through interpersonal relations ("the between and the within"). Techniques and approaches such as gestalt therapy, sensory awareness and those exploring fantasy and inner imagery may be added to the basic encounter situation.

Gestalt Therapy: Participants meet in a group of between eight and twenty, or more, always with a leader. Generally, the leader works with one person at a time, while other members observe or participate minimally. (As compared with, for example, encounter groups). The aim of gestalt therapy is to increase a person's awareness of the instant moment and to further, thereby, his personality integration by having him acknowledge his responsibility for how he exists at any given moment. Emphasis is placed on helping a participant to explore his dreams, fantasies, expectations, gestures, voice and other aspects of personal functioning, by enacting them before the group. By so doing he becomes aware of the unity of his organism – mind, body, emotions and feelings.

Sensory Awakening and Sensory Awareness: The focus of these disciplines is on the body. The leader directs the group in a series of exercises designed to broaden and deepen the participant's awareness of his sensory existence, including awareness of his own body, nature and energy. Occasionally this is followed by encounter-style discussion of the participants' experience, but the emphasis, in any case, is nonverbal.

Meditation: Participants in meditation exercises generally meet in groups, but the focus of meditation is inward. The leader directs the group in exercises and then the group members may share their experiences. Meditation exercises are usually mental, though some formes of moving meditation, such as t'ai chi chuan, involve a concentrated awareness on the movements of the body. The aim of meditation is to break through ordinary consciousness to various levels of being, ranging from relaxed but alert awareness of self to the deepest levels of mystical experience in which the identity of self and cosmos become apparent.

STUDY IN CHILE

John Lilly, Steven Stroud, Claudio Naranjo, Jack Downing, plus other members of the Esalen community, will be away until Spring 1971. They will be studying Sufi teachings, methods and psychology in Chile.

Big Sur Programs

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

Long-Term Programs in Big Sur

Esalen Institute/Big Sur will continue its emphasis on longer term programs, with hopes of distilling and developing the most promising approaches from the wide range of disciplines that have come to us during the past eight years. Special effort will be made to provide growth experience for those already professionally involved in the fields of education, social work and mental health. Such persons will be given preference in most programs. Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required in all programs of two weeks duration or longer. Those interested in programs without this commitment should apply for the one-week programs.

Residence Programs

The Fall 1970 Residence Program begins September 20, 1970, and ends January 23, 1971. Directors are John Heider and Seymour Carter. Selections for the Residence Program anticipated for Fall 1971 will be made from participants in the shorter programs during that year. (No Residence Program is planned for Spring 1971).

In addition to the scheduled Residence Program, an intensive long-term program may be initiated by an individual according to his interests and needs, chosen from among the continuing one-, two- and four-week workshops. No selection process is required for such programs.

Esalen/San Francisco is offering an Extended Growth Program (under the direction of Betty Fuller) scheduled for October 1970 through March 1971. See page 16.

Four-Week Programs

October 4-31
GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP Richard Price, Julian Silverman and Staff

This workshop offers a context for growth to strengthen professional work with people and provide a base for further gestalt training. Greatest competence arises out of personal wholeness; for this, no adequate "techniques" or "methods" exist. There will be intensive gestalt sessions and work in other experiential areas. Structural integration (Rolfing) will be available at extra cost and preference for available hours will be given to persons in this program.

$825 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

November 1-28
FREEING THE BODY Hector Prestera, Al Drucker, Sharon Wheeler and Staff

This workshop will take the participant from where he is in his body, via available body disciplines, to as free a body as one month of intensive work can accomplish. Sessions will include massage training, so that each group member will be able to give and to receive freely. The Rolf method of structural integration will be a major avenue for freeing the body. Each participant will receive six individual hours. In addition, there will be sessions emphasizing the principles outlined by Wilhelm Reich, as well as movement, t'ai chi chuan, yoga and other body experiences. Finally, there will be weekly group meetings directed toward integrating the total experience using gestalt and encounter.

$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

Two-Week Open Residence Programs

(John Heider and Richard Price, Directors)

September 20 - October 3
November 29 - December 12
December 13 - December 26
December 27 - January 9
January 10 - January 23

Starting November 29 there will be four consecutive two-week workshops; persons can apply for one or more of the four.

Emphasis throughout will be on encounter and gestalt-oriented group work, with each two-week period including an additional focus in another experiential area. Insights developing from the four-month Fall Residence Program will also be incorporated into these workshops.

Participants will be expected to work approximately 12 hours per week in assigned tasks around kitchen, garden and grounds.

$450 per person for each two-week period. $200 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

For Big Sur reservations, see page 15.

One-Week Programs with the Esalen Staff

These week-long programs will be led by Esalen staff members and will combine two and sometimes more of the areas of work in which Esalen is involved. Emphasis is directed toward the first of the disciplines when two are indicated (e.g., Encounter and Movement). When only one is named (e.g., Open Gestalt), introduction will be given to at least one other area according to group interest and leader availability.

Programs begin with dinner on Sunday; the last session will usually be the following Saturday morning. Participants may stay over until Sunday noon if they wish at no additional cost.

September 27-October 3 . Encounter and Gestalt
September 27-October 3 . Movement and Massage
October 4-10 . . . . . Experience of Esalen
October 11-17 . Encounter and Body Awareness
October 25-31 . . . . Encounter and Movement
November 1-7 . . . . . Open Gestalt
November 15-21 . . . . . Encounter and Yoga
November 15-21 . . . . . Movement and Massage
November 22-28 . . . . . Gestalt and Encounter
November 29-December 5 . Experience of Esalen
December 13-19 . . . . . Encounter
December 20-26 . . Gestalt and Body Awareness

$240 per person for each one-week period.

Visiting teachers and scholars may occasionally relate to the on-going programs or may be in residence for varying periods of time. San Francisco staff will also be drawn upon as needed. Big Sur staff presently includes:

Encounter: John Heider, Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Hector Prestera.

Gestalt: Richard Price, Theodora Lyon, Julian Silverman.

Movement: Gabrielle Roth, Mary Ellen Klee.

Massage: Sharon Wheeler, James Larson, Joe Caming.

Yoga, Meditation, Arcane Arts: Joel Kramer, Dick Horan, Gerald Thatcher, Jack Hurley.

Self-Programming: John Lilly.

Encounter is grounded in directness, openness and honesty. Group leaders integrate a variety of approaches developed or refined at Esalen to help participants to be more aware of what is real for them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them.

Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now, rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Movement and other body awareness work centers not on technique but on increased awareness of that which flows spontaneously from the organism of an individual and of a group.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

Programs

September 20-25 5-Day Workshop
GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP James S. Simkin

Gestalt therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now. Gestalt therapists believe that people can change their behavior only if they are aware (responsible) of what and how they do what they do. The Aristotelian why-because "game" is rejected as another avoidance technique.

Limited to 16 participants. Each person will have an opportunity to experience two individual sessions with Dr. Simkin, as well as participate in gestalt therapy exercises within the group setting. $265 per person.

September 20-25 5-Day Workshop
BODYMIND William C. Schutz

The intimate connections between feelings, thoughts, interpersonal behavior and body states is beginning to unfold. The effects of feelings on the body and of body aberrations on feelings, thoughts and relations will be explored, aiming at a better understanding of each person's own body messages. The principle of the "sins of the fathers" (if a problem is not resolved at one level of organization, it must be dealt with by the next lower level) will be investigated.
$265 per person.

September 27 - October 3: OPEN ENCOUNTER AND GESTALT See page 11.

September 27 - October 3: MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE See page 11.

October 4-10 One-Week Program
EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN Esalen Staff

In this workshop a group of Esalen Staff members join workshop participants in an experience of each other and of the Institute, surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not, as he wishes; individual choices can go from intense encounter to silent meditation.

No two Experience of Esalen workshops are alike, since the mix of staff resource availabilities and interests of group members varies with each workshop. Among the offerings are encounter, gestalt dream work, massage instruction, meditation, yoga, instruction in arts and crafts, Rolf treatments, body awareness, movement, organic gardening, astrology and tarot. (Italics indicate specialties available in private sessions by appointment, usually at extra cost. Inquire about costs and availability at time of making reservations).
See also page 11 for further description of week-long open programs. $240 per person.

October 4-10 One-Week Workshop
SENSE Bernard Gunther

A week of flowing energy relaxation, mind/body/being integration; massage, movement, meditation, sensory communion communication with your self/nature/others. $250 per person.

October 11-16 5-Day Workshop
ON BEING RICH Stuart and Suki Miller

A workshop incorporating Esalen experiential techniques and focusing on the problems or joys presented by being rich: giving money, taking money, spending money, money and family relationships, money and personal power, money and pleasure. What is money? What is it for? Only millionaires need apply. Co-led with Jules and Claire Nelson. $265 per person.

October 11-17: OPEN ENCOUNTER AND BODY AWARENESS See page 11.

October 18-24 One-Week Workshop
AWARENESS TRAINING FOR DENTAL PROFESSIONALS Jack Rosenberg, DDS.

The manner in which the professional approaches his patients and practice is, in general, a reflection of the way he approaches life. This workshop is designed to allow the participant to stop for a moment to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of a professional man's life – his practice and his inner life – in hopes of developing a deeper significance and awareness of both. The workshop is open to all those related to the profession: dentists, dental assistants, dental hygienists, dental technicians, with particular encouragement for spouses to attend. Gestalt and body awareness as well as videotape feedback will be used.

Participants will be shown ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to their dental practice, as well as the technique of treatment for fixed muscular patterning of facial expression.
$270 per person.

October 18-24 One-Week Workshop
ON FREEING THE BODY Hector Prestera, Al Drucker and Sharon Wheeler

A workshop using a number of techniques directed towards freeing the body. Included will be an individual session of the Rolf method of structural integration for each participant, plus sessions of massage, movement, yoga and other group processes emphasizing body experiences. (See also four week workshop, November 1-28, page 10.) $250 per person.

October 25-31: OPEN ENCOUNTER AND MOVEMENT See page 11.

October 25-31 One-Week Workshop
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING Ed Maupin

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches – sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions – are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination. Bring sweat pants or leotards.
$270 per person.

November 1-6: GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP James S. Simkin See page 12.

November 1-7: OPEN GESTALT WORKSHOP See page 11.

November 8-14 One-Week Workshop for Couples
THE OPEN COUPLE Betty Fuller

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$500 per couple.

November 8-14 One-Week Workshop
WHAT TO DO TILL THE MESSIAH COMES Bernard Gunther

An experimental workshop devoted to the exploration of Mr. Gunther's forthcoming book; a multitude of new and old, ways and methods for staying aware/alive/awake in every moment/situation/sense.
$250 per person.

November 15-21: OPEN ENCOUNTER AND YOGA See page 11.

November 15-21: MOVEMENT AND MASSAGE See page 11.

November 22-28: OPEN GESTALT AND ENCOUNTER See page 11.

November 22-28 One-Week Workshop
INNER PERSONAL SPACE PROBLEMS John Lilly

Each person defines his own inner spaces; what one believes to be true either is true or becomes true within limits found experientially. These limits are beliefs to be transcended. This workshop is devoted to each person's finding his/her limits and finding ways to move beyond them.
$250 per person.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

November 29 - December 5: EXPERIENCE OF ESALEN See page 12.

November 29 - December 5 One-Week Workshop
MYTHS, STORIES AND PERSONAL IDENTITY Sam Keen

This workshop begins with the assumption that vivid and profound human life is possible only when there is an integration of past, present and future, only when memory, awareness and hope combine to create a unified account of the life of the person. Without a story there is no happiness. Guided exercises, reflection and sharing will be used to help each person recover his past, appreciate his present and anticipate his future. We will explore ways in which the individual can recover the private mythology, the unsung heroes and the silent hopes that influence his identity.
$260 per person.

December 6-12 One-Week Workshop
INTEGRATING GESTALT THERAPY AND THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE
Frank and Ilana Rubenfeld

This workshop will offer a combination of the Alexander Technique, gestalt therapy and sensory awareness in a flowing, congruent manner. The Rubenfelds have discovered that direct body work at critical junctures during group sessions can lead to powerful experiences for participants. The Alexander Technique is a method for integrating body/sensory awareness, coordinated movement and kinesthetic experience to contact, express and work through deep feelings.
$260 per person.

December 6-12 One-Week Workshop
SEX, MAGIC AND MARRIAGE Jack and Rae Hurley

Methods of encounter, sensory awakening, massage, tarot and magic will be used to develop intimacy in relationships beyond marriage games.
$250 per person.

December 13-18 5-Day Workshop
LONELINESS AND COMMUNITY Clark Moustakas

The purpose of this seminar is to explore the nature and meaning of loneliness and its relationship to a true community of persons. Each individual will be encouraged to seek out the dimensions of loneliness within himself and to face them with a fullness of resources and being. Perhaps in the process, as each individual struggles to meet and to know himself, a real sense of community will grow among the participants. In such a community loneliness is not stifled or interfered with, but rather received, confronted and used creatively to express the meaning of a person's existence.
The most important factor contributing to the development of a community of persons is a sense of individual commitment. This commitment involves a willingness and desire to be as fully present as possible in every moment. Without using strategies, techniques and "gimmicks", the person must be willing to meet whatever happens in a group, to know the truth of that happening and to stay with it until some form of conclusion or resolution has been reached. Conflict must be met openly and directly in a human way without resorting to hostility or destructive tactics which aim to defeat individual integrity and without using physical violence.
Eric Craig will be co-leader with Dr. Moustakas.
$245 per person.

December 13-19: OPEN ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP See page 11.

December 20-25: GESTALT OPEN PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP James S. Simkin See page 12.

December 20-26: OPEN GESTALT AND BODY AWARENESS See page 11.

December 27 - January 1 5-Day Workshop
HUMANISTIC EDUCATION: LEARNING IS NEVER WHAT ONE EXPECTS Aaron Hillman

Learning is never quite what one expects, but what one expects nearly always interferes with learning. With this in mind, the workshop will explore the process that the Ford/Esalen project group calls "confluent education", or the merging of cognitive and affective experiences. While designed primarily for teachers at all levels, the workshop is open to any interested person. Gestalt awareness training for workshop participants, as well as its application to the schoolroom, will be an integral part of the program. Bring pencil and paper.
$245 per person.

December 27 - January 1 5-Day Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training.
$245 per person.

Big Sur Information

Grounds are closed expept by reservation. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: 5-day programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening, with the last session on Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs begin with dinner on Sunday. The last session will usually be the following Saturday morning. Participants may stay over until Sunday noon if they wish at no additional cost. The elimination of weekend workshops at Big Sur should result in a less hectic pace. 4-week and 2-week programs begin with Sunday dinner. Check-out time is noon of the final Saturday.

COSTS: The rooms of Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy, and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. On the rare occasion when light attendance at a program makes single accommodation possible, there is a surcharge of $7.00 per night. Program cost covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

ACCOMMODATIONS: are usually possible at Esalen Institute; if the property is full, we will reserve rooms at nearby motels. There is a surcharge for off-property accommodations; rates vary according to season and type of accommodation desired. Rates will be supplied by the Esalen office at time of inquiry.

OWN ACCOMMODATIONS: Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property – in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms – is strictly prohibited.

CHECK IN / CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Accompanying the reservation deposits are required as follows: $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $400 for 4-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transfered with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks can furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute – Reservation Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number – 771-1710 – and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

San Francisco Programs

Extended Growth Program

(Betty Fuller, Director)

For the first time, Esalen is offering an intensive six-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Bay Area. Similar to other extended Esalen programs, it provides a directed and coordinated exposure to many disciplines. . .but, unlike residence programs, it allows participants to remain in an urban setting living and working in their own environment. The program combines a selected schedule of workshops with ongoing small group work under the direction of an experienced coordinator. The Extended Growth Program consists of the following, all in the San Francisco area: two five-day residential encounter groups with Miss Fuller (October 5-9 and March 23-27), two weekend workshops in bio-energetics with Stanley Keleman, and four weekend programs to be selected by participants according to individual interest and need from regularly scheduled workshops during the October-to-March period.

In addition, the group will work with Betty Fuller continually, over the entire program period, to integrate workshop experiences into daily life and to ground developing personal insights in a more sensitive, open and honest life style. These meetings will take place on weekday evenings, weekends and other mutually convenient times.

Selection for this Extended Growth Program will be made by interview with Esalen Staff, San Francisco, during the period August 1 through September 15. Program is limited to 12 persons. Cost is $850 per person (including room and meals during the two residential workshops). Nonrefundable deposit of $250 is payable upon selection; the balance is due at mid-October, except by special arrangement. Scholarship funds may be available. Write or call the San Francisco Office for further information.

For San Francisco reservations, see page 29.

Residential Programs

Esalen/San Francisco is offering a limited number of residential weekend workshops in the Bay Area. There are no longer weekend programs at Big Sur and many persons from out-of-town, as well as local residents, want the benefit of a short-term, live-in program. The scheduled workshops listed below will be held at a large conference center and retreat in Mill Valley (Marin County) or at a conference center in the East Bay Area; exact location will be included with registration confirmation or you may write or call the San Francisco office for advance information. Program cost, listed separately under each workshop description, includes tuition, food and lodging (shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available, except for couples' workshops).

Workshops begin at 8 p.m. Friday evening (no supper served) and conclude with Sunday lunch. 5-day workshops begin at 8 p.m. Sunday and end with Friday lunch.

The following is our fall schedule of residential workshops:

September 25-27	Meditation in Silence, Sound and Motion, with Alan Watts and Huang Ch'ung-liang (see page 21)
	Open Encounter, with Tom Allen (see page 18)
October 2-4	Encounter Workshop for Singles, with Betty Fuller (see page 21)
October 9-11	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 18)
October 23-25	Couples' Weekend, with George and Judith Brown (see page 23)
November 1-6	Bio-Energetics and Gestalt, with Stanley Keleman and Thomas Munson (see page 24)
November 13-15	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 18)
December 4-6	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 18)
December 27-January 1	Getting Together at Year's End, with Betty Fuller (see page 29)

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

Encounter Programs in the San Francisco Bay Area

A wide variety of encounter programs are scheduled this fall, led by an experienced group of leaders trained by and associated with William C. Schutz. All leaders have completed Residence Programs and are working to develop more highly integrative approaches in the general field of encounter, incorporating the techniques and insights of other disciplines: nonverbal, gestalt and fantasy methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques. While no two programs will incorporate exactly the same methods, the goal of all such groups is a more dynamic and positive life experience which is grounded in openness and honesty and which allows the exploration of individual freedom in a supportive context.

Introduction to Esalen Programs

These programs — evening, one-day and weekend — are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from a group including Betty Fuller, Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Al Drucker, Arthur Fox, Janica Fox, John Heider, Ben Shapiro and Helen Stephens.

EVENING INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Working in small group sessions as well as large, participants will have introduction to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting. San Francisco evenings will be held at the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m.

The schedule is as follows:

September 14	First Unitarian Church, San Francisco
October 6	International House, 2299 Piedmont Ave., Berkeley
October 28	First Unitarian Church, San Francisco
November 19	First Unitarian Church, San Francisco
December 7	First Unitarian Church, San Francisco

SINGLE-DAY ENCOUNTER

An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantage of more hours, common meals and free time. Leaders will work with small groups.. Programs run from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Workshop location to be announced at time of registration. Bring your own lunch.
$22 per person, including dinner. ($10 deposit required).

September 26 — November 7
October 17 — November 28

WEEKEND INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Incorporating a wide variety of approaches, group leaders will work with participants in large groups and sub-groups. These are residential programs, beginning at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper) and ending after lunch on Sunday.

$65 per person, including room and meals.

October 9-11 — December 4-6
November 13-15

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 11-13
OPEN ENCOUNTER Arthur and Janica Fox $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

December 18-20
OPEN ENCOUNTER Tom Allen $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

Gestalt Workshops

Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now, rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

September 18-20
OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Lois Brien $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

September 30
INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner
An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 2-3
FACING THE MASK AND UNMASKING THE FACE John Enright and Jack Rosenberg
Gestalt exercise, videotape feedback and facial massage will be used to gain experiential contact with the face, a primary site for the expression and experiencing of emotion.
Friday, 8 to 11 p.m. and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (with meal breaks).
$50 per person.

October 31-November 1
ADVANCED GESTALT WEEKEND Eric Marcus
For persons with some previous gestalt training. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. $45 per person.

November 20-22
ON BEING A WOMAN Cynthia Werthman and Janie Rhyne
The gestalt approach and art expression will be used to explore the special nature of womanhood.
Limited to 20 women.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

November 30
INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner
An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 11-12
OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Larry and Paula Bloomberg
Friday, 8 to 11 p.m. and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (with meal breaks). $45 per person.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

Continuing Weekly Programs

TWO MASSAGE WORKSHOPS Robert Cromey

Massage emphasizes caring and affirmation of the body and the release of emotion. These continuing series are designed to teach participants informal massage which can be used in the home. Massage helps in finding new ways to relate to others and new expressions of love, trust, rhythm and breathing. Persons may register in one series, or both.

First Series: September 15, 22, 29 and October 6. (Four Tuesday Evenings).

Second Series: November 9, 16, 23 and 30. (Four Monday Evenings).

$35 per person, each series. 7:30 to 11 p.m. each evening.

COUPLES' SERIES Art and Janica Fox

A continuing group for couples wishing to grow more intimate through honest verbal and nonverbal communication. In an atmosphere of warmth and camaraderie, partners will explore their relationship through methods of group encounter and other experiential disciplines. Emphasis will be placed on sharing experiences and knowledge (everyone is an expert) and in finding ways for continued growth beyond the workshop experience. Limited to 8 couples.

November 3, 10, 17, 24 and December 1. (Five Tuesday evenings). 7 to 11 p.m. each evening. $110 per couple ($30 deposit required).

Programs

September 9 An Evening Discussion
ABOUT ESALEN PROGRAMS The Esalen Staff

An evening for those wishing to discuss programs listed in this brochure with members of the Esalen administrative staff. This is an opportunity for informal, small-group sessions concerning such questions as "Where do I start?", "Which Esalen program is best suited to my needs and interests?" "What can I expect from a Residence Program?", etc. Bring a cushion for comfortable sitting.

No charge. 7:30 - 10:00 p.m., Wednesday, September 9. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

TWO EVENTS WITH ROLLO MAY

September 11 Lecture
VIOLENCE AND THE DAIMONIC

8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, September 11
$3 general; $2 student.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

Dr. May will inquire into the sources of violence and aggression and apply to them the theory of the daimonic. This concerns the question of how far aggression and violence can be used for constructive as well as destructive purposes.

September 12 Seminar
VIOLENCE IN AMERICAN LIFE

Dr. May will cover the following topics during the course of the seminar: Violence and the Problem of Power in America (violence is increasing because the power of the individual is decreasing)
Myths of Violence in America (our country presents the paradox of being a pacifist nation which leads the Western world in violence)
The Omnipresence of the Daimonic (we cannot rid ourselves of devils by mere willing)
The Daimonic and Ethics (does the theory of the daimonic rationalize evil?)

$30 per person. Limited to 60 persons.
10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, September 12.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

September 14: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN. $5 general, $3 student.
7 to 11 p.m., Monday. See Encounter, page 18.

September 14-17: OPEN ENCOUNTER Jackie Doyle. See Encounter, page 18.

September 15, 22, 29, October 6: MASSAGE WORKSHOP Robert Cromey.
See Continuing Programs above.

September 18-20: OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Lois Brien. See Gestalt, page 19.

September 18-20: ENCOUNTERING DIVORCE Robert Cromey. See Encounter, page 18.

September 23 A Lecture and Demonstration
AIKIDO: A WAY OF MIND-BODY HARMONY Robert Frager and Robert Nadeau

Aikido is a physical discipline derived from ancient samurai arts, a way of developing spiritually, mentally and physically. The evening will include film, demonstration and introductory lecture in Aikido.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 23. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

September 25-27 Residential Weekend
MEDITATION IN SILENCE, SOUND AND MOTION Alan Watts and Huang Ch'ung-liang

In describing his workshop, Alan Watts writes: "In meditation we transcend an alienation between two concepts which do not exist in reality: ourselves and the outside world. With the assistance of the Chinese dance and t'ai chi chuan master, Huang Ch'ung-liang, we will explore the use of sitting in silence (za-zen), of dancing in which we discover that self and other, active and passive, voluntary and involuntary, go all together. This being a work-play session, come very comfortably clothed."
$65 per person, including room and board. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, September 25.

September 25-27: OPEN ENCOUNTER Tom Allen. See Encounter, page 18.

September 25-27 Weekend Workshop
COUPLES IN COMMUNICATION Bill and Audrey McGaw

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in group sessions over the workshop period.
$115 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Sept. 25.

September 26: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

September 30 A Lecture and Demonstration
GESTALT THERAPY: AN INTRODUCTION Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods, with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. Those wishing to participate will be involved in the demonstration.
$3 gen., $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, September 30. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 1 An Experiential Session
ENCOUNTER FOR TWO Gerald Smith

A variety of verbal and nonverbal experiences for couples (not necessarily married) who want to learn new ways of adding life and increased understanding to their relationship.
$6 per couple. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, October 1. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 2-3: FACING THE MASK AND UNMASKING THE FACE
John Enright and Jack Rosenberg. See Gestalt, page 19.

October 2-4 Residential Weekend
OPEN ENCOUNTER WORKSHOP FOR SINGLES Betty Fuller

The intent of this workshop for unattached singles is to bypass the superficial level of acquaintance by progressing through a series of encounter experiences to the beginnings of authentic relating to others. The goal is openness and honesty in encounter. Other experiential methods will be used to deal with such problems as loneliness, isolation, alienation and lack of involvement.
Please state sex and age on registration. Participants will be informed of the exact location in the Bay Area of this residential weekend. (See page 17). Limited to 32 persons.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 2.

October 2-4 Weekend Workshop
A WEEKEND OF PSYCHODRAMA Lewis Yablonsky and Walt Anderson

Psychodrama, involving the spontaneous acting-out of real personal and social situations, is one of the most effective and versatile of group interaction techniques. In this intensive weekend of psychodrama, the group as a whole will be introduced to the basic roles of psychodrama — "protagonist", "auxiliary", and others. Each participant will be given the opportunity to become involved as actively and creatively as his own needs and preferences demand.
$55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 2.

October 6: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN. $5 general; $3 student.
7 to 11 p.m., Tuesday. See Encounter, page 18.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

October 9-11 Weekend Workshop
AIKIDO: A WAY OF MIND-BODY HARMONY Robert Frager and Robert Nadeau

Aikido began as a Japanese martial art, a system of self-defense and unarmed combat. The term Aikido means "a way of mental/spiritual harmony". Even more than most traditional arts in Japan, Aikido has stressed the necessity for self-discipline and personal growth in order to attain true mastery. Aikido is based on training and developing ki or life-energy. Effective use of ki is possible only through calmness, relaxation and concentration. Aikido has certain special advantages over other approaches to mind-body integration; it is a complete discipline in which progress is clear and techniques cannot be performed without growing mastery over fundamentals. The workshop will stress relaxation and concentration techniques as well as Aikido disciplines to increase effective use of bio-energy.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 9.

October 9-11: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

October 10-11 Weekend Workshop
SCHOOLING FOR WHAT? Don Parker

During 1968-69 Dr. Parker traveled across the United States with a tape recorder to interview 1000 persons on the question, Schooling for What? His findings will form the basis of a search for new directions in schooling. Participants will hear some of the responses to Dr. Parker's question and will explore a multilevel philosophy and a structure of balanced schooling as the basis on which to build their own philosophy and make their own plans in moving in these new directions with their students. The workshop will include films and experiential sessions. Open to teachers and other educators.

$45 per person. 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

October 14 A Lecture and Demonstration
ON YOGA Joel Kramer

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner as well as the practitioner with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and then speak about the nature of yoga, covering the classical structure such as karma, bhakti, hatha, jnana, raja and tantric yoga. He will also speak of yoga as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, October 14. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 16-18 Weekend Workshop
A WAY OF CENTERING – AND USING IT Judyth Weaver

Judyth Weaver describes her workshop as follows: "We will work to find our centers and explore ways of relating and using them in everyday life. Through breathing and sensing and meditation, we will tune into our physical being, our centers, our selves. From center, we may move out into the discovery of our own dance – our own natural, spontaneous movements." Participants should wear loose, comfortable clothing.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 16.

October 16-18 Weekend Workshop
TOWARD A TRANSACTIONAL SELF D. Sam Scheele

This workshop will experiment with techniques individuals can employ to alter bland conceptions of reality dominating many urban settings. Promising means for dispelling the anomie characterizing the relationships with the everyday others in our lives will be explored. Conceptually, the techniques are based on the application of ethnomethodology to infuse fantasy, the absurd, and other "new realities" to transform everyday occurrences into significant events.

Participants will learn to become transactional catalysts in many urban environments including elevators, laundromats, supermarkets, shopping centers, office buildings, lavatories and theaters. Together we will invent new rituals and learn to negotiate new existences with a transitive urban scene.

Have ready at least two of your favorite "costumes" that you wear frequently to change your feelings and at least one hat of some kind.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 16.

October 17: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

October 17-18 Weekend Workshop
INTO THE NEW CONSCIOUSNESS George Leonard

George Leonard, author of Education and Ecstasy and The Man & Woman Thing and Other Provocations, is deep into an imaginative new project – a guide to the inevitable transformation of mankind. This project goes beyond schooling and the ideas originally outlined in Education and Ecstasy. This seminar will be limited in size; participants will be encouraged to share their ideas during brainstorming sessions. Michael Murphy, president of Esalen, will be on hand as a discussant.

$50 per person. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

For San Francisco reservations, see page 29.

October 20 An Evening Lecture
WILHELM REICH ON SEXUALITY Malcolm Brown, Ph.D.

Malcolm Brown writes: "Reich was both a genius and a madman and one has to carefully sift the brilliantly sane and valid insights of the man from his deceptive half-truths". Topics to be covered in this lecture are a critique of the libido theory as formulated by both Freud and Reich, Reich's concepts of character and muscular armoring and his analysis of the sociological origins of sexual repression.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday, October 20. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 22 A Lecture with Film
ABOUT NUDE PSYCHOTHERAPY Paul Bindrim

Nude marathons are a highly controversial and rapidly spreading mode of encounter-oriented psychotherapy. The principal innovator in the field, Paul Bindrim, will demonstrate, utilizing both lecture and films of actual marathons, the basic goals and techniques of nude psychotherapy. Discussion will embrace the potentials and inherent dangers of a method which stretches the mores of society and professional ethics.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, October 22. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 23-25 Weekend Workshop
MAPS OF CONSCIOUSNESS Ralph Metzner and Rebekah Lowden

Systems of "occult" or "esoteric" psychology, such as astrology, tarot, etc., are, on one level, used by many for fortune-telling or divination. Their deeper and original purpose, however, was to serve as aids or guide books for man's psychological evolution; as maps of the path of self-actualization and the expansion of awareness into levels of consciousness above and below those to which we normally have access. In the process of self-discovery, of becoming an individual, these systems can be very valuable in showing fresh perspectives, as pointers to the next state in our inner growth toward wholeness. In this weekend, astrology, I Ching, tarot and numerology will be discussed from this point of view, i.e., as maps of "the Way". The sessions will be both theoretical and experiential, designed to give participants a working knowledge of the actual practical use of the systems. The workshop will also provide an introduction to Actualism (Agni Yoga), a modern, Western method of yoga or inner unification.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 23.

October 23-25: ENCOUNTER AND MEDITATION Jackie Doyle and Michael Murphy.
See Encounter, page 18.

October 23-25 and November 20-22 Two Couples' Residential Weekends
FOR THE GOOD MARRIAGE: MORE AUTHENTICITY George I. and Judith Brown

A workshop for couples who feel they have a relatively healthy marriage and would like to experience ways to make their relationship even more exciting and substantial. The program will move from misleading preconceptions of oneself and one's marriage partner to increased perception and authentic response to a real person in a real world. The Browns will use approaches to gestalt awareness training that, once learned in the workshops, can continue to be used by the couple at home.

The initial workshop, October 23-25, will be combined with a follow-up workshop on November 20-22. All participants must commit themselves to both workshops. Both are residential, to be held in Berkeley. Participants will be informed of exact location. First session begins 8 p.m., October 23. $280 per couple for both weekends, including room and meals. Non-refundable deposit of $100 per couple is required.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

October 27, November 3, 10, 17 A Lecture Series
IN DEFENSE OF THE DEVIL Joe K. Adams

"New" religions are springing up often accompanied by the same old intolerance. Even the Devil should be given a fair hearing. This doctrine is probably no more popular today than it was hundreds of years ago. The psychological and historical problems of intolerance and cruelty will be considered in four cumulative lecture-discussions.

$12 for the series. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesdays, October 27, November 3, 10, 17. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

October 28: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN.
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday. See Encounter, page 18.

October 30 - November 1 Weekend Workshop
MASSAGE WORKSHOP Margaret Elke

This workshop will be oriented toward increasing sensual awareness, developing the sense of touch as a tool for nonverbal communication, and creating the fulfillment of being both total cause and total effect.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 30.

October 30 - November 1 Weekend Workshop
YOGA: EXPLORATIONS IN AWARENESS AND SELF-KNOWLEDGE Joel Kramer

Workshop for the interested novice and serious student of yoga. Through the examination and practice of yogi techniques, pranayama (breathing) and meditation, the participant will become acquainted with yogic structures, both classical and modern, that lead to self-knowledge. There will be inquiry into the recurrent problems of man such as the nature of mind, time, pleasure, pain, desire, sorrow, death, freedom, sexuality and ecstasy.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, October 30.

October 30-November 1 Weekend Workshop
INTENSIVE GROUP EXPERIENCE Helen Stephens

This workshop in small group encounter is designed to increase participants' awareness of their true selves and, hopefully, to convert some murky unknowns into warmly appreciated humanness.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Oct. 30.

October 31 - November 1: ADVANCED GESTALT WEEKEND Eric Marcus. See Gestalt, page 19.

November 1 An Evening Discussion
SYMBOLIC PATHS TO SPIRITUAL GROWTH (Part I): THE TAROT Billie Hobart

Throughout the histories of various civilizations, groups of enlightened human beings have devised symbolic languages for guidance to the spiritual path, the way of liberation or self-realization. This is the first in a series to explore five such symbolic paths. Others are The Mandala (November 8); The I Ching (November 22); Astrology (November 29); and Alchemy (December 6). In relation to this series, there will be a lecture entitled "Religions of the Counter-Culture" (November 15).

The Tarot, a book of wisdom disguised as a pack of 78 cards, contains the pattern of the universe. One needs only to look at the cards and believe what he sees in order to learn from them, for trust is the key to open the door to personal knowledge each of us possesses.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, November 1. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 1-6 5-Day Residential Workshop
BIO-ENERGETICS ANALYSIS and GESTALT TRAINING Stanley Keleman and Thomas Munson

This will be an intensive workshop based on complementary applications of bio-energetics and gestalt methods. Group sessions will include experiential and theoretical aspects of both disciplines. This is a residential program limited to 15 participants; registrants will be notified of exact Bay Area location. Begins at 8 p.m. Sunday and ends with lunch on Friday.

$250 per person, including room and meals. Nonrefundable deposit of $75 required.

November 2 Professional Workshop
INNOVATIONS IN FAMILY THERAPY Gerald Smith

An all-day workshop for those in the helping professions. Demonstrations will include: modification of structured interview for marriage counseling, application of gestalt therapy to families, art expressions with couples and family, role-playing applications, a structure for first three family therapy sessions, family communication check-up — a preventative experience for families.

$50 per person. 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday, November 2.

November 3, 10, 17, 24, December 1: COUPLES WORKSHOP Art and Janica Fox.
See Continuing Programs, page 20.

November 6-8 Weekend Workshop
A COMPREHENSIVE INTRODUCTION TO EIDETIC PERCEPTION Werner Arnet

Eidetic perception is a synthesis of methods in art and science to stimulate a holistic self-expression. Eidetic perception training uses, as a framework, a simplified base triad key that is rooted in gestalt theory and its broader application to all creativity. Unlike the current gestalt therapeutic trend, the eidetic key method aims to lead beyond therapy to a new awakening of a sense of balance and aesthetics. This new triad key method is useful in comprehending any human endeavors, especially where communication and transpersonal relations are involved.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 6.

November 6-8: ENCOUNTER AT MID-LIFE Helen Stephens. See Encounter, page 18.

November 6-8 Weekend Workshop
SENSING Benjamin and Judyth Weaver

"We believe", write the Weavers, "that unless consciousness is well grounded in our bodies and we are open for the myriad sensations – smell, hearing, touch, taste, sight, proprioception – which define our being, we loosen our grasp on consensual reality and diminish our pleasure in being. This workshop will offer an exploration in ways to reconnect parts of our disused sensing apparatus and, hopefully, to regain some of the wonder and freshness with which we greeted the world of experience when we were children." Participants should wear loose, comfortable clothing.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 6.

November 7: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

November 8 An Evening Discussion
SYMBOLIC PATHS TO SPIRITUAL GROWTH (Part 2): THE MANDALA Jose and Miriam Arguelles

The Mandala is a basic map or blueprint for concentrating the mind. It is a universal form with its attendant ritual structures. The evening will include an historical introduction to the Mandala and an experiential session. No previous knowledge required.

$3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, November 8. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 9, 16, 23, 30 MASSAGE WORKSHOP Robert Cromey
See Continuing Programs, page 20.

November 13-15: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

November 14-15 Weekend Workshop
ECODRAMA Michael Harner

An experiential intensification of the encounter of man, technology and natural resources. A temporal and spatial microcosm will be created to develop awareness of the impact of ecological factors on the nature and evolution of human social relationships. Possibilities for the development of human societies will be considered in the light of the shared experience.

$45 per person. Begins 10 a.m., Saturday, November 14.

November 13-15 Weekend Workshop
COUPLES IN COMMUNICATION Bill and Audrey McGaw

This workshop will provide an opportunity for married or engaged couples to explore marriage, not as an institution, but as an extremely vital and personal way of life. The McGaws will concentrate on the positive aspects of partnership, increased understanding of self and mate, and deeper, more meaningful communication. Participating couples should expect to spend 20 to 25 hours in group sessions over the workshop period.

$115 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 13.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

November 15 An Evening Lecture
RELIGIONS OF THE COUNTER-CULTURE Jacob Needleman

American youth is in the midst of a massive search for the Eastern sense of religious discipline. What have they found in the numerous new spiritual groups taking root here in California and in the whole Western World? What is the worth of what they have found? How may it affect all our lives? And what could be its influence on Judaism and Christianity? Material will be based on Dr. Needleman's book, The New Religions, and will include Zen, Tibetan Buddhism, Krishnamurti, Meher Baba, Subud and Transcendental Meditation.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, November 15. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 18 An Evening Lecture
THE PSYCHOLOGICAL GENIUS OF D.H. LAWRENCE Malcolm Brown, Ph.D.

Discussion of a mature man-woman relationship as depicted by Lawrence, who in Dr. Brown's view, is a more penetrating and insightful psychologist than either Freud or Reich when it comes to matters relating to fulfilling sex and the various forms of love. Lawrence's book Phantasia of the Unconscious will be discussed as a model of healthy emotional development from childhood through adolescense to adulthood.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 18. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 19: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN. $5 general; $3 student.
7 to 11 p.m., Thursday. See Encounter, page 18.

November 20-22 Weekend Workshop
LETTING GO Buryl Payne

During the process of growing up and adjusting to others, we often internalize rules and prohibitions about how to move or not to move our bodies, how to express or deny feelings and what to think or not to think. By the time we have become adults we have unconsciously learned to imprison ourselves. This workshop is designed to break through some of these imposed limitations, and to include sessions of free movement and techniques for freeing the creative process and emotions.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 20.

November 20-22: ON BEING A WOMAN Gestalt Weekend Cynthia Werthman and Janie Rhyne.
See Gestalt, page 19.

November 22 An Evening Discussion
SYMBOLIC PATHS TO SPIRITUAL GROWTH (Part 3): THE I CHING Jose and Miriam Arguelles

The I Ching is a philosophy, psychology and formulation of the laws of change and their application and interrelation to the realms of human consciousness with cosmic principles. The evening will include an historical introduction to the I Ching and an experiential session. No previous knowledge required.
$3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, November 22. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 27-29 Weekend Workshop
LEARNING TO FEEL, FEELING TO LEARN Hal Lyon

Teachers have traditionally emphasized the development of the cognitive or intellectual capacities of students. The nurturing of the affective capacity of the student such as feelings, emotions, love, empathy, awareness and fantasy either has been neglected or left to the individual, his family or chance. All too often, chance prevails, and results are a half-man, educated to function effectively only on the intellectual plane. This is a workshop for teachers, college students and others wishing to explore how pleasure, spontaneity and feelings can be integrated with the intellectual in the classroom.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 27.

November 27-29 Weekend Workshop
A TIME TO GROW Arthur Hough

In describing his workshop Art Hough writes: "We long for growth but hang back from it as well, living day to day within the easy limitations of our habits. It is hard to grow alone. Most of the growth we seek comes out of the rhythm of community, advancing and withdrawing, interacting and processing that interaction. This workshop offers a variety of techniques to intensify the growth process and to examine the blocks that retard it – group interaction, communication games, and exercises in self-awareness, listening, feedback and spontaneity. The program is not encounter. The aim is to loosen the deeper communication blocks of hidden dogmatism, risk refusal and build techniques and insights that can be absorbed for use within an individual's intimate community."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 27.

November 28: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

November 29 An Evening Discussion SYMBOLIC PATHS TO SPIRITUAL GROWTH (Part 4): ASTROLOGY, A PERSONAL MANDALA Gerald Thatcher

The horoscope, as a symbolic representation of individuality, will be treated as a tool for expanding self-awareness and achieving wholeness of mind/body/soul. Experiential uses of astrology will be the primary focus.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, November 29. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

November 30 A Lecture and Demonstration GESTALT THERAPY: AN INTRODUCTION Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods, with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. Those wishing to participate will be involved in the demonstration.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, November 30. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 3 A Lecture and Demonstration ON YOGA Joel Kramer

An evening designed to acquaint the interested non-practitioner, as well as the practitioner, with yoga. Mr. Kramer will demonstrate hatha yoga and then speak about the nature of yoga, covering the classical structure such as karma, bhakti, hatha, jnana, raja and tantric yoga. He will also speak of yoga as an evolutionary approach to living in the modern world.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, December 3. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 4-6 Weekend Workshop THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

In describing her workshop, Gabrielle Roth writes: "As we are, so we move: spontaneous or tense, flowing or restricted. This workshop is designed so that each individual may discover the language of movement, become familiar with his own physical vocabulary and learn to use it as a means for personal growth and communication with others." Music, dreams, imagery and sensory perception are some of the stimuli Miss Roth uses to initiate the movement process.

$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 4.

December 4-6: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 18.

For biographies, see pp. 30-33.

December 4-6 Couples' Workshop
THE OPEN COUPLE Betty Fuller

This workshop for couples will use a number of encounter methods developed and refined at Esalen and elsewhere to explore the special relationship between man and woman. The intent of the workshop is to get in touch with the real person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication, and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Emphasis is on encounter and sense awareness experiences which may strengthen and enrich the relationship.
$100 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 4.

December 6 An Evening Discussion
SYMBOLIC PATHS TO SPIRITUAL GROWTH (Part 5): ALCHEMY Jose and Miriam Arguelles

Alchemy is the science of transformation, utilizing the basic elements of nature as found within the function of the human organism in order that harmony may be recreated as the microcosm. The evening will include an experiential session in addition to a general discussion on alchemy.
$3 general; $2 student. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, December 6. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 7 EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN $5 general; $3 student.
7 to 11 p.m., Monday. See Encounter, page 18.

December 11-12: OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Larry and Paula Bloomberg. See Gestalt, page 19.

December 11-13 Weekend Workshop
ENCOUNTER MARATHON: 45-HOURS-PLUS Richard Marsh

In describing his workshop Dr. Marsh writes: "If there is a single key to achieving the human potential, it is communication, both with oneself and with others. Tough-but-loving communication activities will be used in this intensive – and long – marathon. Bring along your defensive armour, but be prepared to shed it as the spirit of spontaneity and community gradually develops. Bring, also, a sleeping bag for two sleep breaks during the weekend."
$75 per person, including meals and snacks. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, December 11, and continues for 45 hours, or longer. Includes a follow-up meeting approximately one month later.

December 11-13: OPEN ENCOUNTER Arthur and Janica Fox. See Encounter, page 18.

December 11-13 Weekend Workshop
ENERGY IS ETERNAL DELIGHT Laura Huxley and Piero Ferrucci

Laura Huxley writes: "The theme of this workshop is the transformation of energy with 'recipes for living and loving' – transformation through the muscles and the imagination, logical thinking and non-sense feeling, words and silence. The goal is loving communication between the universes in which we live and evolve, the inner and outer universes separated by our physical and mental skin."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 11.

December 13 Lecture and Demonstration
INTRODUCTION TO THE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE Ilana Rubenfeld

The Alexander Technique is a method of body and sensory awareness facilitating psycho-physical integration. Ilana Rubenfeld will use the Alexander Technique, gestalt exercises and sensory awareness as a gateway to contacting, expressing and working through deep feelings. Participants will explore changes in postural alignment through kinesthetic experiences. Ilana will demonstrate the Technique on models selected from among group members.
Participants should bring beach towels and a 1-inch-thick book for headrest; wear leotards or loose slacks. Limited to 60 participants.
$4 general; $3 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Sunday, December 13. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 15 An Evening Lecture
A MATURE MAN-WOMAN RELATIONSHIP TODAY Malcolm Brown, Ph.D.

Drawing upon a large number of thinkers other than Reich and Lawrence, Dr. Brown will attempt to describe the essential prerequisites and features of a mature man-woman relationship within the context of our modern American culture. He will touch upon such topics as: the cultural pressures which tend to ignore or diminish an appreciation of the absolute differences between the sexes; the case for and against a life-long monogamous marriage; the question of extramarital affairs within the framework of a mature marriage relationship; the unique contributions and responsibilities of both the male and the female to the creation of a mature relationship.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday, December 15. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

December 18-20: OPEN ENCOUNTER Tom Allen. See Encounter, page 18.

December 18-20 Couples' Workshop
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE Gerald and Linda Smith

If a couple can be both close to each other and free to grow as separate individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. To be close, a couple should be able to talk clearly and openly; to be free, they should be able to experience "creative conflict". Focus will be on prevention and growth – the here and now – rather than on problems of the past. Family therapy communications approaches, encounter, gestalt applications, nonverbal and sensory experiences and videotape feedback will be used.
$110 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 18.

December 18-20 Weekend Workshop
YOGA: EXPLORATIONS IN AWARENESS AND SELF-KNOWLEDGE Joel Kramer

A workshop for the interested novice and serious student of yoga. Through the examination and practice of yogi techniques, pranayama (breathing) and meditation, the participant will become acquainted with yogic structure, both classical and modern, that lead to self-knowledge. There will be inquiry into the recurrent problems of man such as the nature of mind, time, pleasure, pain, desire, sorrow, death, freedom, sexuality and ecstasy.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 18.

December 27 - January 1 5-Day Residential Workshop
GETTING TOGETHER AT YEAR'S END Betty Fuller

While this workshop will be grounded in encounter, combining nonverbal and conceptual approaches from several disciplines, special emphasis will be placed on turning toward a new year with the fullest possible sense of presence in the now and openness to new experiences. Hopefully, the group will experience integration and resolution of old feelings. . .and gain a sense of celebration in moving through the year's end.
$160 per person, including room and meals. $50 nonrefundable deposit required. Begins 8 p.m., Sunday and ends after lunch on Friday.

San Francisco Information

San Francisco area programs include regular seminars, and workshops, lectures and symposia, continuing groups and occasional special events. Information, literature and tickets for lectures may be obtained Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 4:30, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. No programs are held at our offices, but several facilities in the Bay Area are used, including First Unitarian Church (San Francisco) and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction (Berkeley). Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation.

WORKSHOP REGISTRATION: Advance registration is required ten days prior to start of program. A nonrefundable deposit of $20 per person, unless otherwise stated, must accompany a reservation form or letter sent to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco 94123. Balance of tuition is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. Usually, however, workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays. Schedules are not rigid and specific meeting times are established at the group's first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Residential seminars include meals and lodging. For other programs, each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes, for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be returned if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wishing to be on a waiting list. Notification of reservation status will be sent no later than seven days before workshop begins.

The following practitioners of structural integration are available, by appointment only, in Big Sur: Peter Melchior, Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, Edward Maupin, Hector Prestera, William Schutz and Gael Smith. Direct inquiries to Peter Melchior, Esalen Instutute, Big Sur 93920.

BULLETIN OF STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

A journal dedicated to understanding man as a whole – now in its second year of publication. The bulletin provides a vehicle for theoretical and applied research in mind-body phenomena of interest to persons in the health sciences, physical sciences, arts and education. Past issues have included articles concerning Structural Integration (the Rolf technique of postural release); prepared childbirth, movement behavior and movement therapy; Swedenborg's anatomy. Future issues will include: preview chapters from Ida Rolf's forthcoming book; movement approaches to integration (Tai Chi, yoga, dance, physical education); rehabilitative techniques; book reviews, etc. For a one year subscription, send $10.00 with the NAME, ADDRESS, and ZIP CODE to: Bulletin of Structural Integration, 1334 - 23rd Street, Santa Monica, California 90404.

Special Information

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This service, originally developed to provide archive copies for Esalen, rapidly became of use to organizations requesting recordings of lectures and seminars, training tapes of techniques and mehtods, demonstration workshop sequences, and experiential programs. Requests now come from educational institutions, public and private libraries, religious bodies and professional groups with funds for a recording library concerned with the human potential. Commercial use is prohibited; all rights are reserved. Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from whom a complete catalog may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10.00 per tape-hour, stereo or mono. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, PO Box 303, Mill Valley, California 94941.

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16mm FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' demonstrations of gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen's demonstrations of bio-energetic analysis are available for professional use from MEDIASYNC, PO Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014. Films of Dr. Perls' work are also available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706 along with films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow and Virginia Satir.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (KPFA, K101, KSAN and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures, as do KPFK (Los Angeles), KPFT (Houston, KBAI (New York) and KUNM-FM (Albuquerque) on an occasional bases. Consult local program guides. A series of 12 one-hour programs titled "Esalen Institute Presents: The Scope of Human Potential" is released for broadcast this year through National Educational Radio to its affiliated educational radio stations across the United States. A second series of 12 programs will explore religion, Eastern mysticism and metaphysics. Additional series will later include programs and encounter and education, and the creative value of madness.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36.)

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to R. Gerald Thatcher, Esalen Books, Big Sur, California 93920.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

THE JOURNAL OF TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY

A journal for theoretical and applied research in peak experience, self-transcendence, ultimate values, ecstasy, wonder, B-values, transcendental phenomena and related concepts, experiences and activities. The second issue features articles by Lawrence LeShan ("physicists and Mystics: Similarities in World View"); Willis Harman ("The New Copernican Revolution"); Abraham H. Maslow ("Theory Z"); Kenneth Wapnick ("Mysticism and Schizophrenia"); Anthony J. Sutich ("The American Transpersonal Association..); and others.

ANNOUNCING THE ESALEN BOOK SERIES

General Editor: Stuart Miller

Esalen Institute announces the publication of a series of books covering a broad range of work in education, religion, philosophy and the behavioral sciences focusing on humanities and potentialities. The books range from a manual of sensory awareness exercises to a scientific report of experiments on altered states of consciousness; from a novel about the adventures of one Esalen resident fellow to a treatise exploring the unity of education, religion and medicine. The books are unified by a concern with the developing human potentialities and a sense that the fully functioning person will have interests as wide as these.

NOW AVAILABLE

Anger and the Rocking Chair: Gestalt Awareness with Children,, by Janet Lederman with photographs by Lillian R. Cutler. This is a dramatic, visual account of gestalt methods with so-called "difficult" or "disturbed" children in elementary school. Rather than suppressing pupils' rebellion and anger, Miss Lederman helps her pupils to transform these powerful impulses into constructive attitudes and behavior. (Published by McGraw-Hill).

AVAILABLE EARLY 1971

Now: Toward Humanness. Introducing Confluent Education, by Dr. George I. Brown. So often people write Esalen asking if personal growth techniques are being used in schools, how do they work? This book is the best answer so far to such questions. It is a conprehensive account of the Ford/Esalen Foundation project in education. The project showed that methods for personal growth used at Esalen Institute can be successfully incorporated into already existing curriculums of public schools.

You may order Anger and the Rocking Chair by returning this coupon with your check (made payable to Esalen Institute) to:
BOOKS, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco California 94123.

I enclose payment of $____ for ____ copies of

Memberships

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars—but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

Please complete Membership and Gift Order Form on other side.

NEWS

ABRAHAM MASLOW (1908-1970)

During the summer of 1962 Abe and Bertha Maslow were driving along Highway One in Big Sur, enjoying the great coast scenery as they loved to do. As darkness approached they began to look for a place to spend the night. A few lights appeared at the end of an unmarked side road leading down from the highway, and they turned in to see if there might be an extra bed. When they arrived at the old lodge below they found to their great surprise that nearly all the people there had read Abe's Toward a Psychology of Being and were planning some kind of center to explore "the relationship of psychology, philosophy and religion" — or something like that. So Abe's long friendship with Esalen Institute began, before Esalen was quite underway.

Since then Abe has influenced us in many ways, direct and indirect. His writings, his personal words of advice, his constant support from the very first, his warnings and scoldings, all had their effect.

Esalen's first brochure, in 1962, began with a statement paraphrasing part of his preface to Toward a Psychology of Being. In that preface he had said:

> There is now emerging over the horizon a new conception of human sickness and of human health, a psychology that I find so thrilling and so full of wonderful possibilities that I yield to the temptation to present it publicly even before it is checked and confirmed and before it can be called reliable scientific knowledge.

Our brochure went on to say:

> Some scientists and philosophers believe that this quiet reformulation of psychological thought will bring the greatest change in the vision of Western man since Copernicus and the Renaissance. It will certainly affect our most basic attitudes toward human possibilities and human destiny.

It is our intention to pursue this "quiet reformulation" . . . to follow where he showed the way.

PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: A COMPREHENSIVE APPROACH TO PERSONAL GROWTH

In June 1970 a number of Esalen's staff visited Europe with the intention of finding new approaches to personal growth to bring back to America. A week-long didactic session with Roberto Assagioli was, for some of us, the outstanding event of the visit.

Like Esalen itself, psychosynthesis is an eclectic and comprehensive approach to developing the self. Rather than allowing only one method, it embraces dozens. Exercises for developing and harmonizing the intellect, the will, the emotions, imagination, intuition and other faculties are central to psychosynthesis. Appeal is constantly made to harmonize and develop these faculties under the direction of the best part of the self, the divine part in religious terms, or the part of ourself that each of us experiences as best. In developing the personality, psychosynthesis ranges from exploring the depths of the unconscious to experiences that place us in touch with higher realities, or to use other terms, God, the transpersonal self, the higher unconscious. In this latter aspect psychosynthesis includes a dimension too often neglected by other approaches, though it should be said that a person can undertake his psychosynthesis without any reference to a transpersonal or spiritual dimension.

Among the aspects of psychosynthesis which seem particularly attractive to us are its emphasis on the positive and healthy parts of the self. Growth is encouraged from the healthy center. Psychosynthesis also allows a person to continue working on himself at home and after the workshop by including a large number of exercises that are relatively simple to do. We feel that psychosynthesis will be especially attractive to people who have experienced other growth techniques at Esalen and want to go beyond workshop experiences toward a coherent program of self-development.

Through its San Francisco center, Esalen is initiating a series of programs and workshops in psychosynthesis this winter season. We invite you to participate. The beginning introductory series includes the following:

January 8: Evening Panel
A General Introduction to Psychosynthesis, with Michael Murphy, James and Susan Vargiu, Stuart Miller and James Fadiman.

A discussion of the basic elements of psychosynthesis and its relation to such concerns as personal growth, education and other approaches to self-development. See page 21.

January 30: Saturday Workshop
Psychosynthesis: Returning to Your Center, with James Fadiman

This all-day workshop will teach basic psychosynthesis techniques which may be used in active self-discovery or in educational or therapeutic settings. See page 23.

February 19-21:
Weekend Workshop: Innovations in Psychosynthesis: From the Ego to the Self, with Robert and Donna Gerard

Dr. Robert Gerard, president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis, and his wife, will present this weekend introduction to psychosynthesis. See page 25.

March 12-14:
Weekend Workshop: Psychosynthesis, with James and Susan Vargiu

In this workshop the Vargius will emphasize the aspects of psychosynthesis which lead to greater unity and which can be used for integrating the encounter experience into something more. See page 28.

THE ECOLOGICAL PSYCHE

Our sense of alienation may come as much from our disconnection from the living fabric of nature as from our difficulties with each other. Men and women, the dynamic focus of a process that involves many life forms and eons of time, now think of themselves as independent of the process that created them. Most contemporary revolutionary movements are rooted in this kind of alienated thinking, hoping to restore a sense of well-being to man by merely manipulating the social structure of his human existence.

The ecological crisis provides more than an alarming opportunity for social survival responses, however necessary these may be. The crisis calls into quesiton our whole way of experiencing ourselves, one another, cities, trees, the heavens. It has within it the impetus for straightening out our relations with all these and harmonizing our personal existence. The fully developed ecological psyche would be connected to all life's processes — feeling, eating, growing, dying; the self would be experienced as incorporating the rest of life forms as well. We are ultimately not simply man or woman, but man and woman and fish, glacier, mountain and shorebird. Our life history is the life history of the planet.

This series is the beginning of a joint effort by Esalen Institute and Friends of the Earth to develop a psycho-ecological approach to man and his problems. Programs will range from weekend experiences, incorporating Esalen experiential techniques such as fantasy and sensory awareness, to lectures on philosophical roots of the ecological crisis and social and behavioral challenges which must be met in the next few years.

January 15:	Lecture: Ecological Crisis: Religious Cause and Religious Solution, with Alan Watts and Lynn White. Drs. Watts and White will discuss the underlying causes of the havoc being wrought by industrial technology. See page 21.
January 21, 28 and February 4	An Adventure Series: Innerspace/Outerspace, with Jeff Berner and Mark Hansen. A three-evening series to explore Innerspace (the mind as a prime natural resource) and Outerspace (an introduction to whole-worldviewing through World Games). See page 22.
February 5-7	Weekend Retreat: Experiencing the Ocean's Edge, with Joan McIntyre and Stuart and Sukie Miller. This program will take place at the Bodega Bay Marine Laboratory. Exploration of marine life and the ocean's edge will be combined with sensory awareness and fantasy techniques. See page 23.
March 10	Lecture: Breaking the Species Barrier, with David Brower. David Brower, president of Friends of the Earth and former director of the Sierra Club, will discuss man and his relation to the planet. See page 27.

EXPLORATORY MEETINGS ON ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY

During the past few years a group of researchers in psychology, neurophysiology and parapsychology have been meeting informally and formally (for example, at the Council Grove, Kansas meetings sponsored by the Menninger Foundation) to discuss their findings and possible research strategies for a coalescing field of inquiry that comprises altered states of consciousness and the "transpersonal" or "transcendent" aspects of human experience. Beginning January 1971 Esalen, in cooperation with the Transpersonal Association (which publishes the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology), the United Church Board for Homeland Ministries of the National Council of Churches and the Association for Humanistic Psychology will conduct a series of meetings in Big Sur and in San Francisco for some twenty researchers in these fields.

Robert Ornstein, one of the organizers of these meetings, describes some of their aims as follows: "To allow some interchange between the two types of workers in the study of consciousness — those primarily involved in research and those involved in growth. An important stress at Esalen is placed on the relationship of the body to the mind and this relationship, for the most part, has been unexplored by the research community. From the invited participants involved in physiological feedback training, we hope there will be a statement on that art, as well as exploring its relationship to other research and growth techniques. Others have been looking into the evidence for paranormal phenomena and their relationship to mysticism, dreams and particular states of consciousness. These three matters, and others, will be topics of the meetings."

These meetings are part of Esalen's concern with the relationship between the transpersonal or transcendent aspects of experience and our explorations in healing and growth.

ESALEN EAST COAST WEEKEND

This year, as last, Esalen will present a weekend in New York featuring many of its outstanding leaders, theoreticians and philosophers. Proceeds from the weekend will go to the research, development and Claire Nelson scholarship funds of the Institute and all the program leaders are donating their services. Preparations are still being made; however, among those leading programs will be: Alan Watts, William Schutz, Bernard Gunther, George Leonard, Joseph Campbell, John Lilly, Ilana Rubenfeld, Frank Rubenfeld, Seymour Carter, Robert Ornstein, George I. Brown, Richard Farson, John Pierrakos, Lawrence LeShan, Frank Haronian, Joe K. Adams, Michael Murphy, Harvey Cox, Richard Rubenstein, Sam Keen, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman and Ida Rolf.

Sessions will vary from experiential sessions to lectures and discussions. The weekend will provide a comprehensive introduction to a variety of Esalen approaches including encounter, sensory awareness, gestalt therapy, structural integration and others. The program will feature some new disciplines, among them psychosynthesis; Joe Adams will give a critique of encounter groups; and there will be presentations of the latest work at Esalen in education, research and religion.

April 16, 17 and 18 are the dates. Announcement of location and method of obtaining tickets will be in the next brochure.

THE BARN CRAFT PROGRAM AT BIG SUR

The barn has traditionally been Esalen's artists' center, and for years many of the staff members have made it their studio for such arts as leatherwork, welding, jewelry, woodcarving and woodcut prints, batiking, macrame, tie-dying and photography. Local artists are offering an on-going craft program for the benefit of persons attending Esalen workshops. Private instruction in various crafts and use of the barn facility are available at a small cost.

Craft Staff: Ron Martin, Manager; Tony Wagner, John Horler, Sharon Myers, Susan Martin, Dick Horan, Jerome Mitchell and Brita Fluck.

A REMINDER ABOUT SCHOLARSHIPS

Following announcement of the availability of scholarship and loan funds in the last issue of Esalen Programs, applications have been received and reviewed regularly by the Scholarship Committee. Set amounts will become available from the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund during each program period, to be distributed either as outright grants or as interest-free loans.

Direct scholarship inquiries to Big Sur or San Francisco, depending on program location. A short scholarship application form will be sent for completion and reforwarding to Esalen — so requests should be initiated as early as possible.

In Big Sur, preference for grants generally will go to those who have attended a week-long (or longer) workshop and who have been interviewed by a member of the Committee. It is anticipated at this time that grants will be given to cover from one-fourth to one-third of the total costs of a given program. Direct inquiries to Scholarship Committee, Esalen Institute, Big Sur.

In San Francisco, the established policy of tuition reduction to students will continue. Students may attend most seminars for less than the stated fee on a space available basis. Please call the San Francisco office three days prior to start of a workshop. Amounts granted or loaned from the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund will extend aid to individuals, and possibly groups, who cannot meet tuitions or who have opportunity to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts. Direct inquiries to the Director, San Francisco.

APPROACHES TO PERSONAL GROWTH: SOME DESCRIPTIONS

Because so many of Esalen's programs are experiential, we have been asked by many people who are new to Esalen to differentiate among a number of approaches that seem, at first glance, so similar. The various disciplines being practiced at Esalen have influenced one another so that the task of producing an encounter group totally free from gestalt techniques, for example, is impossible. Furthermore, different practitioners of various disciplines stress different aspects. What follows is, therefore, not a scientific statement but rather a first attempt at making some rough distinctions among a number of approaches. (And we welcome suggestions for improved descriptions).

Encounter Groups: The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing in their statements and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. Generally, in Esalen encounter groups, participants are encouraged and helped to express their feelings about themselves and other members of the group through nonverbal as well as verbal means. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontation between participants; the point is to allow participants to explore and work through such emotions rather than retreat from them. The focus of encounter groups is on exploring interpersonal relations, and the expression and exploration of self through interpersonal relations ("the between and the within"). Techniques and approaches such as gestalt therapy, sensory awareness and those exploring fantasy and inner imagery may be added to the basic encounter situation.

Gestalt Therapy: Participants meet in a group of between eight and twenty, or more, always with a leader. Generally, the leader works with one person at a time, while other members observe or participate minimally, as compared with, for example, encounter groups. The aim of gestalt therapy is to increase a person's awareness of the instant moment and to further, thereby, his personality integration by having him acknowledge his responsibility for how he exists at any given moment. Emphasis is placed on having a participant explore his dreams, fantasies, expectations, gestures, voice and other aspects of personal functioning, by enacting them before the group. By so doing he becomes aware of the unity of his organism — mind, body, emotions and feelings.

Sensory Awakening and Sensory Awareness: The focus of these disciplines is on the body. The leader directs the group in a series of exercises designed to broaden and deepen the participant's awareness of his sensory existence, including awareness of his own body, nature and energy. Occasionally this is followed by encounter-style discussion of the participants' experience, but the emphasis, in any case, is nonverbal.

Meditation: Participants in meditation exercises generally meet in groups, but the focus of meditation is inward. The leader directs the group in exercises and then the group members may share their experiences. Meditation exercises are usually mental, though some forms of moving meditation, such as t'ai chi chuan, involve a concentrated awareness on the movements of the body. The aim of meditation is to break through ordinary consciousness to various levels of being, ranging from relaxed but alert awareness of self to the deepest levels of mystical experience in which the identity of self and cosmos become apparent.

EUROPEAN PROJECT: MAY-JUNE 1970

Last Spring, Esalen sent a group to England to examine the possibility of developing a cultural exchange in the area of the human potential.

Members of the Esalen staff and close friends who made the trip were: Michael Murphy, Stuart and Sukie Miller, Jacqueline Doyle, Helen Stephens, Sidney Lanier, William Schutz, Pamela Portugal, Betty Fuller, George Leonard, Alan Watts, and George and Judith Brown. The trip was financed by generous gifts from a number of friends, among them Helen Stephens, Sidney and Jean Lanier, and Robert and Lennie Schwartz.

We were invited by Ananda (an education and research organization), Quaesitor (a London growth center) and the British chapter of the Association for Humanistic Psychology to present demonstration programs of our work, which met with a large and enthusiastic reception.

Various members of our group attended seminars at Tavistock Clinic, meetings with the British Association for Psychotherapists, the developing AHP chapter, and the staffs of the two London growth centers, as well as numerous meetings with psychotherapists, philosophers, and researchers. Among the stimulating people we met were John Wren Lewis, who has written extensively on the relations between Freudianism, the new psychology, religion, and science; Douglas Harding, the inventor of a new approach to enlightenment which, among other things, involves the perception that we have no head; Joan Grant and Dr. Denys Kelsey, clairvoyant and psychotherapist, respectively, who are working together to bring supposed memories of past lives into psychotherapeutic practice; Dr. Ann Farady, an authority on dreams, and writer on new directions in psychotherapy; and Dr. Joan Wescott, anthropological researcher on witchcraft and shaminism. It was good, also, to renew an old friendship with Bishop John Robinson, Dean of Trinity College, Cambridge University. Some members of the group met with Roberto Assagioli, the founder of Psychosynthesis, in Florence, and we intend to bring his approach increasingly into the work of Esalen. His basic formulations and emphasis have significance, some of us feel, as great as gestalt therapy and encounter work.

Esalen is considering an involvement in a program in England which will be held during July and August, 1971, under the sponsorship of Ananda Centre Ltd. The program will involve William Schutz, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, Bernard Gunther and others. Participation in this program will be open to both Britons and Americans.

There will be workshops in encounter, gestalt therapy, sensory awakening, with an emphasis on cross-cultural encounter and training workshops for group leaders. Ananda's varied program schedule will permit participation in the entire two-month series, or any one week of it, depending on personal travel and sightseeing plans.

The program will be held in a big, comfortable country house near London; prices should be similar to those at Esalen Institute at Big Sur ($225-$250 per week), excluding transportation. A less expensive "college-house" program for teenage and college-age participants is being explored.

Space planning requirements make it urgent that you respond very soon indicating your interest, your proposed length of involvement in such a program, and the approximate dates. Please write to: Jackie Doyle, 31 Alcatraz, Belvedere, California 94920.

BIG SUR PROGRAMS

EXPANSION OF ESALEN/BIG SUR FACILITY

Beginning in 1971, South Coast Motel, located one and a half miles north of the Esalen/Big Sur facility, will be used for additional programs. Expansion into a new facility will enable us to meet the demand for more programs without overcrowding the Hot Springs property. Next Fall's Residential Program is being planned for this new center and a series of two-week and four-week programs will begin there in April.

Anticipated leadership will include Richard Price, William Schutz, John Heider, Betty Fuller, Janet Lederman, John Lilly, Seymour Carter, Jack Downing, Steven Stroud, Julian Silverman, Bernard Gunther, Gabrielle Roth and Hector Prestera. A more detailed announcement of this program will appear in the next Esalen Program. Meanwhile, further information may be obtained by writing South Coast Center, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

LONG TERM PROGRAMS IN BIG SUR

Esalen Institute/Big Sur will continue its emphasis on longer term programs, with hopes of distilling and developing the most promising approaches that have come to us in the past years. Special effort will be made to provide growth experience for those already professionally involved in the fields of education, religion, social work and mental health. Such persons will be given preference in most programs. Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required in all programs of two weeks duration or longer. Those interested in programs without this commitment should apply for Big Sur one-week programs or San Francisco programs.

Most programs during this winter quarter will be two weeks or longer; fewer persons will be on the grounds at any one time and we will operate more on the model of Fritz Perls' Lake Cowichan experiment. A regular schedule of one-week programs will resume in the spring quarter.

RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

Selections for the four-month Residence Program anticipated for Fall 1971 will be made from participants in the shorter programs during the year. (No four-month Residence Program is planned for Spring 1971).

In addition to the scheduled Residence Program, an intensive long-term program may be initiated by an individual according to his interests and needs, chosen from among the continuing one-, two- and four-week workshops. No selection process is required for such programs unless specified.

TWO-WEEK OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

Esalen Staff
(Seymour Carter, John Heider and Richard Price, Directors)

December 27-January 9	February 7-February 20	March 21-April 3
January 10-January 23	February 21-March 6	April 4-April 17
January 24-February 6	March 7-March 20	April 18-May 1

$450 per person for each two-week period.

These programs will center on encounter and gestalt-oriented work. Each two-week period will include additional opportunities in other experiential areas (such as bio-energetics, movement, massage and sensory awakening), depending on group interest and leader availability. All workshops will have a structural integration (rolfing) demonstration; individual sessions will be available at extra cost. Insights growing out of the four-month Fall Residence Program will also be incorporated into these workshops.

Big Sur Staff includes: Seymour Carter, Roberta DeLong, Al Drucker, John Heider, Jack Hurley, Rae Hurley, Alexis Johnson, Lynn Johnson, Mary Ellen Klee, Peggy Kriegel, John Lilly, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

Visiting teachers and scholars may occasionally relate to on-going programs. San Francisco staff will also be drawn upon. Some of those expecting to be involved in the winter programs are: Betty Fuller, Bernard Gunther, Sidney and Jean Lanier, Janet Lederman, Michael Murphy, Robert Resnick, Julian Silverman and Helen Stephens.

PROGRAMS

January 3-16 Two-Week Workshop
OPEN GESTALT THERAPY WORKSHOP James S. Simkin

Gestalt therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.

Gestalt therapists believe that people can change their behavior only if they are aware (responsible) of what and how they do what they do. The Aristotelian why-because "game" is rejected as another avoidance technique (phobic behavior).

Each person will have an opportunity to experience individual sessions with Dr. Simkin, as well as participate in gestalt therapy exercises within the group setting. Limited to 20 participants.

$550 per person.

January 17-February 6 Three-Week Workshop
ADVANCED PROFESSIONAL ENCOUNTER-GESTALT WORKSHOP
Betty Fuller and Janet Lederman

This workshop is designed for professionals who have had extensive workshop experience. The focus will be on individual responsibility and growth in a variety of contexts, such as large and small groups and the Esalen work program. Please submit resume with your application.

$790 per person.

February 7-20 Two-Week Workshop
BODYMIND William C. Schutz and Emmett Hutchins

Further development of the effort to integrate the rolfing method of body alignment within the framework of open encounter, including fantasy and gestalt methods. Emmett Hutchins, now being trained by Ida Rolf to be a rolf teacher, brings a deep understanding of the technique to this effort. It's all still quite experimental and, hopefully, many new insights will emerge. Workshop participants, if they wish, will receive at least one rolf session.

$590 per person.

February 21-March 6 Two-Week Workshop
GESTALT AND STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION Richard Price and Hector Prestera

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing), while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive two rolf treatments as part of this workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness.

$500 per person.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

March 7-20 Two-Week Workshop
THE OPEN COUPLE Betty Fuller and the Esalen Staff

In this workshop couples will endeavor to focus on the man-woman relationship, to encounter the person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Esalen's work program will be incorporated with other encounter and sense awareness approaches that promote individual growth and strengthen and enrich the relationship of couples.
$530 per person.

March 7-12 5-Day Workshop
OPENING DOORS Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

Charlotte Selver and Charles V. W. Brooks are pioneers in work which is now commonly known as sensory awareness, nonverbal communication, sensory awakening and other titles. In describing this workshop, and the one that follows March 14-19, they write: "These workshops will explore direct experience, which as it becomes clearer and stronger, will slowly burn away the screen of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living. As our innate perceptive faculties are reawakened through successive experiences to which we learn to devote ever greater attention, consciousness expands to wider and deeper realms, the regenerative and integrative functions of the organism begin to flower again as they did in childhood, and a new approach to every facet of living becomes a real possibility."
This workshop is primarily for those with no previous experience in this type of work and will serve as an introduction for those who also wish to attend the five-day workshop immediately following.
$255 per person.

March 14-19 5-Day Workshop
UNFOLDING Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

The general intent and direction of this workshop is indicated in the program description, above, for "Opening Doors". This workshop is intended primarily for those with some experience in work related to sensory awareness as practiced by Miss Selver, or for persons who also participated in the March 7-12 program.
$255 per person.

March 21-27 One-Week Workshop
REALITY AND ILLUSION: LEARNING TO DISCRIMINATE George I. and Judith Brown

This workshop will be primarily experiential with an emphasis on principles of gestalt therapy applied both to the individual and, in the case of couples, to the marriage relationship. Ways to move and grow will be presented in a laboratory workshop context beginning with readiness techniques such as encounter, creativity games and body awareness, followed by gestalt awareness training.
$260 per person.

March 21-April 3 Two-Week Workshop for Couples
TOWARD GREATER PHYSICAL INTIMACY
Hector Prestera, Sharon Wheeler and the Esalen Staff

This workshop is specifically designed for couples with problems in the area of physical closeness. Hopefully, as each member experiences greater freedom in his body-mind, the couple will enter into a more self-fulfilling intimacy. Body techniques (massage, rolfing, bioenergetics, movement, etc.), as well as encounter and gestalt, will be utilized. Some time will be given to lectures and discussion of human sexual anatomy and physiology.
Limited to 5 couples.
$530 per person.

March 28-April 3 One-Week Workshop
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING Ed Maupin

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches — sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions — are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination.
Bring sweat pants or leotards.
$280 per person.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: 5-day programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening, with the last session on Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs begin with dinner on Sunday. The last session will usually be the following Saturday morning. 2-week and 3-week programs begin with Sunday dinner. The final session is usually Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Check-out time is noon of the final Saturday for all programs.

COSTS: The rooms of Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Program cost covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

OWN ACCOMMODATIONS: Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property — in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Accompanying the reservation deposits are required as follows: $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $300 for 3-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks can furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute — Reservations Only.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.

RIDES from San Francisco Bay Area: If you NEED a ride or can OFFER a ride to Big Sur, please call this San Francisco phone number — 771-1710 — and leave your name and phone number. This should be done from 3 to 5 days before the date you will be leaving for Big Sur. Unfortunately, this service cannot be offered for any other area.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Slacks, sweaters, jeans, flat shoes for women, bathing suits for outdoor pool. Since there are many activities at night and the grounds are not brightly lighted, please bring a flashlight for your own convenience and safety.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

SAN FRANCISCO PROGRAMS

LISTINGS BEGIN ON PAGE 16

RESIDENTIAL PROGRAMS

Esalen/San Francisco is offering a limited number of residential weekend and five-day workshops in the Bay Area. There are no longer any weekend programs at Big Sur and many persons from out-of-town, as well as local residents, want the benefit of a short-term, live-in program. The scheduled workshops listed below will be held at a large conference center and retreat in Mill Valley (Marin County) or at a conference center in the East Bay; exact location will be included with registration confirmation or you may write or call the San Francisco office for advance information. Program cost, listed separately under each workshop description, includes tuition, food and lodging (shared occupancy only, no private accommodations available).
Weekend workshops begin at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper served) and conclude with Sunday lunch.
5-day workshops begin at 10 a.m. Monday and end with Friday lunch.

The following is our winter schedule of residential workshops:

January 22-24:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 17). On Being a Man, with Don Clark (see page 22).
January 29-31:	The Language of Movement, with Gabrielle Roth (see page 23). The Art of Emotional Nourishment, with Jerry Greenwald (see pp. 18-19).
February 19-21:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 17). Gestalt Therapy & Play Therapy, with Lois Brien & Marion Saltman (see pp. 18-19).
March 4-7:	Life Planning, with Stanley and Rose Standal (see page 26).
March 8-12:	Crises of separation, with Helen Stephens (See page 27).
March 12-14:	Encounter for Singles, with Robert Cromey and Jackie Doyle (see page 28).
March 22-26:	Gestalt Therapy & Massage, with Elaine Kepner & Gabrielle Roth (see pp. 18-19).
March 26-28:	Introduction to Esalen, with the Esalen Staff (see page 17).

ENCOUNTER PROGRAMS

A wide variety of encounter programs are scheduled this winter, led by an experienced group of leaders trained and associated with William C. Schutz. All leaders have completed Residence Programs and are working to develop more highly integrative approaches in the general field of encounter, incorporating the techniques and insights of other disciplines: nonverbal, gestalt and fantasy methods, meditation, massage and creativity techniques. While no two programs will incorporate exactly the same methods, the goal of all such groups is a more dynamic and positive life experience which is grounded in openness and honesty and which allows the exploration of individual freedom in a supportive context.

INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN PROGRAMS

These programs — evening, one-day and weekend — are specially intended for, but not limited to, persons who have not previously participated in Esalen encounter groups. Workshop leaders will be drawn from a group including Betty Fuller, Tom Allen, Seymour Carter, Robert Cromey, Jacqueline Doyle, Al Drucker, Arthur Fox, Janica Fox, John Heider, Pamela Portugal, Ben Shapiro and Helen Stephens.

EVENING INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Working in small group sessions as well as large, participants will have introduction to many methods for personal growth being explored at Esalen. Comfortable clothing recommended; bring pillow for easy sitting. These programs will be held at the First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco. $5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m.

January 7, January 25, February 17, March 8, April 1.

SINGLE-DAY ENCOUNTER

An intensive day of group work, along the lines of evening introductory programs, with the additional advantage of more hours, shared mealtimes and some leisure moments. Leaders will work with small groups.
Programs run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Workshop location to be announced at time of registration.
Bring your own lunch. $15 per person.
January 9, February 6, February 27, March 20.

WEEKEND INTRODUCTIONS TO ESALEN

Incorporating a wide variety of approaches, group leaders will work with participants in large groups and sub-groups. These are residential programs, beginning at 8 p.m. Friday (no supper) and ending after lunch on Sunday. $65 per person, including room and meals.

January 22-24, February 19-21, March 26-28.

OPEN ENCOUNTER PROGRAMS

These open encounters, led by members of the Esalen staff, are for persons with or without prior group experience. Some programs have a special emphasis, as noted.

February 5-7, ART EXPRESSION AND ENCOUNTER, Tom Allen. Art, movement, sensory awareness and fantasy are ways to deepen awareness. As part of the encounter experience, they offer increased interpersonal contact and a more profound realization of self. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m. Friday.

February 12-14, OPEN ENCOUNTER, Arthur Fox. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

February 26-28, ENCOUNTERING DIVORCE, Jackie Doyle. Divorce leaves a person with serious "unfinished business" and a number of unresolved conflicts that can have profound and negative effects on future relationships. This is a group for the divorced, those contemplating divorce and anyone whose life has been touched by divorce. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

March 5-7, OPEN ENCOUNTER, Tom Allen. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

April 2-4, ENCOUNTER AT MID-LIFE, Helen Stephens. Open encounter for men and women over forty to explore what each knows of the good life, to re-evaluate life as it's been lived and to do whatever is congenial to make the next 40 years more relaxed and richer. $45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

GESTALT WORKSHOPS

Gestalt training is an awareness-centered integrative process concentrating on how and now, rather than why and fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own untapped potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

January 15-17 GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Elaine Kepner

A workshop for mental health practitioners who work with people, either individually or in group settings. Participants will learn about gestalt theory through their own experience in the workshop. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $55 per person.

January 29-31 THE ART OF EMOTIONAL NOURISHMENT: SELF-INDUCED LONELINESS
Jerry Greenwald

This residential weekend will focus on enhancing awareness of the nourishing and toxic attitudes and behavior patterns of each participant as these are directed inwardly toward himself and outwardly in his relating to others. Attention will be particularly focused on self-generated patterns of loneliness. Limited to 16 persons. Begins 8 p.m., Friday and ends 6 p.m., Sunday. $70 per person, including room and meals.

February 10 INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY
Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. $3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

February 13-14 OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND
Robert Hall

To be held at Dr. Hall's home in Marin County, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. $60 per person.

February 19-21 GESTALT THERAPY AND PLAY THERAPY
Lois Brien & Marion Saltman

Using play therapy, an effort will be made to get adults in touch with the long forgotten joy and spontaneity of childhood. Methods of gestalt and encounter will be combined with "now" play experiences. Begins 8 p.m., Friday. $65 per person, including room and meals.

March 6, 13, 20, 27 GESTALT SERIES FOR PROFESSIONALS Elaine Kepner

For persons in the helping professions who work with people, either individually or in group settings. To be held in Dr. Kepner's Marin County home. Four Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Bring your lunch). $95 per person.

March 12-13 INTRODUCTORY GESTALT WORKSHOP FOR EDUCATORS
Jerry Kogan & Cynthia Werthman

Jerry Kogan writes: "This workshop is intended for educators from kindergarten to professional schools. Our focus will be alternatives to present modes of communicating with self and the other. Using gestalt methodology, psychodrama, art experience and fantasy projections, we aim to provide some tools for educators to use in developing and expanding their own creativity in the teaching-learning experience." 8 to 11 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Saturday. $45 per person.

March 19-20 METAMORPHOSIS Paula Bloomberg

A gestalt workshop for women only. 8 p.m. to midnight, Friday; 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday (including dinner). $50 per person.

March 22-26 GESTALT AND MASSAGE 5-DAY RESIDENTIAL WORKSHOP
Elaine Kepner & Gabrielle Roth

Many persons, in giving and receiving a massage, experience feelings of sadness, anger, hostility or joy, particular areas of muscular holding and blocked energy, and the emergence of past memories of pain and pleasure. Methods of gestalt will be used to deal with such emotional experiences, as they may occur, during the course of massage instruction. Begins 10 a.m., Monday and ends 5 p.m. on Friday. $180 per person including room and meals. Nonrefundable deposit of $50 required.

March 26-27 GESTALT FOR PROFESSIONALS IN FIELDS
OTHER THAN MENTAL HEALTH Jack Rosenberg & Lois Brien

For professionals such as physicians, dentists, attorneys, teachers, nurses, architects, etc. Focus will be on gaining skills and understanding which are valuable in dealing with employees, students, associates, patients or clients. 8 to 11 p.m., Friday; 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday. $50 per person.

April 5 INTRODUCTION TO GESTALT THERAPY Lois Brien & Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups. $3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday. First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

CONTINUING WEEKLY PROGRAMS

January 26-March 16 Tuesday Evenings
YOGA OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND MEDITATION Eleanor Criswell

This eight week series will explore the theory and practice of Raja (Ashtanga) yoga, the yoga of consciousness, in the light of modern psychophysiology and bio-feedback. The sessions will follow the eight limbs of Patanjali's yoga (Yama, Niyama, postures, breathing, relaxation, concentration training and various meditative modes — modern and ancient) as they relate to the meditative way and altered states of consciousness. Application of yogic practices and meditation in educational settings, personal growth experiences and transpersonal experiences will be discussed. Michael Murphy will be on hand some of the evenings as co-leader and co-discussant.
Participants will be encouraged to keep a personal yoga journal, experience bio-feedback and share their responses to yogic literature. Wear loose and comfortable clothing.
$22 general; $18 student for the series.

January 31-February 28 Sunday Evenings
A WORKSHOP FOR MEN ONLY Don Clark

A continuing group for men to sort their satisfactions and dissatisfactions as father, son, husband, brother, lover or work associate. Mutual concern and honesty are applied in an atmosphere of brotherhood to help one another find increased satisfaction as a man.
$50 per person. 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., five Sunday evenings, January 31-February 28.

February 2-23 Tuesday Evenings
MASSAGE AND ENCOUNTER Robert Cromey

Deep memories, reveries, day dreams and emotions of great pain and pleasure often occur in giving and receiving a massage. This workshop will begin with instruction in massage; methods of encounter will be used to deal with whatever emotional issues may evolve from the massage work.
$35 per person. 7:30 to 11 p.m., four Tuesday evenings, February 2-23.

February 17-March 17 Wednesday Evenings
COUPLES' SERIES Arthur and Janica Fox

A continuing group for couples wishing to grow more intimate through honest verbal and nonverbal communication. In an atmosphere of warmth and camaraderie, partners will explore their relationship through methods of group encounter and other experiential disciplines. Emphasis will be placed on sharing experiences and knowledge (everyone is an expert) and in finding ways for continued growth beyond the workshop experience. Limited to 8 couples.
$110 per couple ($30 deposit required).
7 to 11 p.m., five Wednesday evenings, February 17-March 17.

March 6-27 Saturdays
GESTALT SERIES FOR PROFESSIONALS Elaine Kepner

This is a gestalt continuing series for mental health practitioners who work with people, either individually or in group settings. Participants will learn about gestalt theory and methods through their own experience in the workshop. To be held in Dr. Kepner's Marin County home. Bring your lunch.
$95 per person. 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., four Saturdays, March 6-27.

PROGRAMS

January 7: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday.
See Encounter, page 17.

January 8 An Evening Panel
A GENERAL INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOSYNTHESIS
Michael Murphy, James and Susan Vargiu, Stuart Miller and James Fadiman

A discussion of the basic elements of psychosynthesis and its relation to such concerns as personal growth, education and other approaches to self-development. The origins and theory of psychosynthesis will be discussed and some of its techniques demonstrated. (See page 6 for more information on psychosynthesis and the Esalen Series).
$2 general. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, January 8.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 8-10 Weekend Workshop
BODY-BASED ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES Pamela Portugal

With disresepct for problems and the past, this workshop will use encounter (supplemented with bio-energetics, gestalt, diet, yoga, massage and meditation) to work toward ways of being more honestly in touch with oneself and one's mate.
$90 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 8.

January 9: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, page 17.

January 15 A Lecture
ECOLOGICAL CRISIS: RELIGIOUS CAUSE AND RELIGIOUS SOLUTION
Alan Watts and Lynn White

Technology historian Lynn White and philosopher Alan Watts discuss the underlying causes of the havoc being wrought by industrial technology.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Friday, January 15.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 15-17 Weekend Workshop
OPEN ENCOUNTER FOR SINGLES Robert Cromey and Bennett Shapiro

A workshop based on encounter methods for unattached singles who want to go beyond possible blocks of fear, boredom and indifference and to discover new ways of moving more creatively into relationships. Focus will be on such issues as letting go of relationships that are over, loneliness of the single life, the acquaintance process and pursuit of a new partner, coping with rejection and disappointment and the meaning of commitment in a relationship.
Workshop participants, as far as possible, will be chosen to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state age on application. Limited to 40 participants.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 15.

January 15-17: GESTALT WEEKEND FOR PROFESSIONALS Elaine Kepner.
See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

January 19 An Evening Lecture
POLARITY IN ASTROLOGY AND THE ETHICAL FALLACY Dane Rudhyar

A discussion of the bi-polar character of all factors used in astrology. The fallacy of the "good-bad" characterization of planets, aspects, signs, etc., will be exposed in terms of a non-ethical, holistic and humanistic approach to the birthchart and the progressions — and to life in general.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Tuesday.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

January 21, 28 and February 4 An Adventure Series
INNERSPACE/OUTERSPACE Jeff Berner and Mark Hansen

Innerspace/Outerspace will be both a primer in planetary citizenship and a summit conference of Earthians who seek to create alternative futures.
Jeff Berner will discuss, illustrate and demonstrate new worldviewing from the perspectives of deep Innerspace: turning-on, deprogramming the individual biocomputer and using the mind as a prime natural resource. Mark Victor Hansen will introduce whole-worldviewing from the perspectives of World Game.
World Game uses comprehensive anticipatory design science, as conceived by R. Buckminster Fuller, to set in visually comprehensible order the total focus of Spaceship Earth. It is a technological tool that allows a participant to think world, come to immediate understanding of Earth's total physical, natural and human resources; to view macro-ecological patterns; and to speculate about the future by constructing pictures or scenarios of future possibilities.
$3 general; $2 student, each evening. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursdays, Jan. 21, 28 and Feb. 4.
Tickets may be obtained for individual evenings or on a series basis.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

January 22-24 Weekend Workshop
EXPLORING BLOCKS TO CREATIVITY Arthur Shedlin and David Knapp

A brief version of a highly individualized program developed by Danzig-Nevis International. This workshop is designed to investigate fourteen major blocks to creativity. Through experiential work, individually and in small groups, each participant may identify his major inhibitions and begin to find ways to overcome them.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 22.

January 22-24: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 17.

January 22-24 Residential Weekend Workshop
BEING A MAN Don Clark

Males are told how they should feel and behave as son, brother, husband, father, friend or lover. Most of us have grown up accepting these definitions of "man" and trying to fit into them the best we can. There is little opportunity to establish satisfying self-made definitions that permit you to be your own man. As a result, masculine affection is stereotyped in expression and most men are dissatisfied with their ability to establish fully satisfying relationships with others — particularly other men. This workshop will use nonverbal communication, fantasy, body contact and unforced sharing of emotions to encourage the search for self-definition and expression of tenderness as a man.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 22.

January 25: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday. See Encounter, page 17.

January 26-March 16 (8 Tuesday Evenings): YOGA OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND MEDITATION
Eleanor Criswell. See Continuing Programs, page 20.

January 28: INNERSPACE/OUTERSPACE (Part 2) Jeff Berner and Mark Hansen. See above.

January 29-31 Weekend Workshop
ENCOUNTER FOR UNMARRIED COUPLES Jackie Doyle

This weekend for couples going together, living together or planning marriage is designed to lead from the fragility of romantic illusion to a broader, clearer and stronger loving based on knowing yourself and your partner in new ways. Encounter, incorporating techniques based on gestalt therapy, psychodrama and fantasy, will be used.
$90 per couple. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 29.

January 29-31: THE ART OF EMOTIONAL NOURISHMENT: SELF-INDUCED LONELINESS.
Jerry Greenwald. See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

January 29-31 Residential Weekend Workshop
THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

A workshop in getting to know your inner self by using movement and rituals to explore feelings, dreams and to rediscover the childspirit of your soul.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, January 29.

January 30 Saturday Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: RETURNING TO YOUR CENTER James Fadiman

Too often we are concerned with our faults, our inadequacies, our doubts and fears. Psychosynthesis techniques are ways to recall and develop our deepest untroubled center. This workshop will teach basic techniques which may be used in active self-discovery or in educational or therapeutic settings.
$18 per person. 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. (with breaks for meals), Saturday, January 30.

January 31, February 7, 14, 21, 28:
A WORKSHOP FOR MEN ONLY
Don Clark.
See Continuing Programs, page 20.

February 1-5 5-Evening Workshop
MASSAGE AND MOVEMENT
Gabrielle Roth

Many massage techniques will be demonstrated and taught; however, emphasis will be on finding your own rhythm and creating your own massage.
$75 per person. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday through Friday, February 1-5.

February 2, 9, 16, 23:
MASSAGE AND ENCOUNTER
Robert Cromey.
See Continuing Programs, page 20.

February 4: INNERSPACE/OUTERSPACE (Part 3) Jeff Berner and Mark Hansen. See page 22.

February 5-7 Weekend Workshop and Retreat
EXPERIENCING THE OCEAN'S EDGE Joan McIntyre and Stuart and Sukie Miller

This weekend will be an experiment in trying to break what Loren Eisley has called "The Long Loneliness"; our separateness from all other life forms. Our materials will be wind, water, the sky, sea creatures and sand — reaching for modes to reconnect us with the ocean's edge, the place of our beginnings. We will explore the rocky tidelands, penetrate into the blindingly beautiful world of microscopic marine life, use sensory awareness and fantasy techniques. Perhaps we can contact the consciousness of a grey whale or the vision of an avocet.
At the Bodega Bay Marine Laboratory.
$55 per person, including meals and lodging at Bodega Bay. Begins 8:30 p.m., Friday.

February 5-7: ART EXPRESSION AND ENCOUNTER Tom Allen. See Encounter, page 17.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

February 5-7 Weekend Workshop
CONFRONTING YOUR CAREER AS LIFESTYLE: FRUSTRATION OR FULFILLMENT?
Bob Kriegel and Sidney Lanier

How much are you paying to earn your living? This workshop is for people who feel unfulfilled, "stuck", or "locked in" to their jobs, professions or lifestyles. Its design is twofold: (1) to put you in touch with your boundaries, both real and illusory, which limit choices within the framework of your job or profession, and (2) to open up possibilities, through self-awareness, for new directions in career choice and/or lifestyle. Basic encounter techniques such as direct confrontation, gestalt, fantasy and role-playing, as well as specific task-oriented exercises, will be used.
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 5.

February 6: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See page 17.

February 10 A Lecture and Demonstration
GESTALT THERAPY: AN INTRODUCTION Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods, with particular emphasis on their use in large groups. Those wishing to participate will be involved in the demonstration.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 10.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

February 11 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 1):
ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY
James Fadiman

This is the first of seven lectures to be presented by Drs. Robert Ornstein, James Fadiman, Joe Kamiya and Charles Tart around the general theme of "extending human consciousness". The series will take place on seven consecutive Thursdays, beginning with this program by Dr. Fadiman; individual and series tickets are available. Individual lecture topics are described chronologically in this section under the dates: February 18, 25, March 4, 11, 18 and 25.
Jim Fadiman writes: "To be able to extend one's consciousness, to focus to see, to know — these are the goals. Sixteen ways to effectively alter awareness will be discussed, including meditation, hypnosis, paranormal training, drugs, autogenic feedback, Sufi stories, mandalas, mantrams and others."
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, February 11.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.
Series tickets for seven lectures: $15 general, $10 student. Write or call Esalen/San Francisco office for further information.

February 12-14: OPEN ENCOUNTER Arthur Fox. See Encounter, page 17.

February 12-14 Weekend Workshop
MANDALA: A RITUAL FOR SELF-GROWTH Jose and Miriam Arguelles

The Mandala is a technique for achieving greater self-awareness, and a vehicle for meditation. Utilizing techniques that identify the individual's energies with universal constants and images, the participants are led through a ritual performance of words, gestures, sounds and painting. This process of creative transformation will develop organically, from individual mandalas to small group mandalas. The experience of creating a mandala is one that is both personally self-revelatory and an occasion for a renewed sense of beauty and wonderment — this all the more so since participants need have no prior artistic training or background.
$30 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 12.

February 13-14: OPEN GESTALT WEEKEND Robert Hall, M.D. See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

February 17: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Wednesday. See Encounter, page 17.

February 17, 24, March 3, 10, 17: COUPLES' SERIES Arthur and Janica Fox.
See Continuing Programs, page 20.

February 18 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 2):
ON THE PSYCHOLOGY OF MEDITATION Robert Ornstein

Men have explored the ways to knowledge about themselves and the nature of the world. As Western and Eastern science continue to build bridges, we find that these two major ways of knowing — about psychology, physiology, consciousness, physics — have come to the same place. An experiential session will be included.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, February 18.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

February 19-21 Weekend Workshop
INNOVATIONS IN PSYCHOSYNTHESIS: FROM THE EGO TO THE SELF
Robert and Donna Gerard

The Gerards describe their workshop as follows: "We are developing new practical methods adapted to our modern age to help raise consciousness from the too-often insecure, defensive, alienated personal ego to the transpersonal/transcendental Self, the source of inner serenity, creative expression, compassionate love-wisdom and unity with all life. We will explore specific techniques for contacting the real Self and increasing the flow of its radiance through our personality to other people and the world around us."
$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 19.

February 19-21:
INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, page 17.

February 19-21: GESTALT THERAPY AND PLAY THERAPY
Lois Brien & Marion Saltman.
See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

February 19-21 Couples' Workshop
Using Videotape Feedback
MORE LIFE IN MARRIAGE
Gerald and Linda Smith

If a couple can be both close to each other and also free to grow as separate individuals, there is a good chance for continuing life within marriage. To be close, a couple should be able to talk clearly and openly; to be free, they should be able to experience "creative conflict". Focus will be on prevention and growth — the here and now — rather than on problems of the past. Family therapy communications approaches, encounter, group techniques, gestalt applications, nonverbal and sensory experiences will be used.
$110 per couple.
Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 19.

February 24 A Lecture-Demonstration
WILHELM REICH AND THE BIOENERGETICS OF FEELING Charles R. Kelley

A discussion of Reich the man and Reich the scientist and new developments in the bioenergetics of feeling that have grown out of Reich's work. Initially given at the Institute for Bioenergetic Analysis, New York City.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, February 24.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

 For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

February 25 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 3): THE PARANORMAL Charles T. Tart

Recently, more and more evidence has been accumulated within the scientific community of the nature and the extent of "extra-sensory" capacities. Dr. Tart has worked extensively in the field and will present the results of his own and his colleagues' explorations.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, February 25.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

February 26-28 Weekend Workshop
THE INTERSCIENCE INTENSIVE: A NEO-REICHIAN BIOENERGETIC WORKSHOP
Charles and Erica Kelley

A direct approach to deep emotional release, rooted in the work of Wilhelm Reich and his students. Focuses on nonverbal means of progressively freeing the participant from muscular armor, the chronic tensions which block and hold in deep feeling. Every person will participate in emotion-releasing drills and assist in the work of others.
$55 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 26.

February 26-28: ENCOUNTERING DIVORCE Jackie Doyle. See Encounter, page 17.

February 26-28 Weekend Workshop
OPENING DOORS Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

In describing their work in sensory awareness, Mr. Brooks writes: "Even though the breaking down of conventional barriers in the last few years has led to much more freedom in communication and in human relations, it has not led to more depth and fullness. On the contrary, the very fact of breaking away from former restrictions, without going deeply and clearly towards something new, has only increased the impatience for quick results which makes any depth of experience impossible. But human nature and the world remain as always, if we will only give up the idea of learning techniques to master and use them. We can discover in gradual, sensitive work that the doors of our senses will open spontaneously and that we can release and cultivate the living process in ourselves which, by its very nature, responds directly to the offering and demands of life."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, February 26.

February 27: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, page 17.

March 4 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 4): THE SUFIS Robert Ornstein

The Sufis are a group who have been concerned with knowledge. Their teachings are held to lie behind those which are more familiar — Zen, yoga, Christianity, Rosicrucianism, alchemy, the Tarot, etc. Their knowledge is transmitted in many forms, from the conventional to the esoteric. This will be an introductory session, reading stories and fables and reflecting upon them. Recommended reading: The Sufis, by Idries Shah.
$3 general; $2 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday, March 4.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 4-7 Extended Residential Weekend Workshop
LIFE PLANNING Stanley and Rose Standal

An opportunity for a limited number of persons to determine and implement meaningful relationship, career and other life goals for themselves. Establishing and attaining creative, self-fulfilling life goals requires both self-awareness and a definite planning strategy. This structured group experience utilizes a variety of training methods and, where desirable, confrontation, encounter and breakthrough techniques to assist participants in highlighting strengths, weaknesses, peak-experiences and life values pertinent to: a selective inventory of previous life experiences. . .an inventory of present life values. . .establishing goals to be attained five or six years from now. . .determining projects and action steps to attain those goals.
$85 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Thursday, March 4.

March 5-7: OPEN ENCOUNTER Tom Allen. See Encounter, page 17.

March 5-7 Weekend Workshop
COMMUNICATION GAMES Art Hough

This is a workshop in uncovering and working with communication problems through games. These fast moving personal communication games last from one minute to three hours each. Some are interpersonal and some use interesting materials and equipment — to heighten the communication experience, improve habits of listening, feedback, empathy, spontaneity and awareness and to loosen the deeper communication blocks that result from hidden dogmatisim, rigidity and risk-refusal.

This is not encounter; it is for people who are concerned with improving their communication. These communication experiences, ranging from nonthreatening interaction to moments of peaceful isolation, can be taught to your friends, children and students.

$50 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 5.

March 6, 13, 20, 27:
GESTALT SERIES FOR PROFESSIONALS
4 Saturdays
Elaine Kepner
See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

March 8-12 5-Day Residential Workshop
CRISES OF SEPARATION Helen Stephens

For men and women who have been "left", either through divorce or by death of a beloved person. "These specific crises", writes Helen Stephens, "call upon reserves and resources not always fully available to us without special training. Together we will enable ourselves to really say goodbye to the person we have lost and, hopefully, to really welcome this new day in our lives."

Begins at 10 a.m., Monday and ends 5 p.m., Friday.

$180 per person, including room and meals. Nonrefundable deposit of $50 required.

March 8: EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Monday. See Encounter, page 17.

March 10 A Lecture-Discussion
BREAKING THE SPECIES BARRIER David Brower

The technological mentality has robbed evolution of its true potency and meaning. Only through the restoration of the elemental significance of this idea can we hop to find a vision adequate to guide us through what has been created by human arrogance. We need to begin to regard ourselves as animals produced by a magical and beautiful process, to relearn the joy of our own physical capacities and to salvage ourselves from the litter and confusion we have created around us. And most of all we have asked too long what other life forms are good for and what they can do for us. We need now to begin to ask what we can do for them.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 10.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 11 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 5);
THE SELECTIVE USE OF PSYCHEDELIC DRUGS James Fadiman

While a large number of Americans use some form of consciousness altering drug, little attention is given to the directed use of these substances to achieve specific altered states of consciousness. Data and techniques will be discussed dealing with religious uses, technical problem-solving, brief psychotherapy and divination.

$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, March 11.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

For Biographies, see pp. 31-

March 12-13: INTRODUCTORY GESTALT WEEKEND FOR EDUCATORS
Jerry Kogan and Cynthia Werthman. See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

March 12-14 Weekend Workshop
PSYCHOSYNTHESIS Jim and Susan Vargiu

The Vargius write: "In this workshop we will emphasize the aspects of psychosynthesis which lead to greater unity, which can be used for integrating the encounter experience into something more. Psychosynthesis is not primarily expansion or experience — it is a way of pulling it all together. It is an approach which fosters the balanced development of body, feelings and mind and their harmonious integration around a unifying center of being and awareness, the Transpersonal Self. We will reach toward this higher Self by consulting the best-self within each of us, and will attempt to use its energy and guidance for a more joyful and effective actualization of the unfolding meaning, value and direction in the life of each. We will use techniques of movement, visual imagery, writing, symbolic art work, mental concentration and meditation. Our emphasis will not be on producing immediate breakthroughs, although this often occurs, but rather on initiating a gradual process of growth that, with continuing application, can gain increasing momentum and ultimately become a life-style."
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 12.

March 12-14 Residential Weekend Workshop
OPEN ENCOUNTER FOR SINGLES Robert Cromey and Jacqueline Doyle

A workshop based on encounter methods for unattached singles who want to go beyond possible blocks of fear, boredom and indifference and to discover new ways of moving more creatively into relationships. Focus will be on such issues as letting go of relationships that are over, loneliness of the single life, the acquaintance process and pursuit of a new partner, coping with rejection and disappointment and the meaning of commitment in a relationship.
Workshop participants, as far as possible, will be chosen to assure a balance of sex and age. Please state age on application. Limited to 40 participants.
$65 per person, including room and meals. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 12.

March 18 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 6): ON BEING STONED Charles T. Tart

Dr. Tart has completed the first systematic survey of user's experience with marijuana. He will share these results with the lecture audience.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, March 18.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 19-20: METAMORPHOSIS (FOR WOMEN ONLY) Paula Bloomberg.
See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

March 19-21 Residential Weekend Workshop
THE LANGUAGE OF MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

A workshop in getting to know your inner self by using movement and rituals to explore feelings, dreams and to rediscover the childspirit of your soul.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 19.

March 19-21 Weekend Workshop
TORI — THE INTIMATE COMMUNITY Jack Gibb

The TORI experience involves participants in ways of building trust and intimacy in natural communities, families, classrooms, management groups, school systems or congregations. In this workshop, a model community of approximately 100 participants will be devised in such a way as to produce creative experience for each participant, demonstrating that the TORI experiences (trust, openness, realization and interdependence) are central to and can be realized in large communities. In order to make Dr. Gibb's work available to the large number of participants necessary to the creation of a model community, tuition for this workshop is greatly reduced. Multiple reservations from organizations, institutions and associations are encouraged.
Workshop schedule: 9 to 11 p.m., Friday; 9 a.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday.
Individual Registration: $29 per person; Multiple Registration: $24 per person.

March 20: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN: ONE DAY The Esalen Staff.
See Encounter, page 17.

March 22-26: GESTALT AND MASSAGE 5-DAY RESIDENTIAL WORKSHOP
Elaine Kepner and Gabrielle Roth. See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

March 25 An Evening Discussion
EXTENDING HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS (Part 7):
PHYSIOLOGICAL FEEDBACK TRAINING AND RESEARCH
Robert Ornstein and Joe Kamiya

"A new conception of our capabilities is being formed within science," writes Dr. Ornstein. "The traditional disciplines of meditation which 'have not forgotten' this knowledge give us a glimpse of the limits of our self-regulation. Within science, distinctions which we have made since Plato between the mind and body are being dissolved as we find that the "automation", the body, is capable of learning to alter its own functions. We would like to discuss some of our own work and that of our colleagues and the implications of physiological feedback training for science, for our conception of human nature and for our education."
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Thursday, March 25.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

March 26-27 GESTALT WEEKEND
(for Professionals in fields other than Mental Health)
Jack Rosenberg and Lois Brien.
See Gestalt, pp. 18-19.

March 26-28: INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
The Esalen Staff. See Encounter, page 17.

March 26-28 Weekend Workshop
TOWARDS MORE DEPTH AND FULLNESS
Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

Originated by Elsa Gindler in Germany, sensory awareness has been developed by Miss Selver through 30 years of teaching and exploration. Miss Selver's pioneering work in the United States has been the basis for most of the work with sensory awareness and related approaches which are now gaining wide acceptance. Charles Brooks has worked in conjunction with Miss Selver since 1963 and, together and individually, they have conducted workshops throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. For further description of their work, please read the program description entitled "Opening Doors", February 26-28, page 26.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, March 26.

April 1:
EVENING INTRODUCTION TO ESALEN
$5 general; $3 student. 7 to 11 p.m., Thursday.
See Encounter, page 17.

April 2-4 Weekend Workshop
ENCOUNTER FOR COUPLES Arthur and Janica Fox

A workshop for couples wishing to grow more intimate through honest verbal and nonverbal communication. In an atmosphere of warmth camaraderie, partners will explore their relationship through methods of group encounter and other experiential disciplines. Emphasis will be placed on sharing experiences and knowledge and in finding ways for continued growth beyond the workshop experience.
$90 per couple Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 2.

 For Biographies, see pp. 31-34.

April 2-4: ENCOUNTER AT MID-LIFE Helen Stephens. See Encounter, page 17.

April 2-4 Weekend Workshop
HYPNOSIS AND ENCOUNTER Lee Pulos

In this workshop, two basic approaches will be used to overcome blocks to growing. Hypnosis and self-hypnosis will be taught so that participants can focus in on themselves through hypnotically induced dreams, inner imagery, automatic writing and drawings under hypnosis. These self discoveries will then be explored further within the group interaction using encounter and psychodrama approaches. The overall theme of the workshop is to integrate the intra- and inter-personal aspects of one's self.
$45 per person. Begins 8 p.m., Friday, April 2.

April 5 A Lecture and Demonstration
GESTALT THERAPY: AN INTRODUCTION Lois Brien and Elaine Kepner

An evening lecture-demonstration of gestalt methods with particular emphasis on their use with large groups.
$3 general; $2 student. 8 to 10:30 p.m., Monday, April 5.
First Unitarian Church, Franklin and Geary Streets, San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO INFORMATION

San Francisco area programs include regular seminars and workshops, lectures and symposia, continuing groups and occasional special events. Information, literature and tickets for lectures may be obtained Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 4:30, at 1776 Union Street, San Francisco 94123. Tickets obtained by mail will indicate the exact location and time of events; when not sold out in advance, tickets may be purchased at the door. No programs are held at our offices, but several facilities in the Bay Area are used, including First Unitarian Church (San Francisco) and the Berkeley Center for Human Interaction (Berkeley). Participants will be informed of workshop location at time of registration and confirmation.

WORKSHOP REGISTRATION: Advance registration is required ten days prior to start of program. A nonrefundable deposit of $20 per person, unless otherwise stated, must accompany a reservation form or letter sent to: Reservations, Esalen Institute, 1776 Union, San Francisco 94123. Balance of tuition is payable at the first session of the program. Do not send San Francisco reservations to Big Sur.

SCHEDULES: Specific meeting times for weekend workshops are announced at the first meeting. Usually, however, workshops meet from 8 to 11 p.m. on Fridays, from 10 a.m. through the afternoon and/or evening on Saturdays, and from 10 a.m. to early afternoon on Sundays. Schedules are not rigid and specific meeting times are established at the group's first session.

ACCOMMODATIONS: Residential seminars include meals and lodging. For other programs, each participant must reserve his own accommodations at local hotels or motels. Unless stated otherwise, meals are not provided at workshops.

RECOMMENDED DRESS: Workshops are informal. Slacks and flat shoes are recommended for women; sport clothes for men.

WAITING LISTS: Names are placed on waiting lists in cases of over-subscription or when demanded by workshop requirements. Registrants placed on such a list will be informed immediately and deposit checks held. Checks will be returned if reservation cannot be confirmed or upon request by persons not wishing to be on a waiting list. Notification of reservation status will be sent no later than seven days before workshop begins.

GEORGE I. BROWN, Professor of Education, teaches courses in creativity, awareness and sensitivity training at the University of California at Santa Barbara. He is a nationally known researcher in the affective domain and creativity.

JUDITH R. BROWN, co-trainer with her husband, trained with Frederick S. Perls with whom she worked as a co-therapist.

SEYMOUR CARTER, a former resident of Synanon, is a leader of Esalen workshops and a massage specialist. In his work he draws on a variety of approaches to awareness. He has been trained in structural integration by Ida Rolf.

DON CLARK has worked with discussion groups, psychotherapy groups and encounter groups for the past 12 years. Dr. Clark is on leave from the City University of New York and in private practice as a clinical psychologist in the Bay Area. His most recent book is Those Children (Wadsworth, 1970).

ELEANOR CRISWELL is an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Sonoma State College, California, where she teaches physiological psychology, educational psychology and yoga psychology and is involved in EEG research.

ROBERT CROMEY, former Esalen resident fellow, was Vicar at St. Aidan's Episcopal Church. His interest is in encounter groups, the experiential and sensory dimensions of ritual, ceremony and Western religious practice.

JACQUELINE DOYLE, a former Esalen resident fellow, holds a master's degree in psychology. She is a member of the Esalen encounter staff trained by William Schutz.

AL DRUCKER was a resident fellow in the first Esalen Residence Program. He now lives in Big Sur where he leads workshops and practices structural integration.

JAMES FADIMAN is an educational and management consultant. He is a lecturer in Design Engineering and a psychological counselor at Stanford University. Dr. Fadiman is also associate editor of the Journal of Transpersonal Psychology and the Journal of Humanistic Psychology.

ARTHUR FOX, a former Esalen resident fellow trained by William Schutz, is presently on the Esalen encounter staff. His background is in psychology, education and religion.

JANICA FOX, together with her husband, was an Esalen resident fellow and is a member of the Esalen encounter staff. Previously she conducted research on groups at Harvard.

BETTY FULLER, 1967-1968 resident fellow, is Esalen's director of Consulting Services. She is one of a group of encounter leaders trained by William C. Schutz. Her background includes teaching and several years in radio, TV and theater as producer-writer-actress-director.

DONNA GERARD, drama teacher and therapist, for the past twelve years has focused her private practice on the development and release of creative energies. Both she and her husband are interested in providing systematic methods for evoking transcendental awareness and are presently evolving advanced psychospiritual techniques based on a direct approach to the alignment and transformation of inner psychological energy fields.

ROBERT GERARD is a psychotherapist in private practice in Los Angeles. He has been a principal innovator in the field of psychosynthesis for over fifteen years. He collaborated with Dr. Assagioli in the writing of the book, Psychosynthesis: a Manual of Principles and Techniques, and has developed new therapeutic techniques, including the use of inner imagery, symbolic visualization and creative meditation. As president of the International Foundation for Psychosynthesis, Dr. Gerard is especially interested in the integration of American, European and Eastern approaches to psychological growth.

JACK GIBB is an organizational consultant in private practice in La Jolla and a pioneer in sensitivity training and in using leaderless groups in education and industry. Dr. Gibb was formerly with Western Behavioral Sciences Institute and president of the American Association for Humanistic Psychology.

JERRY GREENWALD is a gestalt therapist in private practice in Beverly Hills. He developed the concepts of nourishing ("N") people and toxic ("T") people. He is investigating further applications of these ideas and integrating them into the framework of gestalt philosophy and therapy.

BERNARD GUNTHER is author of Sense Relaxation, and of LOVE VIEW, a book of poems, and is a teacher of sensory awakening.

ROBERT K. HALL, M.D., is a psychiatrist in private practice in Mill Valley, a practitioner of body structural integration ("Rolfing"), a long-time student of Fritz Perls and a serious student of meditation.

MARK VICTOR HANSEN works for R. Buckminster Fuller in Carbondale, Illinois, and is a member of The Innerspace Project.

JOHN HEIDER, former Esalen resident fellow, views himself as a natural philosopher working toward integration of such practices as dance, meditation, sensory awakening and the adventure of encounter. He has done research on the effects of meditation on perception.

ARTHUR HOUGH is Associate Professor of Communication Theory at San Francisco State College, and a workshop leader for various groups and government agencies.

JACK HURLEY is a resident staff member at Esalen where he has developed his own approach to the Tarot and magic involving a humanistic orientation to Western mysticism and occult traditions.

RAE HURLEY is a craftswoman, former dancer and mother of two children.

JOE KAMIYA teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuro-psychiatric Institute. His research, in conjunction with Bob Ornstein, is concerned with physiological feedback training and the psychophysiology of meditation.

CHARLES R. KELLEY, an applied experimental psychologist and human factors specialist, was a student of Wilhelm Reich. He contributed to Reich's journals during his life and was for five years editor of Creative Process, a journal exploring Reich's theories. Dr. Kelley is director of Interscience Research Institute.

ERICA KELLEY is a qualified masseuse and has assisted her husband in developing the technique of the Interscience Intensive.

ELAINE KEPNER is a clinical psychologist, for the last ten years a teaching fellow at the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland. She is now associated with the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

MARY ELLEN KLEE, a student of Mary Whitehouse, is a movement teacher in residence in Big Sur.

DAVID KNAPP is a clinical psychologist at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

JERRY KOGAN is a gestalt therapist, poet and teacher. He has particular interest in building community, human environment and various forms of creative expression. He is a member of the San Francisco Gestalt Institute.

BOB KRIEGEL is the founder and director of Anthos, a growth center in New York City, where he leads groups. Formerly a business executive and an actor, he has trained in encounter and gestalt at Esalen.

SIDNEY LANIER, a former Episcopal priest and founder of the American Place Theatre in New York, has trained at Esalen in encounter and gestalt.

JOHN LILLY has primary research interest in the relation of the mind to the brain. Trained in psychoanalysis, computer theory, biophysics, neurophysiology and interspecies communication, he is in residence at Esalen, Big Sur.

THEODORA LYON, formerly a group leader at the Gestalt Institute of Canada, now resides in Big Sur. She was trained by Frederick Perls.

EDWARD MAUPIN draws upon a variety of approaches to body awareness, including those of Reich, Lowen and Ida Rolf. He also relates to the various psycho-physical disciplines of Eastern and Western mysticism.

SARA MILLER holds her master's degree in Special Education and has been a teacher and administrator of special programs designed to enrich the learning potential of children and young adults. She is experienced in conditioning techniques and is interested in the relationship between these techniques and the encounter.

STUART MILLER, who holds his doctorate in Comparative Literature, is experienced as a teacher and administrator in experimental colleges. He is Esalen's director of development and a former resident fellow.

MICHAEL MURPHY is president and co-founder of Esalen Institute.

ROBERT ORNSTEIN teaches at University of California Medical Center and does research at Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Institute. He is author of the book On the Experience of Time.

PAMELA PORTUGAL, former resident fellow, is on the Esalen encounter staff.

HECTOR PRESTERA is an internist and cardiologist who is currently involved in the theory and practice of structural integration. He is resident physician at Esalen.

RICHARD PRICE, a student of Fritz Perls, is a founder and director of Esalen Institute.

JACK ROSENBERG is a practicing dentist and gestalt therapist who has been working in the field of psychology related to dentistry for the past ten years.

DANE RUDHYAR is a philosopher and astrologer. His basic concern is with the development of a philosophy of individual existence based on a holistic approach to all aspects of personal and social life.

MARION SALTMAN is a play therapist who has worked with young children, adolescents and adults. She teaches at Sonoma State College.

WILLIAM C. SCHUTZ, author of FIRO and Joy, has just completed a new manuscript describing various aspects of his work, entitled Here Comes Everybody. Presently in residence at Esalen/Big Sur, he is exploring among other things the psychosomatic dimension in personal growth.

CHARLOTTE SELVER and CHARLES V. W. BROOKS are Associates in Residence at Esalen/Big Sur on leave from the faculty of the New School for Social Research, New York. Their field is sensory awareness, perception and nonverbal communication. They hold regular classes in New York and conduct seminars and study groups throughout the United States and Mexico.

BENNETT SHAPIRO, former architect and Esalen resident fellow, is now a full-time encounter group leader. He has studied with a wide variety of therapists and trained for a year at the San Francisco Gestalt Therapy Institute.

ARTHUR SHEDLIN is on the faculty of Behavioral Science Area, Graduate School of Business Administration, University of California at Los Angeles.

JULIAN SILVERMAN is Esalen's research director. His major research concerns are with the study of psychophysical functioning in relation to subjective experience and behavior change. With Richard Price he has initiated a special research ward in schizophrenia at Agnew State Hospital, San Jose.

GERALD SMITH is a family therapist in San Mateo, California. He has taught his approaches at numerous agencies and recently completed a book entitled Encounter for Two.

JAMES S. SIMKIN was co-leader with Fritz Perls at professional gestalt therapy workshops at Esalen for six years. He has been engaged in the private practice of psychotherapy for fifteen years and has produced a gestalt therapy training film, "In the Now".

ROSE STANDAL is a teacher who left the system to work independently for ten years among the usually kindly headhunting Bila'an tribes in the remote mountains of the southern Philippines.

STANLEY STANDAL is a practicing psychotherapist in Salt Lake City and is a co-director of the Rocky Mountain Institute. He is a principal developer of the family breakthrough method of working with alienated families and couples in large groups.

HELEN STEPHENS is a former Esalen resident fellow, the mother of a prospering family and a leader of Esalen encounter groups.

CHARLES T. TART is Assistant Professor of Psychology at University of California, Davis. He has conducted extensive research into sleeping and dreaming, hypnosis, ESP and drugs. Dr. Tart is editor of Altered States of Consciousness: A Book of Readings.

R. GERALD THATCHER, an Esalen staff member for six years, is an author, musician and amateur astrologer.

JIM VARGIU, and his wife SUSAN, are the directors of the Psychosynthesis Institute, Palo Alto, California. They were trained in Italy by Roberto Assagioli, the founder of psychosynthesis, and have lectured and given workshops in this country and in Europe. They are presently working with self-actualizing and gifted adolescents and are training people in the helping professions in the use of psychosynthesis.

ALAN WATTS is author of The Way of Zen; Nature, Man and Woman; Psychotherapy East and West; Beyond Theology; and many other writings. He has been, with D.T. Suzuki, the leading popularizer of Zen Buddhism in the United States.

CYNTHIA WERTHMAN is a psychiatric social worker who uses the gestalt method in private practice in Berkeley and at the Family Therapy Institute, San Rafael. She is a director of the Gestalt Institute of San Francisco.

SHARON WHEELER is a masseuse in residence at Esalen, Big Sur.

LYNN WHITE is Professor of History at the University of California, Los Angeles, and director of its Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies.

SPECIAL INFORMATION

TAPE RECORDINGS OF ESALEN PROGRAMS: Recorded tapes of many past Esalen programs are available. This service, originally developed to provide archive copies for Esalen, rapidly became of use to organizations requesting recordings of lectures and seminars, training tapes of techniques and methods, demonstration workshop sequences, and experiential programs. Requests now come from educational institutions, public and private libraries, religious bodies and professional groups with funds for a recording library concerned with the human potential. Commercial use is prohibited; all rights are reserved. Recording, editing and distribution of tapes is performed by Big Sur Recordings, from whom a complete catalog may be obtained. The cost of recordings is $10.00 per tape-hour, stereo or mono, with choice of 5" reel or cassette. Write BIG SUR RECORDINGS, P.O. Box 303, Mill Valley, California 94941.

PUBLICATION AND BROADCAST RIGHTS to all lectures delivered at Esalen Institute meetings and workshops belong to Esalen and no use of such material is to be made without the express written permission of one of the Directors in each occurrence of such use.

VIDEOTAPES AND 16mm FILMS of Dr. Frederick S. Perls' demonstrations of gestalt therapy and Alexander Lowen's demonstrations of bio-energetic analysis are available for professional use from MEDIASYNC, P.O. Box 486, Del Mar, California 92014. Films of Dr. Perls' work are also available from PSYCHOLOGICAL FILMS, 205 West Twentieth Street, Santa Ana, California 92706 along with films of the work of Carl Rogers, Albert Ellis, Rollo May, Abraham Maslow and Virginia Satir.

MICROFILM records of Esalen history, brochures and publications are available through MICROBIZ, 590 Howard Street, San Francisco, California 94105.

ESALEN PROGRAMS is published quarterly by Esalen Institute, a nonprofit California corporation. Subscription cost for one year is $2.00. A single inspection copy of the current issue is available free upon request from the San Francisco offices of Esalen Institute. Do not direct subscription inquiries to Big Sur.

FM RADIO STATIONS in the San Francisco Bay Area (KPFA, K101, KSAN and KQED) broadcast portions of Esalen seminars and lectures, as do KPFK Los Angeles, KPFT Houston, WBAI New York and KUNM-FM Albuquerque on an occasional basis. Consult local program guides. A series of 12 one-hour programs titled "The Scope of Human Potential" was released for broadcast in 1969-70 through National Educational Radio to its affiliates. A second series will explore religion, Eastern mysticism and metaphysics. Future series will focus on encounter and education as well as the creative value of madness.

CONTRIBUTIONS to Esalen Institute are tax deductible. Various medical, educational and other institutions are providing expenses for participants for some seminars and workshops. Please also see membership form (opposite page 36).

ESALEN BOOKS AND PUBLICATIONS: Written materials of particular significance associated with the programs of Esalen Institute are available at the Big Sur center. Selections include work produced at Esalen as well as writings of a number of past seminar leaders. Direct inquiries to Esalen Books, Esalen Institute, San Francisco.

ACCREDITATION AND THE USE OF ESALEN'S NAME: Some individuals and groups have recently involved Esalen's name to imply that we have given them some sort of accreditation for leading programs involving encounter groups, gestalt therapy, etc. We have told everyone who has done this to stop using our name in such a manner. Esalen does not offer any kind of formal accreditation. Individuals and groups, of course, may use the insights and techniques they bring from our programs; our Associates in Residence are working under Esalen auspices. But we confer no certificates, diplomas or other symbols of formal status such as those conferred by professional associations and schools. For the information of the public, we do maintain a consulting service, under the direction of Betty Fuller, that will furnish information about leaders.

THE JOURNAL OF TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY

A journal for theoretical and applied research in peak experience, self-transcendence, ultimate values, ecstasy, wonder, B-values, transcendental phenomena and related concepts, experiences and activities. The third issue features articles by Elmer Green, Alyce Green and E. Dale Walters ("Voluntary Control of Internal States"); Charles T. Tart ("Transpersonal Potentialities of Deep Hypnosis"); Beverly Timmons and Joe Kamiya ("The Psychology and Physiology of Meditation and Related Phenomena: a Bibliography"); Margaret A. Blair ("Meditation in the San Francisco Bay Area: An Introductory Survey"); Eleanor Criswell ("Experimental Yoga Psychology Course for College Students: A Progress Report").

BOOKS FROM ESALEN:

THE ESALEN BOOK PUBLISHING PROGRAM

With Viking Press

General Editor: Stuart Miller

Now Available:

Human Teaching for Human Learning, An Introduction to Confluent Education, by George I. Brown.

This is the long awaited version of the report on the Esalen/Ford Foundation project in education. So often people write Esalen asking if personal growth approaches are being used in schools, how do they work? This book is the best answer so far to such questions. The Esalen/Ford project showed that methods for personal growth used at Esalen Institute can be successfully incorporated into already existing curriculums of public schools. (Previously announced under the title, Now: Toward Humanness. Introducing Confluent Education).

Previously published:

Anger and the Rocking Chair: Gestalt Awareness with Children, by Janet Lederman with photographs by Lillian R. Cutler.

This is a dramatic, visual account of gestalt methods with so-called "difficult" or "disturbed" children in elementary school. Rather than suppressing pupils' rebellion and anger, Miss Lederman helps her pupils to transform these powerful impulses into constructive attitudes and behavior. (Published by McGraw Hill).

These two are the first of a series of books covering a broad range of work in the behavioral sciences, religion, philosophy and education focusing on human potentialities. Scheduled for publication between March and July are:

Getting There Without Drugs by Buryl Payne. A sophisticated manual and guide to workable techniques for achieving a higher level of consciousness.

Secrets of the Trade: Essays in Madness, Creativity, and Ideology by Joe Kennedy Adams.

On the Psychology of Meditation by Robert Ornstein and Claudio Naranjo. A theoretical, practical and scientific account of meditation.

The True Adventures of the First New York Jewish Literary Intellectual in the Human Potential Movement by Stuart Miller. The first autobiographical novel about Esalen.

Memberships

The continuing work of Esalen Institute is funded virtually in toto through tuitions paid by those attending workshops and seminars — but research, future development and expansion depend greatly upon funds assured through Memberships and special grants.

As a Member, you enjoy a tuition reduction of $10 at every seminar and workshop you attend, including encounter groups, plus opportunity to participate in occasional gatherings with Esalen officers, leaders and project coordinators. You are also kept informed of new developments and programs via a special newsletter.

You may wish to consider tax-deductible Membership either for yourself or as a fitting gift in the name of another.

Those friends of Esalen interested in sustaining the Institute in a more substantial way may wish to discuss details of this matter with the Director of Development, Dr. Stuart Miller. The legal counsel of the Institute is also available to discuss various details of gifts and bequests, including tax arrangements. Individual attention can be given in these ways to the particular wishes of donors and the current needs of the Institute.

ESALEN INSTITUTE is a center to explore those trends in the behavioral sciences, religion and philosophy which emphasize the potentialities and values of human existence. Its activities consist of seminars and workshops such as the ones described in this brochure, research and consulting programs, and a residential program exploring new directions in education and the behavioral sciences.

SPECIAL SERVICES AND PROGRAMS

Esalen Consulting Service is developing resources to assist those individuals, groups and organizations wishing to apply the various approaches to human development presented in our seminars and workshops. Programs and leaders have thus far been provided to various community, governmental, religious, industrial and education groups.

Esalen Residence Program: The seventh series will be offered at Big Sur in Fall 1971. For further information see page 11.

Extended Growth Program: A six-month personal growth program in the San Francisco Area will begin in April 1971. For program outline and advance information please contact the Esalen/San Francisco office.

IDA ROLF: STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

For information on training and research in structural integration, contact The Guild for Structural Integration, 1874 Fell Street, San Francisco, California 94117.
The following practitioners of structural integration are available, by appointment only, in Big Sur: Seymour Carter, Al Drucker, Stanley Johnson, Edward Maupin, Peter Melchior, Hector Prestera, William Schutz, Gael Smith and Chet Wilson. Direct inquiries to ROLFING: Esalen Institute, Big Sur, CA 93920.

BULLETIN OF STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

A journal dedicated to understanding man as a whole — now in its second year of publication. The bulletin provides a vehicle for theoretical and applied research in mind-body phenomena of interest to persons in the health sciences, physical sciences, arts and education. Past issues have included articles concerning Structural Integration (the Rolf technique of postural release); prepared childbirth, movement behavior and movement therapy; Swedenborg's anatomy. Future issues will include: preview chapters from Ida Rolf's forthcoming book; movement approaches to integration (Tai Chi, yoga, dance, physical education); rehabilitative techniques; book reviews, etc. For a one year subscription, send $10.00 with the NAME, ADDRESS, and ZIP CODE to: Bulletin of Structural Integration, 1334 - 23rd Street, Santa Monica, California 90404.

SUMMER CLASSES IN ALTERED STATES OF CONSCIOUSNESS AND TRANSPERSONAL PSYCHOLOGY

There is a new conception of man's capacities forming within the scientific community. During the 20th Century, academic science has radically underestimated man — his sensitivity to subtle sources of energy, his capacity for love, understanding and transcendence, his self-control. As we become aware of this underestimation, we are discovering that several older "esoteric" psychologies may contain some of the needed knowledge to explore the areas psychology neglects.

Esalen and Prana (a new graduate center for alternatives in higher education), in cooperation with researchers and teachers from various universities, are initiating a "summer school" for disciplined experiential and intellectual inquiry into human consciousness. The program is not completely formed as yet, but some of the topics to be included are: bio-feedback training; the psychology and physiology of meditation; psychologies of yoga, zen and the Sufis; techniques for extending consciousness, body energies and states of consciousness; paranormal phenomena; ritual art as consciousness expansion. Among the participants will be Dr. Robert Ornstein (U.C. Medical Center); Dr. Charles Tart (U.C. Davis); Dr. James Fadiman (Stanford); Dr. Jose Arguelles (U.C. Davis). This program is primarily for those undergraduate students, graduate students, professors and those who have left the academic community who do not have the opportunity for an organized consideration of these concerns in their current environments. There is a possibility of university accreditation for the summer series.

DEFINING THE TERM TRANSPERSONAL

Transpersonal is a term which is appearing more frequently in this brochure. We offer the following as a first effort at its definition:

TRANSPERSONAL, adj., having to do with such concerns as ultimate values, meta-needs, intuitive consciousness, peak experiences, ecstasy, mystical experience, B-values, essence, awe, wonder, self-actualization, ultimate meaning, transcendence of the self, spirit, oneness, cosmic awareness, cosmic play, transcendental phenomena, maximal sensory awareness, responsiveness and expression, and related concepts, experiences and activities. 2. Beyond the personal but not excluding it.

A REMINDER ABOUT SCHOLARSHIPS

Following announcement of the availability of scholarship and loan funds, applications have been received and reviewed regularly by the Scholarship Committee. Set amounts will become available from the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund during each program period, to be distributed either as outright grants or as interest-free loans.

Direct scholarship inquiries to Big Sur or San Francisco, depending on program location. A short scholarship application form will be sent for completion and reforwarding to Esalen — so requests should be initiated as early as possible.

In Big Sur, preference for grants generally will go to those who have attended a week-long (or longer) workshop and who have been interviewed by a member of the Committee. It is anticipated at this time that grants will be given to cover from one-fourth to one-third of the total costs of a given program. Direct inquiries to Scholarship Committee, Esalen Institute, Big Sur.

In San Francisco, the established policy of tuition reduction to students will continue. Students may attend most seminars for less than the stated fee on a space available basis. Please call the San Francisco office three days prior to start of a workshop. Amounts granted or loaned from the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund will extend aid to individuals, and possibly groups, who cannot meet tuitions or who have opportunity to apply their Esalen experience to urban teaching or organized community efforts. Direct inquiries to the Director, San Francisco.

A WORD ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATIONS IN THIS BROCHURE

The designer of Esalen brochures, Red Dog Pieface (or Peter Bailey) says about the current issue: "The theme for these graphics is PATTERNS: entities which exist fully only as the sum of their parts. Each element of a pattern has some interest in its own right, but that interest tends to vanish when placed so the overallness of the pattern shines forth.

Perception of a pattern almost always leads to perception of a next higher order of things, for usually we must be outside a pattern in order to see it (a traffic jam pattern eludes you as long as you're feeling stuck in it.) This is not always so, however, for we call it spiritual insight when we objectively perceive a pattern while subjectively experiencing it (you and the sunset becoming one)."

No detailing of this issue's graphics is necessary, except perhaps to point out that on page 7 a luxury of richness results when no time limits are set on glorifying deity, in this case by 8th Century Irish monks; that in Bach's impetuous notation on page 11 rhythms can be seen as well as heard; how on page 19 Durer's reduction of each segment of nature into its own pattern is precisely what creates an invisible but very real pattern of natural space; and how sensual responses to feeding ducks create a mandala for the modern Eskimo Shouyu.

APPROACHES TO PERSONAL GROWTH: SOME DESCRIPTIONS

Because so many of Esalen's programs are experiential, we have been asked by many people, who are new to Esalen to differentiate among a number of approaches that seem, at first glance, so similar. The various disciplines being practiced at Esalen have influenced one another so that the task of producing an encounter group totally free from gestalt techniques, for example, is impossible. Furthermore, different practitioners of various disciplines stress different aspects. What follows is, therefore, not a scientific statement but rather a first attempt at making some rough distinctions among a number of approaches. (And we welcome suggestions for improved descriptions).

Encounter Groups: The ground rules of encounter are that participants be open and honest in a group setting, that they avoid mere theorizing in their statements and instead talk about their feelings and perceptions. Generally, in Esalen encounter groups, participants are encouraged and helped to express their feelings about themselves and other members of the group through nonverbal as well as verbal means. There is often an emphasis on eliciting emotions which lead to positive or negative confrontation between participants; the point is to allow participants to explore and work through such emotions rather than retreat from them. The focus of encounter groups is on exploring interpersonal relations, and the expression and exploration of self through interpersonal relations ("the between and the within"). Techniques and approaches such as gestalt therapy, sensory awareness and those exploring fantasy and inner imagery may be added to the basic encounter situation.

Gestalt Training: Participants meet in a group of between eight and twenty, or more, always with a leader. Generally, the leader works with one person at a time, while other members observe or participate minimally, as compared with, for example, encounter groups. The aim of gestalt training is to increase a person's awareness of the instant moment and to further, thereby, his personality integration by having him acknowledge his responsibility for how he exists at any given moment. Emphasis is placed on having a participant explore his dreams, fantasies, expectations, gestures, voice and other aspects of personal functioning, by enacting them before the group. By so doing he becomes aware of the unity of his organism — mind, body, emotions and feelings.

Sensory Awakening and Sensory Awareness: The focus of these disciplines is on the body. The leader directs the group in a series of exercises designed to broaden and deepen the participant's awareness of his sensory existence, including awareness of his own body, nature and energy. Occasionally this is followed by encounter-style discussion of the participants' experience, but the emphasis, in any case, is nonverbal.

Meditation: Participants in meditation exercises generally meet in groups, but the focus of meditation is inward. The leader directs the group in exercises and then the group members may share their experiences. Meditation exercises are usually mental, though some forms of moving meditation, such as t'ai chi chuan, involve a concentrated awareness on the movements of the body. The aim of meditation is to break through ordinary consciousness to various levels of being, ranging from relaxed but alert awareness of self to the deepest levels of mystical experience in which the identity of self and cosmos become apparent.

ESALEN EAST COAST WEEKEND

Esalen is presenting a weekend in New York featuring many of its outstanding leaders, theoreticians, and philosophers. Proceeds from the weekend will go to research and development and to the Claire Nelson Scholarship Fund; all program leaders are donating their services.

The Benefit will be held April 16, 17 and 18 at the Hotel Diplomat, 108 West 43rd Street, New York. The program includes a look at encounter, sensory awakening, gestalt therapy, meditation, psychosynthesis, the Alexander method, communication in couples, body therapies, fantasy — and discussions of altered states of consciousness, affective education, brain wa[illegible]onditioning, research into the paranormal, the potential tyranny of encounter grou[illegible]ct[illegible]ration, mysticism and psychology, environmental and life design.

Big Sur Programs

LONG TERM PROGRAMS IN BIG SUR

Esalen Institute/Big Sur will continue its emphasis on longer term programs, with hopes of distilling and developing the most promising approaches that have come to us in the past years. Special effort will be made to provide growth experience for those already professionally involved in the fields of education, religion, social work and mental health. Such persons will be given preference in most programs. Approximately 12 hours of work per week in the kitchen, garden and grounds are required in all programs of two weeks duration or longer at Esalen Institute. Programs at the South Coast Center require six hours per week from all participants.

RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Selection for the four-month Residence Program, September 19-December 31, 1971, will be made from participants in the shorter programs during the year. Program leaders will be William Schutz and Betty Fuller. Write Fall Residence Program, Esalen Institute, Big Sur for further information.

In addition to the scheduled Residence Program, an intensive long-term program may be initiated by an individual according to his interests and needs, chosen from among the continuing one-, two- and four-week workshops. No selection process is required for such programs unless specified.

ESALEN PROGRAMS AT SOUTH COAST CENTER

Beginning May 2, Esalen is scheduling additional week-long programs at South Coast Lodge, one and a half miles north of Esalen Institute on Highway One. Meeting rooms, sleeping accommodations and meals are provided at South Coast. Participants are free to use the facilities at Esalen (hot baths and pool) in addition to use of the pool and sauna at South Coast itself. The programs at South Coast include community work of about six hours a week in the kitchen and grounds.

ONE-WEEK PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

The programs listed below will be led by members of the Esalen staff at the South Coast Center. See page 13 for staff listings and general description of one-week programs.

May 2-8	Encounter and Body Awareness	June 6-12	Open Gestalt
May 9-15	Open Gestalt	June 13-19	Open Gestalt
May 16-22	Experience of Esalen	June 27-July 3	Experience of Esalen
May 30-June 5	Gestalt and Body Awareness	July 4-10	Encounter for Couples
June 6-12	Encounter

$220 per person.

May 23-29 A WEEK WORKSHOP FOR COUPLES Betty Fuller

In this workshop couples will endeavor to focus on the man-woman relationship, to encounter the person behind each partner's projection, to clear lines of communication and to establish openness and honesty as a base for relating. Encounter, gestalt, massage, sense awareness and other approaches that promote individual growth and stimulate, strengthen and enrich the couple's relationship will be used.
$500 per couple.

June 13-19 THE SENSORY DIMENSION Robert Cromey

Bob Cromey writes: "In this workshop I want to relate some new categories with some old. My thesis is that encounter equals confession and forgiveness; bathing in the mineral baths equals baptism; massage equals laying on of hands and unction; yoga and meditation equals prayer; the sensory dimension of bread and wine equals mass and communion; movement and dance equals liturgical forms. I would like active church people and people turned off to religion to join together to see if the sensory dimension of these practices take on new meaning when related to the experiences of the human potential movement. The workshop will consist of encounter, massage, the baths, ceremonies, yoga, meditation and the dance. There will be some time for reflection on what takes place."
$220 per person.

June 20-26 A WEEK WORKSHOP FOR COUPLES Betty Fuller

See program description above for this workshop.

PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

The four-week, two-week and one-week programs listed below will be led by members of the Esalen staff and by visiting teachers and group leaders. Esalen/San Francisco staff will also be drawn upon.

Big Sur Staff includes: Debbie Carson, Roberta DeLong, Al Drucker, Ann Heider, Jack Hurley, Rae Hurley, Alexis Johnson, Lynn Johnson, Mary Ellen Klee, Theodora Lyon, Hector Prestera, Richard Price, Carole Rosenblatt, Gabrielle Roth, William Schutz, Julian Silverman, Gerald Thatcher and Sharon Wheeler.

The following staff have been studying in a Sufi-oriented training program in Arica, Chile: John Bleibtreu, Seymour Carter, Jack Downing, John Lilly, Claudio Naranjo and Steven Stroud. Their return is anticipated in May or June. John Heider will be on study leave for most of 1971.

Robert Martin of the Gestalt Therapy Institute of Los Angeles will be in residence the month of May.

FOUR-WEEK WORKSHOPS

June 6-July 3
FREEING THE BODY

This workshop will take the participant from where he is in his body, via available body disciplines, to as free a body as one month of extensive work can accomplish. Sessions will include massage training, so that each group member will be able to give and to receive freely. The Rolf method of structural integration will be a major avenue for freeing the body. Each participant will receive three individual hours. In addition, there will be sessions emphasizing the principles outlined by Wilhelm Reich, as well as movement, t'ai chi chuan, yoga and other body experiences. Finally, there will be weekly group meetings directed toward integrating the total experience using gestalt and encounter.
$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

July 4-31
GESTALT AND STRUCTURAL INTEGRATION

Psychological dis-ease and physical tension are two aspects of one phenomenon. Gestalt training is an awareness-centered, integrative process concentrating on How and Now rather than Why and Fantasy of past and future. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. Structural integration (rolfing) while producing actual physical change, also facilitates direct perception of body process in relation to emotional pressure and release. Each participant will receive three rolf treatments as part of this workshop. Material that emerges in the physical processing will be worked with in gestalt sessions, in addition to focus on dream work and general body awareness. A training opportunity will also be provided for those already working professionally with groups (teachers, ministers, psychologists, etc.)
$875 per person. $400 nonrefundable deposit required with reservation.

TWO-WEEK OPEN RESIDENCE PROGRAMS

These programs will center on encounter and gestalt-oriented work. Each two-week period will include additional opportunities in other experiential areas (such as bio-energetics, movement, massage and sensory awakening), depending on group interest and leader availability. All workshops will have a structural integration (rolfing) demonstration; individual sessions will be available at extra cost. Insights growing out of the four-month Fall Residence Program will also be incorporated into these workshops, as will aspects of the Arica Training.

April 4-17	May 30-June 12
April 18-May 1	June 13-26
May 16-29	June 27-July 10

$450 per person for each two-week period.

ONE-WEEK PROGRAMS WITH THE ESALEN STAFF

These week-long programs will be led by Esalen staff members and will combine two and sometimes more of the areas of work in which Esalen is involved. Emphasis is directed toward the first of the disciplines when two are indicated (e.g. Encounter and Movement). When only one is named (e.g., Open Gestalt), introduction will be given to at least one other area according to group interest and leader availability.

March 28-April 3	Experience of Esalen
April 4-10	Open Gestalt
April 11-17	Encounter and Massage

May 30-June 5	Encounter
June 6-12	Experience of Esalen
June 13-19	Encounter and Body Awareness
June 20-26	Movement and Massage
June 20-26	Open Gestalt

$240 per person for each one-week period.

Encounter is grounded in directness, openness and honesty. Group leaders integrate a variety of approaches developed or refined at Esalen to help participants to be more aware of what is real for them, how they feel, what they feel about others and how others experience them.

Gestalt Training is an awareness-centered, integrative process. The aim is to produce wholeness by the promotion of maturity and responsibility and the discovery of one's own unused potential. The assumption is made that participants are not "patients" but are persons responsible for their own life decisions.

Movement, Massage and other body awareness work centers not on technique but on increased awareness of that which flows spontaneously from the organism of an individual and of a group.

Experience of Esalen programs join staff members and participants in an experience of each other and of the Institute, surrounded only by as much structure as the group wishes to create. Each member may choose to join a group or not, as he wishes; individual choices can go from intense encounter to silent meditation. No two Experience of Esalen workshops are alike, since the mix of staff resource availabilities and interests of group members varies with each workshop. Among the offerings are encounter, gestalt dream work, massage instruction, meditation, yoga, instruction in arts and crafts, Rolf treatments, body awareness, movement and astrology. Rolf treatments and massage are available only at extra cost; inquire when making reservations.

PROGRAMS AT ESALEN INSTITUTE

April 4-9 5-Day Workshop
MEDITATION IN ACTION Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

Charlotte Selver and Charles V. W. Brooks are pioneers in work which is now commonly known as sensory awareness, nonverbal communication, sensory awakening and other titles. In describing this workshop, and the one that follows April 11-16, they write: "These workshops will explore direct experience, which as it becomes clearer and stronger, will slowly burn away the screen of concepts and restrictions which our conditioning has interposed between ourselves and living. As our innate perceptive faculties are reawakened through successive experiences to which we learn to devote ever greater attention, consciousness expands to wider and deeper realms, the regenerative and integrative functions of the organism begin to flower again as they did in childhood, and a new approach to every facet of living becomes a real possibility."
This workshop is primarily for those with no previous experience in this type of work and will serve as an introduction for those who also wish to attend the five-day workshop immediately following.
$255 per person.

 For Biographies, see pp. 34-37

April 11-16 5-Day Workshop
BEING ALL THERE Charlotte Selver and Charles Brooks

The general intent and direction of this workshop is indicated in the program description on the previous page for "Meditation in Action". This workshop is intended primarily for those with some experience in work related to sensory awareness as practiced by Miss Selver, or for persons who also participated in the April 11-16 or March workshops of Selver and Brooks.
$255 per person.

April 18-24 One-Week Workshop
AWARENESS TRAINING FOR THE HEALTH PROFESSIONS Jack Rosenberg, DDS

This workshop is designed for people in the health professions — dental, medical and allied fields, including nurses, technicians, and assistants; spouses are particularly encouraged to attend.
A factor in health care, often forgotten, is the health of those who provide care for others, much as the cobbler is the last to get shoes. The purpose of this workshop is to allow the health professional to take time to explore and take stock of his direction in both aspects of a professional person's life — his practice and his inner life — in hopes of developing a deeper significance, awareness and pleasure in both. Gestalt and body awareness, with videotape feedback, will be used. Participants will be shown ways to apply gestalt awareness techniques to their practice, as well as the technique for treatment of fixed muscular patterning of facial expression. Sessions in hatha yoga and movement expression will be included.
$280 per person.

April 25-30 5-Day Workshop
BODYMIND William C. Schutz

The intimate connections between feelings, thoughts, interpersonal behavior and body states is beginning to unfold. The effects of feelings on the body and of body aberrations on feelings, thoughts and relations will be explored, aiming at a better understanding of each person's own body messages. The principle of the "sins of the fathers" (if a problem is not resolved at one level of organization, it must be dealt with by the next lower level) will be investigated.
$275 per person.

May 2-15 Two-Week Workshop
OPEN GESTALT THERAPY WORKSHOP
James S. Simkin

Gestalt therapy, by emphasizing the awareness continuum of oneself and the world, is a way (Tao) of living and enhancing one's experience. It is non-analytic. It attempts to integrate the fragmented, split personality through non-interpretive focusing in the here-and-now.
Gestalt therapists believe that people can change their behavior only if they are aware (responsible) of what and how they do what they do. The Aristotelian why-because "game" is rejected as another avoidance technique (phobic behavior).
Each person will have an opportunity to experience individual sessions with Dr. Simkin, and participate in group gestalt therapy exercises. Limited to 20 participants.
$550 per person.

May 9-15 One-Week Workshop
WORDS, FEELINGS AND THE BODY Bernard Gunther

This experimental workshop will include new approaches to awareness, verbal and nonverbal communication, sensory encounter, body role playing, meditation, massage and the mineral baths as methods for increasing energy, and decreasing the illusory split between mind and body, words and feelings.
$260 per person.

May 16-22 One-Week Workshop
BODY AWARENESS AND THE SENSE OF BEING Ed Maupin

The sense of reality, pleasure and coherence in what we do depends on our not being alienated from ourselves as bodies. Even relating to other people requires that we be someone in this sense. In this workshop, a variety of approaches — sensory awareness, movement, material drawn from the Rolf method and from several yoga traditions — are used to awaken a sense of self more primary than ideas, definitions, fantasies. The increased body awareness is then used to explore possibilities for more profound contact with other people, greater aesthetic response and a more creative use of the imagination. Bring sweat pants or leotards.
$280 per person.

May 23-29 One-Week Workshop
GUILD OF HANDS WORKSHOP Tony Wagner, Craft Director and the Craft Staff

The "Barn" has traditionally been the artists' center at Esalen and for many years staff members have made it their studio. Recently Esalen's craftsmen began an ongoing program offering such diverse arts as leatherwork, welding, woodcarving and woodcut prints, batiking, macrame, jewelry, ojos de Dios, tie-dying, photography, ceramics and forging. Participants in this workshop will learn various crafts and will have access to the barn's facilities all day, every day, after-dinner hours included.
$240 per person.

May 30-June 4 5-Day Workshop
ART OF EMOTIONAL NOURISHMENT: SELF-INDUCED LONELINESS Jerry Greenwald

This workshop will focus on enhancing awareness of the nourishing and toxic attitudes and behavior patterns of each participant as these are directed inwardly towards himself and outwardly in his relating to others. Each participant may work on any kind of difficulties he feels hinders his joy and growth in the here-and-now of his existence; e.g., letting go of obsolete relationships, diminishing phobic attitudes and other behavior patterns which hamper fuller realization of potentials. Attention will be particularly focused on self-generated patterns of loneliness.
$235 per person.

May 30-June 5 One-Week Workshop
MASSAGE AND MOVEMENT Gabrielle Roth

Miss Roth describes this program as follows: "As we are, so we move and touch: spontaneous or restricted, flowing or tense, open or inhibited. The combination of massage and movement techniques offers a unique experience for becoming aware of our own movement and how it flows outward into the bodies of others. As we make these physical discoveries we can begin to allow our naturalness in terms of gesture, feeling, movement and touch to be expressed."
$240 per person.

June 27-July 3 One-Week Workshop
BOB & JOSE & JIM & CHARLEY Robert Ornstein, Jose Arguelles, James Fadiman, Charles Tart

A new conception of man's capacities is forming in psychology, art, physiology, philosophy and in an understanding of older esoteric disciplines.
The program leaders reflect this new understanding in various facets. In the use of mandala, in the significance of the I Ching, in psychosynthesis, in understanding paranormal phenomena, in physiological feedback training, meditation and stories of the Sufi tradition. Participants will have the opportunity both to experience many of these techniques and, additionally, to relate them to their current life and professional situations.
$260 per person.

July 4-10 One-Week Workshop
LIFE ENERGY Robert Nadeau

This workshop will consist of a wide variety of energy-freeing and energy-producing exercises. The intent of these exercises is to make each participant familiar with life energy so that he may use it as a tool for higher awareness. Some of the basic ideas and disciplines to be covered are energy flow and energy awareness, energy and its use in spiritual growth and in healing, and centering and the development of center. Participants will explore the relation of a free flow of energy to relaxation, calmness, attitude and mental concentration, centering and moving from center, direct perception of energy and transferring energy to others.
$260 per person.

BIG SUR INFORMATION

GROUNDS ARE CLOSED EXCEPT BY RESERVATION. Participants are discouraged from bringing guests or having people drop in.

SCHEDULES: 5-day programs begin with dinner on Sunday evening, with the last session on Friday morning; check-out time is 12 noon on Friday. One-week programs begin with dinner on Sunday. The last session will usually be the following Saturday morning. 2-week and 3-week programs begin with Sunday dinner. The final session is usually Saturday morning, with some programs ending Friday morning of the last week. Check-out time is noon of the final Saturday for all programs, except 5-day programs, when check-out is noon Friday.

COSTS: The rooms of Esalen property are designed for shared occupancy (2 or 3 to a room), and workshop costs are listed under each program on that basis. We arrange sharing unless you specify with whom you wish to share. Program cost covers tuition, food and lodging, use of the fresh-water pool and hot mineral baths. Massage, available by appointment, is extra.

OWN ACCOMMODATIONS: Some seminar guests are able to provide their own accommodations by staying with friends in Big Sur or at other lodgings in the area. For such persons with bona fide off-property accommodations, a reduction in fee of $5.00 per night is offered. Guests are reminded that camping on the property — in tents, cars, campers or meeting rooms — is strictly prohibited.

CHECK IN/CHECK OUT TIMES: Rooms for incoming guests are not available for occupancy until 5:00 on the first evening. However, this does not prevent guests from arriving earlier in the afternoon. Check-out time is before noon on the last day of the program; since most last morning programs run up to noon or later, guests should arrange to have their rooms vacated before the last morning session.

CHILDREN AND PETS: There are no child care facilities available at Big Sur. Experience has shown that the presence of children is frequently distracting to parents and disruptive to other workshop participants and Esalen staff. In order to obtain maximum benefit from your experience at Esalen, please do not plan to bring children. Alas, no pets.

RESERVATIONS: must be made at least one week prior to the first day of the program. Accompanying the reservation deposits are required as follows: $70 for one-week and 5-day programs; $200 for 2-week programs; and $300 for 3-week programs. Deposits are non-refundable but may be transferred with ten days notice. Please mail reservation form with check to: Reservation Desk, Esalen Institute, Big Sur, California 93920. Do not send Big Sur reservations to San Francisco. Balance of payment is due on arrival.

FOREIGN CURRENCY: Esalen can only accept checks drawn on U.S. funds. For our Canadian participants: most Canadian banks can furnish checks drawn in U.S. funds.

LOCATION: Esalen Institute in Big Sur is approximately 300 miles north of Los Angeles and 175 miles south of San Francisco. It is directly over the shoreline of the Pacific Ocean with the Santa Lucia Coast Range rising sharply behind. The property, which has natural hot baths, was at one time the home of a North American Indian tribe known as Esalen, from which the Institute takes its name. From the north, the Institute in Big Sur is a 45-mile drive south from Monterey, 11 miles south of Nepenthe, on California Coast Route One. From the south it is 50 miles north of San Simeon, 10 miles north of Lucia. It is identified on some road maps as Slates Hot Springs or as Big Sur Hot Springs. A lighted sign on the ocean side of the highway reads: Esalen Institute — Reservations Only. The South Coast Center is 1½ miles north of Esalen Institute.

LIMOUSINE SERVICE from Monterey: There is no public transportation available to Esalen in Big Sur. If required, our own limousine service is $15 per person from Monterey airport or Greyhound terminal, with 3 to 5 days advance notice. On arrival, guests should inquire at terminal service for the Esalen representative.
